bers were present on the 3d, excepting col. Carberry, and I passed him a week ago on the road.

"The prisoner made no objections to any member of the court, and after being organized, it seems adjourned to yesterday. Gen. Hull brought his sword and delivered it to the president of the court, and addressed him in a neat speech, in which he set forth his public services from the revolution to the present time.

"The court assembled yesterday in the senate chamber of the capitol, and the charges were read, when the prisoner was asked if he was ready to plead; to which he answered in the affirmative; but on calling over the names of the witnesses, there were only four present, and those of subordinate importance; the court consequently was obliged to adjourn. The judge advocate required a week to prepare and arrange the manner of taking the evidence. From conversation, I find the opinion prevails that it will be hard to bring witnesses to this place at this season, a great number of them being from Ohio, S. Carolina, and much the greater part from the western country. From what I hear, some members of the court suggest there is a disposition to adjourn to some more convenient position; but this you must take as I get it; I shall folow them wherever they go, and remain while they admit a visitor.

"The appearance of the court is very impressive, and every officer seems perfectly at home in his station." Aurora.

Gen. Taylor, of the Virginia militia, and who has commanded the whole of the last year at Norfolk, has resigned his command. He says,

"I have lost all hope of being useful in an army, where the officers, as well as men are constantly changed. To introduce skill, order and economy into troops thus composed, will require more energy and intellect, than have fallen to my lot." ib.

REPORT OF A GREAT FRENCH VICTORY.

NEW-YORK, Jan. 11.

The brig Ino, 66 days from Dantzic, with a full cargo, has arrived at Portland. She brings information that BONAPARTE HAS GAINED A COMPLETE VICTORY OVER THE ALLIES, and again entered Dresden.

A letter from Albany, dated the 7th instant, received in this city, has the following postscript:—

"Report to day says, Batavia is burnt by the British and their tawny allies."

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

IN ANTICIPATION OF THE MAIL.

Boston, Jan. 8—Evening

"The letter of marque sloop Dolly, of Salem, 19 days from Savannah, arrived at New-Bedford yesterday; and the sloop Rover, from North Carolina, with flour and cotton, went in last evening.

"The Swedish brig Gottenburg, 24 days fr. St. Barts, arrived at Bristol yesterday. Sailed in company with a Swedish schooner which arrived at Bristol a week since. Saw no cruizers. On Sunday night last ten leagues E. S. E. of Block Island, spoke a Swedish ship from St. Barts, unknown where bound.

"The prize master of the sloop Seahorse (east away on Cape Cod) arrived in town this evening. He left Provincetown on Friday morning, when nothing was lying there. Only about 1400 dolls. worth of the Seahorse's cargo had been saved.—She had 150 boxes Havanna sugar, &c. only 7 or 8 of which were saved, and a part of that wet.

"The Spanish brig Castilio Arragansa, 33 days from Havanna, with molasses, arrived at Newport yesterday.

"A Newburyport brig from Wilmington, N. C. passed Falmouth yesterday for Hyannis.

"The letter of marque brig Ino, Weeks, 66 days from Delfzyb, (about 60 miles from Amsterdam) with a full and assorted cargo of Dutch produce, to sundry merchants in this town, ar. at Portland yesterday. She sailed from this port on the 18th Feb. last, and has been lying in Holland ever since. It is not known what news she brings, if any.* The eastern mail gets in about eleven this evening. We shall have some person to attend its arrival; and, if any news transpires, will use every endeavour to get it on by the mail.

* Another letter from Boston states that Bonaparte had returned to Dresden.

"Schr. Drake, from Georgetown, S. C. arrived at Newburyport yesterday. The day previous was chased by a brig, but escaped her in the night.

"The Swedish brig Gamla Ladose, from Gottenburg for Newport, sent into Halifax, has been cleared, with her cargo.

"A frigate, steering E. N. E. was seen on the 31st ult. in lat. 42, 30, long. 69.

