Death of Judge Frizell.

Judge William Frizell, of Frizellburg, died at his home in that place at 1 o'clock, Tuesday morning, of paralysis and general debility. Judge Frizell was in the seventy-seventh year of his age, having been born October 5th, 1818. He was a native of Frizellburg and died in the house in which he was born. He was a prominent citizen and was well known throughout the county. He was a lifelong Democrat and always took an active part in politics. When quite a young man he was, by appointment of the Governor of the State, a leather inspector in Baltimore. In 1879 he was elected a judge of the Orphan's Court of this county, and was re-elected in 1883, serving in that important station, very acceptably, for eight years. He was a man of imposing presence, having been over six feet high and weighed over 260 pounds. He was connected with some of the most prominent families of Maryland, having been a cousin of Ex-Judge Wm. A. Fisher, of Baltimore, and the late Judge John E. Smith, of this county. Mr. John C. Frizell, of this city, is his brother, and Mrs. Anne E. Babylon, of this city; Mrs. Ephraim Cover, of Frizellburg, and Mrs. E. S. Everhart, of Woodberry, are his sisters. He leaves one daughter, Miss Flora Frizell, of Frizellburg, and three sons, Messrs. J. Casper and Robert Frizell, of Frizellburg, and Enoch L. Frizell, of Emmittsburg.

Murder in Manchester District.

A brief account of a horrible murder, committed in Manchester district, came to us by telephone yesterday morning. The victim of the tragedy was a man named Jacob Miller, a comparative stranger in Manchester. Miller had been working in that place and neighborhood for a week or more. He was a quiet, well behaved and apparently an industrious man. Towards evening of Wednesday afternoon he left Manchester in company with two tramps, going in the direction of Melrose. During the night persons in the vicinity of a grove near that place heard the noise of fighting in the woods. On Thursday morning the tramps who left Manchester in Miller's company, went into Melrose and reported that the body of a dead man was lying in the woods. Their story was probably regarded as a fake, and no steps were taken to investigate it, but the report, in some way, reached Manchester and on Thursday night a searching party started out from that place and found Miller's dead body in the woods. The man had been stabbed in the heart and cut about the face and head.

The object of the murder was evidently robbery, as Miller had on his person, when he left Manchester, thirty dollars in money, all of which had disappeared, with other valuables, when the body was found. An inquest was held, and a verdict rendered that the man was murdered by persons unknown to the jury. The jury was summoned by Justice Strevig.

Apparently, at this writing, no effort has been made to apprehend the murderers. One of the tramps, in whose company Miller left Manchester, was seen in the woods, where the body was found, Thursday afternoon, and was under the influence of liquor at the time.

Two tramps, supposed to be the murderers, were also seen at Black Rock, Pa., by a citizen of Manchester district, on Thursday afternoon. Miller was a middle aged man.

Tyrone Items.

Our husbandmen have gathered in all their crops of barley, wheat, rye, hay and oats, and have been well rewarded for their labor. The corn looks very promising at this time, also, and if we are blessed with rain shortly, we may look for an abundant crop. A few have dug their potatoes and find them a fair crop. Our farmers are preparing for another crop. Some spend several hours each day babbling with phosphate agents and examining the different grades of their goods.

Misses Jane Bell and Maggie Foglesong are on the sick list with a complication of diseases. They are attended by Dr. Kemp.

Mr. Upton Decker, our old war veteran, after a residence of many years in this vicinity, left on Thursday for Littlestown, Pa., where he will reside with his daughter. The people of this community were pained to learn of the death of Judge Frizell, and many of his old neighbors and friends attended his funeral on Wednesday afternoon.

Corn needs rain badly in this vicinity.

A flower plant under the care of Mrs. Emily Arthur, called the night blooming cereus, was the center of attraction here this week.

A very exciting game of base ball was played by the Frizellburg Stars and the McKinstry team, on the ground of the latter, on Saturday last, in which the home team suffered an overwhelming defeat. When the Stars arrived on the ground they were hard looking specimens of humanity, having been perfectly yellow with the dust in which they were almost suffocated. They entered the diamond, however, in enthusiastic style and rolled up a score of 29 to their opponents' 4. Stitely and Hiteshew, of the home team, were batted with ease, while the remarkably good work of pitcher Babylon, of the Stars, contributed largely to their victory. Hard batting and stolen bases were also features of the game. Davis led in batting, with a home run, a double and two singles. Babylon struck out twelve men and only gave two men their bases on balls. The battery was Babylon and Davis. Following is the score;

Two fine choirs of singers will be present next Sunday, one from Frederick city and one from Montgomery county.

Mr. W. R. Rudy, of Mt. Airy, has been elected a delegate to the Republican State convention which meets in Cambridge.

Manchester Items.

Under the scorching August sun the rain showers soon lose their refreshing effect. Vegetation is putting on signs of drought and plowing operations are at a stand still on account of the dryness of the earth. The potato crop is having some attention but the low price is no inducement to hurry the digging. We notice the gathering of apples is beginning to receive attention since W. C. Stick has opened a market for them at the Union Tannery, south of town, where he rented the stilling apparatus of Julius Helb, of Hanover, Pa., which has a capacity of 250 gallons per day. He is paying 6 cents per bushel for apples as gathered from under the trees, which is considered a pretty fair price for the first gathering.

Mr. Nelson Warehime and family and a number of friends went to Sharrer's dam, near Roller, on Saturday last and had a pleasant day's outing. They seined the dam and enjoyed a feast of fish and a bountiful supply of other good things for the inner man.

