convoys, and when during the winter season the opportunities of the enemy will be increased, both to capture with ease and escape with impunity.

That the system of burning and destroying every article, which there is fear of losing, a system pursued by all the cruizers and encouraged by their own government, diminishes the chances of recapture, and renders the necessity of prevention more urgent.

That from the coldness and neglect with which previous remonstrances from other quarters have been received by the admiralty, this meeting reluctantly feel it an imperious duty at once to address the throne, and therefore that a petition be forwarded to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, acting in the name and on behalf of his majesty, representing the above grievances, and humbly praying that his Royal Highness will be graciously pleased to direct such measures to be adopted, as shall promptly and effectually protect the trade on the coasts of this kingdom, from the numerous insulting and destructive depredations of the enemy; and that the Lord Prevost be requested to transmit the third petition accordingly.

That the thanks of this meeting be given to Mr. Ewing for the ability with which he prepared and introduced the business of this day.

That the thanks of this meeting be given to the gentlemen who signed the requisition.

K. FINLAY, Provost.

The Lord Provost having left the chair,

Resolved, unanimously, That the thanks of this meeting be given to his Lordship for his prompt compliance with the requisition, and for the manner in which he conducted himself in the chair.

AMERICAN AND Commercial Daily Advertiser.

BALTIMORE: Tuesday, Nov. 22.

The following is an Address, delivered by Lt. Col. Benjamin Fowler, to the 39th Regt. under his command—when mustered on the 18th inst. and discharged the service of the U. States, pursuant to an order from Maj. Gen. W. Scott.

From the general satisfaction it afforded to the whole regiment a committee from the officers waited on the Colonel and prevailed on him for a copy, which they have the pleasure thus publickly to exhibit.

In behalf of the Committee,
THOS. BALTZELL, Adj. 39th, Regt.

Fellow Citizens & Fellow Soldiers,

You are now discharged from the service of the United States, and I hope a long time will elapse before it may be necessary for your country to require of you to make similar sacrifices on the altar of patriotism, to those you have already made, in defence of its honor and independence, and for the protection of your city. But should the enemy, who has been once foiled and disgraced in his attempt, stimulated by revenge and a thirst for plunder and destruction, dare again to invade this soil of freedom, I know you will once more throw by your peaceable avocations and reassume with alacrity the character of citizen soldiers.

It is more than probable that we shall never all meet together again; I shall therefore avail myself of this opportunity to thank you for your general conduct during the last 3 months I have had you under my immediate command, in which I have found much to praise, and littlte to censure—and even that little, may with propriety, be chiefly attributed to the forbearance to enforce rigidly, the strict rules of discipline. During this short period, you have made considerable progress in military knowledge, so essentially necessary for your own protection, and the annoyance of the enemy in the hour of battle. Let me entreat you to omit no opportunity to perfect yourselves in the duty of a soldier; the times require not only that every man should do his duty, but to do it with honor to himself and advantage to his country, that he should know how to do it.

The nature of our political institutions forbidding that the government should always have at its command large standing armies, and the happy situation of our citizens rendering it impossible that any considerable body of regulars can be obtained in the ordinary way, on a sudden emergency, makes it necessary, that in time of war, the country should rely much on the aid of its militia—and to make that aid efficient we must acquire discipline.

In most European countries, where the soldiery is composed of the dregs of society, and are the degraded tools of tyranny, usurpation and injustice, the character of a soldier may not be considered an honorable one; but in this Land of Liberty, where every man is a freeman, and all interested in what they are called on to defend, who will not feel proud to be a Citizen Soldier? Titles which should never be separated, if we mean to remain free.

If we search the pages of ancient history, we shall find that there was never any difference made between the condition of a citizen and a soldier. It was long before soldiers were inlisted, and despotism only began, when citizens believed, that commerce, agriculture and the arts did not allow them sufficient leisure for the exercise of arms.

Experience teaches us, that no country in the world contains better materials for making good soldiers, than our own, and were the militia properly organized and disciplined, the U. States might bid defiance to a world in arms.

The first duties of a soldier under arms, is silence, attention, and obedience, on these three pillars, rest the whole superstructure of military discipline.—Officers should not only be anxious to teach those under their command, but omit no opportunity of acquiring a knowledge of their duty that they may be able to teach correctly.

The 39th regt. is small as to numbers, but respectable in discipline, it would be a very desirable object, if possible to effect it, to put it in uniform, by adopting something that would combine neatness with economy, so as to bring it within the reach of all; it would not only add respectability to the military appearance of the regt. but would no doubt conduce much to its increase in members; a plan has been devised by the officers, and will be submitted to your consideration, by the respective commandants of companies.

