NEWS GATHERED ON PENINSULA

The date for the opening of both white and colored schools in Cecil county was set for September 3rd, preceded by a teachers' meeting on September 2nd. The date for the closing of schools was set for June 12, 1942.

Indications point to a higher mark this year of the 3,700,000 tons of commerce which passed through the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal during 1940, according to the office of the U. S. District Engineer in Philadelphia.

Tonnage has steadily increased in the canal since conversion to a sea-level waterway and a re-study of the canal toward providing a more adequate channel for present and future navigation needs is being prepared by Lieut.-Col. H. B. Vaughn, Jr., district engineer.

In a report on a history of the canal the engineers' office asserts that completion of the waterway to a deep draft sea-level canal marks another epic in the 110-year history of the vital passage which provides a short tidewater route between the cities on the Chesapeake Bay and those in the Delaware river.

Horse racing at Delaware Park this year will give the state an all-time high in revenue with the figure reaching approximately $450,000, preliminary estimates of officials of the Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association indicated Tuesday.

Attendance and betting figures, in addition to state earnings, soared to new highs during the fifth and most successful meet which ended at the Stanton plant on Saturday, association officials reported.

There were fewer casualties on the Lower Eastern Shore over the fourth than in previous years. While several slight accidents were reported, there were no fatalities and a safe and sane 4th was experienced.

Pierino Carlantonio, aged 36 years of Chester, Pa., suffered very serious burns about the head, face, chest, arms and back, Sunday morning, when the handsome cabin cruiser, "Green Goose," owned by Matthew Margolini, also of Chester, was burned to water edge.

The craft was laying at the wharf of the Chesapeake Boat Company, a short distance below the western entrance of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal.

Work has been started on the erection of 258 new buildings for the Triumph Explosive, Inc., whose plant is located along the Elkton-Childs road, about a mile north of Elkton. The cost of the new buildings will be, it is reported, about $850,000. When all the buildings are completed about 3,000 men and women will be employed there.

Maryland's Chesapeake Bay ferry, taken over by the State three weeks ago, handled a volume of traffic over the Fourth of July holiday unprecedented in the ferry's history, the State Roads Commission reported yesterday.

In fact, the ferry's popularity proved embarrassing, officials said as hundreds of motorists had to wait in line for hours at Annapolis to get transportation across the bay.

Thursday afternoon the waiting line of cars extended from the ferry dock back as far as College creek, and at one time Friday morning the line reached almost to the Severn river bridge, according to reports from Annapolis.

The Liquor Control Board of Harford County announces that it is creating at $12,000 reserve so that prompt payment of profits from the three county liquor stores may be made to the three towns and to the county.

The twelfth annual regatta of the Havre de Grace Yacht Club will be held on the Point Concord course Friday and Saturday of next week.

The best and fastest drivers of the nation will be here to complete for the several trophies and cash prizes.

Topping all previous one-day figures, 24,240 vehicles crossed the Susquenhanna river bridge on Sunday, July 6, William A. Codd, chief auditor for the State Roads Commission announced this week.

The previous high had been on the Sunday after Memorial Day weekend, when 23,500 automobile and trucks crossed the bridge.

For the holiday period, July 3 through July 6, the bridge was crossed by approximately 79,300 vehicles, Mr. Codd reported. The revenue during this four-day period was about $14,100, he said.

Alcoholic beverage receipts so far this fiscal year have exceeded all estimates and may surpass the 1940 collections by $735,000 at September 30, the close of the fiscal year, Deputy State Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker said this week.

ON THE SCREEN AT THE NEW LYCEUM

Combining the versatile talents of Clark Gable and Rosalind Russell as co-stars, M-G-M's "They Met in Bombay," coming on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 21, 22 and 23rd to the New Lyceum Theatre, is a romantic melodrama graphically keyed into international complications in the Orient.

With this headlined news front seething with intrigue and violence as their dramatic background, Gable and Miss Russell, as a pair of intrepid adventurers, are given wide latitude in bringing their unusual talents to the screen.

Gable's role is cut smartly to the dictates of his outstanding work as a two-fisted man of action. Here, as a one-time British army officer, he assumes with equal nonchalance the part of a clever modern crook operating in smart social circles.

Miss Russell forsakes zany roles to invest her vesatile talents and charm in the unusual part of a feminine Raffles matching her cleverness with Gable's.

Their involved adventures are backgrounded in Bombay as the story opens. Colorful India, enhanced by the celebration of Empire Day, is divertingly pictured with its lavish display of festival garb and custom. The actionful panorama then takes the principals to sea and to Hong Kong for later episodes.

With Hunt Stromberg as producer, and under the directorial expertness of Clarence Brown, "They Met in Bombay" is given lavish scenic embellishment. The teaming of Gable and Miss Russell is accented by the performances of Peter Lorre, Jessie Ralph, Edward Ciannelli, Matthew Boulton, Luis Alberni, Rosina Galli, Jay Novello and Reginald Owen.

While the story is essentially vital action drama, its twin theme of romance is deftly developed as the play swings toward a smashing climax in which Gable, returning to the service of his colors at a critical point in the tide of international affairs, acquits himself heroically to redeem his honor and position in society.

Four debuts by five players will be marked in Universal's colorful romantic comedy, "One Night in the Tropics," which will also introduce five new Jerome Kern songs when it shows on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 24, 25, and 26 at the New Lyceum Theatre.

Most important debut is that of Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, noted stage and radio comedy team sought by many studios since they first scored as network and Broadway stars. Abbott and Costello turned down all movie offers until they accepted important comedy roles in the new film.

Another outstanding Broadway performer, Nina Orla, tiny 18-year-old Mexican songstress and dancer, makes her film debut in the new production.

National Defense ALUMINUM COLLECTION JULY 24th and 25th

The National Defense Aluminum Collection campaign has been set for July 24-25. The Nation needs aluminum for planes and other vital defense items. There is scarcely a business house, institution, industrial plant, hotel, restaurant or home that cannot make a contribution of articles, no longer useful. All should contribute. The present need is to bridge the gap until new facilities are in operation when the supply will be adequate.

Let everyone remember that ALL used Aluminum is wanted—not merely pots and pans of housewives, but aluminum from any other source such as store fixtures and decorations containing aluminum—old unsaleable stock of aluminum items, aluminum window trimmings and display devices. All this means that our citizens must "rummage" for every conceivable article that can be spared which contains aluminum.

This is a National effort to produce approximately 20,000,000 pounds of used aluminum estimated to be sufficient to supply aluminum parts for upwards of 2,000 aeroplanes. In planning this collection the National Authorities have used every conceivable means to prevent any profit being made. The collection project is being operated on a voluntary basis throughout.

A word or two of warning—Collections should be made as directed by local authority on the days designated—July 24-25—otherwise unauthorized collections may lead to loss and confusion. No articles should be contributed which need to be replaced lest there ensue a shortage in other materials.

I have called on all County Commissioners and Mayors of larger cities of Maryland to accept responsibility for setting up organizations to make the collections in their localities. I call on all civil, fraternal, patriotic, religious and other organizations, as well as all individual citizens to assist and cooperate with these local authorities.

This is a country-wide campaign to aid National Defense. Let Maryland citizens make an all-out effort to equal and surpass our sister States. I am confident of successful results.
