sloop, and a bay craft, and one frigate in sight of Annapolis.—Fed. Gaz.

From the Merchants' Coffee House Books.

An express arrived in town last night from Washington, with accounts that six 74's, 8 frigates and a number of transports, to the number of FORTY-SIX SAIL in all, came into the Bay on the 16th and 17th, and proceeded up. It is said 3 sail were in sight of Annapolis yesterday.

An express to General Smith from the President, requesting him to hold half of his brigade in readiness to march in fifteen minutes upon the order of General Winder.

FACTION.

In every nation where there is freedom, there will be a difference of opinion—Freedom begets Opposition, and Oppotition degenerates into Faction—Faction destroyed the liberty of Greece—We wish that every man in THIS country would read and carefully study the history of the States of Greece, as it has so strong an analogy to the States of America—The Greeks were corrupted by Phillip of Macedon—the Americans are tempted and threatened by Castlereagh of England.

Faction subverted the liberty of Rome, as it did the short-lived Republics of England and France—Cromwell accomplished his ambitious projects by hypocrisy; Bonaparte by the sword—To do the latter justice, he was no hypocrite—if he had he would still have been Emperor of France.

"In every free country, there will be opposition"—Both in Religion and Politics, it is a necessary ingredient—it excites enquiry, composes principles, and elicits truth—In times of peace, opposition, in a due proportion, is necessary for the preservation of freedom, to detect error, and to counteract ambition—But, in times of war, there must be a limit to opposition—it should cease, when the country is endangered by the machinations of an internal, and the attacks of a foreign enemy.

In England, there is an opposition; but when the country is at war or in peril, all parties rally round the standard of the nation.—In America, unfortunately, we have both an Opposition and a Faction—The former is wisely bending to the general will, in order to insure the general safety—the latter, like the serpent in Eden, first coiled its ugly form in secret, diffusing its poisonous breath over the land—it now boldly erects its snaky front in public, to destroy by audacity what it could not accomplish by treachery.

At a time when every honest man is rejoicing in the valor and discipline of our sailors—in the bravery and improved skill of our soldiers—and in the growing unanimity of our parties, the Faction rears its hydra head, to blast our flattering prospects.

We could every day quote instances of the boldness of this Faction (presuming on the mildness of the Law, or the forbearance of Government,) in its open endeavors to foment dissention, to degrade the country, and to exalt the enemy—At present, we shall only adduce one example of sneering acrimony and bitter enmity to the United States—The following article from a Boston paper, tells, in words as plain as can be expressed, that New York, notwithstanding all its glorious efforts, will, like Paris, have to submit to Britain.

"A meeting of the citizens of New York "was holden last Wednesday, at which Col. "Rutgus was Chairman, and Oliver Wolcott "was Secretary—They adopted several reso-"lutions relating to the defence of the city, "very much in style of the pieces which fill-"ed the papers in Paris shortly before that "city was entered by the Allies."

Extract of a letter to a gentleman in this city, dated

NORTHAMPTON, (V.) August 2.

"SIR—I once more take the liberty of troubling you with a few lines, perhaps on a subject that may not be altogether uninteresting; it will at all events serve to shew in what manner our enemy is determined to carry on this war, particularly on our defenceless inhabitants bordering on the Atlantic. Their late conduct in this neighborhood will plainly demonstrate to those who are not acquainted with the disposition of our enemy, that they are even disgraceful to human nature. Scarce would the brute creation be guilty of such conduct as they have committed on this shore.

"On Saturday last, the 30th ult. they landed from 50 to 60 sailors and marines near Cape Charles, say not farther than 2 or 3 miles, and plundered a gentleman of the whole of his fowls of every description; took from him 10 hogs, 6 or 8 of his cattle, and nearly all of his bacon; nor were those desparadoes satisfied until they forced every chest, trunk, &c. and stole their contents, took bed covering, and even broke up sitting turkeys and sucked their eggs, notwithstanding their having been set on near a fortnight. This is the conduct of the Bulwark of our Religion."

The late British sloop of war Epervier captured by the U. States' ship Peacock was this day sold at Marshal's sale for FIFTY FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS——She was bought in by government; and we understand will be fitted out forthwith. Private bids as high as forty five thousand dollars were offered.—Savan. Museum.

There are certain men in this city, who were very angry with those who affirmed that a part of "Wellingon's invincibles" had been beaten by the raw troops under our Quaker General Brown. Those of "the British party in the U. States" have denied that any of Wellington's men were in the battle of Chippewa. The fact however is indisputable, and a friend of mine last week had a conversation in Albany with a Scots officer, who remarked—"It is just sixty days this day, since I sailed from Bordeaux, and here I am a prisoner in the centre of the United States."

