TALKING AROUND THE WORLD

Sydney, Australia . . . Telephone calls made throughout the commonwealth of Australia during the last fiscal year reached a total of 36,000,000, a new record exceeding the previous high established in 1930 by about 653,000. Last year's calls represented an increase of 10 per cent over the number reported at the close of 1935. Australia has been connected with the United States by telephone since October 27, 1930. Additional trunk lines have been constructed between Melbourne, Sydney, Brisbane and Adelaide, with the result that plans for the current year include the installation of additional circuits between Melbourne and Sydney, bringing the total number in operation to fifteen, according to U. S. Trade Commissioner E. C. Squire.

Algeria, Africa . . . Telephone developments in this section of Africa will be improved by the installation of cable replacing open wire lines and by the construction of new lines. The posts and telegraph authorities are now asking for bids on 62 miles of cable.

Tokyo, Japan . . . Radio telephone communication with forty-five of the world's most important countries is planned by the communications ministry before 1940, according to the Japanese Advertiser. Construction projects planned, according to Foreign Communications News, call for an expenditure of 3,230,000 yen for a new receiving station and for remodeling three present transmitting and receiving stations. Telephone service between the United States and Japan was inaugurated December 7, 1934.

The ceaseless surge of progress has obliterated local boundaries.

Horizons have broadened tremendously.

Today the interests of every one of us extends far beyond the confines of our town, our country or our state.

If we are to keep in tune with the times, we must be informed upon national and world developments.

If we are to have relief from the seriousness of life, from the fast and furious pace at which we are moving, we also need to be amused . . . entertained.

To meet these requirements of today's reading public, to give you a newspaper of which you—as well as ourselves—may be proud, we have commandeered the resources of the world's oldest and largest newspaper syndicate.

By this means we are able to bring you information and entertainment from all parts of the globe. Truly, through this arrangement, the world's ever-changing picture is focused right into your easy chair.

Do not think for a minute that we are overlooking your deep interest in news about neighbors and friends . . . in the day-to-day happenings in our own community. You may be sure that these events will always be reported completely and accurately.

But, supplementing the thorough local news coverage, you will find in every issue a large number of excellent features of the same high type as those carried by the nation's leading metropolitan dailies.

Some of America's best known and most popular writers and artists provide these features. Here are a few of them:

TED O'LOUGHLIN

You'll never find a more mirthful comic strip than "Finney of the Force," a merry series of drawings depicting the troubles of a traffic cop. O'Loughlin has pictured the typical Irish policeman perfectly in this strip . . . Finney is one of the most lovable characters you'll ever meet.

EARL GODWIN

What's going on behind the scenes in Washington? How will new political social and economic developments influence your life? Godwin, our Washington correspondent, analyzes these things and writes an interesting column from the nation's focal point on prominent topics in the news.

S. L. HUNTLEY

CHERIE NICHOLAS

She is a nationally-known authority on women's dress and current fashion who offers complete information on these topics. Women rely on Cherie Nicholas for accurate details of the newest fashions. She watches styles of the world closely and gives feminine readers advance tips.

IRVIN S. COBB

Humorist, actor, novelist, radio commentator and magazine writer, Cobb now produces a column of lively comment on events of the day. Readers everywhere are finding new delight in his column . . . it's a grand feature that should be a regular part of your regular reading schedule.

WILLIAM BRUCKART

Years of experience as a Washington correspondent make Bruckart especially capable of reporting national capital news. Not only is his information reliable, but his articles are spicy and completely readable . . . a perfect resume of events and gossip from Washington.
