The House Votes for Repeal.

A vote was reached on Monday, in the House of Representatives, on the Wilson bill to repeal, unconditionally, the compulsory clause of the Silver Purchase law, and the result was an overwhelming majority for repeal. The final vote was preceded by votes on several amendments, in which the relative strength of the silver and anti-silver divisions of the two parties was pretty fairly exhibited. It was seen, especially in the vote on the proposition to adopt the Bland-Allison coinage act, that a majority of the Democratic members of the House are in favor of the continued coinage of silver by the United States, without reference to an international agreement on the subject. The vote on the proposition was 136 for to 213 against. Of the affirmative 112 were Democrats, 15 Republicans and 9 Populists; and of the negative 110 were Republicans and 103 Democrats thus demonstrating that if it had been left to the Democrats alone the Bland-Allison act would have been adopted.

Several other amendments in favor of coinage at different ratios were voted upon and defeated, by majorities varying to some extent, but amply sufficient to indicate the temper of the House. The following table shows the vote on each of the amendments referred to.

Ratios.	Yeas.	Nays.	Maj.
16 to 1	124	226	102
17 to 1	100	240	140
18 to 1	103	239	136
19 to 1	104	238	134
20 to 1	121	222	101

The bulk of the affirmative vote on each of these propositions was Democratic.

On the final vote for repeal the vote was 240 for, to 110 against, some of the Democrats who favored the continuance of coinage also being, evidently, submissive to administration dictation. Indeed, it is more than probable that the Democratic vote in favor of coinage would have been considerably greater if the influence of executive patronage had been entirely withheld.

As the matter now stands the bill goes to the Senate with the prestige of a great majority and that body could not do better than to accept and pass it promptly. It is apprehended, however, that the vote in that branch of the National Legislature will be much closer than it was in the House, and that the Voorhees bill will be acted upon and probably adopted instead of the bill passed by the House. In that event the same end will be attained, with the addenda of a meaningless promise to the silverites, by which it is vainly hoped they may be placated and satisfied. The Republicans, however, must furnish the majority for repeal in the Senate as they furnished the majority against the Bland amendment in the House.

On August 10th, inst., the Commissioner of Pensions issued an order suspending the pension of Andrew J. Sollers, late private, Company B, Purnell Legion, but before the order reached him the pensioner was dead, having died at the Soldiers' home, Hampton Virginia, August 19th. He was a faithful soldier and was discharged from the army on account of disabilities incurred in the service. He has been a confirmed invalid for years.

A Flood of Silver.

Hon. J. C. Burrows, Republican, of Michigan, in his speech in the House of Representatives in favor of the repeal of the compulsory clause of the Silver Purchase act, gave some statistics concerning the coinage of silver prior to 1873, and subsequently, which were a revelation to many of the people of this country. The demonetization of silver, by the act of 1873, has been severely denounced as a trick and the impression has been created that the passage of the law was procured in a surreptitious manner. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The proposition was discussed freely and openly and the reason for such action fully stated. Practically the same cause that made it desirable then still exists—the demonetization of silver by other leading civilized nations—the only difference being that the necessity, under existing circumstances, is many times greater than it was in 1873. This idea will strike the reader of Mr. Burrows' statistics very forcibly. It may be regarded as certain that the figures he gives are substantially accurate, being drawn from official sources.

Now, here are the facts and the remarkable contrast they present between silver coinage prior to 1873 and subsequent to 1878: From 1793, when coinage first began, to 1805, a period of twelve years, the United States coined only 1,439,517 silver dollars. From 1806 to 1836, a period of thirty years, not a single silver dollar was coined, and from 1836 to 1873 only 6,606,321, making a total coinage from 1793 to 1873, a period of eighty years, of 8,045,838 silver dollars.

Now mark the contrast: From the passage of the Bland-Allison coinage law, as it is called, in 1878, to 1890, when the Sherman Silver Purchase law was enacted to prevent absolute free coinage, a period of twelve years, the United States coined 419,000,000 dollars, and in the next three years, under the Sherman law, purchased silver bullion at the rate of 4,500,000 ounces per month, upon which Silver Certificates, or Treasury notes, to the amount of $151,000,000 were issued, making, all told, put in circulation, practically, since 1878, and still in circulation, 570,000,000 of silver dollars, as against a trifle more than 8,000,000 in all the previous history of the country. The figures are startling, but they are true.

But this is not all. The silver dollars coined before 1873 were intrinsically equal in value to gold, in the ratio of 16 to 1. A demand for payment of specie meant, in reality, either gold or silver and the parity of the money coined of the two metals was maintained without resorting purely to gold payments, as the government has been obliged to do under the Bland and Sherman laws.

The country has this vast flood of $570,000,000 of silver to maintain on a parity with gold and will undoubtedly do so. The amount might be doubled and the purchasing power of the silver maintained on a par with gold. But it would be poor financiering, and the Senate should promptly follow the action of the House of Representatives and give the Sherman law the finishing stroke. While this action will arrest the coinage of silver it will not demonetize the great volume of silver currency now in circulation. It will simply stop the flow of the stream that has been steadily polluting and corrupting our national finances.