"Accounts from Cape Harbour, to Wednesday afternoon last, state that the British ships had not been seen since they went out 5 days previous—An eastern coaster, prize to the British privateer Wolverine, had been lost on the Cape; the prize master, Froeman, the same who formerly went in the Liverpool Packet, made his escape soon after she struck.

"The Rover, a few days before her arrival at New Bedford, spoke a Nantucket whale ship off Montauk; and afterwards saw a ship in chase of her, and supposes she was taken.

The Swedish brig Gottenburgh, 24 days from St. Barts, cargo of sugars, arrived at Bristol, R. I. on Friday last.

Swedish ship Neptunas, Eiserman, hence Amelia Island, 21 days passage.

The two persons lately committed to the jail in this town for the alledged crime for supplying the enemy with provisions at Provincetown were examined before a special meeting of the District Court this morning, and a bill for High Treason found against them, they were sent to the jail at Ipswich, there to await their final trial, which will take place in May next, before the Dristrict Court, then to be held in this town.

Eight o'clock P. M.—There is a report in town this evening that Bonaparte has got back to Dresden—how it comes—where it originated I cannot learn—not much reliance is to be placed in it—It may have been circulated for speculative purposes, as a thousand others, are, with us for the like purpose.

The Frolic, Capt. Bainbridge, and the Syren, are both said, by the Boston editors, to be preparing for sea—both it is supposed to be employed to carry abroad despatches from government.

AMERICAN AND Commercial Daily Advertiser.

BALTIMORE: FRIDAY, Jan. 14.

We have, for some time, been anxious to hear from France.—After the arrival of the Bramble from England, which brought such flaming and flourishing accounts, and which have flushed some with such excessive joy, we are desirous of knowing the truth, at least, of hearing "the other side of the story." What has become of Bonaparte; whether he has sunk under his misfortunes, or has been able to make head against his numerous foes and false friends.

We have lately seen one account, which said, that he had been forced back upon the Rhine, with only 20,000 of his late great army.——As to the last account, said to be brought by the brig Ino, from Dantzic, (another paper says, from Holland) at Portland, shortly stating, that Bonaparte had gained a victory, and had reentered Dresden; we have doubts of its authenticity.—Every report is now so mixed with the spirit of Party and Speculation, that we place little reliance on what we hear, but what seems to come from something like authority.

The Character of Opposition.

Never perhaps did any discussion which ever took place in the House more completely develope the character of the opposition in this country, as represented in the House of Representatives, than that which has occupied them during the two past days——we mean not their character as men; because all men are in the aggregate pretty much alike; but the character of their feelings, dispositions and objects. That silly letter of Gen. Turreau, displaying merely the irritability of his own temper, and his ignorance of the nature of our government, and of the folly of which he became so sensible, as in fact to retract it to save himself from ignomenious dismission—that letter which was last summer, immediately on the eve of the Maryland Election, attempted to be palmed on the public as a genuine public document, which it was not, and which Mr. Graham, the Chief Clerk in the Department of State, proved it was not—that idle letter, that "tale of an ideot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing," has been lugged into the House of Representatives, and treated as matter of great national concernment We mourn for the degraded dignity of the House of Representatives, when we see men, high minded and intelligent men of the Federal party, for many of that character we know belong to it, consuming hour upon hour, day after day, in reasoning upon a document as authentic, which in the just sense of the term they know to be otherwise. Can they expect thus to deceive the people? Can they hope, by such arts, to oust the men now in office from power—an object distinctly avowed by the mover of this enquiry? Indeed, indeed, we have been astonished at the stand made on this frivolous subject, and the repetition of stale newspaper declamation to which it gave rise—for which we can account no otherwise than on the principle of the old proverb, that "drowning men catch at straws."

