The Social Wanderer

Dear Roamer

Time marches on! The old year gone, leaving in its wake, many joys, many sorrows; the New Year at the threshold holding, we know not what.

But the last two weeks, however, have merged into a blur, with parties hardly a day apart, sometimes only hours apart. The day after New Years was another Monday, in a way, like the day after Christmas, so that half the time, none of us know the day or date. The confusion will not last much longer, for already the decorations are gradually being discarded, and by Twelfth Night, you must burn the greens, according to the Old English custom. Monday is the date!

Starting the week, on Sunday night last, Mrs. Edw. McL. Fisher and Mrs. Earle Nicholson entertained a large number of friends at a buffet supper, which was given at The Sophie Fisher Inn.

On Monday evening Mrs. Phil. G. Wilmer entertained informally at bridge in honor of Mrs. Geraldine Williams, who was her house guest. Mrs. Williams is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stam.

On New Year's Eve, the largest party of the evening was given by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Whitworth, their two daughters, Misses Betty and Laura Whitworth and their son, Mr. Jack Whitworth. Everyone gathered for a final cup o' kindness in the fleeting hours of the old year. Then to the dance at the Country Club, where 1941 was ushered in with horns, confetti, song and dance.

Miss Helen Simpers also entertained at a cocktail party the same evening, at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Simpers.

New Year's Day, was marked by a hunt breakfast given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurd at their home "The Reward" in Quaker Neck. This was one of the largest and most attractive parties of the Christmas season. The huntsmen in their pink coats, added a colorful and striking note to the festive occasion.

At noon, Mr. and Mrs. Bartus Trew entertained at a cocktail party at their home, in Quaker Neck.

On Thursday, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Mead entertained at a tea in the late afternoon, and at another tea on Friday afternoon at their home on Washington Ave.

Then came a lull. But to-morrow, we start again. Over to Sudlersville, many will go to the annual egg-nogg party, at which Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes will give at their home there.

On Wednesday, Mrs. James G. Beck and her daughter, Mrs. H. Gilpin Brown will entertain at a bridge-luncheon, which will be given at the Sophie Fisher Inn.

On Saturday evening, Mrs. John Speicher will be hostess at dinner and bridge in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Nelson Carey, of Baltimore, who will be their house guests for the week-end. The party, previously planned for Dr. and Mrs. Carey was postponed due to the illness of the latter.

At this point, I am usually ready to sign off, but I've told you of nothing but parties.

Before I get involved in the guests in town, there are two engagements of interest to note.

At the supper party given last Saturday night, by Miss Mary Margaret Eliason, Miss Virginia Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas John Foley, announced her engagement to Mr. John Rochester Richards, son of Mrs. John Thomas Richards and the late Mr. Richards, of Baltimore and Church Hill. No date has been set for the wedding. Virginia has always been very popular here, since coming to Chestertown, and is considered by The Wanderer one of the most attractive girls of the younger set.

The other engagement is that of Miss Elizabeth Felton Jones, daughter o Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Jones to Mr Paul Clifton Wallace. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. George Debnam III, are recieving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, born at the Kent and Queen Anne's Hospital, New Year's Eve evening. Mrs. Debnam was formerly Miss Virginia Dulin.

To-day, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Heberling, of Cacaway Manor, are leaving for Miami Beach, Fla., where they will remain until March.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Whitworth and family left yesterday, for Los Angeles Cal., where they will spend the winter months.

Here for New Year's were Mr. and Mrs. Eben Jenkins, of Hyattsville and Mr. Gilbert Ingersoll, who were guests of Mrs. D. W. Ingersoll. They were among those and others of the younger set from here who attended the dinner and bowling party in Centreville, Monday night, given by Dr. and Mrs. Harry Wilmer for their son, Harry Wilmer, Jr.

Miss Betty White, of Chicago, is a guest of Miss Elizabeth Brown. Miss Brown and Miss White spent the first of the week in New York, returning here on New Year's Day.

Mrs. Sidney Manning, of Baltimore, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Herbert Perkins, at her home on Queen St.

Miss Julie Pryun, of Kinderhook, N. Y., was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Barroll, at Byford Court.

Still other of the numerous out-of-town guests have included Mr. W. Robert Huey, of Baltimore, who visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Huey; Mr. Raymond Moffett, a guest of his father, Mr. Robert Moffett; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boucher and son, of Alexandria, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hollinger; Prof. Louis Thibodeau, of Waterbury, Conn., and his daughter, Miss Betty Thibodeau, of Baltimore, who visited Mr. L. Bates Russell, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Alday Clements, of Philadelphia and Miss Francis Alice Clements, of Wilmington, guests of Mrs. Merrick Clements; Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ford, Jr., and little daughter, who visited Mr. and Mrs. David B. Ford; Miss Rose Dwyer, of Baltimore, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hudson; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schreiber and their two children of Columbus, Ohio, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schreiber; and Mr. W. Allan Robinson and Mr. H. H. Sturdy, of Newport News, Va., who were guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Ella P. Robinson.

Right here, the brain has become fuzz. A bad way to start off, but there is enough gray matter left to wish you the happiest kind of a New Year.

Yours for improvement,

The Wanderer

HEALTH OFFICAL ADVISES CHECK FOR NEW YEAR

Draft Shows Lack Of Check Up

Advising each individual to have a periodical health audit, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said:

"While the physical fitness of the men called out in the present draft, shows great improvement over that of the men examined in the last draft, the high percentage of rejections among the present draftees, is very significant and shows strikingly, the need of a careful, physical check-up, at regular intervals, for each individual.

"Comparing one's physical resources to a bank account, Dr. Riley said: "If you have not had physical audit made recently, treat yourself to one. Go to your doctor and your dentist and find out where you stand physically.

"We all start out in life," he continued, "with a certain amount of biological capital. We can conserve our resources and build up a favorable health account by hygienic living. But the account has to have close watching and it must be balanced from time to time. Otherwise, through the wear and tear of daily life and even through minor illnesses, we are likely to accumulate physical liabilities that leaves us with little of the necessary reserve.

"This is especially true of grown-ups. The health accounts of young children and of growing boys and girls are checked up, regularly through the child health conferences and through the protective health services in the schools. But the rejection among the draftees show the importance of balancing the health account for all grown-ups, those we speak of as the younger generation as well as for those who are getting on in years.

"Fortunately, so far as the draftees are concerned, many of the disabilities for which they have been rejected, are capable of correction under careful direction. Physical standards are higher than they were formerly and the rank and file of our young people measure up to them.

"There is great need for balancing the health accounts of the older people. A large part of the chronic and disabling illnesses and over half of the deaths that occur each year are due to conditions that have slow, almost imperceptible beginnings, and that do not make much headway until middle of life or later. Illnesses from heart disease—which now outranks all other disabilities as a cause of death in the general population—diesases of the kidneys, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, diabetes and diseases of the arteries are in this class.

"Many of the deaths from these causes could be checked, much suffering could be prevented and valuable lives could be prolonged for usefulness and enjoyment, through a periodical health audit, prompt treatment and the necessary conservation and budgeting of the physical resources under hte direction of the family physician."
