LIFE AND SONG.

If life were caught by a clarionet,
And a wild heart, throbbing in the reed
Should thrill its joy and trill its fret
And utter its love in love's own deed.

Then would this breathing clarionet,
Type what I would that I might be:
For none of the poets ever yet
Has wholly lived in his minstrelsy.

Or wholly sung his true, true thought
Or utterly bodied forth his life,
Or made what God made when He wrought
One perfect self of man and wife,

Or lived and sung, that Life and Song
Might each express the other's all,
Careless if life or art were long,
Since both were one, to stand or fall.

So that the wonder struck the crowd,
Who shouted it about the land,
His song was only a living aloud—
His work was a singing with his hand!
—Sidney Lanier.

Paper Pulp for Leaks.

Paper pulp is one of the most useful articles in the reach of mankind.

Mixed with glue and plaster of Paris or Portland cement, it is the best thing to stop cracks and breaks in wood.

Pulp paper and plaster alone should be kept within the reach of every housekeeper.

The pulp must be kept in a close-stoppered bottle, in order that the moisture may not evaporate.

When required for use, make it of the consistency of thin gruel with hot water, add plaster of Paris to make it slightly pasty, and use it at once.

For leakage around pipes, to stop the overflow of water in stationary washstands, where the bowl and the upper slab join, it is invaluable.

Used with care, it will stop leaks in iron pipes, provided the water can be shut off long enough to allow it to set. Around the empty pipe wrap a single thickness or two of cheese cloth just wide enough to cover the break, and then apply the compound, pressing it in place and making an oval of it somewhat after the fashion of lead pipe joining, only larger.

The strength of this paste, when once it is thoroughly hardened, is almost beyond belief. The bit of cheese cloth prevents any clogging of the pipe by the paste working through the cracks.

An iron pipe that supplies the household with water had a piece broken out by freezing. The piece was put in place, bound by a strip of muslin, then thoroughly packed with paper pulp and Portland cement, and was to all appearances as good as new.

Paper pulp and fine sawdust boiled together for hours, and mixed with glue dissolved in linseed oil, makes a perfect filling for cracks in floors. It may be put on and left until partly dry, then coverad with paraffine and smoothed with a hot iron.

The Emancipation of Labor by Machinery.

One of the interesting proofs of the lightening of toil by the aid of machinery is found in the constantly enlarging sphere of labor being opened to self-supporting women, and the prediction is here made that within the next quarter of a century the ranks of the mechanic will be largely augmented by women.

Statistics show that the number of women to whom the sewing machine gives occupation to-day is vastly greater than the number who formerly gained a precarious livelihood with the needle, or who could obtain similar work under old conditions.

Contrast the "work-a-day" clothes and simply made "Sunday-go-to-meetin'" garments of the people of a century ago with the wonderful variety and complexity of finery comprising the holiday attire, and, indeed, the everyday wearing apparel, of those of a similar class to-day. If it is true, as stated, that one sewing machine operated by one woman will do the work of ten hand sewers, it is no less true that the modern woman possesses ten times as many garments as her sister of a former age, and each garment displays ten times as much machine-sewed work upon it.

But the sewing machine is a mere suggestion. The mind is fairly staggered in contemplation of the wealth of opportunity for wage earners that has been created by the steam engine—especially in the form of the steamship and locomotive, which have literally opened new worlds to the old world's poor. And what is true of the steam engine is true only in lesser degree of the telegraph, the telephone, the electric motor, the turbine and the whole range of modern agricultural machinery.

Practically all the wood used in making spools for thread in this country and Great Britain is cut in Maine forests, but so great is the amount of lumber required each year for the making of these seemingly insignificant articles that Maine will not be able to supply the raw material much longer. The spools are made of birch wood, and the birch of the Maine forests is the best for the purpose. More than two million feet of lumber is shipped to Scotland every year for the use of the great thread manufactories there, and almost as much is supplied to domestic manufacturers. The business began in Maine twenty-five years ago, and land that was cut over at that time is now well covered with young trees, but not for twenty-five years more will this timber be fit to cut.

Whisky and Vagabondage.

"How Men Become Tramps," by Josiah Flynt, in the October CENTURY.

There is one other cause of vagrancy more potent than all I have described, and its name is—whisky. The love of liquor brings more men and women into trampdom than anything else, and until this fact is more conscientiously recognized there can be no thorough treatment of the tramp. There is no need to enter into details on this subject: all that I can do is to report the fact. The public needs to realize more fully than it now does the awful effects of strong drink on vagabonds. A realization of this fact is likely to be productive of some remedy for the evils it represents. If the tramps of America could be freed from the bondage into which whisky has brought them, there would not be very many vagrants in the country. That the American tramp is the result of the fluctuations of the labor-market, as some claim, I do not believe. The American tramp does not want work, as a rule; but I know that he does want to be free from liquor. And if this can be accomplished, I feel safe in saying that he will go to work. Under the influence of drink he becomes a sort of voluntary idler; but if he were temperate, he could be made a valuable citizen.

