Death of Mr. John Henry Diffenbaugh.

Mr. John Henry Diffenbaugh, father of Mr. John T. Diffenbaugh and grandfather of Prof. James A. Diffenbaugh, died about five o'clock yesterday morning, at his home in Fountain Valley, aged eighty-seven years, one month and seventeen days. On Saturday, September 9th, while cutting wood for the kitchen fire, he fell at the wood pile and was fatally injured. Since then he has lain in a helpless condition, apparently suffering very little if any pain, but unable to partake of any food except the thinnest fluids, and gradually wasting away. Up to the time of his fall, notwithstanding his advanced age, he was well and vigorous, and insisted on attending to all the work about his home, impelled by the stern sense of duty which characterized him through life and made him unwilling to be unemployed, or suffer another to do for him what he could do for himself. He was born September 16th, 1806, on the farm which is now the residence of Mr. Wm. H. Geiman, near this city, and was married May 4th, 1826, to Elizabeth Powell, also of this district, who died of a malignant cancer April 18th, 1868. Their descendants number fourteen children, forty-six grandchildren, thirty great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. He was a man of sterling integrity, fearless candor, firm convictions, strong affections and great industry—a good sample of the sturdy yeomanry which has aided in giving American citizenship its high rank in the world. His oldest sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Boring, of Huntingdon, Pa., aged 94, survives him, and spent some time with him in his recent illness. Two other sisters, Mrs. Adam Gilbert, of Westminster, and Mrs. James Gilbert, of Uniontown, died recently, one at the age of 87 and the other at the age of 82. Funeral services will be held at Meadow Branch Church on Sunday, to-morrow, afternoon, the meeting at the residence to be at 1.30 o'clock.

The Deputy Sheriffalty.

The SENTINEL, last week, on the authority of Mr. Samuel A. Crabbs, the Republican nominee for Sheriff, denied the truth of the report that he had promised to make Mr. Charles Sellman, or anybody else, deputy sheriff, in the event of his election. It was not deemed necessary, by Mr. Crabbs' friends, that he should verify the denial with an affidavit. He is a man of his word, as everybody knows him can testify, and his veracity is unquestioned. But in the absence of Mr. Sellman at the World's Fair, the story has been reiterated and he has been called upon to deny it under oath, or leave the inference that it is true. Mr. Crabbs has therefore very properly acted for him, and his affidavit, denying the charge in the most specific manner, will be found in the SENTINEL to-day.

After the above was in type, Mr. Sellman returned home unexpectedly, and has supplemented Mr. Crabbs' affidavit with his own, which not only repudiates the report circulated in the matter, but gives his reason for his support of Mr. Crabbs. The affidavit will be found elsewhere in to-day's SENTINEL.

Mr. David Frizzell, a well known farmer, died very suddenly at his home near this place on Monday evening. He had been complaining for several weeks with pains in the chest and stomach, but it was not supposed he was suffering with a serious malady. Shortly before his death occurred he had visited a neighbor to procure some article for use the next day, and after returning home ate a very hearty supper, and subsequently conversed with his family, as usual, until the time came to retire. As he was in the act of passing from the room he was seen to reel, but was prevented from falling by his wife and step-son, Henry Knauf, who caught him and laid him on a couch, and in less than two minutes he expired. He was in his 69th year and leaves a widow and two grown sons. His remains were interred in the German Baptist cemetery, near Baile's schoolhouse, on Wednesday morning.

Watersville Items.

By invitation we were in attendance at the Watersville Sabbath School festival, held October 24th. The church was beautifully decorated with wreaths of evergreen and various kinds of flowers. An arch over the pulpit added much to its beauty, while many boquets, dotted here and there, rendered the scene all the more charming. The program of exercises was well gotten up by the secretary, Mr. Frank Gosnell, who deserves special credit. It was admirably rendered. Part first consisted of speeches, readings, recitations, solos, duets, and choruses. Part second, was devoted to speeches by Rev. Gallaher and superintendent Wesley Gosnell, which were listened to with much interest. Part third was the distribution of the treat to the school. It was quite pleasing and interesting to watch the little ones, each anxiously awaiting his or her turn to receive their long-looked-for present. After the school was supplied the visitors were helped to the remaining good things. The school was dismissed with the doxology and benediction.

The Falls Farm Literary Society held its weekly meeting at the home of Mr. Frank Davis, with a goodly number present, some becoming members. The program consisted of readings, by Mr. J. T. Mr. Milton Townsend, of Baltimore, having a few days recreation, came to the country on last Tuesday, where he will spend the balance of the week.

On Thursday evening a surprise social party was given in honor of Miss Gertie Mathias, at the home of Mr. Jacob Null. About 7 o'clock the voices of a throng of people were heard as they approached the house unexpectedly to the inmates, but at that moment a strong suspicion of the cause entered the minds of the family. Shortly after, a knock was heard, and the happy guests were cordially met and invited into the hospitable home. All were soon comfortably seated, and amusing conversation promptly followed. The greater portion of the evening was devoted to vocal and instrumental music. All were fine vocalists, and the different parts were carried remarkably well. The power of the singers seemed inexhaustible. It was a very pleasant event, and the evening was joyfully spent by the entire company. About 9.30 the guests were invited to partake of refreshments, and later returned to their homes. The recipient of the surprise was very much pleased with the courtesy extended her.

