white cockade, as the badge of a counter revolution in France in favor of the Bourbons, and the continued and incessant fighting for the last two months between the Allied Sovereigns and Bonaparte (not a day passing without some affair or other occurring) has kept our money market in a complete ferment, and has had influence to a greater or less extent upon almost every article of merchandize.—New Omnium, which had risen to 35, was down last week at 10; and left off on Saturday at 12 1-2 premium.

In Manchester all kinds of Cotton Goods are easier to be bought, and within a few days some descriptions 10 per cent lower. Coarse Woollens, Blankets, and Flannels, yet maintain high prices; fine Cloths were never much advanced, and remain without alteration.—Neither has the Birmingham and Sheffield wares undegone any considerable fluctuations. Some reduction has taken place in the price of the precious metals, which enables me to quote—Dollars at 6*s* 10*d*; New Doubloons £5 9*s*; Foreign Gold, in bars, £5 5*s*; and Portugal Gold, in coin, £5 6*s* per oz.

Copper is also a little lower, 16*d* for Sheathing, and 17*d* for Braziers', payable by a three months bill: and I may quote the following articles—Milled Sheet Lead 29*s* 6*d*, per 112lb for a three months payment; Dry White Lead 46*s*, Ditto in Oil, best 54*s*, second quality 52*s* third ditto 50*s*; Red Lead 32*s*, and Lethargo 32*s*: six months credit, or 5 per cent discount for a three months draft on London.

Cotton has been rather depressed, from the anxiety of importers by the last Brazil fleet to realize the present high prices, and not to risk the issue of the Negociations about to be commenced, and also from a much larger quantity having arrived from Amelia-Island than was expected. If we add to what has come in during the past month, the further quantity which is known to have reached that depot, prior to the American embargo, it will not fall much short of 10,000 bags. Our import in the three first months of the present year, compared with that of 1813, stands

From America	6337 bags
Demerara, Berbice, & Surinam	475
Brazils and Portugal	39520
West-India Islands	7171
Ireland	179
Total	53702
Import in three first months, 1813	22193
leaving an increase of	31509 bags

which, however, it may be observed, are prinpally light Brazil, and allowing the whole import to be added to the estimated stock on hand on the 1st of January, 50,000 bags it makes the total quantity of 103,702 bags, from which deduct our probable consumption, 4000 bags per week for thirteen weeks, leaves 51,702, which is a very light stock, particularly when we take into view the state of the trade, and our future prospect of supply. American politics must be expected to have considerable effect on the prices; and I calculate upon seeing a good deal of fluctuations during the negociation. At present Upland is worth 2s 7d a 2s 9d 1-2; Orleans 2s 11d a 3s 1d, Sea Island 3s 10d a 4s 2d; Bourbon 3s 2d a 3s 9d; Pernambuco 2s 11d a 3s; Maranham and Bahia 2s 9d a 2s 11d 1-2; Bahama 2s 6d a 2s 9d; Demerara 2s 8d 1-2 a 2s 11d. Tobacco, Virginia 9d a 2s 6d; stemmed 1s 4d a 2s; Maryland 10d a 20d; a hhd. of very fine Gold might bring 2s 6d—we have had and continue to have some export demand, which has reduced our stock to about 3200 hhds. and I have just been informed that the Cortes in Spain intend to admit it freely into all their ports upon the same footing as other merchandize; indeed, shipments have actually been made from this and received without difficulty in the province of Biscay.

As the price of all Dye Woods and Colonial Produce generally are much influenced by Continental events, it is impossible to judge accurately so soon what effect the rupture of the negociation will have. My quotations are, therefore, founded upon what has been doing; our market at present may be considered completely inactive.

LEONIDAS;
A POEM,
BY RICHARD GLOVER, ESQ.

At the time of the first publication of this admired Poem, a zeal or rather a rage for liberty prevailed in England. A constellation of great men, distinguished by their virtues as well as by their talents, set themselves in opposition to the Court. Every species of composition that bore the sacred name of freedom, recommended itself to their protection, and soon obtained possession of the public favor; hence a poem founded on the noblest principles of liberty, and displaying the most brilliant examples of patriotism, soon found its way into the world. It was praised in the warmest terms by Lyttleton and Dr. Pemberton, and passed thro' three editions in 1737 and 1738. Though not in the highest class of epic poems it cannot be read without delight. It is characterized by a bold spirit of liberty and by generous, tender and noble sentiments.

The parting of Leonidas and his wife is perhaps more interesting than that of Hector and Andromache. The Episode of Ariana and Teribazes is poetical and pleasing. On the whole we may safely venture to place Leonidas by the side of Lucan's Pharsaha, Statius's Thebaid, Camoen's Lusiad, and the Henriade of Voltaire.

N. W. & C. have also just published

POINTER DOG STOLEN

About 3 weeks ago; he is a very handsome white, marked with large yellow spots, with a black leather collar, a copper plate riveted thereon with my name. I am informed that the city is infested with a gang of villians who make it a trade. I will give five dollars for the Dog and five for the Thief on conviction.
JOHN DIFFENDERFFER.
