The Carroll county Democratic Convention, held in this city on the 16th inst., unanimously acknowledged that the State nominations were tainted with bossism, the people's power usurped and their rights shamelessly set aside. Yet Democrats are asked to approve the proceedings thus stigmatized, by casting their ballots for the nominees thrust upon them, and by giving a victory to the bosses who have robbed them of the powers and rights of freemen and treated them as serfs and slaves. How any self-respecting Democrat, who accepts the judgment of the county convention in this matter, can vote for the so called Democratic State nominees, is a problem that cannot be reconciled with consistency. The Democrat who shall do so will simply bow his neck to the yoke of the bosses and put on the Gorman collar.

Mr. Gorman took the stump at Glenelg, Howard county, on Saturday last, for the purpose of attempting to eliminate himself as a leading factor from the present campaign. The Baltimore papers, which, with a single exception, are opposing the election of his nominees, displayed a spirit of decided fairness towards him by giving his speech in full, although it was a somewhat verbose and tedious production. Candid Democrats must admit that in its real purpose the speech was a failure, simply because it is impossible to deny successfully the fact that the nominees were selected for the convention by Messrs. Gorman and Rasin. All the talk about national issues and the other sophistries employed by Mr. Gorman cannot negative this emphatic truth. Unthinking Democrats may be misled, but the Democrats who are opposing the Gorman-Rasin ticket are not of the thoughtless sort. They know that the election of Mr. Hurst will renew the lease of power so long enjoyed by the bosses, and reduce the real Democrats of the State to a condition of serfdom, even more intolerable than that under which they have hitherto suffered.

Messrs. Edgar Gans and John C. Rose, counsel for the Reform League, of Baltimore, and Messrs. Joseph Packard, Jr., C. Morton Stewart, Wm. Keyser, Wm. Reynolds and Charles Morris Howard, individually, and as a committee of the league, have petitioned Governor Brown to remove Wm. H. Bians and Dr. George H. Cairnes, the Democratic members of the board of election supervisors in Baltimore. The petition is a lengthy document and sets forth in full the charges of misconduct against the accused officers, who, appointed to protect the purity of the ballot, have pursued a course calculated to corrupt it and to defraud the people of their just rights. A hearing will be given them on Tuesday and Wednesday next. Among the petitioners are several of the most decided Democrats and best citizens of Baltimore.

Which to Choose.

The people who want a reassessment of property are given a choice between two parties and their candidates who all say they are in favor of such a measure and will use their best efforts to promote its enactment into law. But notwithstanding these declarations the parties and their candidates are not on an equal footing in regard to the matter. The Democratic party has professed similar sentiments and intentions during the last eight years. Its managers promised a reassessment if successful in the election of 1887. Success was achieved but reassessment was not. 1889 witnessed a similar declaration, followed by a like failure. The performance was repeated in 1891 and 1893, with the same result. The present Democratic candidate for Governor headed a committee which went before the Legislature elected in the latter year and deliberately opposed a redemption of the pledge which he had himself supported by voting the Democratic ticket at the polls. This is the record of—we were about to say the Democratic party and its candidate for Governor, but the statement would not be strictly accurate. It is, however, the record of the Democratic bosses, who have controlled legislation, and of their candidates also.

On the other hand the Republican party and its candidates, from Governor down, stand before the people unconfronted by broken promises and violated pledges. As a party, in Maryland, it has consistently advocated a proper adjustment of the burdens of taxation by the passage of a reassessment measure that would insure that result. Its candidates for Governor, Comptroller and Attorney General are personally in sympathy with their party in the pledge it has made to give relief to the people in this matter, and they have a clear and consistent personal record in relation to it. They have nothing to take back, or explain away, as happens to be the case with Mr. Hurst, particularly, and his associates on the bosses' ticket, inferentially.

The candidates on these two tickets, therefore, do not appear before the people for their suffrages on equal terms. The head of the bosses' ticket is discredited by his own personal record, and the whole ticket by the violated pledges of nearly a decade of years. The Republican candidates are, and have always been, with the people on this subject and can be trusted to carry into effect the people's will if elected. If a choice of agents to represent his trade were offered any business man, and any of those presented for consideration had previously broken faith with him but once, that man would stand no chance of acceptance. But if, by any means, the offence had been repeated twice or thrice, such an applicant would be spurned and turned away with contempt. Many years of repentance and probation would scarce restore him to favor. But the people are asked to trust the bosses and their candidates again, although it is clear that no change has occurred in the spirit of domination displayed through their many years of unbroken control.

Under these circumstances who, that honestly desires an assessment of property and equalization of taxation, can hesitate to choose the candidates whose records are free from unfaithfulness to solemn pledges?

Mr. Lowndes as a Friend of Labor.