Not less surprising was the variety of efforts yesterday made by the opposition to evade the motion of Mr. Roberts, to reject a resolution precisely in the words of one which they had themselves originated, and originated too with much ostentation of importance. Can it be that they in fact became opposed for reasons best known to themselves, to any sort of enquiry—and that they only changed the mode of enquiry proposed by them into a vexatious and unusual form, in order to secure its rejection, and thus attach odium to the majority who refused to sanction it? Such is the inference, which without distortion flows from a consideration of the extraordinary, persevering and repeated efforts yesterday made to smother Mr. Robert's motion; the very motion which they at first proposed. We are gratified that the Republicans insisted on a fair enquiry, in the usual form, and that all the facts relating to this political trick, this document and no document, will be fairly laid before the people—an exposition of which it is worthy only from the time it has occupied in the House of the People. Nat. Int.

FROM ERIE.

By private letters which have been received from Erie, dated on the 4th inst. we learn that the fears of the immediate approach of the enemy had in a great measure subsided. By the last information received at that place, from persons sent out to reconnoitre, it appears the enemy do not design to attempt to approach that harbor before the ice on the Lake becomes hard enough to bear them. It is the opinion of every person there, that the fleet is perfectly safe; and in addition to the obstacles to their proceeding to Presqu'isle, the enemy, if they attempt to destroy the town, according to their late incendiary mode of warfare, will find it defended by a large body of militia, who have repaired thither in a spirited manner for its defence. Many volunteers were on the point of proceeding from Ohio, but were turned back, their services being deemed unnecessary. It is our opinion that both the town and fleet are safe. Ib.

An extract of a letter from a distinguished American in the North of Europe to his friend in Cambridge dated the middle of August.

"I lament the weakness which our internal divisions spread over the nation; but I trust that our cause will ultimately prove successful; and that the day will come when no Legislature or Governor in the United States will enquire HOW MANY VICTIMS to the most degrading, as well as the most oppressive foreign thraldom, must be abandoned to the Tyrant of the ocean before their country shall assert her rights of Independence, and perform her duty of protecting them by war."

When speaking of the faction that has ruled without control several years in Boston, he says—"The British government has shewn a disposition to tamper with this spirit of disaffection, to the Union, and to deal more mercifully with the States which sympathize most with them. But I doubt whether this forbearance will be of long duration. The bitterness of their malice against the Yankees will prove too powerful for their insidious policy; their hatred will get the better of their cunning." Respecting peace he says,

"I have had for some weeks a strong hope that a negociation for a general peace in Europe was about to take place; and that it would contribute to make our particular peace more easily attainable; but the course of events has altogether disappointed this hope; an armistice of nearly three months in the North of Europe, instead of leading to peace, is only a prelude to a blaze of war more universal over the face of Europe than ever. At this moment the storm is on the eve of bursting, and where its ravages will end is known only to Him who stills the raging of the sea, and calms the tumults of the people. In all the calamities of the times, I dwell with confidence on this conclusion, that what He wills is for the best; and that whatever may be defective in the retributive justice of this world's events, will be duly compensated in another." Boston Patriot.

Married last evening by the Rev. Mr. Glendy, Mr. JOHN W. STUMP, to Miss SARAH BIAYS.

ERRATUM.

The bill reported by Mr. Ingersoll, of Pen. in the House of Representatives, does not require a confirmation by the Senate of all appointments of Post-masters, as stated in the National Intelligencer yesterday, but only of the principal officers of that character. Nat. Intel.

AMERICAN MARINE LIST.

FROM THE MERCHANTS COFFEE HOUSE BOOKS.

The schr. Transit, Richardson, hence at Porto Rico in 8 days.

The schr. Industry, Johnson, from Charleston, S. C. for NYork, was captured on the 31st Nov. by the British brig Recruit, re captured on the 3d Dec. by the privateer COMET, of Baltimore, and arrived at Wilmington, N. C. 31st Dec.

Boston, Jan. 7.

