A Proper Resolution.

A resolution to endorse the "prompt and vigorous efforts of President Cleveland and his administration to suppress lawlessness, restore order and prevent improper interference with the enforcement of the laws of the United States and with the transportation of the mails of the United States, and with interstate commerce," was offered in the House of Representations on Monday, by Mr. McCreary, Dem., of Kentucky, and after brief discussion adopted by a vote of 125 to 27. Mr. Pence, Pop., of Colorado, and Mr. Bland, Dem., of Missouri, opposed the resolution, the latter intimating that the action of some members of the administration was an infringement of the rights of the States. Mr. Catchings, Dem., of Mississippi briefly, but strongly, advocated the resolution, saying, among other things, that the shadow of the national flag spread over and obliterated State lines. That there was no place where the power of the federal government could not go when occasion arose."

The theory of Mr. Catchings is the correct one and the Democratic House of Representatives approved it, by adopting the McCreary resolution by a vote of five to one. It is, however Republican doctrine—not Democratic-Republicans believe that in itssphere the General Government is supreme and that when United States laws, made in pursuance of the constitution, are resisted, the whole federal power, including the army and navy, may be employed to enforce them, just as President Cleveland has done in the case of the riots at Chicago and elsewhere. Within the limits of the authority of the government, therefore, State lines offer no obstacle to the enforcement of that authority. As Mr. Catchings says, the shadow of the national flag practically obliterates them. This fact was very forcibly illustrated in the matter of the riot on the dividing line between the State of Indiana and Illinois. The Illinois militia could not put a foot on Indiana soil and could only look on helplessly at the destruction of property just across the line. But federal troops knew no such limitation. It was strictly within their province to more forward without a thought or care about the line dividing those States. In doing so they were only fulfilling the proper order and authority of the President, which has been approved by the votes of the people's representatives in the House.

It must be confessed, however, that the slimness of the entire vote indicates that a good many Congressmen dodged the issue. Whether they feared the effect of voting as to their personal popularity with the strikers, or were opposed to the course of the President and yet unwilling to show it, cannot be determined.

Debs in Jail.

Eugene V. Debs, George W. Howard, S. W. Rogers and Sylvester Keliher, officers of the American Railroad Union, were committed to jail for contempt, by Judge Seaman of the United States Circuit Court, Chicago, on Tuesday last. Their specific acts of contempt were disobedience of the court's order enjoining the strikers and others from interfering with and obstructing interstate commerce and the transmission of the United States mails. A number of telegrams sent by Debs, after the injunction was granted, furnished the evidence of its violation to the court. Among these was the following, to North Butte, Mont., which seems to be fraught with a meaning that Debs constantly repudiated: "General managers are weakened. If the strike is not settled in 48 hours complete paralysis will follow. Potatoes and ice are out of sight. Save your money and by a gun."

Judge Seaman set the charge against Debs and his fellow-officers for a hearing next Monday and fixed bail at $3,000. The accused thereupon refused to permit bail to be given and elected to go to jail, doubtless supposing this indignity would excite sympathy in their behalf, which it probably has done to a limited extent. In this locality, however, the general sentiment is: "Served them right." These gentlemen must be taught to respect and obey the laws, and must learn that large as is this country there is no room in it for a dictator. Whoever undertakes to defy the laws of the United States must take the consequences.

President Cleveland has taken a hand in the tariff bill muddle again. On the 2nd inst. he addressed a letter to Chairman Wilson, of the House of Representatives, practically requesting that branch of Congress to stand by the original Wilson bill. Mr. Wilson produced the letter in the House on Thursday, after the House members of the Conference Committee had reported that the committee was unable to agree. Free raw materials is still the burden of the President's song and in this he is at least consistent. His letter may be construed as a request to the House to agree to nothing less. He also refers to the sugar schedule and favors a revenue duty on that article. The Democrats of the House, in response to this letter, voted without division to send the bill back to conference with instructions to the House conferees to stand firm against the Senate amendments. Possibly permanent disagreement may result and the Bill of Sale and the Wilson Iniquity may both fail, which will be a great blessing to the country.