On Sunday last a number of our folks went to Summit Grove camp. Among them were five wheelmen, two of whom, Messrs. Ganter and Null, were unfortunate enough to have a break down and the pleasure to walk and push their wheels for five miles. At New Freedom Mr. Null found a man who repaired his wheel and late in the afternoon was riding through the town when he had a mishap and was thrown to the ground with his foot entangled in the gearing. His friends went to his aid and raised him to his feet but he was not able to walk. A physician was consulted who found the bone fractured. He was brought home at night and Dr. J. H. Sherman adjusted the fracture.

On Monday, Mr. Geo. Brighthaupt, in the employ of Mr. John Groce, plasterer, cut his left hand very bad with a hatchet while lathing. Dr. Sherman dressed the wound.

The arrangement committee of Trinity Reformed Sunday School has pretty well finished its work for the pic nic on Saturday, 17th inst., at Greenmount, which promises to be a pleasant event for the school and congregation.

The historic snake again looms up and asserts his right to the bottom lands now falling a prey to the spirit of improvement. The German workman was treated to a full view of his mammoth proportions last week, while busy grubbing. A hissing sound attracted his attention and looking forward was the monster with mouth wide open. He tarried long enough to mark his position and afterwards measured the length with eight steps. The next day, accompanied by Mr. Jacob Miller, he was staking off the course of a ditch, when the snake again asserted his authority and soon had everything his own way.

Female Class No. 5, Mrs. M. E. Dubbs teacher, will hold a lawn fete on Saturday evening next, 10th inst., in the yard of Mr. C. Miller on South Main street, to increase their talent.

The friends of Mr. Jno. E. Masenheimer have knocked the bottom out of his modesty and are booming him for a place on the Democratic legislative ticket. The indications are that he will receive a liberal support at the coming primaries.

The mechanics are pushing the already well advanced work on Dr. Sherman's house towards completion. The frame and weather-boarding are in place on Mr. Will Masenheimer's new house, and the tinners are putting the roof on Mr. Deinst's new house on S. Main street.

Mrs. Boether and daughters Dollie and Virgie, of Baltimore, are here with Mrs. J. M. Motter.

Farmers are busy plowing and preparing for seeding for the crop of 1896. The sound of the steam thresher can be heard on every side, threshing grain for the farmers, of which they have raised an excellent crop. Corn is also apparently promising a full crop.

Our genial mail carrier, Elick, spent Sunday with Mr. Thomas James and family, near Manchester.

Miss Sadie C. Sullivan, of Cranberry, spent Sunday last, with her mother, Mrs. Kate Sullivan who resides in our town.

Last week Messrs. James C. Myers and James P. Zepp had a fight with a large black snake. They dispatched it and found its length to be 6 feet.

Again the subject of hydrophobia is the main topic of discussion here. It is now ascertained that a mad dog will bark, and try to drink water, except when in the convulsions caused by the disease. Recently a mad dog passed through this section, biting several dogs, and it is said Docie Masemore was slightly bitten. Last spring a dog passed through this section and bit a bull belonging to Mr. Jno. Gelman, Jr., and a cat belonging to Miss Painter, both of which were killed recently, having had an attack of rabies. It is said a boy was bitten last spring by the same dog, and no action taken upon it. A lady, whose hand was licked by Mr. G.'s mad bull, is greatly excited.

The celebration lately held by Bethel Sabbath School would have been a great success, but for the rain which commenced about 3 o'clock, just as large numbers were coming on the grounds. As it was, there were about two thousand present when it commenced raining. There was a great rush for shelter; some got in the vehicles that were on the grounds, some got in Squire Oursler's house, who threw open his doors and invited all in, until the lower part of the house could contain no more; others ran for shelter to the church which was soon filled. None got very wet, except the gentlemen who served the ice cream, who continued filling orders to those seated in the carriages during the shower. The ice cream, furnished by Bloom, of New Windsor, was of an excellent quality, and Messrs. Smith and McCarty deserve credit for their perseverance in dipping out the cream, notwithstanding the rain was pouring down.

The Prohibitionists of Woolery's district propose giving a pic nic in Squire Oursler's grove, on Saturday, August 10th, when we hope that they will be favored with clear weather; as a large crowd is expected to be present. The base ball contest at this place on Saturday, 3rd, between the home club and a nine composed of players from Union Mills and Silver Run, attracted the presence of two or three hundred people, and much interest was manifested in the game from start to finish. The sympathy of the spectators was undoubtedly with the combination nine, as most of the players on it had little experience in the game, yet, after a good fight they had finally to succumb to the superior skill of their opponents, the score standing 24 to 16 against them. Before the game began a procession composed of the Carroll County Reed Band, the ball players and a number of cyclists, paraded the streets of the village. During and after the game the base ball management sold refreshments and innocent games and amusements were kept up until eleven o'clock at night, the band also remaining until that hour. The game was umpired by Archer Burgoon.

On this, Saturday afternoon, our club will play a game with the Littlestown nine, on the grounds at this place.

A general feeling of approbation is noticeable among the Republicans of this district respecting the action of their party's convention, held in Westminster on Monday last. Should the nominating convention next week be as decided in its treatment of the reassessment question, the members of the party confidently expect the district to return a majority greater than last year against the ticket which for so many years knew nothing but victory.

The efforts which are being made to secure funds to purchase a library for the Methodist Episcopal Church are meeting with a very encouraging measure of success. A most enjoyable evening passed rapidly away, amidst the amusements of the parlor, the tete-a-tetes of the lawn and the festivities of the dining-room. The jollity and congeniality of the party was surpassed only by the kindness and hospitality of the host and hostess.
