The Lariat Thrower.

From the Chicago Mail.

"One of the best lariat throwers I ever see was a man of the name of Navajo Frank. He could throw a rope as correct as some men can bet four aces. But he threw it once too often. Frank was half Injun an' the rest Mexican. Much mixin' with white folks had knocked out whatever utility he onest possessed. He had a hoss load of unassorted vices an' not nary a virtue that you could strike by ordinary diggin'. He was working sixteen or eighteen miles out of Springer this time I'm talkin' about; he was on Doc. Michael's ranch—you remember Doc. Michael's Kunnel; he was over beyond the Cimarron, towards the Sweetwater. This Navajo Frank come a ridin' into Springer one Sunday. He was half-way locoed when he struck town, an' 'twa'n't two hours before he was plumb crazy. I alwers told Stepp when he brought that Kansas City whisky down he was takin' a fearful responsibility onto himself. Stepp 'lowed that them that couldn't stand a man's drink better go to a sannytaryum first as last, an' opened the bar'l.

"What does this cross-breed Injun do? He gets six or eight drinks an' goes to chargin' an' prancin' around town same as a circus parade. He claimed the right of way everywhere, and shoots all his six-shooters around for his own amusement an' the great terrification of some new people that had jest settled at Springer on account of its church and school privileges.

"Old Metzger an' his wife was goin' along the street on their way home from meetin'. Some one had roped a young spike buck from the college, an' he was holdin' regular services Sunday and prayer meetin's durin' the week. He was a great means of grace in Springer. Old Metzger was the peacablest man in Colfax county, an' him an' his wife was regarded an' esteemed by all. They had heard the shootin', but didn't think it was anything worse than a couple of the boys havin' fun with themselves.

"Navajo Frank havin' run short of ca'ridges come a-tearin' and a-poundin' down the street swingin' his lariat around his head and lookin' for somethin' to rope. Mr. and Mrs. Metzger presentin' an easy mark, he lets go at 'em, an' catchin' both around the arms, turns his horse and starts a-humpin' up the street with the unfortunit Metzger family bumpin' along in the road after him.

"It was Navajo Frank's last throw, for he strikes a band of worshipers comin' out of the Chicago store, which Henry Abraham, the owner, had let 'em hold the meetin' in. Though a Hebrew Jew, Abraham had a whole lot of public spirit. Frank, havin' no loads in his six shooters, an' the worshipers bein' mostly well fixed that way, they had him dead to rights. They held an inquest on Mrs. Metzger, who was dead.

"With one united voice it was decided to purify the moral atmosphere of Springer at once.

"'If it goes out to the country at large that quiet, God-fearin' people can't go home from public worship in Springer without a-incurrin' the risk an' damage of being dragged through the streets by a crossbred Mexican on a 'leven dollar mustang, Springer gets a black eye among sister moonicipalities, an' Colfax county might as well go to the deck an' be known no more as a political division.

"'Wherefore, we find this Navajo Frank guilty as charged, an' sentence him to be hung up by the neck, so help us God.'

"That was the way the verdick of the jury went, for in my capacity as foreman I wrote it myself.

"Some of the boys wanted to put off the hangin' till afternoon, but the majority insisted on carryin' out the decree at once. There was a special song service that afternoon at two o'clock, an' the boys didn't want to miss it.

"This young college dood come out implorin' of us to spare the pore man's life. The boys told him that he was plenty welcome to bring the religion of Springer to the front while he staid amongst us, but local talent would look arter all little breeches of social etikwet sich as Navajo Frank had been guilty of.

"The Mexican himself cursed this preacher to a standstill, talkin' in a most shameful way, an' it bein' a law in New Mexico that a man is entitled to say what he pleeases when under sentence of death, no one stops him.

"We appointed Jim Tucker, ex-marshal, and Bill Gallagher, the newly elected peace officer, to carry out the verdict of the jury, and they hung Navajo Frank with his own lariat to the swingin' sign of 'The Cowboys' Retreat," the boys helpin' on the rope, for the critter wasn't what you might call a feather-weight.

