Rainbow Snake.

"Did you ever see a rainbow snake?" asked B. M. Vanderhurst. "Well, sir, I had that pleasure a few weeks ago. I was down among the Yaqui Indians, who inhabit the Sierra Madre mountains, in Mexico. A young buck had a rainbow snake for a pet, and would not part with it for any consideration. I offered him $500 for it, but he did not appear capable of realizing that there could be a sum of money greater than a handful of Mexican dollars. He said that he caught the snake in the mountains two or three years ago, when it was but half grown. It is now about two feet long, rather slender, and when lying in the shade is a very pale green, or rather a compromise between blue and green. When the sun strikes it it looks like a streak of variegated fire. Red, yellow, orange—all the colors of the rainbow, in fact—chase each other in broad rings from the head down to the tail, blending, shimmering, and seeming to almost crackle. It was the most remarkable thing I ever witnessed. I tried to get the young fellow to accompany me to the states with his wonderful reptile, but he had just married a young and pretty wife, and she would not consent to leave her native mountains. The snake is believed to be perfectly harmless, and feeds chiefly on mice and milk. I would have stolen it, but did not care to take the risk of a racket with the Yaquis who are remarkably quick on the trigger and have precious little use for white men. I would rather have that snake and a streak of sunshine at the world's fair than to be the sole proprietor of a drug store in a prohibition town.

When the Moon is Full.

Did you ever see a "full moon?" asks a writer in the St. Louis Republic. I know what your answer will be without waiting for it. It is this: "Yes, once every month since I have been old enough to pay attention to such phenomena." Yet I take the position that you are badly mistaken, and that in all probability you have never in your life beheld the full face of our "silvery sister world." By way of solution let us see what it takes to constitute a 'full moon' in the exact sense of the term. A full moon occurs only when our obsequious attendant is one hundred and eighty degrees of longitude from the sun, Old Sol and the earth being in the ecliptic. But the moon's orbit is inclined to the ecliptic at an angle of five degrees eight minutes forty-seven seconds, and is therefore never on the ecliptic except when at its "nodes" or crossings.

This being the case, what we call the circular disk of the moon (full moon) lacks considerable of being an exact circle, being what astronomers term "in a state of globosity," and is never a perfect disk except when "a full moon" happens exactly at the time when Luna is crossing the ecliptic, at which time she must necessarily be centrally eclipted. One of our best present day astronomers, in concluding an article of much merit on the same subject, says: "We therefore conclude that a real full moon, one having a perfect circle, has rarely, if ever, been seen."

Believing—Trusting.

These words are generally regarded as synonymous and are often used interchangeably, but there is a wide difference between them. Belief signifies the intellectual assent to, or acceptance of, a fact stated to us. But trust means to commit ourselves with perfect confidence to the care of another. There is something so sweet, so peaceful in trust that it thrills the soul with unalloyed happiness. When you feel that you can trust your dearest friend, no matter what the environments or the influences that may be brought to bear against the oneness existing between you, you enjoy perfect peace, because you can trust. No doubts arise, no darkening fears make the heart afraid, because perfect love casteth out fear. When the soul really trusts Christ, not only believes, but commits itself with perfect confidence to His care, willing to accept whatever He sends, good or ill, it is in the possession of the true secret of perfect happiness. It is so inspiring to be able to say of an earthly friend, "I can trust," "I have no fear," "I know the excellence of the one in whom I confide." What then must it be to be able to say of the Savior, "I know not whither He shall lead me, but I can trust. He loves me too well to forsake me or give me one trial too many."

* * *

Mental pleasures never cloy; unlike those of the body they are increased by repetition, approved by reflection, and strengthened by enjoyment.

* * *

How easy is the thought, in certain moods, of the loveliest, most unselfish devotion! How hard is the doing of the thought in the face of a thousand unlovely difficulties!

* * *

Bad men do right only because they have to; good men, because they love to.

What an Egg Will Do.

For burns and scalds nothing is more soothing than the white of an egg, which may be poured over the wound. It is softer as a varnish for a burn than collodion, and, being always at hand, can be applied. It is also more cooling than the sweet oil and cotton which was formerly supposed to be the surest application to allay the smarting pain. It is the contact with the air which gives the extreme discomfort experienced from the ordinary accident of this kind, and anything that excludes the air and prevents inflammation is the thing to be at once applied.

