CHARLESTON, Dec. 9.

Extract of a letter from St. Simon's dated 4th Dec.

HEROISM.

"Captain HALL," (whom we mentioned some days ago as having beaten off two barges with only four muskets) "was attacked again the next day, and with hard fighting and superior sailing beat them off a second time. At length by going round the Island the two barges got a head of the vessel, capt. Hull then lay his vessel ashore, took out a few bales of cotton for a battery, and with his four muskets fought a 3d time (said to be from 58 to 50 British) beat them off successfully, and I saw him arrive safe at Amelia with his vessel and recaptured cotton.

If every coaster would arm himself, we should soon find safety in the inland navigation."

SAVANNAH, Dec. 8.

INDIAN ALARMS.

Our correspondent at Tuckersville (Geo.) gives us the following intelligence :—"The Indians are committing hostilities on our frontier. On Tuesday, the 29th of Nov. there were two men found near Buffalo swamp, southwest of Wayne county, killed and scalped by Indians. Our frontier are much alarmed ; all the families on the southwest side of Great Satilla river have moved over on this side. We have scouting parties out in pursuit of the murderers. They are determined to pursue them. God send they may be overtaken.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Geo. Dec. 3.

We are happy to lay before our readers the following highly gratifying intelligence. It will be seen that the magic charm of British influence is completely dissolved in a quarter from which we had most reason to dread its potency. Superstition and Cupidity has fled before patriotism and valor—and long, long, will the Savage lament his fate, while he curses the treachery of the civilized barbarian.

[OFFICIAL.]

Extract of a letter from Maj. Gen. Jackson to Governor Early, dated

"Head Quarters, 7th Military District, near Fort Mimms, Nov. 16, 1814.

"Before this reaches you, information will have been received of my visit to Pensacola. —It was occasioned by the unprecedented conduct of the Governor of Pensacola, in harboring, aiding, and countenancing the British and their redalies. I entered sword in hand, with about 3000 brave followers, in the face of Spanish batteries, and a British fleet of 7 sail, anchored abreast opposite the town.—The English, by intrigue and base falsehood, induced the Spaniards to abandon the works commanding the harbor, entered them and blew them up ; otherwise they would have fallen a sacrifice to their own plans. When this took place, the fleet being at liberty to go out, did so ; and I evacuated the town, leaving the Spaniards favorably impressed with our conduct, and disgusted with their British friends. The hostile Indians fled across the Bay at our approach ; and have, no doubt, lost all confidence in the assurances they have received of British protection.—They have retired, it is believed, towards Apalachicola in great alarm.

"The Seminolies, however, it appears, from information given by Col. Hawkins, are preparing to assume, an hostile attitude.—When they hear of the shameful manner in which the Red Sticks were deserted by their allies, they will wish to retract.

The following was in M. S.

Gen. Jackson was opposed by the Spaniards —and several men were lost on both sides in taking the Town. The British retreated to their ships, from which they fired at Jackson, but without effect. They attempted to decoy Jackson into the fort at the time the match was burning ; but he cautiously avoided it until the tremendous explosion took effect, and injured none.

AMERICAN AND Commercial Daily Advertiser.

BALTIMORE : Wednesday, Dec. 21

Having in Monday's paper mentioned a current report, that a British Officer had lately been in this city, we take the earliest opportunity of stating the fact as represented to us by the proper authority—viz. "that a British Officer did appear in Baltimore, but he had a pass from General Izard, to permit him to go to Washington, pointing out a different rout than the one he was pursuing. The Marshal of the District had him taken into custody, and sent to Washington under a proper guard."

We have only to add, that our motive for mentioning the above circumstance, known to almost every man in town, appeared to us an imperative duty, without glancing at any individual whatever, to put the Guardians of our City on the alert against spies, informers, or incendiaries of every description—We have reason to believe, that more than one of the enemy's agents, "just looking about them," have been in Baltimore since his demonstration in September last.

COMMERCIAL.

State of the Market at New York, Dec. 19.