The abstract of the report of the Hungarian Minister of Agriculture, giving an estimate of the year's wheat product throughout the world, which will be found elsewhere in this week's SENTINEL, will be very interesting reading to the farmers, inasmuch as it holds out the prospect of a demand slightly exceeding the supply, and, if reliable, assures fair prices. The importance of the estimate may be judged by the fact that it was cabled to the United States for publication. It is an official paper, and was doubtless prepared with great care. Of course it will be subject to influences that may to some extent change the figures, but they may, on the whole, be regarded as approximately correct.

The Atlantic Coast Storm.

The storm of Wednesday night, which was central along the Atlantic coast, wrought great destruction of property at some points. Savannah, Ga., appears to have suffered most severely, the storm, at that place, having reached the force of a cyclone. The tide rose to an immense height and flooded the wharves. Vessels were driven high and dry by the force of the wind. The quarantine station was wrecked and much damage wrought in every direction. The loss of life was appalling, fifty or more persons having been drowned.

The storm was very severe in Baltimore. The tide rose over Light and Pratt streets and covered the whole water front of the city, flooding warehouses and destroying or damaging a great deal of property. In the bonded warehouse of the B. & O. R. R. Co., at Spear's wharf, 1,500 bales of Havana and Sumatra tobacco suffered damage to the estimated amount of $100,000.

Much damage was done to shipping along the coast and few points escaped serious loss.

Later reports estimate the loss of life in the aggregate, along the southern coast, at 500. Over a million of dollars damage was done at Charleston, S. C.

On Wednesday the Republicans of Howard county nominated a full ticket, with the exception of a county surveyor. Three county commissioners were named, the purpose being to test the constitutionality of the law extending the terms of the democratic commissioners. The ticket nominated is as follows:

House of Delegates—Robt. H. Hughes and Frank Dorsey. Register of Wills—Charles T. Grant. Sheriff—Greenbury Johnson. County Commissioners—Jno. Miller, for the six-year term; George F. Streaker, four-year term, and John O. Porter, two-year term.

The Littlestown, Pa., Independent of last Saturday says: "We are pleased to note that the crop of sweet corn planted for B. F. Shriver & Co. is yielding far better than expected. The canning establishment is doing a rushing business just now, having canned 225,000 cans of corn on Thursday and 240,000 this Friday. It is a source of gratification to know that the corn crop, though light, is a much better paying crop than any our farmers can gather. The late crop is expected to be a heavy one.

The World's Supply of Wheat.

BUDAPEST, August 27th.—The annual report of the Hungarian Minister of Agriculture has appeared. Its estimate of the world's production of wheat this year is 2,279,000,000 bushels, against the official average of 2,280,000,000 annually for the last ten years. The report gives also the following figures: The deficits to be filled by the importing countries will require 379,000,000 bushels. The surplus available in exporting countries to satisfy this demand is 378-664,000 bushels. The world's product of rye is given as 485,000,000 hectolitres.

The production of wheat and the deficit (amount needed above the domestic supply) in each importing country is given thus:

Country	Product in bushels.	Deficit.
Great Britain	56,750,000	184,427,000
France	283,764,000	46,818,000
Germany	90,795,000	25,537,000
Italy	122,012,000	22,700,000
Netherlands	6,384,000	8,512,000
Switzerland	4,339,000	12,768,000
Belgium	15,605,000	24,118,000
Denmark	4,256,000	3,688,000
Norway and Sweden	4,823,000	2,270,000
Spain	76,612,000	8,512,000
Portugal	5,675,000	5,675,000
Greece	4,255,000	7,377,000
Austria	45,460,000	39,725,000

The production and surplus in each exporting country are given thus:

Country	Production in bushels.	Deficit.
Russia	342,965,000	97,893,000
Hungary	141,870,000	45,400,000
Roumania	46,818,000	34,050,000
Turkey	28,375,000	5,675,000
Bulgaria	31,977,000	10,782,000
Servia	8,512,000	3,405,000
United States	397,250,000	69,518,000
Canada	45,360,000	9,931,000
India	274,835,000	42,552,000
Rest of Asia	65,262,000	7,093,000
Africa	36,716,000	3,688,000
Australia	39,725,000	19,295,000
Argentina	56,750,000	26,105,000
Chili, etc	19,862,000	6,526,000

The report says also that as much maize, oats and barley will be needed to take the place of fodder destroyed by the drouth, the consumption of wheat and rye is likely to be unusually large. High prices, therefore, are likely to rule when the American shipments to Europe cease.

Morrison Divorce Suit.

From the Baltimore Sun, August 15.

Rev. George Morrison filed his answer at Towson yesterday, to the divorce proceedings instituted by his wife, Comfort M. W. Morrison. In his answer Mr. Morrison denies his wife's allegations, charges that her bill of complaint is without right or equity, and he asks that it be dismissed.

