her.—It must appear almost incredible, that the Reindeer, an 18 gun sloop of war, of our own rate, could be taken in so short time, with the loss of 30 killed, and 40 wounded—our loss was 5 killed, and 19 wounded.

"On the first of September, at day light, we discovered 13 sail, under convoy of the Armada 74—stood for them, and being to windward, came up with the windward vessels very fast; at 7 overhauled a sloop with a brig in tow—she cast off the brig, and steered for the 74; tacked and stood after us for two hours, but finding we outsailed her, she gave up the chase and returned to her convoy.

"At 5 P. M discovered 3 sail, one on our weather bow, and two to leeward—gave chase to the one to windward, and at half past 7, came up with her. Signals by blue lights, sky rockets and lanterns were made on both sides, but did not answer each other. We hailed what brig is that? They hailed what ship is that? The captain called out, 'heave to, and I will send my boat on board.' The enemy answered, I'll see you damned. Our Capt. observed, she is one H. M. brigs and we shall soon know.—We fired our gun on the forecastle, which she immediately returned off her poop—bore away under her lee, and commenced the action. In 46 min. after the engagement commenced, she struck, being a complete wreck—hailed, and asked her what brig it was? It is the opinion of many they said she was the Borer.* Just as we were in the act of lowering the boat down, we saw a sail close on our weather quarter, and soon after discovered her to be one of the 3 sail we saw before sunset—prepared ship for action, when the enemy luffed up and gave us his broad side, and stood for the brig we had just flogged, who was firing signal guns of distress—it is our opinion that she must have gone down, and had not the third man of war have come up, we should have taken another one. A fight like this, at night is a most awful sight—to see our ship, appeared to be a stream of fire for 46 minutes—during that time, the shot expended appears almost incredible. Our loss was very trifling. Our boatswain and quarter gunner were the only 2 killed, and two slightly wounded. The Wasp was not the least injured in her hull. As to this last brig's force, she is rather superior to us—his shot were weighed—2 were picked out of our ship, and were 1 3-4 lbs. heavier than ours. With respect to myself I am hearty and well"

*The British account states her to be the Avon.

CHALESTON, Nov. 17.

By this morning's Southern Mail, we have accounts from Amelia to the 12th instant which announce the arrival there of a vessel from Liverpool, with accounts to the 21st September. The following extracts of letters furnish the only information we have received by this arrival.

Extract of a letter from St. Mary's, dated Nov. 12.

"A ship arrived at the bar last evening, in 4 weeks passage from Liverpool, she got on the bar, and the accounts this morning are that she will be lost, with the whole or part of the cargo consisting of dry goods. By a letter received by this vessel, dated Ghent, Sept: 12, 1814, it is said negociations were going on at that time, with some prospect of a termination in peace. In consequence of the supposed failure of the negociations when the John Adams sailed, cotton had advanced in Eng and 30 per cent.

"A circular letter, quoting the above, says the British government had it in contemplation to take possession of some place from which they could forward supplies of that article.

"Goods have advanced at Amelia, within 2 weeks from 25 to 37 1-2 per cent and the market has been completely gleaned."

Extract of another letter of the same date.

"We have an arrival from Liverpool, bringing dates of the 21st Sept. at which period, any thing else than peace was expected. The British ministers were, by some, soon expected home, to remain until ours received further instructions from head quarters. Ld. Hill's expedition is delayed until spring."

"Bristol (E.) Nov. 12. The present price of cotton in Liverpool, is from 2*s.* 2*d.* to 2*s.* 4*d* but fluctuating very much, according to the reports of a nearer or more distant prospect of peace, about which nothing certain is known yet."

The French ship L'Uni, from Nantz, has arrived at Amelia Island, brings letters to the 13th Sept. probably sailed about the 20th. No news by her has yet transpired.

SAVANNAH, Nov. 15.

No vessels in sight of Tybee to-day.

Letters received in town last evening from the South, state that the U. S. ship Wasp, Johnston Blakeley, Esq. commander, 4 days since boarded a neutral vessel bound to Amelia, at which time the Wasp was in the act of setting fire to an English vessel.

It is also stated that the Wasp attempted to get into Tybee the day before yesterday, but was chased off by the Lacedemonian frigate, there being no pilot to bring her in.

Captain JOHN DOWNS, reached this city last evening. He is appointed to command the EPERVIER, now in this harbor. She will be fitted out forthwith. Sav. Rep.

PRISONERS.