Fellow Citizens & Fellow Soldiers! I have commanded you with much satisfaction, I have endeavored so far as my abilities extended to be useful, and should any circumstances deprive me of the honor and pleasure of commanding the 39th regt. I should leave you with deep regret.

In laying by the daily duties of a soldier, and reassuming your customary avocations, I wish you individually, health and prosperity, with all the happiness you are capable of enjoying.

Married, on Thursday evening last by the Revd. Mr. Glendy; Mr. Henry Herring, to miss Eliza Poe, all of this city.

AMERICAN MARINE LIST.

From the Coffee-House Books.

Nov. 20. The private armed schr. SYREN captain Daniels, of this port, returning from a cruise, was chased off N. York and lost on making the Delaware.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 16, the Syren received two pilots from Cape May, who engaged to take her in after taking charge, they ran her on a shoal, off the Cape—her rudder was knocked off, stern stove in, with other damage—they then swept her in for the shore and anchored.

The next morning was attacked by three barges from a razee and frigate at anchor a short distance off, which they easily beat off; was then attacked by a schooner of 14 guns, a chebacco boat, and the three barges which she resisted two hours; finding it impossible to stand so superior a force, in her crippled state, set the schr. on fire and took to the boats, the enemy still firing after they had reached the beach; captain Daniels was knocked down by a spent cannon ball that struck his shoulder. The Syren struck the shore after she was abandoned, and went to pieces. The crew 20 in number, and 6 prisoners, reached the shore in safety. The people on shore saw one of the enemy's barge's sink after she got to the ship.

Off Cape Ortegal, Sept 24, the Syren captured the ship Emulation, from Leghorn for Newfoundland, with salt and oil. Oc 12, brig Grace from Newfoundland for Alicant with fish; cutter from Smyrna for London, with figs and grapes; brig ——, from Newfoundland with fish; a galliot from Malaga to London with fruit, took the cargo from the latter and put the prisoners on board, and released her about six weeks since. Off Cape Finistere, fell in with the private armed brig Grand Turk, of Salem; she had made four prizes, one of them laden with Peruvian Barks.

Nov. 21—A letter from the Southward, mentions that the schr. FOX, formerly of this port, then a tender to a British frigate, had been brought into Shellcastle by her own crew.

Another letter, says the commander of the British schnr. St. Lawrence, 18, (Lieut. Jackson,) the surgeon and 5 men came ashore on the coast, on a Fowling expedition, when the whole of them were surprised and made prisoners by the Militia.

New-York, Nov. 19.—Ar. Schr. Cynthia, Monroe, 30 hours from Newport. Capt. M. informs that on Tuesday last he was run on shore on Sachem's Head by a sloop, but owing to the militia coming to the shore the sloop sheered off.

Sloop Rising Sun, I. Comstock, master in 48 hours from Providence, R. I.

The sloop Collector, Capt. Vial, with a number of other vessels, left Connecticut river for NYork on the morning of Tuesday. At 3 in the afternoon, discovered a sloop to the westward, and fearing she was an enemy's cruizer, prepared for action, with the trifling means in their power. The suspicious sloop soon commenced firing upon the Collector, and sent a barge to cut her off from the shore; but, a few well directed round and grape shot, obliged the boat to return, and the sloop to give up the contest—The Collector, and the other vessels put into N Haven for the purpose of preparing to defend themselves against any future attempts of this disguised cruizer.

Charleston, Nov. 15. Ar. schooner Armistice, Williams, NYork, 6 days.—The sloop Hero for this port, sailed in company. Left schr. Virgins, Cleary, for Savannah, to sail in 3 or 4 days. Saw no cruisers on the passage.

Schr Cock's-All, Smith, Amelia Island 26 ds.

Three masted schr. General Armstrong, Clark, Georgetown 2 days.

Packet boat Cinderella, 3 days from Savannah. About 12 miles from Beaufort, spoke the Beaufort Packet, Captain Parker, who informed that he saw SIX SAIL OF VESSELS off St. Helena supposed to be enemies, and a large smoke supposed to arise from a vessel on fire. The Master of the Cinderella was also informed on the passage, that the British had captured some vessels, one of which was a sloop belonging to Captain Ives, from Savannah for this port.

A letter received yesterday from Savannah, gives it as a report prevalent there, that Capt. Jackson, of the Lacedemonian, had received orders not to molest the Southern Inland Coasting Trade. The captures during the last week, are the best evidence of the correctness of this report.