"Since our last no visible alteration has been made in the market. Speculations are entered upon with a great deal of hesitancy, on account of the unsettled situation of the political affairs of the country ; should a peace be concluded between our Commissioners and those of Great Britain this winter, as many expect, a very material alteration in the market will be the immediate result, not greater, however, than it would be on the contrary, if they were obliged to return in the spring without making an amicable adjustment.

The Market is at present well stocked with all articles of British manufacture ; that, together with the constant arrivals into the District of Maine, and from Canada, (for we are informed that there is an extensive trade carried on under neutral flags on some of the Lakes, and between Castine and other ports at the eastward,) has so much depressed it, that they are not worth so much by 15 or 25 per cent. at least, as they were a few months since.

Six hundred regulars under the command of colonel Miller, have arrived at Erie, Penn.

BENJAMIN W. CROWNINSHIELD, of Massachusetts, is appointed by the President, with the concurrence of the Senate, to the office of Secretary of the Navy.

WILLIAM EUSTIS, of Massachusetts, is appointed, with the concurrence of the Senate, to be our Minister to Holland.—Nat. Int.

There is no circumstance within our recollection, of a minor character, which marks a stronger contrast between the conduct of our own government and that of our enemy, than the prompt revocation of the Midas privateer's commission for a single departure from the laws of civilived warfare. It is a source of real satisfaction to every American who covets for his country an upright and magnanimous character, to witness the invariable regard evinced by the constituted authorities of the nation, for these rules of conduct which tend as well to exalt the public character, as to improve private morals. Numberless and terrible as have been the acts of barbarity committed by the enemy upon the aged and the helpless—and strong as have been the temptations to inflict a just retaliation—still the American government has never allowed itself to be misled by examples of outrage—and the annals of the war do not furnish one instance on our part wherein a departure from the practice of civilized nations has not been publickly disapproved or punished by the American government. We know it to be the belief of many good men, and we have ourselves inclined to the same opinion, that the acts of cruelty perpetrated by the enemy upon our people, should be retaliated upon his shores with an unsparing hand. We believe such a course would be warranted by the principles of self-defence if not of christian forbearance ; and we have of course conceived that our administration herein maintained with too rigid a spirit the maxims of right. Upon this head, however, we think with diffidence, and even were we constrained to pronounce the government wrong in its policy, we have the consolation of knowing that it errs on virtue's side ; and, whether the American people are destined by the goodness of Providence to vanquish the league of external enemies and domestic traitors, or sink under their united weight—their history will descend to posterity unstained by rapine, and untarnished by any act which accords not with a pure and elevated character.—ib.

The bill granting to the relict of Elbridge Gerry, the late Vice President, the salary which he would have received (had he so long lived) during the remainder of the term, for which he elected, has passed the senate, and is now before the house of representatives. ib.

AMERICAN MARINE LIST.

Boston, Dec 15. Ar. boat Fish-Hawk, from Duxbury. In the morning, saw an enemy's ship wide off Cohasset rocks, standing to the N. under her topsails : supposed her to be the same which was seen on Monday.

Several boats from Cape Ann and the bay ar. last evening—they have seen no cruizer since the frigate on Monday last.

The keeper of the Ex. Coffee House Books has conversed with a gentleman, who left Halifax on the 28th ult. and who ar. in town on Tuesday evening, via Eastport. He informs, that the privateer brig Macdonough, Weeks, of and from Kennebunk, 5 days out, was taken by the Newcastle frigate, and ar. at Halifax the 22d or 23d.—It was reported the day before he left, that the Fantome sloop of war, and three or four vessels under her convoy had been lost east of Halifax, but that no authentic account had been received.—[Gentlemen who left Castine on Saturday, state, that the information we recorded on Sunday, is correct, as letters from Halifax had been received there to about the 1st inst which confirmed the account.]—The Bulwark 74, three or four frigates, and several sloops of war were in port. The latest dates from England were to the 18th Oct. only, brought by the October Packet. Several recaptured vessels arrived a few days previous. He left Eastport last Tuesday week. About 200 troops only were there and no vessels of war—business very dull.—The Riflemen sloop of war, with vessels under convoy laden with dry goods, arrived at Castine about 10 days since. The Rifleman, and a cutter schr were cruising off Castine on Friday last, looking out for American privateers (two schs and a sloop) which had been seen among the Fox Islands. On the same day, a 74, a razee, and 2 frigates arrived off Castine (with three sail of merchant vessels from Halifax, laden with dry goods) and stood on towards Boston Bay, and it was said that they were to blockade from Boston to Portsmouth to prevent any ships of war from going to sea. The Furieuse frigate and Adder brig of war remained at Castine on Saturday last. Our informant had Halifax papers to the 16th ult. which he left at Eastport.