The new U. S. Crusier Minneapolis, built by the Cramps, of Philadelphia, developed a speed of 23.73 knots, the fastest on record for vessels of her class. By this extraordinary speed she earned a premium of $414,600 for her builders, over the contract price of $2,690,000.

Patrick Eugene Prendergast, the murderer of Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, was hung in the jail in that city, on Friday of last week.

The Strike About Ended.

The great railroad strike, inaugurated by the American Railway Union, is practically at an end. Here and there a local outbreak has occurred during the present week, but as an organized "shut down," or "tie up," the movement has ended in the failure that was inevitable from the beginning. No strike that depends upon violence and lawlessness can succeed, and the strikers in this instance soon discovered that the railroads, though hampered and crippled by the loss of the services of so many experienced employees, would be able to conduct their business and eventually to replace the strikers by others. Then came resistance and obstruction, with riot and violence, necessitating the employment of the strong arm of federal power to enforce obedience to law and to restore order. From that moment failure as the end of the strike was inevitable and it came more speedily than might have been anticipated.

The appeals of Debs and his associates to other labor organizations were generally in vain, while most of the lodges or assemblies making up the following of General Master Workman Sovereign refused to obey his order and join in the strike. The movement began to wane and Debs, realizing no doubt that the cause was lost, offered to declare the strike at an end if the railroads would consent to restore the strikers to their places without prejudice. His offer was declined and the railroad managers positively refused to confer with the men or their representatives, so that those who get back their employment will do so as individuals and not as members of the American Railway Union. Many will not get back at all, and will learn by bitter experience the folly of obedience to the commands of a leader so unreliable as Debs.

The latter individual, up to the time of his incarceration in jail, kept up a pretence of still directing the strike, pertinaciously asserting that it was still on and would be fought to the end. He probably refused to furnish bail in order to have some excuse for acknowledging the utter collapse of the strike begun by his illadvised order.

A special to the Baltimore American, from Waynesboro, Pa., under date of the 16th inst, says: Forest fires have been raging in a dozen places in the mountains near this place for the past week, the most serious fire being in the mountains north of Tomstown, a village four miles from here. The fire gains in territory every day, and fears are entertained that the flames may reach the lumbermen's cabins. At night the sky is illuminated for many miles around, and many persons view the magnificent spectacle. An extensive fire is also raging a few miles from the Buena Vista Hotel, and has spread over a great part of the mountain. Cabins are scattered all over these mountains, but no reports have been received of any being burned.

The brick barn on the farm of Samuel F. Repp, near Johnsville, Frederick county, caught fire Monday afternoon from spontaneous combustion, and was destroyed, with all its contents. The family were away from home at the time, and the flames were discovered by the servant, who rushed to the barn to release the stock; getting all out safely except seven head of horses. A large portion of this year's wheat and hay crops, a threshing-machine, horserake, binder and other farming implements were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $2,500; insured for $1,700 in the Royal Insurance Company.

In our section the work of harvesting is over for this season, and some of our farmers have commenced preparation for another crop. So we can plainly see there is but little rest for the farmer.

The weather with us continues very dry and if it does not rain soon the corn crop will be a very light one and the sweet corn a failure. Pasture is also becoming short and scarce. Potatoes planted quite early will be an average crop, but later planted will be very light. As they came by the hill road they were off on the march again before many of the villagers learned that they were in our midst. When, however, the commissary wagon came along a few hours later, one and all came to know that the great army of the Commonweal had passed through, and every body was given an opportunity to assist in appeasing its common hunger. A few responded to the appeal. It must be said to the credit of the Coxeyites that they deported themselves in a commendable manner during their halt and passage through this place.

Noteworthy Forthcoming Discussions.

In the forthcoming (August) number of The Forum, there will be three striking articles treating of the three recent startling manifestations of crime—the Great Railroad Strike and its Causes; the Assassination of Carnot; and the Police Revelation in New York. Discussions of these subjects are grouped under the general title, "The Sentimental Dealing with Crime and its Increase;" and following these is a fairly startling review of the recent world-wide increase of crime, by Mr. Henry Charles Lea, of Philadelphia. These make one of the most noteworthy groups of strong and timely articles that have ever appeared in our periodical literature.