One of the stories circulated to deter the Republicans from nominating Mr. Lowndes as their candidate for Governor was that he had been instrumental in having troops sent to the mining region of Western Maryland to suppress a strike. The story was purely imaginary and didn't influeuce the convention. Now it appears that Mr. Lowndes has always been an earnest friend of labor. The Baltimore American of Wednesday says:

"Mr. Charles H. Myers, the chairman of the legislative committee and secretary of the Federation of Labor, returned to Baltimore yesterday from a trip of investigation as to the relations existing between the coal miners and others in Western Maryland and the Hon. Lloyd Lowndes. Mr. Myers was sent out by the Baltimore Federation of Labor to make this investigation. Last night Chairman Myers met the legislative committee of the Federation, and submitted his report, and tonight it will be presented to the Federation of Labor. Mr. Myers stated that he could not speak for publication, as the committee passed a resolution that the report must not be given for publication until it has first been submitted to the Federation. The report will contain letters and affidavits bearing upon the subject of Mr. Lowndes' relations to laboring men, which will show that the Republican candidate for governor has always been the staunch friend of the workingman.

"Mr. Myers spent five days in Western Maryland, visiting Cumberland and the mines at Frostburg, Lonaconing, Barton, Eckhart and Mount Savage. Letters from the sheriff and state's attorney of Allegany county will show that Mr. Lowndes, in no manner whatever, was connected with the call of troops to go to the coal mining region during the last strike in Maryland. Mr. Myers interviewed the officers and members of the United Coal Miners' Union in the places visited by him, and they are very generally favorably disposed to Mr. Lowndes' election, the only exceptions being a few who, while admiring Mr. Lowndes as a man, are such strong Democratic party men that they say they must vote the Democratic ticket, come weal or woe. At the same time, a large number of Democratic miners and workingmen say they will vote for Mr. Lowndes.

THE BLACKLISTING SYSTEM.

"One of the strongest pieces of evidence adduced as showing the pacific relations between Mr. Lowndes and the miners is the utter annihilation of the rumor that had been set afloat to the effect that Mr. Lowndes had blacklisted a number of men formerly employed in his mines. Not only was this shown to be untrue, but that his sympathies were so strong with unfortunates who had been blacklisted in other mines that he employed them in his. Mr. Lowndes assured Mr. Myers that he was a foe to such a system, and that he would like to see it uprooted wherever it existed.

Press Opinions on the Probable Result of the Maryland Election.

The Philadelphia Press of Sunday last devoted two columns or more to letters of Maryland editors giving their views of the probable outcome of the present political campaign in this State. These letters were called out by inquiries of the Press, and are twenty-one in number, of which eleven were written by Democratic editors, nine by Republicans and one by an independent. Seven of the Democratic editors assert, very confidently, that Mr. Hurst will be elected Governor, and most of them place his majority at 15,000 to 20,000, doubtless having a lively appreciation of the cheating capacity of the machine as directed by the bosses. The editor of the Baltimore Sun (Dem.) thinks the prospect is decidedly favorable to the Republicans. The editor of the Hagerstown News (Dem.) believes that at present the advantage is with Mr. Lowndes, but expects a change in public sentiment before the election. The editor of the Ellicott City Times (Dem.) says "the surface indications are that it (the election) will be close." The editor of the Cecil Democrat (Dem.) says "there is a slight dissatisfaction in Baltimore city." It is reserved to the editor of the Democratic Advocate to trot out the bugaboo of Republican rule thirty years ago and negro denomination as causes which "will hold Maryland Democratic for some years yet." Solitary and alone the editor of the Advocate clings to his pet argument, that everybody else knows is a back number.

Of the Republican editors Gen. Felix Agnus, of the Baltimore American, expresses the opinion that the Republicans will elect their whole State ticket by a plurality of over 20,000. T. F. McCarackle, of the Cumberland News, believes the majority would reach that figure if the election were to take place within the next two weeks, but looks for a large fraudulent vote in Baltimore to reduce it. The other Republican editors expect a victory, but are more conservative in their estimates. They base their opinions upon well known facts, to which their Democratic contemporaries must have closed their eyes, or be simply "whistling to keep their courage up" when they talk about a Hurst majority of 15,000 or 20,000.

C. M. Purdy, editor of The World, a Baltimore afternoon daily, and one of the most independent papers in the country, says but "one thing only can save Gorman and his candidates from defeat in this State this fall, and that thing is just as disgraceful a manipulation of the election as the ring has demonstrated, in years gone by, that it is capable of."

The opinions of these Maryland editors differ widely, but enough is apparent to satisfy unprejudiced minds that the prospects of a Democratic victory are not flattering.

Mr. Lowndes and the Hayes Bill.

