Unmeasured Assurance.

The SENTINEL is not disturbed by the Advocate's criticism last week, nor surprised at its endorsement of a law evidently designed to deprive the voters of the State of the right to cast a secret ballot, although the ostensible purpose in the passage of the law was, as the SENTINEL has stated and the Advocate well knows, to protect the voter in that right. This election legislation turns out to be simply a clever contrivance to force a sort of semi-open ballot upon the electors of the State.

The Advocate's assertion that the SENTINEL "forgets that these are days of Democratic rule, when elections are fair and honest and held according to law," is about the coolest piece of assurance that has fallen under our observation for some time past. It is about on a par with some of the declarations of integrity indulged in by that prince of political schemers, David B. Hill, after his conspiracy to steal the New York Senate.

The Advocate must be badly informed if it does not know that during the past twenty-five years frauds in registration, repeating and other wrongful methods have marked almost every election in Baltimore and have often been practiced in some of the counties. But for its blind devotion to party, we should be led to imagine it was growing "sarkastikal," or was indulging in sly humor at the party's expense.

For Attorney General.

For some time past the name of Mr. Harry M. Clabaugh, of this county, has been frequently mentioned in the Baltimore daily newspapers in connection with the nomination of the Republican party for Attorney General of this State, and the time has come when the suggestion must be seriously considered by the party which he has actively served during the past fifteen years. Mr. Clabaugh's career as an attorney practically began in this county, and he has achieved an enviable reputation at the Westminster bar, as an able and successful lawyer. Of late years but few cases of importance have been tried in this court with which he has not been connected as counsel. His legal fitness for the Attorney Generalship is unquestioned. Supplementing this is his party service. For four years he has been the active and efficient head of the State Central Committee and has devoted much valuable time and pains-taking attention to the discharge of the duties of that onerous and difficult station. Under his leadership a year ago an aggregate Republican majority was recorded in the State for the first time in nearly thirty years.

We presume his candidacy will receive the unqualified endorsement of the Republicans of the county with whom he has been so long actively identified. It seems to us they should do no less than send, with the most generous expression of their regard for him, a delegation to the State convention instructed to render him the most earnest support and service. The Republicans of Carroll county have asked little and gotten less from their brethren of the other counties of the State. They should ask this nomination with an emphasis that will take no denial.

A young son of William Bartle, living near Clear Spring, Washington county, had one of his legs cut off by a reaper a few days ago. He was walking behind the machine and stepped into the knives. His other leg was badly lacerated. Dr. H. C. Foster dressed the wounds. The boy will likely die.

The Democratic County Convention.

The Democratic county convention, called to elect delegates to the State Gubernatorial convention, which will meet in Baltimore on Wednesday next, assembled at Odd Fellows' hall in this city, on Monday. The convention was harmonious on the surface. A couple of hours had been spent on the sidewalks by the delegates and their counsellors in subduing the penchant of some of the Young Cleveland Democrats for anti-Gorman resolutions. The point was finally yielded, in a great measure, although the resolutions adopted by the convention are suggestive, by innundo, of continued hostility to Maryland's senior Senator.

The convention was called to order by the chairman of the county central committee, Mr. Robert Sellman, of Mt. Airy district, and Mr. Benj. F. Crouse was unanimously elected temporary president. He made a conciliatory speech on assuming the chair. Mr. Addison Morelock was elected temporary secretary. Subsequently, upon the report of the committee on credentials and permanent organization, the temporary officers were made permanent and Mr. Augustus Brown and Dr. Joseph T. Hering were elected vice-presidents. The credentials of the delegates from the several districts were reported correct. There were no contesting delegations. The Young Cleveland Democracy had nine full district delegations in the convention and part of another. It was also intimated that the delegation from the Fourth district was not a solid Gorman one. Conceding the district to Mr. Gorman's friends, however, the relative strength of the factions was as stated, the districts standing as follows:

For the Cleveland Democracy—Taneytown, Uniontown, Myers,' Freedom, Westminster, Hampstead, Franklin, Middleburg, and Union Bridge.

For Mr. Gorman—Woolery's, Manchester and Mount Airy.

Divided—New Windsor.

The delegates had all been elected without opposition, except in Freedom, Middleburg, Union Bridge and Mt. Airy districts. The first three of these were carried by the Cleveland wing, Mt. Airy alone adhering to the fortunes of the recognized leader of the party in the State.

