English & Mathematical ACADEMY.

The subscriber having been able for some years past, to receive but a small portion of those who applied to him for admission, has been induced by his friends, to erect suitable apartments at the corner of Tamany street and M'Clellan's Alley, for the purpose of enlarging his establishment. These are now finished and a gentleman who has taught for several years in Philadelphia, is engaged to instruct the junior class.

The design of the institution is to give a complete English and Scientific course of Education, to youth intended for Mechanical, Mercantile, or Nautical Employments; and experience has proved that those of nine or ten years of age, who have spent but little time at school, can be made much better scholars, and in much less time, than those of fourteen or fifteen, who have been indulged in removing at pleasure from one institution to another; who have been taught every thing and learned nothing. To fill up the establishment to the contemplated extent, boys, of the former description will therefore be preferred. Each department will be confined to a select number. The Mathematical is now full Those who may desire to enter the junior class, are requested to notify their intention as soon as convenient.