Prior to the nomination of Mr. Lowndes for Governor a story was circulated in this county that he had visited Annapolis, during the session of the Legislature in 1894, in opposition to the Hayes reassessment bill. The story was diligently circulated by Democrats, who expressed great fears that the Republicans would make a fatal mistake by taking Mr. Lowndes as their candidate. "He is weak on reassessment," they urged, "and if you nominate him we will furnish the proof that he went to Annapolis and joined Mr. Hurst in opposing the Hayes Bill." Some Lowndes Republicans weakened under the influence of the story, but the SENTINEL, after careful inquiry, was enabled to assure its readers that it was a pure fabrication, and the county convention voted unanimously to instruct the delegates to the State convention to cast their votes for Allegany's honored son. Mr. Lowndes was nominated and the Democrats who had circulated the story, and promised proof of its truth, conveniently dropped it. They were not as disinterested in their solicitude that the Republicans should not make a mistake, as they appeared to be. In fact it is more than suspected that they knew Mr. Lowndes was the strongest candidate named for the nomination and were anxious to kill him off.

But the story has cropped up again, this time from an entirely new source. It was repeated at a recent Prohibition meeting in Harford county, and came to the notice of Mr. Millard F. Wright, president of the Baker Republican Club, at Calvary, in that county, who promptly communicated with Mr. Lowndes on the subject, and received a reply flatly and unequivocally contradicting the report. Mr. Lowndes says:

"I am very glad you have called my attention to the statement that I went to Annapolis and opposed the Hayes Reassessment bill given out at a recent Prohibition meeting in your county; also, that you have so promptly denied the statement. I most certainly did not oppose the Reassessment bill introduced by and known as the Hayes bill, nor have I ever opposed any bill looking to an equitable reassessment of the real and personal property of the state, as set forth in the platform adopted by our party at Cambridge, and referred to in my letter of acceptance, and which the best interests of our state imperatively demand.

"I never visited Annapolis either alone or in connection with any committee or delegation, for any such purpose at any time."

For the SENTINEL.

An Answer that Cannot be Answered.

Senator Gorman in his speech last Saturday at Glenelg, Howard county, struggles to extricate himself from the strictures heaped upon him by his party, and strenuously undertakes to foist himself into the pales of innocence and virtue. He charges the press of Baltimore city with gross misrepresentations of his official acts, and in replication "The Sun" very congently says:

"If Mr. Gorman has been misrepresented, he has been misrepresented by the press of the whole country. He has been misrepresented by his own official acts. Is it false that this great Democratic statesman fell out with Mr. Cleveland during his first term because he found he could not control and use him as he had been in the habit of controlling and using Maryland conventions? Is it false that he was lukewarm in Mr. Cleveland's support during the campaign of 1888? Is it false that he schemed and worked to prevent his nomination in 1892? Is it false that he proved faithless to the Democratic platform when the repeal of the Sherman silver law was before Congress? Is it false that he again proved faithless to that platform and loyal to trusts and monoplies when the tariff bill was held up through his influence in the Senate? Is it false that President Cleveland pointed the finger of scorn at him when he spoke of those who were guilty of 'party perfidy' and 'party dishonor?' Is it false that he opposed President Cleveland and embarrassed his administration at every possible opportunity during the last two years? Is it false that he arose in his place in the Senate and virtually denounced the President as a low and unclean person for whom he had 'walked through filth and slime?'"

Senator Gorman said in his Glenelg speech that the Democrats intend to elect Mr. Hurst "just as they did Governor Carroll in 1875." But Mr. Carroll was not elected in 1875. He was counted in by the judges of election in Baltimore, with the subsequent assistance of Eugene Higgins, who substituted Democratic for Reform ballots in the vaults of the Superior Court. Does Mr. Gorman mean to say that that infamy is to be repeated in 1895?

From our Regular Correspondent.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29th, 1895.

To say the Republicans all over the State are pleased with Senator Gorman's speech opening the campaign and outlining the issues to be presented by his party on the stump this year, is putting it mildly. Democrats, on the other hand, are not very enthusiastic over their leader's effort. The Senator talked as if his hearers were a set of numskulls, knowing nothing and failing to keep posted on the issues of the day. This does not please the intelligent Democrats—and there are enough of that class to make themselves felt. Probably no effort the Senator has ever made was awaited with more interest or fell flatter.

Mr. Gorman asserted that he and Rasin had nothing to do with the nomination of Mr. Hurst. Those who attended the Democratic State convention know that the duly elected delegates, sent there to represent the people, had nothing to do with the selection. The majority of them did not know who they would vote for until an hour or so before the meeting of the convention, when word came down-stairs from the bosses that Hurst was to be the man.