Proceeding with its business, the convention as above constituted appointed a committee on resolutions, of which Mr. L. P. Slingluff was chairman. The committee reported resolutions, evidently previously prepared for consideration, and which were as follows:

"We, the democracy of Carroll county in convention assembled to name delegates to the State convention, extend our congratulations to the State and nation on the return of prosperity, manifested first in the return of confidence in the financial centres; secondly, the resumption of work in most of the industrial enterprises and the increase of wages paid employes therein, and thirdly, the upward tendency of prices for agricultural products. We point to these facts as the result of the policy outlined by the great democratic party in the Chicago platform in 1892. The country has been thwarted in the full realization of the benefit rightfully expected, yet enough has been accomplished to prove the correctness of the principles announced and to warrant our thanks, and they are hereby tendered to our great leader and exponent of our principles the friend and champion of the people Grover Cleveland aided by the democratic House of Representatives. We deplore the manifest discontent within our party, caused by the neglect of these guiding principles, and believe confidence can only be revived by return to the practice of the time-honored principles that democracy and honesty are synonymous; that we make platforms not to catch votes, but to catch the intelligence of the people, upon whom we depend for the maintenance of democratic institutions. We exhort and entreat all democrats to unite in their efforts to heal the wounds occasioned chiefly by the failure of a few to do their full duty in this line, to the end that these principles of our great party may become effective and our party put in line for the great battle it has inaugurated against monopolistic and class legislation for 1896.

"We declare ourselves in favor of a new assessment of property, to the end that all citizens shall be compelled to pay, in proportion to their wealth, their just proportion of taxation for the support of the government.

"We urge the delegates to represent us in the State convention to use their best efforts to select as our democratic nominees men whose views and whose past record will be in accord with these declarations of principles."

The resolutions were unanimously adopted and then the convention proceeded to elect five delegates to the State convention, which was done by acclamation, as follows: Messrs. Benj. F. Crouse, of Westminster; T. Herbert Shriver, of Union Mills; Nicholas W. Steele, of Freedom district; Peter Buchman, of Hampstead district, and James Slasman, of Woolery's district.

The delegates are all recognized as adherents of the Cleveland Democracy, and thereon hangs a tale of alleged violated faith that has elicited expressions, from some of the most prominent of Mr. Gorman's friends in the county, not indicative of the most harmonious relations between the two wings of the party. One of these friends of Mr. Gorman, who is at the same time one of the most prominent Democrats in the county, asserted in the presence of the writer, that he had been approached by a leader of the other side, prior to the primaries, with a proposition for harmony. He had not sought the interview, but responded to the suggestion, and the arrangement was consummated and the pledge of honor given on both sides that it should be carried out. In pursuance of the understanding no general attempt was made by Mr. Gorman's friends to obtain control of the convention. The agreement was, as the gentleman referred to stated it, that each side was to name two of the delegates to the State convention, and Manchester district, which more than provides the Democratic majority in the county, was to name the fifth man. The agreement, the gentlemen declared, was ignored and the pledge violated when the convention met.

The SENTINEL puts the story mildly and refrains from repeating the strong language with which the proceeding was characterized. It was such, however, that it might be inferred that harmony and the parties directly concerned in the affair must be far asunder.

Another strange feature of the convention was the total absence of all allusion to State Senator Bennett, whose name was printed on the tickets at some of the primaries as the choice of the county for Governor. It was generally supposed that a resolution would be passed approving the record of his services as Senator during the last eight years, and endorsing him as the county's candidate for Governor in the State convention.

Senator Bennett had striven earnestly to bring about harmony in the party, and says he is deeply grieved by the failure of his efforts in that direction. He says further that he is much mortified by the failure of a convention, largely composed of his professed friends, to utter a single word of endorsement and commendation of his career as a senator, in which he endeavored, to the best of his ability to serve the people.

It was announced after the convention adjourned, upon the authority of the delegates elected to the State convention, that they intended to support Senator Bennett for the Governorship as long as there might be any chance of his nomination, and the failure of the county convention to endorse him was an oversight. Naturally the senator does not enjoy being overlooked in that fashion, and matters are not as happy in the party ranks as they might be.

The Baltimore Sun heartily congratulates the Democrats of Carroll county on the action of their convention on Monday last. It will be interesting to note whether in this case the Sun and Advocate will be in accord. The action of the convention was not in conflict with the course of the Sun in the past, at least, although that paper has been frequently criticised and denounced by the Advocate.

The gross earnings of the Western Maryland Railroad for the month of June were $99,894.13; expenses, $71,268.02; net earnings, $28,626.11. For the nine months ended June 30th the gross earnings were $871,517.36; expenses, $593,626.35; net earnings $277,891.01. The gross earnings for June 1894 were $113,927.58; net earnings $41,822.25. For the nine months ended June 30th, 1894, the gross earnings were $808,376.60 and the net earnings $234,060.48. The falling off in gross and net earnings in June 1895 was anticipated, as in the previous June there was extraordinary freightage. There is, however, as will be observed, a handsome increase of the net earnings for the nine months up to the 30th ult.

The recent storms stripped many peach orchards of their fruit in Washington county, and the loss to growers will be very great.
