NEWS GATHERED ON PENINSULA

Maryland's oyster tonging season began in Somerset, Wicomico, St. Mary's and Charles counties on Monday of last week.

The tonging season began September 1 in Ann eArundel, Talbot, Queen Anne's and Kent counties and in a part of Dorchester county.

Woodland Jackson, Deputy Commander of the Conservation boat Talbot, said prospects for a successful oyster season this year are bright. Tongers in Tangier Sound are catching 20 to 40 bushel per boat ecah day he said. Each boat is usually operated by two men who sell their cargo to buy boats. They are receiving 60c and 65c per bushel for the oysters which is a very good price at the season especially with warm weather prevailing.

Mrs. James K. Dillon, of Elkton, was busily engaged in cleaning up her yard on Thursday of last week when she felt a sting or bite on her side. She brushed the insect off without noticing it. Friday she was drawn double with pain and rushed to the hospital, where her condition was said to be serious. The doctor diagnosed the ailment as the bit of a black widow spider. This insect is small but its poison is said to equal that of a rattlesnake. Mrs. Dillon was reported a little improved on Monday morning, but was still in the hospital under the doctor's care and far from being out of danger.

The winter schedule of the Chesapeake Bay Ferry became effective Tuesday, the 23rd. The schedule will be the same as last year beginning at 7:25 in the morning from both sides of the bay. There will be fourteen round trips as before.

Ferry boats will begin at 7:25 and then on the hour they will leave Matapeake and Annapolis until eight at night, which will be the last trip.

Conferences between county, state and federal public school representativs culminated Monday in a temporary arrangement by which school facilities will be promptly furnished for the children of defense workers now residing in the federal housing projects at Edgewood, Aberdeen, and Harve de Grace. Under the plan some of the children will go to school on the army posts, others will be cared for in temporary buildings at the housing projects and a few including high school students, will be instructed in nearby county schools.

Fanned by a strong southwest wind, fire of unknown origin, destroyed the large mill and plant of the I. W. Long & Sons Lumber Company at Selbyville early Tuesday morning. The loss is estimated at around $25,000, partly covered by insurance.

A nation-wide search was launched to locate any living relatives—including even second cousins—of the late John O'Malley, who died on September 12, 1940 on the Glen Riddle Farms, three miles east of Berlin.

Mr. O'Malley was employed by the Walter M. Jeffords stables and spent a few years in Worcester County, living on the Glen Riddle Farms.

Behind the search for relatives of Mr. O'Malley is a little matter of settling an estate of over $10,000, mostly in cash, left by the deceased.

At the regular meeting of the Mayor and City Council of Havre de Grace on Monday night, with all Councilmen present except Messrs. Lawder and McLhinney, the Mayor presented the budget for 1942, with a tax rate of $1.05 on each essessed $100. After careful deliberation by the Council the budget was accepted as read and an ordinance was introduced and passed fixing the tax rate at $1.05.

On the ways at Bethlehem Steel Company's San Francisco plant another destroyer is taking shape, destined to become part of Uncle Sam's fast-growing two-ocean navy.

Military police will in the future ride all passenger trains on the Delmrava Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad on which there are now riding a large number of soldiers or sailors according to a notice posted on the bulletin board in the yard office at Delaware. The notice stated that the police are to ride free of charge provided they present the proper credentials.

The regulation is believed the result of several conferences with army officials in southern camps in an effort to halt disorders among the soldiers and sailors riding the trains.

Plans for a wider and deeper channel connecting the Crisfield harbor with the Bay, a project sponsored by a number of local citizens and several civic organizations for national defense purposes, received a sharp setback early this week upon the publication of an unfavorable review of reports by the War Department.

A channel in the Little Annamessex river, thirty feet deep and one hundred feet wide, had been asked by the community through the Mayor and Council, prominent citizens and local civic organizations.

More than 300 residents of the perryman neighborhood, south of Aberdeen, are being forced to seek new homes because the land on which they live is needed in connection with the expansion program of the Aberdeen Proving Ground.

As condemnation proceedings already have been filed in the United States District Court here against the property and $548,000 has been paid to the Federal court for the land, the residents of the section must leave their old homes by October 1, State Senator J. Wilmer Cronin, of Aberdeen, said yesterday.

Senaotr Cronin asserted that under terms of the order, signed by Judge W. Calvin Chesnut, persons living on occupied land in the area must vacate by October 1 and that owners of unoccupied property must release it to the Federal Government by tomorrow.

The amount of land involved is about 5,000 acres, and is wanted by the Government for an airport and a bomb experimental base.

Argument was heard by Judge Charles L. Terry, Jr., in the Superior Court of Delaware yesterday on the constitutionally of several sections of the certain laws as they apply to Kent county's contested soldier vote case which has been before hte court last spring.

The action arose over the election of County Comptroller Elijah S. Hughes with Frank Walker, his Republican opponent in the general election last fall, contending that the votes cast by the Delaware soldiers at Camp Upton should be thrown out.

Dover's first season of daylight saving time will end at midnight on Saturday night at which time that area will return to standard time. Several other places in Kent county, including Smyrna and Milford, will likewise return to standard time.