Mr. Morrison states that he was married to his wife January 5, 1892, at Fort Worth, Tex., but denies that since the marriage he ever treated her "with any cruelty, harshness or brutality, or ever acted toward her in any manner inconsistent with the character of a Christian and a gentleman." He denies specifically his wife's allegations that he used personal violence toward her, or that on the 6th of last June or at any other time he made any attempt or threats to injure her.

Continuing, Mr. Morrison says in his answer: "That he admits that his wife, being a woman of large fortune, and having, independent entirely of her husband, an ample income, has voluntarily spent from time to time small sums of money for her own pleasure and benefit, and alleges and charges that previous to her marriage with him she, well knowing his limited resources and means of income, promised and agreed with him that she would devote her income to their joint support, which promise she has not only not carried out, but has continuously and persistently failed to keep.

"That he admits that upon several occasions he has been compelled to leave the residence belonging to his wife in Baltimore county, near Cockeysville, but he avers that his departure at such times was rendered necessary either by professional engagements or as a means of the preservation of his health and life, both which were frequently put in jeopardy by the treatment received at the hands of his wife.

"That he moreover avers that whenever he removed from her residence, with the exception of the last departure, on or about June 6, 1893, he always requested and directed his wife to go with him and offered her the opportunity of living with him as his wife, but she invariably refused to accompany him.

"That he admits that after a separation of several months, for which he was in no way to be blamed, his wife did, some time early in the month of January, 1893, come to him at the Imperial Hotel, in Baltimore city, where she remained with him for several months, but finally returned, against his protest, to her home in Baltimore county."

The answer declares that Mr. Morrison followed his wife to Cockeysville, with a disposition on his part to excuse and extenuate her former treatment of him, but he found that instead of her treatment of him improving it grew worse, until he was forced to the conclusion that it "was premeditated on her part and arose from a determination by her to compel him to leave her and afford her the opportunity which she now seeks to avail herself of in the filing of her bill for divorce.

The visit he paid his wife on the 6th of last June at Cockeysville, Mr. Morrison declares, was for the purpose of removing his personal effects and furniture, after notifying her and receiving her consent, but he denies that then or at any other time "he threatened to take her life or acted toward her in any improper manner, though on the other hand, he charges that at that time she made an unprovoked and violent assault upon him, knocking him down and threatening to take his life."

In conclusion the answer denies that Mrs. Morrison has behaved herself as a faithful and affectionate wife, and then continues; "Mr. Morrison denies that he has deserted his wife, and affirms that he has been at all times willing and ready to live with her, so long as it were possible to do so peaceably, quietly and in a manner becoming a Christian minister and man, but this, he charges, was rendered impossible, through no fault of his own but by reason of her conduct, which has always been subversive of and hostile to the existence of those feelings of love, affection and respect which should be ever present on the part of a husband toward his wife."

In speaking of his wife's divorce application Mr. Morrison denied that he attempted to evade service of the writ. Since he left Cockeysville, he says, he has been living at his former residence, at Lorely, Baltimore county, within the jurisdiction of the court in which the suit was instituted.

In addition to the destruction by fire at Unionville, Sunday, of the barn and outbuildings of Mr. Thomas C. Pearre, his fine residence, which stood about fifty yards from the barn, also took fire and with the greater part of its contents was completely destroyed. The house was built of brick and stone and was one of the oldest and most substantial structures in that section. About 700 bushels of wheat and between 20 and 30 tons of hay, besides wagons, harness, farming implements and six horses, were burnt up. The loss will exceed $5,000. Insurance about half of this amount. Small boys playing with matches and smoking corn-silk cigarettes caused the fire.

Mrs. Selby, wife of Mr. E. Green Selby, a well-known resident of Howard county, died at her home, on the road from Woodbine to Poplar Spaings, at an early hour Sunday morning of typhoid fever. A grown daughter, Miss Emma Selby, died of the same disease three weeks ago, and from it soon afterward the mother and father were both taken down. Mr. Selby is now and has been for several days lying at the point of death. He served twice as a member of the house of delegates, in 1888 and 1890. He is a brother of ex-Delegate Benjamin Selby, of Carroll county, and a progressive and thrifty farmer.

Within the next few days, from all parts of the United States, comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Naval Veteran Association will be hastening to the one common point of attraction for them for this year, the National Encampment at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Mary A. Wagoner, by Mitchell & Mitchell, attorneys, has sued Chas. S. Smith, of Reisterstown, claiming $1,000 damages for injuries which it is alleged she sustained by the upsetting of the defendant's stage coach, in which she was traveling from Reisterstown to Glyndon, in April last.

A dozen knights measured lances on Wednesday at a tournament held at Cooksville, Howard county. State Senator John G. Rogers delivered the charge, and Daniel M. Murray the coronation speech. Hon. Joseph W. Berret, of Carroll county, acted as chief marshal.