On the 14th inst. were taken, seven British prisoners by the militia at Long Bay, (Waccamaw) from a boat that came on shore, for the alledged purpose of purchasing provisions. The vessel from which the prisoners came, is a schooner between 2 and 300 tons, called the St. Lawrence, formerly the private armed sch. Atlas, which Ad Cockburn had captured at Ocracock. Among the prisoners, is a Lieut. of the Navy, commander of the schr and the Surgeon.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Nov. 9.

INDIAN ALARMS.

Much alarm has existed on the frontier below for several days past, in consequence of the following intelligence received by the executive on Monday last:

Extract of a letter to Col. Hawkins, agent for Indian Affairs, dated Flint River, 5th Nov. 10 o'clock A M

"A black man has just arrived here and brings news that Carr's Ned, a free black man who speaks the Creek tongue well, and is deemed a man of truth, fell in on his way from Hartford here with a large body of hostile Indians, near Hartford—they took Ned paisoner—he plead with them, and told them he was going down to join the British—on this declaration they set him at liberty. There is no doubt of this being true. God knows but some of them will be on me here before morning.

On the receipt of the above information orders were instantly issued by the Governor to Col. Tooke of Pulaski, directing him to use all the means in his power, "for repelling, pursuing and destroying any such hostile party;" and for this purpose, captain Thomas's troop of horse, previously ordered out, has been required to co-operate. Col. Wimberly, of Twiggs, has likewise been directed to call out a rifle and cavalry company to co operate with Col. Tooke. For the better security of the frontier, the whole of the first class of the militia in Pulaski, and of the frontier districts in Twiggs, have been discharged from the orders heretofore given for their marching to Mobile.

Since the foregoing was put in type, the following information has been received:

Extract of a communication from Col. Hawkins to Maj. Cook of the 7th instant.

"It being reduced to a certainty, that a body of Seminoles Indians are approaching this frontier with hostile views, it would be advisable for you to call for a reinforcement of militia to rendezvous here without delay, to act as circumstances may require—also, by all the means in your power put the frontiers on their guard.

From Maj. Cook, commanding at Fort Hawkins, to the Governor—same date.

"I have deemed it expedient to send an express to Col. Jones of Jones county, requesting him to order out a portion of his Regt. without delay for the better protection of this post, our present force being not adequate to ensure an effectual resistance if an attack should be made by the force stated to be on their march to our frontiers. I have apprized the people below of the impending danger. Col. Hawkins has just left here for the Agency, and expects an Indian force there, which will be under his direction; and if timely aided by an expected force from you, will endeavor to get in the enemy's rear."

In addition to the troops already called out orders have been issued to Col. Jones of Jones and col. Wimberly of Twiggs, to embody the militia in their several counties, and act as exigencies may require.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Mobile bearing the Post mark of the first of Oct. 1814, to another in this place.

"General Jackson is now here, and says that during this winter we may calculate on having some hard fighting in this quarter. Major Woodruff was here a few days since in good health; he crossed the Bay with the 3rd Regiment and 200 Chocktaws on Sunday last and is now some where in the neighborhood of Pensacola—large forces are collecting here from every quarter—2500 Chocktaws and Chickasaws are to be in town on Sunday next—three Companies of Dragoons from Natchez arrived here this evening—the general supposition is that Pensacola is the object."

Extract of a letter from Maj. Warren to Col. Hawkins, dated 29th Oct.

"Two days ago one of the red men of the thirteen who left here on the 23d ult. for Pensacola came in. He relates that they suffer much for food in the neighborhood of that place—that a party of them came out with the Red Warrior's son as a leader to hunt—but being afraid to come as far as was necessary to kill any thing, returned—they then determined to come back here; with that intention had got as far as Sookpulga when at day light as they were rising from sleep they were fired on by a party of Choctaws. He immediately ran without his gun. From the shouting and firing that he heard he supposed the remainder of the party to be entirely cut off."

FOR THE AMERICAN.

READING FOR THE LADIES.

Fair Daughters of Baltimore,

Your Benevolence is universally acknowledged—The many institutions which have been founded by your labors, and continue to flourish under your patronage, for the diffusion of useful knowledge, and the promotion of human happiness, are so many monuments of your active goodness. The present state of our country, however, has opened a new field for the exercise of your beneficence—a virtue, which like the Sun, sheds a benignant ray on all within the sphere of its influence—and, I am persuaded, that nothing but the calamities in which our city has recently been involved, prevented your setting the example which is now most respectfully offered for your imitation.

In our sister cities of New York, Philadelphia, Charlestown, and elsewhere, we are informed that the Ladies of those places have formed societies, for the laudible purpose of contributing to the comfort of the brave men called out for their defence. Now, I would beg leave to recommend to the ladies of BALTIMORE immediately to set about the organization of a similar Society.