Demo. Press.

The want of furnaces to heat shot, and the advantage of having them, are both pretty clearly evinced by the accounts from Stonington. Ib.

Our accounts from the Western Indians are flattering. The terms allowed them by the United States at Greenville, are said to be liberal, and 1,453 of "our red brethren" have taken hold of the tomahawk to fight on our side. Sixty dragoons, baggage and horses have been captured by a detachment of U. States troops on the river Thames. Ib.

SACKETT'S HARBOR.

Our accounts from the lake are good and promising so far as they go, yet still they are unsatisfactory, and leave us much at a loss as to how the enemy's squadron became divided. If we were to judge from the wording of the article from the Albany Reg. we should presume that the British squadron had been out altogether and had been divided in consequence of the manœuvres of the American squadron. This conclusion seems justified by the phrases "sought refuge," "cut off" and other words in the intelligence. This conclusion however becomes rather doubtful on reading the articles from the Herkimer American. Two things both good and promising still more of good, are certain, the former Prince Regent is blown to atoms and the British squadron are divided. Interesting intelligence may be hourly expected. Ib.

AMERICAN MARINE LIST.

Boston, Aug. 13.—Ar. schr. Minerva, Peterson, Wiscasset.

Aug. 14.—Ar. boat Maria, Belfast—Also a boat fr. Salem—they were chased by two enemies ships this morning, who stood in, within the Graves, and were in sight from this town until noon.

A fisherman from Truro, informs, that the officers and men belonging to the barge drove on shore at Chatham, seized two whale boats, and made their escape:

Spanish ship Rosa, fr. hence for Havanna, ar. at Bermuda about the 10th June, having put in leaky.—She had discharged part of her cargo, and remained the 29th.

The letter-of-marque schr. Decatur, sailed fr. Charleston, 3d inst. for France.

New-Bedford, Aug. 12.—Ar. at Fairhaven, on Sunday evening last, British schr. Henry, cargo fish, prize to the Saratoga privateer——captured July 27th, 4 days from Halifax bound to St. Pierre, Martinico.

The fishing sloop Rover, of this port, was captured on the 30th ult. on Nantucket Shoals, by a tender to the Leander. The Rover had on board about 2000 fish, 4 or 500 of which were taken on board the tender and carried to the Leander, but were ordered to be thrown overboard. The R. was made a tender of, and sent on a cruize to return in ten days, when the captain of the L. said she should be restored with the remainder of the fish; and Capt. Reynard and Mr. Bunker were requested to remain on board the frigate until the sloop returned. Capt. B. was detained in the sloop—Capt. L. Tobey and others were put on board a fishing vessel and landed at Yarmouth. [Since preparing the above, we have been informed that the Rover is released.]

Extract of a letter, dated Plymouth, Thursday evening, Aug. 11.

"I arrived here last evening about sun-set, and found the town in the greatest alarm, expecting an attack from the enemy. A company of artillery, and some militia are marching to the place where the landing is expected, and many people were afraid to go to bed. This alarm is created by a report from a sailor, who heard capt. Epworth and other officers swear they would burn the town, &c. A flag was sent in here yesterday to make enquiry respecting a New Bedford vessel which they had taken and agreed to restore, but some fishermen had taken her into Duxbury, and Sir George Collier was desirous of fulfilling his engagement with the capt. and requested the proper authority, that she might be given up to the owner, which was done by the people of Duxbury—He enquired also for the missing barge spoken of some days ago. He complains bitterly of the fishermen deserting from their neutrality and threatens to burn them.

A flag went off this morning, with a respectable Committee as negociators, to understand what ground they might take in fishing, &c.—After they had been gone about an hour, news reached here that the missing barge was cast away on the Cape, and her men 22, and 2 officers were in custody of the marshal, which intelligence was dispatched to the Committee immediately. The letter from Sir Geo. Cother, by the flag yesterday was very civil and gentlemanly—I have read it and the answer of the Commanding Officer—I have also read, a very handsome letter from Sir G. to the Selectmen of Duxbury, in which he still complains of fishermen's departure from neutral ground. The barge (which was sunk some time since by a shot from the fort,) is the source of all the difficulty, and I think the committee will be able to explain all satisfactorily, as it was towed in by some persons accidently down, and not by the fishermen.'