The egg is considered one of the best of remedies for dysentery. Beaten up slightly, with or without sugar, and swallowed at a gulp, it tends, by its emolient qualities, to lessen the inflammation of the stomach and intestines, and, by forming a transient coating on these organs, to enable nature to resume her healthful sway over a diseased body. Two, or at most three eggs per day, would be all that is required in ordinary cases; and since egg is not merely medicine, but food as well, the lighter the diet otherwise and the quieter the patient is kept, the more certain and rapid is the recovery.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Greatest of Republican Newspapers.

National in its aims and devoted to the welfare of the Masses of the American People.

The New York Tribune concedes the election of Grover Cleveland, but promises to defend the Republican policy on Finance and Protection, with all the ability it can command.

It was the discontent of the farmers which caused the Democratic victories of two years' ago. The Weekly Tribune, addressing itself directly to them for the past two years, has carried on a campaign of discussion for their benefit, almost unparallelled in American journalism; and the result coupled with Whitelaw Reid's previous great service to farmers, has been seen in the fact that agricultural communities have stood faithful to the Republican party, in a campaign in which, in other localities the party went completely to pieces. This year, the Democratic leaders changed their tactics and excited discontent among workingmen. They pointed to the higher prices of farm products, and assured the workingmen of Northern cities that the British tariff system, (that is to say, lessened protection to American Farming and Industry) would lower the prices of food and manufactured products, and the profits of "monopolists" in this country, while at the same time maintaining the wages of labor, tho' wages being now the highest ever known in the United States. By false pretence, deception, and a pandering to the lowest passions of uninformed men in large cities, they have carried the country and elected a Democratic President and Congress.

The Tribune confidently awaits the result. Not for one moment, however, will The Tribune yield one inch of ground in the battle for American policies.

Roswell G. Horr's great articles will be among the features of The Tribune, the coming year. Men of every political faith are invited to read them. They will state the Republican view with frankness, point out the probable consequences of a change in the tariff policy of the country, and evade no issue, and conceal no fact, bearing upon the subjects discussed. Their thorough treatment of fundamental principles will aid every reader to a better understanding of profound and important issues.

A page a week will be devoted during 1893, to war stories and news of interest to Union veterans. Old soldiers, who have some experience to tell, which has not yet been printed, are asked to send the story to The Tribune for publication.

Farming has now become such an enormous interest in the United States, that there is an imperative necessity for making more of a specialty of the business interests of the Farmers of the country at large. Plans have been formed which ought to make The Semi-Weekly and The Weekly Tribune absolutely indispensable to every tiller of the soil during 1893.

A large number of entertaining features of general interest will also appear. "How to succeed in Life," "Village Improvement," special articles by brilliant men and women of high reputation, Chess and Checkers, and a hundred other things which cannot be recited in a brief prospectus, will appear on the Tribune's pages during 1893. The paper will have less politics and more of the thousand and one things which refresh the mind, entertain the imagination, and guide the reader in the prosecution of his business and social life.

The Tribune asks for reports as to the operations of Village Improvement Societies, from those who are acquainted with their operations.

An illustrated catalogue of excellent premiums will be sent free on application.

The Semi-Weekly is particularly commended to the attention of general readers. It gives more of the keen, incisive editorials, book reviews, foreign letters and other valuable features of The Tribune, than there is room for in the Weekly. The large type and broad columns of the Tribune make it the easiest paper to read.

To all who subscribe during 1892 for one year, the paper will be sent free for the balance of this year. Sample copies free. Weekly, $1.00; Semi-Weekly, $2.00.

Friends of Agriculture, Industry and the Republican party, are invited to make up clubs for this paper in their localities. There are four years' of trial, of new experiment, of discussion of great national topics, and of observation of the effects of Democratic supremacy before the country. The Tribune will lead in the presentation of the Republican view. The friends of the splendid record of the Republican party, can aid in the final triumph of Republican principles by seeing that the people read the Republican side of the story.

The Century Magazine

IN 1893.

It would be hard for a person who cares for good reading to make a better investment than a year's subscription to The Century Magazine. No region is too remote, no expense too great, if it will only produce what the Century's readers want. This is the policy that has made it, as the Pall Mall Budget, of London, says, "By far the best of the magazines, English or American."