Burmese Girls.

From Blackwoods Magazine.

In every household the daughter has her appointed work. In all but the richer merchants' houses the daughter's duty is to bring the water from the well evening and morning. It is the gossiping place of the village, this well, and as the sun sets there come running down all the girls of the village. As they fill their jars they lean over the curb and talk, and it is here that are told the latest news, the latest flirtation, the latest marriage, the little scandal of the place. Very few men come. Water carrying is not their duty, and there is a proper time and place for flirtation. So the girls have the well almost to themselves.

Almost every girl will weave. In every house there will be a loom, where the girls weave their dresses and those of their parents. And very many girls will have stalls in the bazaar; but of this I will speak later. Other duties are the husking of the rice and the making of sheroots. Of course in the richer households there will be servants to do all this, but even in them the daughter will frequently weave, either for herself or for her parents. Almost every girl will do something, if it be only to pass the time.

Lowell's Advice to Young Men.

He had enjoyed heartily his own frequent reading of the works of the great authors he wrote about, and he was able to convey some of this enjoyment to his own readers, and to explain to them the reasons for his liking. His favorite of all was the mighty Florentine poet, Dante, whom Lowell steadily studied from early life. Indeed, the advice he gave to young men seeking culture was to find the great writer whom they most appreciated, and to give themselves to the constant perusal of this great writer, growing up to him slowly, and discovering gradually that to understand him adequately would force them sooner or later to learn many of the things best worth learning. ["James Russell Lowell," by Brander Matthews, in October St. Nicholas.

Confined Sound.

From St. Louis Republic.

The intensity of confined sound is finely illustrated at Causbrook castle, isle of Wight, where there is a well 200 feet deep and 12 feet in diameter. The well has 18 feet of water in it, and the entire interior from top to water is lined with smooth masonry. This lining so completely confines the sound that a pin dropped from the top can be heard very plainly to strike the water, at a distance of 182 feet below. Another instance is cited from India, where workmen at the waterworks often talk with those at the reservoir, 18 miles away, their telephone being an 18 inch water main that is no longer used for conveying water.

It is singular and yet a fact that the virtues we are most loath to believe possessed by others are those we are incapable of ourselves.

An inch of rain falling upon an area of one square mile is equivalent to nearly 17,500,000 gallons, weighing 145,250,000 pounds, or 64,844 tons.

FERTILIZER For the Farmer.
Reduced in Price, Quality Maintained.
From 35 to 38 bushels of wheat per acre and a "rousing crop of grass in the bargain," by the use of Zell's Fertilizers.
For sixteen years I have been selling Zell's Fertilizers and the equally famous Chemical Co. of Canton's Fertilizers, with a steady increasing demand for them. This, with the most flattering testimonials that could here be produced, if we had space, from many of the most progressive farmers in Carroll and adjoining counties, and the much reduced price for which these goods are offered for the season of 1895, should convince the farmers that they cannot do better elsewhere. We will not be undersold by the same quality of goods. I have but little expense in the sale of these Fertilizers and therefore can sell on small margin. Should I not call on you personally, just come, prepared to load your wagon, to the Machinery Building of J. Q. Stitely, Westminster, Md., or to the Warehouse of the subscriber at Union Mills, Md.; or at the Warehouse of Fink & Weikert, Littlestown, Pa.; or at C. Crumrine's, Melrose, Md.

Look to Your Interest, People.
Big Slaughter in Wall Paper.
MY PRICES RANGE FROM 12c. TO 30c. PUT ON WALL GILT 20c. TO 25c. ALL PAPER 8 YARDS LONG
These are not living prices. You may say how do I live. I have no rent to run a store and fuel, &c., and do all of my own work. I don't pay any hands one year to do three months' work in season. This is a chance to get papering done cheap. Take advantage while you have a chance. I will do as before, done by me. I can give the best references in the county.
Guarantee All Work
There has been a great deal said about me being a scab workman, but it was only said by those who can't compete with me in price and workmanship and who are afraid of me—never by a party that I did work for. Write for sample and price, or I will come to see you in person and tell you what your job will cost. I can be found 300 yards from the limit of Westminster on the Littlestown turnpike.
Thankful for past favors,
Very Respectfully,
jun-28 L. GLADHILL.