"Then they started to help Metzger, who was badly jostled, get his wife's body home, an' she comes to all standin' havin' only fainted, an' makes the trip afoot."

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

1893.

Greatest of Republican Newspapers.

National in its aims and devoted to the welfare of the Masses of the American People.

The New York Tribune concedes the election of Grover Cleveland, but promises to defend the Republican policy on Finance and Protection, with all the ability it can command.

It was the discontent of the farmers which caused the Democratic victories of two years' ago. The Weekly Tribune, addressing itself directly to them for the past two years, has carried on a campaign of discussion for their benefit, almost unparalleled in American journalism; and the result coupled with Whitelaw Reid's previous great service to farmers, has been seen in the fact that agricultural communities have stood faithful to the Republican party, in a campaign in which, in other localities the party went completely to pieces. This year, the Democratic leaders changed their tactics and excited discontent among workingmen. They pointed to the higher prices of farm products, and assured the workingmen of Northern cities that the British tariff system, (that is to say, lessened protection to American Farming and Industry) would lower the prices of food and manufactured products, and the profits of "monopolists" in this country, while at the same time maintaining the wages of labor, tho' wages being now the highest ever known in the United States. By false pretence, deception, and a pandering to the lowest passions of uninformed men in large cities, they have carried the country and elected a Democratic President and Congress.

The Tribune confidently awaits the result. Not for one moment, however, will The Tribune yield one inch of ground in the battle for American policies.

Roswell G. Horr's great articles will be among the features of The Tribune, the coming year. Men of every political faith are invited to read them. They will state the Republican view with frankness, point out the probable consequences of a change in the tariff policy of the country, and evade no issue, and conceal no fact, bearing upon the subjects discussed. Their thorough treatment of fundamental principles will aid every reader to a better understanding of profound and important issues.

A page a week will be devoted during 1893, to war stories and news of interest to Union veterans. Old soldiers, who have some experience to tell, which has not yet been printed, are asked to send the story to The Tribune for publication.

Farming has now become such an enormous interest in the United States, that there is an imperative necessity for making more of a specialty of the business interests of the Farmers of the country at large. Plans have been formed which ought to make The Semi-Weekly and The Weekly Tribune absolutely indispensable to every tiller of the soil during 1893.

A large number of entertaining features of general interest will also appear. "How to succeed in Life," "Village Improvement," special articles by brilliant men and women of high reputation, Chess and Checkers, and a hundred other things which cannot be recited in a brief prospectus, will appear on the Tribune's pages during 1893. The paper will have less politics and more of the thousand and one things which refresh the mind, entertain the imagination, and guide the reader in the prosecution of his business and social life.

The Tribune asks for reports as to the operations of Village Improvement Societies, from those who are acquainted with their operations.

An illustrated catalogue of excellent premiums will be sent free on application.

The Semi-Weekly is particularly commended to the attention of general readers. It gives more of the keen, incisive editorials, book reviews, foreign letters and other valuable features of The Tribune, than there is room for in the Weekly. The large type and broad columns of the Tribune make it the easiest paper to read.

To all who subscribe during 1892 for one year, the paper will be sent free for the balance of this year. Sample copies free. Weekly, $1.00; Semi-Weekly, $2.00.

Friends of Agriculture, Industry and the Republican party, are invited to make up clubs for this paper in their localities. There are four years' of trial, of new experiment, of discussion of great national topics, and of observation of the effects of Democratic supremacy before the country. The Tribune will lead in the presentation of the Republican view. The friends of the splendid record of the Republican party, can aid in the final triumph of Republican principles by seeing that the people read the Republican side of the story.

The Century Magazine

IN 1893.

It would be hard for a person who cares for good reading to make a better investment than a year's subscription to The Century Magazine. No region is too remote, no expense too great, if it will only produce what the Century's readers want. This is the policy that has made it, as the Pall Mall Budget, of London, says, "By far the best of the magazines, English or American."