The November number begins a new volume and contains the first chapters of a powerful novel of New York society, called "Sweet Bells Out of Tune," written by Mrs. Burton Harrison, the author of "The Anglomaniacs." In this story the fashionable wedding, the occupants of the boxes in the Metropolitan Opera House, the "smart set" in the country house are faithfully reflected, and the illustrations by Charles Dana Gibson, Life's well-known cartoonist, are as brilliant as the novel.

In this November number begins also a great series of papers on "The Bible and Science," opening with "Does the Bible contain Scientific Errors?" by Prof. Shields, of Princeton, who takes decided ground that the Bible does not contain scientific errors of any moment, and one of the most interesting chapters in the case from that point of view. Other articles in this series will include one in the December (Christmas) number, "The Effect of Scientific Study upon Religious Beliefs."

An important series of letters that passed between General Sherman and his brother, Senator John Sherman, is also printed in November, which number contains contributions from many distinguished writers, including an article by James Russell Lowell, [illegible] his death. The suggestion which Bishop Potter makes in the November Century as to what could be done with the World's Fair if it were opened on Sunday, is one which is [illegible] the most practical solution of the problem yet offered.

The December Century is to be a great Christmas number,—full of Christmas stories, Christmas poems, and Christmas pictures. In it will begin the first chapters of a striking novel of life in Colorado, "Benefits Forgot," by Wolcott Balestier, who wrote "The Naulahka" with Rudyard Kipling.

Papers on good roads, the new educational methods, and city government are soon to come.

Four dollars will bring you this splendid magazine for one year, and certainly no cultivated home can afford to be without it. Subscribers can remit directly to the publishers, The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York. They should begin with November, and so get first chapters of all the serials, including "Sweet Bells Out of Tune."

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Weekly is acknowledged as standing first among illustrated weekly periodicals in America. It occupies a place between that of the hurried daily paper and that of the less timely monthly magazine. It includes both literature and news, and presents with equal force and felicity the real events of current history and the imaginative themes of fiction. On account of its very complete series of illustrations of the World's Fair, it will be not only the best guide to the great Exposition, but also its best souvenir. Every public event of general interest will be fully illustrated in its pages. Its contributions being from the best writers and artists in this country, it will continue to excel in literature, news and illustrations, all other publications of its class.

St. Nicholas for Young Folks.

JOHN G. WHITTIER long ago wrote of St. Nicholas, "It is little to say of this magazine that it is the best children's periodical in the world." Edward Eggleston, the author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," says of it, "There is not one of the magazines for grown-up people that does not stir the curiosity, inform the memory, stimulate thought, and enlarge the sympathies of its readers, as St. Nicholas does." Founded in 1873, and from the first number edited by Mary Mapes Dodge, St. Nicholas is now entering upon its twentieth year. The most famous writers have contributed to its pages in the past and never has its editor been able to offer a better program or a more distinguished list of contributors than for 1893.

There is to be a series of illustrated papers on "The Leading Cities of the United States,"—the story of each city told by a prominent resident. Edward Clarence Stedman will write of New York; Thomas W. Higginson, of Boston; New Orleans will be described by George W. Cable, and Baltimore by President Gilman, of the Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Lyman Abbott will tell the story of Brooklyn, and other cities will be treated by other famous men. There is to be an article on the World's Fair, and a number of papers of funny pictures and humorous verses.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the well-known author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol," etc., will contribute [illegible] during the coming year. The November number opens with a three-page poem by John G. Whittier, [illegible]

The School Journal says, "Place St. Nicholas in your household, and you need have no fears for the lessons taught your children." The magazine is the greatest aid to the parent and the conscientious parent can not afford to be without it. It entertains, and at the same time it educates. The subscription price is $3 a year. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. The Century Co., 33 East 17th St. New York.

A LETTER.

I find that many people are of the erroneous opinion that the office of STATE'S ATTORNEY will prevent me from attending to other legal business than that pertaining to said office. I take this method of informing all my clients and friends that, EXCEPT IN CRIMINAL CASES, I am as free as any other attorney to attend to any legal business that may be entrusted to me.