Another subject that will be treated in the August Forum by two writers is "Laboratory Mind-Study: the Beginning of a New Science." President G. Stanley Hall explains why the new psychology, or mind-study, is the necessary and entirely revolutionary basis of the education of the future; and Professor E. W. Scripture, of Yale, sets forth in detail the methods of experiment and training followed in his own laboratory for mind-study.

In the August number of The Forum will appear an article showing "How the Bills of Socialism will be Paid," by Mr. Sylvester Baxter, in reply to the article in a recent number of The Forum on "Who will Pay the Bill of Socialism?"

"The Pay of Preachers" of all the different sects, and in every section of the country is the subject of an article in the forthcoming (August) number of The Forum, by H. K. Carroll, the superintendent of the collection of church statistics for the last census—an article that shows the income of different grades of preachers as compared with men of other callings.

Flora B., daughter of Samuel and Susanna Morelock, departed this life on July 6th, 1894, aged 29 years, 10 months and 25 days. After a long illness and suffering she calmly passed away. She was a good and kind sister. Her sun peacefully set on earth and rose in that city wherein there is no more death. She leaves a good example for others to follow. Her gentle voice we will hear no more on earth; may our Heavenly father lead us to meet our loved one in that better land, where there is no more sickness, or sorrow, pain or death. Her funeral was attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends. No more in fond friendship on earth will we meet. The lonely ones are left forever. But grieve not as we lay her to rest; think that God knows best. She has joined her dear ones passed from earth, and love would not call her from heaven's shore. We will murmur soft requiems over her grave and leave her to slumber undisturbed. God giveth His own beloved sleep, and she is in the full bloom of eternal glory.

How long she struggled 'gainst disease
Which baffled skill and care,
And long she lingered, racked with pain
And sufferings hard to bear.

And yet, through all at times she'd smile,
A smile of heavenly birth;
And, when the angels called her home,
She smiled farewell to earth.

BY HER PARENTS.

It is our Heavenly Father's will
To take from us one to us most dear,
For she whose place on earth cannot fill,
And one without whom our home is drear.

Little we thought so sad a call
Was about to come to our home;
Little we thought that our dear sister
Was soon to be placed in the silent tomb.

Our hearts feel wearied and ache with pain
For she who was ever to us so dear;
For we know she will never come again
Our saddened home to cheer.

Though sadly we mourn her absence here,
We have a sweet hope that all is well;
She said she would find acceptance there
And with Christ, our Saviour, sweetly dwell.

BY HER SISTER, A. M. M.

How can we think she's gone,
Our sister whom we loved so well;
How can it be that such a dear one
No more with us can dwell?

Our sister's troubles are past,
Her pains disturb no more,
But Jesus in his arms at last
Bore her to Heaven's bright shore.

BY HER SISTER, N. A. F.

Rest, loved one, rest; thy spirit's gone;
An angel's hand conveyed thee home;
Oh, may thy body rest in peace
And all thy sorrows ever cease.

But not while breath remains in me,
Will I cease to think of thee;
My memory on thy face shall dwell
And breathe the sacred word, farewell.

BY HER SISTER, M. C. S.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more with join our number,
Thou no more our sorrows know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled,
And with joy in heaven to greet thee
Where no farewell tears are shed.

And we will never see her come
As she so oft has done before,
To help and cheer us on our way
As we go through this world below.

What would we give if we could hear
Her parting words once more;
And see her happy cheerful smile
As she spoke of her home in store.

Dust to its narrow place beneath,
Soul to its home on high;
And those that saw thy face in death
No more may fear to die.

BY HER SISTER, J. E. M.

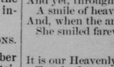

Weep not for me, my friends most dear,
You know how I did suffer here;
You know that I endured much pain,
And that your loss is my great gain.

Farewell parents, brother, sisters and all;
Seek the Saviour and learn his way;
Shed not a tear of grief for me,
For what I am you all must be.

BY HER REQUEST.