The Swedish brig Christina, Herberson, (the same vessel we yesterday mentioned had ar. at Gloucester on Wednesday evening) is 19 days from Halifax, and has a number of Spanish and French passengers. The Christina was originally from Bath, bound to Matanzes, taken several months since. She is now in ballast. On Wednesday last, in sight of Cape Ann, was boarded from the British privateer Wolverine, and had put on board 6 men, belonging to a schr. from Camden, (Me.) with wood, for Salem, which she had captured, being the only vessel she had taken since she left Shelburne, (N. S.) which was about 3 weeks. She had about 40 men on board.

Yesterday, in sight of Cape Ann, the Wolverine was seen to capture 4 sail of schrs. and sloops, supposed to be coasters—one was a large topsail sch. with lumber.

As the stage left Cape Ann yesterday morning a Swedish loaded schr. apparently about 70 tons, with no yards or topmast, was seen going in there.

A Spanish gentleman, a passenger in the above vessel, informs that the Spanish ship Divina Pastora, sent into Halifax, from Havana, had been condemned, vessel and cargo, and that the owner had arrived in Halifax, and had appealed.

Brig George, Almy, from Savannah, with a full cargo of cotton and rice, (deck load cotton) arrived at New-Bedford on Thursday last.

On Wednesday evening the attention of the people of Salem was for a considerable time excited by successive reports of cannon, which seemed to be near that harbor. The following turned out to be the cause:—The Rapid, Anderson, with wood from Mount Desert, about 7 o'clock, off Brace's Cove, fell in with an armed schr. (supposed to be the Bream) which commenced a running fire upon her with cannon and musketry, continuing the chase till near 10 o'clock, almost up to Baker's Island, when she appeared to be diverted from the pursuit by the passing down of the pilot boat, which she might apprehend in the night was some vessel of force. Capt. A. says they were so near as to hear indistinctly the voices on board the enemy; notwithstanding which, only one shot struck the Rapid, in her quarter. As she passed Cape Ann, the fort there gave her a gun.

Accounts from Carthagena state, that the Fanfan, a French privateer, had taken a vessel under the flag of Ferdinand 7th, with 300,000 dls. in specie on board, 250,000 of which were in dubloons.

A gentleman who left Provincetown on Wednesday morning arrived in town last evening, states that no vessels remained in Provincetown Harbor, except the Swedish schr. sent in there by the British some time since. It was generally believed there, that the Majestic, had gone in quest of the Constitution.

New York, Jan. 10.—Sloop Gen. Washington, Fellows, 7 days from Georgetown, S. C. has arrived at Barnegat, having been chased in there on the 5th inst. by a frigate. She has performed her voyage in 21 days. Left at Georgetown, schr. Rose in Bloom, just ar. from NBedford. Sailed in co. with sloop Hero, Burrows, from NYork; smack ——, Dennison, for do. a Spanish schr. for Amelia Island. Off Georgetown Bar, was chased by a man of war brig. Off the Frying Pan Shoals, by another brig, the above mentioned vessels hauled their wind to the northward, and it is presumed they escaped. Dec. 29th, off Cape Hatteras, was chased by a man of war schr. and outsailed her. Jan. 4, at 6 A. M. lat. 40, lon. 70 10, saw a sloop bearing SW. 4 miles distant, standing W. at 7 saw a large frigate, bearing NE. 7 miles dist. and a vessel astern of her in co. supposed to be a sloop of war, running down for us with top-gallant studding sails set; we being much lumbered up with ice, lost considerable time in making sail; at 3 P. M. the frigate fired 2 guns, and brought the sloop too, bearing for the ship astern to take charge of; and continued the chace after us for 195 miles, without gaining any—lost sight of her on the morning of the 5th. At 10 A. M. being close in with Squam beach, saw a frigate in the offing, supposed to be the same, blowing a heavy gale from NNE. running down for us under close reefed top-sails, we ran down anchored a little to the southward of Barnegat breakers, close into the beach. She run close into the breakers, hove too and fired several shot—then she lay off and on until next day in the afternoon, when we got safe into the inlet of Barnegat.

A sloop from Amboy for NYork, was drove ashore last night in the snow storm on the W. point of the Narrows, and bilged.
