REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The members of the Republican Central Commitee for Carroll County are respectfully requested to meet

ON MONDAY, JULY 22nd, 1895, at 10.30 o'clock, A. M., at
ODD FELLOWS' HALL. A full attendance is desired. By order,

JNO. H. MITTEN, Sec'y.

The Advocate must be in the chrysalis state. It evidently imagines all the virtue and intelligence in existence is to be found within its own shell.

It is stated on reliable authority, that the Democratic county convention, on Monday, will elect delegates to the State convention favorable to the nomination of State Senator Pinkney J. Bennett, of this city, for Governor.

It is said that the demand for manufacturing machinery has fallen off heavily during the last year and that many workmen employed in that branch of industry have work only at intervals, as repairs are demanded, or when an occasional order for new machinery is received. This condition is said to be particularly noticeable in relation to machinery for the manufacture of woolen fabrics, but is to some extent observable in many other branches of manufacturing industry. It is attributed to the direct effect of the mongrel tariff and indicates that goods once manufactured at home are now extensively imported from abroad. As "one swallow does not make a summer," so a partial revival in home industries does not indicate the restoration of the prosperous times existing before the Democratic victory of 1892.

The Law at Fault.

The SENTINEL'S editorial last week, calling attention to the imperfect arrangement of the voting booths in this county, and urging the correction of the outrage, by the County Commissioners, and the Board of Election Supervisors, has served to bring from Mr. James E. Smith, president of the latter Board, a reply which lays the responsibility of depriving the elector of his right to vote a secret ballot upon the law, instead of upon the election officers. No doubt the provision quoted by Mr. Smith was incorporated in the law for that very purpose, and is only another evidence of the wrongful legislation under which the people have suffered at the hands of the Democratic managers. Mr. Gorman declared that the passage of an Australian ballot law would be an act to relegate the Democratic party to the rear. Nevertheless a pretence of passing the law was made, and the people can learn how thoroughly they were cheated by reading the following letter from President Smith and then recalling the incident at the New Windsor polls, two years ago:

WESTMINSTER, MD., JULY 18th, 1895.

To the Editor of the American Sentinel:

DEAR SIR:—In your editorial of the 13th inst., you criticised the action of the Board of Supervisors of Election, in erecting voting booths in such manner that the voter in arranging his ballot can be seen by the challengers; and you state that the law evidently contemplates otherwise; you suggest the erection of a screen to prevent the voter from being seen.

It is evident that you have overlooked the provisions of the 153rd section of Chapter 538 of the Act of 1890, which says, "The arrangements shall be such that neither the ballot boxes nor the voting shelves or compartments shall be hidden from view of those just outside of the said guard-rail."

Hence you see that if the Board of Supervisors were to follow your suggestion, the members thereof would directly violate the law and make themselves liable to the penalties prescribed in Section 164 of the above Act, namely, a fine of not less than five nor more than one thousand dollars, or imprisonment in Jail, Penitentiary or House of Correction for not more than two years, or by both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court.

I trust you will publish this in justice to the Board of Supervisors.

JAMES E. SMITH.

Abuse Will Not Divert Attention.

The Advocate is evidently apprehensive that Independent Democrats in Carroll county may repeat last year's performance and leave the party in a minority. It seems to be in a very agony of fear lest this disaster should result, and exhibits its dismay by revamping its stale platitudes about the white man's party and the horrors of Republican rule. It waves the bloody shirt with astonishing vigor and with little regard for existing conditions. It declares that the Democratic party—presumably in Carroll county and elsewhere in the State—"embraces the great bulk of property owners," and "nearly monopolizes the intelligence, the virtue, the patriotism of the State." Readers of the Adeocate who know anything must regard this phillipic as an insult to their intelligence and will govern their conduct accordingly.

The short comings of the Democratic party are not to be explained by offering gross insults to their opponents and heaping vulgar abuse upon their heads. The Republican party has been in a minority in Maryland—not always real but sometimes enforce! by Democratic fraud—for well nigh thirty years. Among its supporters are many not yet thirty years of age, while few who now cast Republican ballots were voters thirty years ago, when the passions of war were at their height. If the secessionists of Maryland experienced some political hardships in those days they were trifling in comparison with the outrages perpetrated upon Southern unionists. But, whether trifling or extreme, it is a poor exhibition of patriotism to revive and harp upon them now. They are "dead issues" and not pertinent to the matters which call for the consideration of Maryland voters to-day. An excuse may be suggested for the Adeocate, perhaps, in its apprehension of the loss of the valuable official patronage which it has enjoyed without intermission since 1867, but it can only be a suggestion. Among right thinking people no valid excuse can be offered for the scurrilous character of its last week's attack on its opponents.

