SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1895.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The members of the Republican Central Committee for Carroll County are respectfully requested to meet

ON MONDAY, JULY 22nd, 1895,

at 10.30 o'clock, A. M., at

ODD FELLOWS' HALL. A full attendance is desired. By order,

JNO. H. MITTEN, Sec'y.

"Heads I Win; Tails You Lose."

The free-silver men of Kentucky appear to have played a game on this order. They were beaten on the resolutions of the convention, but simply put up their candidate—Mr., or Col., or Gen. Hardin, and the convention endorsed him by an overwhelming majority. The sound money men resolved and resolved, but the silverites carried off the spoils and enjoy the substantial fruits of victory. Their candidate for Governor is a pronounced advocate of free-coinage.

Now, while this looks like a remarkable proceeding, it is probably nothing more than a clever straddle. Sound money Democrats will vote for the platform and silverite Democrats will vote for the man. Each side is congratulated by its sympathizers throughout the country, on its victory, and harmony reigns in Kentucky. But the election of Mr. Hardin will mean a State government in sympathy with debased currency and pledges to secure it.

Both Mistaken.

Democrats are happy because there are many signs of an industrial revival. They are not all agreed, however, as to the causes which prompt this favorable condition, although they are disposed to exaggerate it.

Some of them are morally certain that it is due to whatever measure of Wilsonism was incorporated in the tariff bill passed by the last Congress, and affect to believe the conditions would be even more favorable if the Wilson bill, as it passed the House, had been enacted into law.

Others aver that Mr. Gorman and the little coterie of Democratic Senators which stood by him and eliminated the radical free trade features of the bill, saved the country from greater disaster than have befallen it and retained a principle—the principle of protection, really—that is now working to the advantage of the industries of the country. In a limited measure this is probably true, but not entirely so.

It is remarked that wages have recovered to a fuller extent in those branches of production in which the least reduction in customs duties was made. This demonstrates the value of protection, and can, to that extent, be credited to the retention of partially protective duties in the Gorman bill. But wages are not back to their old standard under the McKinley law. The declaration of the Advocate, last week, that there has been "an increase of wages," consequent upon Democratic tariff legislation, is simply an unmitigated mistake. A universal reduction of wages and loss of employment followed Democratic victory and tariff tinkering, part of which loss to the workingman has been regained. But production and wages are still below the full protective tariff standard.

Nor have the Democrats any reasonable ground to congratulate themselves upon the brighter prospects which have succeeded the depression and distress of the last two years and upwards. This condition had its beginning with the election of Mr. Cleveland and a Democratic Congress. It grew worse as the free trade purposes of the administration developed and continued increasing in intensity until the elections of 1894 and the overwhelming Republican victory in November last. The downward tendency was arrested by that result, but apprehension of Democratic legislation inimical to the welfare of the country, during the intervening months till the 4th of March, prevented an industrial revival. That came with the disappearance of a Democratic majority from the halls of Congress. It has been gathering volume ever since, and only needs a judicious adjustment of the tariff, on protection lines, to the extent of producing sufficient revenue for the needs of the government, to restore the prosperity which was lost by the Democratic victory of 1892.

The Maryland State Weather Bureau records for the month of June show that there was an excess in temperature as compared with the June record of previous years. The highest temperature was on the 4th instant, when it was 97°, and the lowest on the 7th, when it was 56°. The rainfall for June, on the contrary, was lighter that usual, the total being 2.82 inches. Rain fell on ten days during the month. Thirteen days were clear, eleven cloudy part of the day and six cloudy all day.

Reports from Washington county indicate that the acreage in wheat this year was far below the average. The crop is a fair one, except where the grain was fly-eaten. The supply of old wheat in the county is less than it has been for many years. Some of the new wheat will be marketed this week and the ruling price will be about 65 cents.

Capt. Henry W. Howgate, who some years ago embezzled a large amount of money from the government, but escaped and was not recaptured until recently, has been found guilty in one of the courts in the District of Columbia, and Judge McComas has sentenced him to eight years in the Albany penitentiary.

Glyndon Park Prohibition Camp opened on Thursday, 4th inst., and will continue until Sept. 1st. Many prominent speakers of the party will be present during the camp and deliver addresses, and the musical and other entertaining features will be kept up as usual.

Marshall Price Lynched.