Our patriotic brethren of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, now encamped in our vicinity, hastened to our defence in the hour of danger, continue by their presence to aid in our protection, and have thereby established the strongest possible claim upon our everlasting gratitude. But it is the female hand, alone, that can convey the manifestations of our gratitude in that delicate manner, so as to be acceptabe and estimable to brave, independent, and high minded men. They have exchanged the soft endearments of domestic life for the "tented field"—and at so short a notice, that, no doubt, many things necessary to their comfort were forgotten—and now they are at so great a distance from their homes that it is impossible to procure them. Besides the season has changed and winter set in, and, no doubt, many are sickly. Now, therefore, is the time to commence the good work—let a few of the most active and influential Ladies of each ward, have a meeting without delay, to digest a plan for the regulation of the Society—let the Ladies generally be invited to join it—solicitors appointed to wait on the gentlemen—a house procured for the sick, and suitable nurses to attend them; where one of the rooms might be appropriated for the deposit of clothing to be made or mended, and for receiving donations in clothing suitable for the winter.

Notwithstanding the pressure of the times, and the multiplicity of other demands upon the citizens, I am convinced that such a society as this would be patronized—for where is the man so devoid of feeling—who, on retiring to his bed of down, his warm chamber "impenetrable to the winter's blast," does not cast a look, and bestow a thought, on his fellow citizens on the neighboring hills, lodged beneath a canvass roof on beds of straw—and, who considers, that their being there, is the price of his security, would refuse to share with them the comforts he enjoys? I hope there is no such man amongst us—But, admit there were, when BEAUTY pleads the cause of HUMANITY, its eloquence is irresistible.

Thus will a bond of indissoluable friendship be formed between the Country and the City. We will never want defenders in the hour of peril; the hero's heart is always alive to the kind attentions of lovely woman, and his arm is thereby nerved to afford her protection—and in discharging the duties here imperfectly pointed out, the Ladies of BALTIMORE, will secure to their own husbands, brothers, and sons, that hospitality which they now shew to our gallant brethren in arms, should the fortune of war draw them to the defence of distant districts; but what is infinitely better, it will secure to them the blessing of Heaven. BENEVOLUS.

AMERICAN MARINE LIST.

From the Coffee House Books.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 23, 3 o'clock.

Dear Sir—Barney's Packet and other vessels have just ran into port, and say they were chased in by a British brig now off the Harbor. Several guns have been heard, said to be from the British bringing to vessels below Annapolis. Owing to the fog nothing can be seen from the State-House.

Yours, &c.

JOHN RANDALL, Collector.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Arrived below, the British brig Mary, Parsons, prizemaster, taken by the privateer Scourge, on her passage from Leghorn for England, with a cargo of oil and skins. She was captured Sept. 29, in lat. 37, 20, long. 10. The Mary had several narrow escapes, one in the Delaware in sight of the fleet.—The Scourge had captured the following vessels; ship Lord Hood; brigs Trident, Haddock, and Belfield, all from Quebec for England.

Norfolk, Nov. 21. Arrived, on Sunday the 20th of Nov. schr. Nimrod, Bowie, 24 hours from Baltimore; and schr May Flower, Evans, 25 hours from the same place, with assorted cargoes. Captain Bowie reports that he saw six ships of war at anchor off Smith's Point. He sailed in company from Baltimore with the schr Farewell, Captain Herring, bound to sea, and parted about 8 o'clock on Saturday night.—The Farewell having a strong leading breeze, must have been at sea in a few hours after.

Arrived at Newbern on the 12th instant, the Fox, of Balt. a tender to H. M. S. the Ramilies, with midshipman Crawford and 7 British seamen on board—She had run aground on Ocracock Bar, on the 4th instant and in that situation, was boarded and captured by the Revenue Cutter's boat.

Arrived at Ocracock, on the 3d, British brig William, with a cargo of 195,087 lbs. of gum, prize to the letter of marque sch. Decatur, of Balt. Wil N.C. pap.

Charleston, Nov. 16.—Ar. sch Alligator, Addison, Savannah 7 days.

Spanish schooner Carmen, captain Yvenes, Havana 14 days. The Carmen was bound to Amelia Island, but having fallen in with a small Carthagenian schooner, privateer, called (as some of the crew said) the White Horse, and being by them robbed of sails, &c. and all the captain's and men's clothes, she was obliged to put into this port.

A letter from Savannah, states, that the last fleet which sailed from that place under convoy of six gun boats had arrived safe at St. Mary's and Amelia