The hour of jollification for the boys has come and gone and by the appearance of the pavements, on Wednesday morning, they must have found an entrance into somebody's cornerib, or, possibly, a cornfield.

Great Revival.

NEW WINDSOR, Nov. 1st, 1893.

EDITOR SENTINEL:—A most wonderful revival of religion is taking place among the people of this town and vicinity. Meetings are being held every evening in the Presbyterian Church here, at 8.30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Bailie Brown, a former student in the College and Theological Seminary at Princeton, N. J.; and also at Winter's Lutheran Church in the country, by Mr. B. B. Blackford, a senior student in New Windsor College. The number of conversions thus far, in the two meetings, is 87. Special prayer meetings, for Christians only, are held at the Presbyterian Church in the afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Mr. Brown, at which special prayers and supplications are poured out to Almighty God for his blessing on the work each night. This most remarkable revival began last Sabbath a week ago, by the conversion of two young students of the Freshman class, in the room of Mr. Brown, from where it spread to the college chapel, faculty and students being set on fire with religious fervor, and 9 students taking their stand for Christ. Since then the good work has been carried on in the churches, with the above results. Both the leaders of the revival are young men, not being quite 25 years of age. But God is in a most wonderful way blessing their work for Him, as is attested by the crowded houses which each night wait upon their preaching.

Staub, of the Church of God, who has been our minister here for the last four years, has been transferred to the East Pennsylvania Eldership and will move to his new field of labor in about two weeks. According to arrangement the members of the lodge met at the parsonage on Monday night, 30th inst., to pay him a farewell as well as fraternal visit. The genial brother saw he was outnumbered and gave up the house to his brethren who, to the number of about twenty, with their wives and friends, took immediate possession and spent a pleasant hour. Speeches were made by several of the members which were heartily responded to by Elder Staub. Everything passed pleasantly until the hour of 10, P. Rev. Reiter, of Roanoke, Va., who was attending the Synod at Gettysburg last week, came here on Tuesday to the home of his father-in-law, Mr. Emanuel Cox. He preached in Trinity Reformed Church at the Wednesday evening services and also filled the pulpit, assisted by Rev. S. M. Roeder, on Sunday morning. The attendance was large and the congregation attentive to the excellent sermon. Rev. Reiter is doing mission work at Roanoke, and seems much encouraged with his little flock. He has secured a fine lot, near a central location, on which he is now erecting a small church and lecture room, which he says will aid much in gathering in a congregation. He expects to be in the lecture room by Christmas. He has collected about $2,000 or more, which will aid much in the enterprise.

Miss Mettie Miller arrived home on Friday last, from the World's Fair, much pleased but rather indisposed with a bad cold. The Misses Trump and Mrs. Ober were expected to arrive with her, but I am sorry to say are detained in Baltimore on account of the illness of Miss Sarah Trump, who contracted a cold at Chicago, which was further aggrevated in the trip homeward along the lakes and at Niagara, so that by the time she got to Baltimore she was taken quite ill with bronchitis, at the home of her friend, Mrs. Mary Forrester, nee Miss Reagle. At this writing it is said the time of her return home is very indefinite. Dr. John F. B. Weaver, when last heard from, was still in Chicago, awaiting the arrival of Dr. R. Hoffmeier and wife, with whom he expected to go to their home in St. Joseph, Mo., to spend a week or more.

Our Band went to Dover on Saturday, and furnished the music at a church entertainment. It having been indoors they enjoyed a good time and were royally entertained.

Young America was in his glory on Hallow Eve, and seemed to enjoy full sway. Door bells were rung and corn was thrown against windows, while many persons became possessors of cabbage on their door knobs. In the alleys there was a disarrangement of wood and provender all along the line, but, as a whole, the fun was within the lines of propriety.

Mr. Jacob Hoffman is having his house painted. Messrs. Stegner & Zepp, the popular painters of Forest Vale, are doing the work, which adds much to the attractiveness of the residence. "Pon Hoss" will be trumps with a gold edge.

Several of our friends have the laugh on the fellow who threw to hit a dog on the pavement with a stone, and struck the middle of the street. They say he could not hit the moon if within reach.

Mr. Henry Reagle, of Baltimore, is visiting friends here. He has not fully recovered from his paralytic attack while in Washington a month ago, but is looking reasonably well.

Rev. S. M. Roeder will hold Communion Services in Trinity Reformed Church of this place on Sunday morning next. The stained windows to be put into the church have all been taken and will be forwarded as fast as is possible to make the change.

A Pleasant Party.

A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Sharretts met at their hospitable home, near Middleburg, on last Wednesday evening and spent a most enjoyable evening. The genial host and hostess soon set every one at ease and, by the cordial hospitality for which they are noted, contributed no little to the pleasure of the evening. Vocal and instrumental music, conversation and the playing of games caused the evening to pass only too quickly for those present. At 11.30 all were invited to the dining room and found waiting there refreshments of cakes, confectionery, nuts, lemonade, &c. The time of leaving was delayed as long as possible, but at length good-nights were reluctantly exchanged and the guests separated to their homes, carrying with them many pleasant recollections of the event. Those present were: Misses Ida, Fannie and Nettie L. Buffington, Maude and Susie Hann, Anna Null, Nettie and Carrie Buffington, Laura Overholtzer, Emma Devilbiss, Maggie Hilterbreck, Annie Mehring, Nettie [illegible], Sadie Snyder, Messrs.