Mr. Gorman asserted that the corporate interests were against him and his ticket, but comforted Mr. Hurst by the assurance that this very fact will turn the people to him and they will elect him governor "just as they did Governor Carroll in 1875." Now, Mr. Gorman may really intend, if he can, to have Mr. Hurst made governor just as Mr. Carroll was, but there are a great many thousands of people in the State who will see that no such thing is done. If Mr. Lowndes is duly and honestly elected governor, as every indication now seems to assure, he will not be counted out and thrown aside without law or right. Most people think Mr. Gorman made a bad break by saying this.

"The corporations," continued Mr. Gorman, "have been my enemies from that day to this." What a consistent advocate of the Golden Rule the Senator must be, for he has certainly not been an enemy of the corporations. What a help in time of need he was to the Sugar Trust. How many stick "jobs" granting railway franchises for the District of Columbia have gotten through Congress without Mr. Gorman's aid? His record shows that he has battled openly, secretly and in every other way for the corporations as against the people. But then the people know all this. He cannot fool them by a web of sophistry.

Ever since 1875 Gorman and Rasin have had to struggle for the mastry with the true democracy of the State, sometimes yielding, as they did in the case of Governor Hamilton, in order to conquer, but always having a struggle within the party, until now, in 1895, there is no Democratic party in the field—none but Gorman and Rasin. Twenty years of this infamous boss-ship has scattered the Democratic hosts and driven them for the preservation of popular government into the camp of the Republican party.

The above statement comes from a leading and influential Democrat, in discussing Mr. Gorman's speech, and about expresses the general sentiment within that party outside the ring-heelers and office-holders. All signs point to the greatest political revolution in Maryland this year ever witnessed in the State.

A letter that has attracted more attention and had more weight than anything else of recent days is one from Rev. Edmund Didier, the well known Catholic clergyman of Baltimore, and a life-long Democrat, which was published last week. Rev. Father Didier says:

This Gorman business has got to be put down, and I for one intend to vote the Republican ticket, for that is the only way to down the man. I have weighed the matter carefully, and intend to do all in my power to overthrow the ring. I love my country and I want good government. Gorman and his followers are only looking for their own selfish ends. He has grown rich in the business. I sincerely hope, and firmly believe, that the good citizens of this old State will, in November next, retire the bosses to the walks of private life. I shall vote against them and urge all good citizens to do likewise.

It is this sentiment, growing on all sides, that has so alarmed the Democratic bosses. They are already on the run, and their frantic appeals to race prejudice, war issues and everything else calculated to stir up the passions, is an evidence of this. They have tried in every way to trip up Mr. Lowndes in some unguarded moment and catch up something he might say to make capital out of. They have had a stenographer follow him around and take down his every utterance. But they have failed completely. Everywhere Mr. Lowndes has gone, he has made friends, and every speech he has made has won him votes. Doesn't it look as if the Democrats were badly scared to resort to such practices?

Yesterday I was talking with one of the largest cotton manufacturers in Maryland. He runs one of the largest mills in the suburbs of Baltimore. He said: "I have always voted the Democratic ticket, but will not vote for Hurst this year. Last week I had a quiet canvass made of the 300 men who work in my mills, most of them are Democrats. There are only 15 who will vote for Hurst."

This is the feeling everywhere. It looks like a regular landslide—a cyclone of votes—in November.

Daniel Renoll, a trackman on the Western Maryland Railroad, in York county, Pa., was struck by lightning and killed, on Wednesday of last week. His funeral occurred on Friday, and while the funeral cortege was on the way to the cemetery, a horse in the train ran away, the vehicle to which it was attached was overturned and John Renoll, an uncle of the deceased, and his wife were thrown to the ground and badly hurt. Another carriage, in which John Horner, a brother-in-law of the deceased, and his wife were riding, was also overturned and they were thrown out, but not much hurt.

The Gettysburg Electric Railway Company has gone into the hands of receivers, under proceedings instituted by the Maryland Steel Company, which owns $5,000 worth of the company's bonds on which default of interest has been made since November 1st, 1893. The receivers, who were made temporary, were appointed by Judge Dallas, of the United States Circuit Court, Philadelphia.

A CARD.

The attention of my friends is respectfully called to the following statement: Having noticed my name published in the papers on two or three occasions to the effect that I would be an applicant for nomination on the Republican ticket for County Treasurer this fall, I wish to state that such is not the case. I am not an aspirant for the said position, nor any other on the ticket. I have never intimated nor suggested to any one that I wanted to go on the ticket this fall or at any other time. The party or parties who mentioned my name for the position did so without any authority from me.

The work that I have done for the last 12 or 15 years, has been what I considered for the good of the party, and not for any personal gains, or aspirations of my own.

Wishing the party success this fall, I am,
Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM WOOD.