How About '91-'92?

"We take it," says the Adeocate "no Democrat, no tariff reformer, seeing and realizing the benefits of the present tariff law, cares to return to Mckinleyism, with all the ills of business stagnation and depression that afflicted the country from 1890 to 1894—when labor was unemployed, the wheels of industry stopped," &c.

The McKinley law was passed in the latter part of the summer or early autumn of 1890, and the trade and commerce of the United States in the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1892, was the most extensive in the history of the country. American products to the value of more than a thousand millions of dollars were exported and sold abroad, and imports aggregated about eight hundred millions of dollars, the balance of trade in our favor having been something over two hundred millions of dollars. It was, in reality, the most prosperous year ever experienced by the people of the United States. Yet the Adeocate describes it as a period of "business stagnation and depression." It began with every requirement of the McKinley law for the first time in full force and effect and realizing precisely the benefits anticipated for it by its sponsors. It was not a period of depression at all, but of the greatest prosperity ever known to the country, as shown by the official statistics. Four months afterwards Mr. Cleveland and a Democratic Congress were elected, and from that moment the condition described in the quotation from the Adeocate commenced. It was not McKinleyism, but the fear of free trade that brought depression and stagnation upon the country. That condition remained and intensified after the passage of the partial free-trade tariff now in existence and until the end of the Democratic Congress by which it was enacted. Without fear of further mischievous legislation from that source, a partial revival of prosperity has taken place, but the country is yet far from the favorable conditions that prevailed in '91 and '92. The people had such an experience with the last Democratic Congress that they will probably not consent to its repetition for many a day to come.

An Interesting Debate.

An interesting and unique debate commenced in Chicago on Tuesday last. The disputants are Hon. Roswell G. Horr, once a Representative in Congress from Michigan, but now a member of the editorial staff of the Yew York Tribune, and W. H. Harvey, the author of a work called "Coin's Financial School," in which free silver coinage, at the ratio of 16 to 1, is advocated and enforced by pictorial illustrations. The debate is an enterprise of the Tribune, which bears all the expenses arising from it. The disputants have referees. H. G. Miller and ex-Judge Wm. A. Vincent, of Chicago, are judges, and at the close will decide which had the best in the novel debate. The debate will continue eight days, the speakers taking turns of ten minutes each. It is estimated that at least a hundred and forty thousand words will be spoken. The debate is being stenographically reported and published in the Tribune each day. It is copyrighted and cannot be used by any other paper, but will be published in book form and widely disseminated, the object of the Tribune being to carry home to misguided, but honest free-silverites, sound and practical arguments against the dangerous financial heresy receiving their countenance and support. Both the disputants are men of great ability, but it is believed that Mr. Horr will be able to thoroughly expose the sophistries of Mr. Harvey's book and demonstrate the impracticability of free coinage on the basis demanded. Admission to the debate is by ticket, and not more than two hundred persons can be present at one time.

A Remarkable Admission.

The Philadelphia Record, one of the most ultra of free-trade Democratic journals, recently said:

"According to the quarterly list of the American tinplate works, published in the Metal Worker of this week, there are now in actual operation in the United States thirty-five tinplate works rolling their own black plates and seven in course of erection. In addition there are thirty tinplate dipping works without rolling mills. As these establishments have an estimated yearly capacity at this time of 4,110,000 boxes, while the annual domestic consumption is about 7,000,000 boxes, of which 1,500,000 boxes represent material re-exported under a rebate of the duty, it is plain that American tinplate was never so large a factor in the home market as it is at present, and the preparations for increasing the output are evidence that there is no lack of demand for the domestic product."

This is a remarkable admission. When the Republicans were objecting to any change in the tariff on tin-plates, not more than a year ago, the Democratic papers throughout the country ridiculed the assertion that they were being made in this country, in commercial quantities. They claimed that the McKinley tariff, under which the industry was inaugurated, was, in that respect, a complete failure. Now the Record admits that the tin-plate manufacturing plants in this country have a capacity largely in excess of one-half the domestic consumption. This admission is a most thorough justification of the McKinley tariff on this particular article, which was so bitterly opposed by the Democrats in Congress and their constituents. It has become a great industry, even in the few years of protection it enjoyed, and is giving employment to thousands of American workmen and putting millions of money in circulation at home that would otherwise have gone abroad.