The November number begins a new volume and contains the first chapters of a powerful novel of New York society, called "Sweet Bells Out of Tune," written by Mrs. Burton Harrison, the author of "The Anglomaniacs." In this story the fashionable wedding, the occupants of the boxes in the Metropolitan Opera House, the "smart set" in the country house are faithfully reflected, and the illustrations by Charles Dana Gibson, Life's well-known cartoonist, are as brilant as the novel.

In this November number begins also a great series of papers on "The Bible and Science," opening with "Does the Bible contain Scientific Errors?" by Prof. Shield, of Princeton, who takes decided ground that the Bible does not contain scientific errors of any moment, and who most interestingly states the case from his point of view. Other articles in this series will include one in the December (Christmas) number, "The Effect of Scientific Study upon Religious Beliefs."

An important series of letters that passed between General Sherman and his brother, Senator John Sherman, is also printed in November, which number contains also contributions from the most distinguished writers, including an article by James Russell Lowell, which was not quite completed at the time of his death. The suggestion which Bishop Potter makes in the November Century as to what could be done with the World's Fair if it were opened on Sunday, is one which seems the most practical solution of the problem yet offered.

The December Century is to be a great Christmas number,—full of Christmas stories, Christmas poems, and Christmas pictures,—and in it will begin the first chapters of a striking novel of life in Colorado, "Benefits Forgot," by Wolcott Balestier, who wrote "The Naulahka" with Rudyard Kipling.

Papers on good roads, the new educational methods, and city government are soon to come.

Four dollars will bring you this splendid magazine for one year, and certainly no cultivated home can afford to be without it. Subscribers can remit directly to the publishers, The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York. They should begin with November, and so get first chapters of all the serials, including "Sweet Bells Out of Tune."

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Weekly is acknowledged as standing first among illustrated weekly periodicals in America. It occupies a place between that of the hurried daily paper and that of the less timely monthly magazine. It includes both literature and news, and presents with equal force and felicity the real events of current history and the imaginative themes of fiction. On account of its very complete series of illustrations of the World's Fair, it will be not only the best guide to the great Exposition, but also its best souvenir. Every public event of general interest will be fully illustrated in its pages. Its contributions being from the best writers and artists in this country, it will continue to excel in literature, news and illustrations, all other publications of its class.

St. Nicholas for Young Folks.

JOHN G. WHITTIER long ago wrote of St. Nicholas, "It is little to say of this magazine that it is the best children's periodical in the world." Edward Eggleston, the author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," says of it, "There is not one of the numbers that does not stir the curiosity, inform the memory, stimulate thought, and enlarge the range of the imagination." Founded in 1873, and from the first number edited by Mary Mapes Dodge, St. Nicholas is now entering upon its twentieth year. The most famous writers have contributed to its pages in the past, but never has its editor been able to offer a better program or a more distinguished list of contributors than for 1893.

There is to be a series of illustrated papers on "The Leading Cities of the United States," —the story of each city told by a prominent resident. Edward Clarence Stedman will write of New York; Thomas W Higginson, of Boston; New Orleans will be described by George W. Cable, and Baltimore by President Gilman, of the Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Lyman Abbott will tell the story of Brooklyn, and other cities will be treated by other famous men. There will be articles on the World's Fair, and a number of pages of funny pictures and humorous verses.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the well-known author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol," etc., will contribute the leading serial for St. Nicholas during the coming year. The November number opens with a three-page poem by John G. Whittier, which has in it some of the most beautiful lines the good Quaker poet has ever written, describing the visit of a party of young girls to his home.

The School Journal says, "Place St. Nicholas in your household, and you need have no fears for the lessons taught your children." The magazine is the greatest aid that the teacher and the conscientious parent can possibly have. It entertains, and at the same time educates and instructs. The subscription price is $3 a year. Remittances may be made directly to the publishers. The Century Co., 33 East 17th St. New York.

A LETTER.

I find that many people are of the erroneous opinion that the office of STATE'S ATTORNEY will prevent me from attending to any other legal business than that pertaining to said office. I therefore adopt this method of informing my clients and friends that, EXCEPT IN CRIMINAL CASES, I am as free as any other attorney to attend to any legal business that may be entrusted to me.