On Monday last, between the hours of 1 and 2, P. M. the sloop Union, capt. Gardner, from Bath, for this port, was chased ashore on Marblehead Neck, by a 50-gun ship or razee. The enemy was at one time within musket shot, and fired a great number of guns at the sloop, (including one whole broadside); and, singular as it may appear, not a shot struck her, altho' they flew in every direction about her, striking the beach, &c. many yards beyond her. Notwithstanding this furious cannonading and the great danger he was in, of having his vessel cut to pieces, & crew sacrificed, capt. Gardner resolutely continued his course, and when a favorable opportunity offered, run his sloop on the beach, when the enemy stood off. On seeing the situation of the Union, the inhabitants of Marblehead generously repaired to her relief, and by the prompt assistance afforded by them, she was soon got off without damage, and safely carried into port.

Capt. Gardner had been in sight of the enemy's ship several hours previous to her firing upon him, both beating to the westward.—From the bungling manner in which she was managed, and her having a large hole in her foretopsail, he concluded she was some large prize ship, bound into Salem or Boston, and therefore did not endeavor to avoid her. She had 16 ports of a side, on her lower battery and, it is reported was the Newcastle.

On Tuesday noon, the ship was seen off Brewster, C. Cod.

On Monday last the British 64 gun ship Newcastle ventured to peep into the harbour of Boston, being the first British cruizer that has "hove in sight" for 2 or 3 weeks past. On the same day, notwithstanding the formidable appearance of the Newcastle, the privateer Abællino went to sea ; and yesterday the schr. David Porter, and the beautiful brig Reindeer, both armed, in part, with a 24 lb. Congreve gunnades, taken into Salem some time since, and designed by the British Government for the Mammouth of the Lakes, likewise sailed. Short cruizes and rich prizes attend them !

The Reindeer sailed on the 59th day from the laying of the keel. Her sister, called the Avon, of the same dimensions, is to be launched from the same ways on Saturday next, being just 18 working days from laying her on the blocks.

Sch. Harlequin, (formerly Am. privateer,) is advertised at Halifax, for Liverpool, En. The Hiram, taken by the D. Porter, and given up, had ar at H.

The Leander, 50, sir G. Collier, was at H. 20th ult.

Brig Black Swan, and cargo ; pilot boat sch. Saucy Jack, about 80 tons, cargo tobacco ; and sloop Liverpool, 42 tons, cargo salt and potatoes—prizes—were to be sold at Halifax 29th ult.

Sloops Eagle and Exempt, from N York, have ar. at N Bedford.—The Packet Maria, fr. Nantucket, ar. at do. on Sunday evening.

The evil effects from a too great precipitancy in getting rid of British prisoners at sea, is fully demonstrated in the case of a very valuable ship, prize to the Chasseur privateer. The loss of this vessel was evidently owing to the release of the prisoners, by the American commander, almost before his prize had got out of sight. The consequence was, that she was re-taken a few days afterwards, information having been given to a cruizer, which fell in with the vessel they were put on board of, soon after parting with the privateer. It is to be regretted that our private armed vessels do not endeavor to bring in more of their prisoners, when it is notoriously known that the enemy refuses to release Americans, even when taken in coasting craft.

The private armed schr. Cumberland, capt. Killeran, sailed from Portland last week, on a cruise.

All the prizes (4 in number) ordered in by the Whig privateer, have been retaken.

New York, Dec. 17.—The pilot boat sch. Phantom, Williams from Providence, and 14 hours from New London. The British squadron have retired from New London to Fat Pond Bay, at the east end of Gardner's Island.