Unfortunately the industry is just now in peril from the stupidity of the Democratic tariff, which removed nearly forty-eight per cent. of the protection afforded by the McKinley law. An increase in this country in the price of the iron ingots from which the plates are rolled, without a corresponding increase in the same article abroad, is giving the Welsh tin-plate manufacturer an advantage over his American competitor, which would not have existed if the McKinley law had been undisturbed. It is to be hoped the trouble will only be temporary; that this great industry may survive the peril, and that the time is not far distant when every sheet of tin-plate used in America will be produced in American mills. That result would now be certain, but for the tariff tinkering and blundering of the last Congress. The blunder should be corrected as speedily as possible and the industry placed beyond the danger of just such contingencies as now confront it. Tin-plate will be cheaper, when a sufficient amount is produced at home to supply the domestic demand, and its manufacture should be properly protected until that period.

Hon. Lloyd Lowndes for Governor.

An interesting correspondence appeared in the Baltimore American, a week ago, in relation to the Republican Gubernatorial nomination in this State The correspondence consists of a letter addressed by five or six hundred business and professional men, of Baltimore, to Hon. Lloyd Lowndes, of Allegany county, and his response thereto, and is so creditable to all the persons concerned that we deem it worthy of reproduction in the local Republican newspapers throughout the State. Mr. Lowndes' attitude concerning the nomination is such as to commend it to men of all parties His letter expresses, in terse and temperate language, his views in relation to his duty in the premises and must command the respect and approbation of every reader. The correspondence, omitting all but one or two of the signatures appended to the letter addressed to Mr. Lowndes, is as follows:

BALTIMORE, July 3, 1895.

HON. LLOYD LOWNDES:

Dear Sir—As Republican voters and citizens of Baltimore, we, the undersigned, request that you will permit the use of your name as a candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination upon the part of the Republican party.

The present juncture in the affairs of our State is peculiar. There are questions of vast moment to all our citizens to be acted upon at the next session of the legislature and administered by the governor who shall be chosen this fall, and the demand is universal that there shall be placed at the head of the government of Maryland one who is familiar with its great and growing industries, their needs and how their further activity may best be stimulated. We feel that you meet all the requirements of the people in an unusual degree, and your long and honorable public service in the Republican party would make your selection as our candidate especially appropriate.

While your name has appeared in the papers of this city as a possible candidate, it has not been in such a manner as to give assurance that you would accept the nomination if tendered you. We, therefore, address you to ascertain your disposition, and trust that we may be favored with an early reply.

Yours Respectfully,
ALEXANDER SHAW,
WILLIAM G. STRANGE, and others.

MR. LOWNDES' REPLY.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 9, 1895.

Messrs. Alexander Shaw, William G. Strange and others:

Gentlemen—I am obliged to you for your valued favor of the 3rd district. It is very gratifying to know that you gentleman consider me a suitable candidate for the gubernatorial nomination of the Republican party in the state of Maryland.

I conceive it to be the duty of every good and patriotic citizen when the sentiment of his party demands of him a service, willingly to render that service, even at a sacrifice to himself.

The principles of the Republican party are well known, and have received the endorsement of the people of the nation. Its mission in this state has been, and is, to exemplify those principles in the administration of state affairs, and as a part of this policy to reform the many abuses that have gradually crept into our state government.

In advance of the formation of a platform by the state convention, no one person has the right to speak for our party, but at least I may say that I am heartily in sympathy with the desire of the people to have an honest and economical administration of state affairs.

While I am in no sense a candidate seeking this office, and am more anxious for the success of our party than for any personal advancement, it is an honor that any one may desire, and if there shall be a general wish on the part of the Republicans of our state that I serve them as their candidate, I will accept the trust thus reposed in me, and undertake the leadership in the coming contest.

Yours truly,
LLOYD LOWNDES.

Gen. Harrison Not a Candidate.

It is stated, with apparent authority, that Ex-President Harrison has declared, with emphasis, that he will not be a candidate for the Presidency in 1896. The declaration was made to Congressman Poole, of New York, who was urging Gen. Harrison to go to the State Fair at Syracuse and deliver an address. Speaking to Major Poole, he is quoted as saying:

"Major, I will tell you why I don't care to go to Syracuse at the time you want me to. If I go anywhere now and make a speech, candidates for the presidency will say that I am a candidate for that office also, and I am going for political purposes."

Then with a voice that carried with it all the earnestness and positiveness that is to be found in the ex-President's make-up, he continued:

"I am not a candidate for the presidency, have not been, will not be. I do not want the office, and will not accept it."