Marshall E. Price, the condemned murderer of Sallie E. Dean, of Caroline county, was taken from the jail by a mob, about 11 o'clock Tuesday night, and hanged to a tree in the vicinity. This act was prompted by the stay of execution granted by the Governor. The date of the execution had been set for the 5th inst., yesterday, but in the meantime Price's counsel had carried the case to the Court of Appeals on a writ of error. Gov. Brown could do nothing less than grant a respite until the writ could be heard and decided by the court. As the court will not be in session until October, and even then the case might not have been taken up promptly, many of the not people of Caroline county grew restive under the prolonged delay and took the law into their own hands. It is said, in excuse of their act, that many of them misunderstood the meaning of the reprieve and supposed it was, in effect, some kind of pardon or commutation of sentence which would have led, at least, to Price's escape from the death penalty. The result was not unanticipated outside of Caroline county, and the authorities there could scarcely have been in ignorance of the danger of mob law in the case. They nevertheless took no precautions to prevent it. Talk of removing Price to the Baltimore jail for safe keeping seems to have been common and was known to the Caroline public. But he was kept in the Denton jail long enough for the mob, stimulated to vengeance by such rumors, to work its purpose and compass the death of the murderer.

Richly as Price deserved the fate which has overtaken him, it is to be regretted that the law was not permitted to take its course. The ablest lawyers of the State express the opinion that the judgment of the court below would have been sustained and that, eventually, Price been would have died on the scaffold. The moral effect of his legal execution would have been much greater than his illegal taking off. Men reason strangely, or perhaps do not reason at all, who suppose that such a violation of law will beget respect for law. Lynchings have been frequent in this State, but capital crimes have not become less in number. The man who is bold and bad enough to risk the noose of the legal hangman, is not apt to have any greater apprehension of the illegal executioner.

"Served him right" will be the general verdict in relation to the penalty visited on Marshall Price, but the manner in which it was done cannot be justified.

Mrs. Farrall, widow of Frederick Farrall of Charles county, is on trial, at La Plata, in that county, for the alleged murder of her husband by poisoning. Mr. Farrall died on the 17th of December last, after a night of intense suffering, in which frequent convulsions occurred. It is claimed that Mrs. Farrell administered strychnia, with a dose of quinine which she gave her husband. The attending physician, Dr. Carrico, has testified that the symptoms were not those of strychnia poisoning, but expert chemists, who analyzed the contents of Mr. Farrall's stomach, testify to the presence of that drug. Mrs. Farrall is a young and comely woman and, while belief in her innocence is not very strong in the community, there is a degree of sympathy for her in her perilous position The State claims that she became infatuated with another man and poisoned her husband to be rid of him. The case promises to be a celebrated one.

A Baltimore newspaper says that "information received at the Baltimore Corn and Flour Exchange states that harvesting of wheat this year begun in Maryland about a week or ten days later than in 1894." This is evidently a mistake. Harvest in this county began rather earlier than usual.

On the Eastern Shore the harvest is about completed and it is said that wheat there will not produce over two-thirds of a crop as the result of damage by scab or fly. The heads are said to be poorly filled and the yield from the thrasher is disappointing.

Daniel Hoke, aged about forty years, a well known farmer of near Walkersville, Frederick county, died on Tuesday evening from internal injuries which he sustained two weeks ago by falling from a hay wagon. He leaves a wife and five children.

Aaron C. and Emory A. Pry, of Keedysville, who own peach orchards in the Elkridge and South mountain regions, estimate their peach crop this year at between 50,000 and 60,000 bushels.

Gen. Green Clay Smith, a well known Baptist minister, of Washington, D. C., once the Prohibition candidate for President of the United States, died at his home in that city Saturday afternoon.

Alexander McCarthey was shot and killed at Clearspring, Washington county, on Tuesday evening. A man named Jefferson Nesbitt is charged with the shooting.

Now you very well know, what tearing down and building of walls means, it means dust all over the fine, as well as the cheap, goods, and the only remedy we know of keeping the dust and sand from getting into the goods, is to get the goods away from it, and to accomplish this, we have decided to sell the above amount of

STRICTLY NEW,

SEASONABLE AND DESIRABLE GOODS

at almost one-half the regular value. We shall make this a

"MEMORABLE SALE"

to our friends, patrons and the public in general, in presenting such values, which can only be appreciated by an inspection of the same. When we say that this great

will surpass all that has gone before, our patrons from near and far are aware that

We mean to break all previous records for low Prices.

To accommodate those who are unable to visit our store during the day time, we shall keep open at nights till 9 o'clock.