Wreck on the B. & O.

Charles W. Smith, aged thirty-eight years, 2036 South Charles street, an engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was instantly killed, and Wesley Beall, a fireman, 1628 South Charles street, was badly injured on Saturday in a wreck near Mt. Airy Station on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio.

The wreck was caused by the locomotive striking a coupler, which had fallen from a preceding train. This caused the locomotive on which Smith and Beall were working, and which was going at a rapid rate, to jump the track.

When the locomotive trucks left the rails, the locomotive toppled over and fell on the side of the track. Smith was caught beneath the engine and was taken out dead. Beall was injured about the spine.

Dr. Bromwell, of Mt. Airy, attended Beall, who was put on a train and sent to his home. Smith's body was also sent to his home.

The Republican convention of Cecil county, held on Wednesday, elected delegates to the State convention favorable to the nomination of Mr. Wm. T. Malster for Governor. Mr. Malster is a native of Cecil county. He was present and addressed the convention. The convention also nominated a legislative and county ticket, as follows: House of Delegates—Wm. J. Smith, Lewis T. Logan, Webster White. Sheriff—F. M. Gallagher. State's Attorney—Henry M. McCullough. County Commissioners—Long term, W. J. Clark; short term, J. J. Williams. Judges of the Orphans' Court—Alfred Kirk, J. T. Lynch, Thomas C. Bond. County Treasurer—Robert L. Christie. County Surveyor—Wilmer J. Falls.

The Christian Endeavor Convention met in Boston, Mass., Thursday, July 11th. It is estimated that nearly 100,000 visitors were the guests of the Hub city. The principal opening meeting was held in Mechanics' Hall. Rev. F. E. Clark presided. After appropriate devotional exercises, Rev. A. H. Plumb, D. D., extended greetings from the pastors of the city, Hon. Samuel B. Capen, those of the Boston '95 Committee and Governor Greenhalge, those of the State of Massachusetts. The response to these was made by Rev. E. R. Dille, D. D., of San Francisco. The annual report of General Secretary, J. W. Bear, was read. It was received amid much applause, as it set forth much progress during the past year. Banner prizes were awarded to Assiniboia for the greatest increase of societies and the greatest proportionate gain in Junior societies, to England for the greatest absolute gain, and to Pennsylvania for the greatest gain in Junior societies. The total number of societies is 41,229 and of members, 2,475,740. The United States and Canada contributed $425,000 for home and foreign missions. In the evening the annual address was delivered by the founder of the Society, Rev. F. E. Clark. Denominational rallies, open parliaments, gatherings through out the city for the purpose of prayer and praise, and excursions to points of interest around Boston were some of the features of the great gathering. On Sunday the pulpits of the city were occupied by ministerial delegates. The Convention will meet in 1897 in San Francisco. An International Union was formed during the meeting of the Convention, with Rev. F. E. Clark as President.

The trial of Mrs. Belle Farrall, at La Plata, Charles county, for the murder of her husband, Frederick Farrall, by strychnine poisoning, was concluded on Tuesday, with a verdict of acquittal. The jury was only out half an hour. The trial was very sensational and a pretty strong case was made against Mrs. Farrall. It was not sufficient to convince the jury, however, beyond a doubt, and the logical result was a verdict of acquittal.

There is an immense attendance at the convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of the United States now being held in Baltimore. Ten to twelve thousand persons attend the sessions of the convention, which are held in an immense tent erected for that special purpose.

Six thousand people attended the Reformed re-union at Pen-Mar on Thursday. The exercises were of a very interesting character and the day, which was bright and warm, was thoroughly enjoyed by everybody. Many clergymen of the Church were present.

For the SENTINEL.

SPRINKLE, SPRINKLE.

To the street sprinkling fiend this poem is respectfully dedicated.

Sprinkle, sprinkle with your hose;
Up and down the water goes,
Sprinkle, be it cold or hot,
Wet or dry, it matters not.

What though wheelmen wail and weep,
Keep the mud two inches deep;
Let'er flicker in a flood,
Streets were made for mixing mud.

Ere the golden sun is set,
Make the streets so dog-gone wet,
Those who, in the gloaming dim,
Try to ride will have to swim.

Let'er sizzle, day by day:
What are streets for anyway?
Your job is to keep 'em wet,
And you "get there" too, you bet.

Soak'em to your heart's content,
Till some genius shall invent
Some new wheel to sail the street,
With fins and flippers and web-feet.
