AUTUMN ON WIND RIVER.

The black pines stand high up the hills,
The white snow sifts their columns deep,
While through the canon's riven cleft
From there, beyond, the rose clouds sweep.

Serene above their paling shapes
One star hath wakened in the sky,
And here in the gray world below
Over the sage the wind blows by.

Rides through the cottonwoods' ghost-ranks,
And hums aloft a sturdy tune
Among the river's tawny bluffs,
Untenanted as in the moon.

Far 'neath the huge invading dusk
Come Silence awful through the plain;
But yonder horseman's heart is gay,
And he goes singing might and main.

—Owen Wister, in Harper's Magazine for April.

CAUSES AND CURE OF HEADACHE.

Nothing is more harmful than to give a sufferer from headache drugs to ease the pain. The cause of the headache instead should be treated.

An eminent physician says the best treatment for headache is preventive, and if we would all allot eight hours for work, eight for play and eight for sleep we would rarely suffer from this cause.

The headache which comes from distressed eyes is most common and less recognized. Its symptoms are pain in the eyes, temples and over the brows. Hot water is a very valuable stimulant for the eyes.

For nervous headache, a hot bath, a stroll in the cool air, or a nap in a cool, quiet room will often be found successful. A headache from fatigue may be helped by pressing a sponge wet with hot water on the nape of the neck and on the temples

Bilious or sick headaches are common to the first half of life and sometimes stop of their own accord when one reaches middle age. They come when a person has eaten food which does not digest readily, and a careful diet is imperative, sweetmeats and pastry being especially dangerous

Neuralgia is caused not only by cool air, but by acidity of the stomach, starved nerves or imperfect digestion. Heat is the best remedy, and mustard plasters applied to the stomach and legs will do more good than any medicine. Cold water applied to the nerves from which the pain has been known to work magic in chasing away neuralgic pains

Headache may be caused by diseased condition of the blood, by nervous irritation and by inflammation of the nerves of the head or adjacent tissues, this last being infrequent. Liver torpidity and catarrhal troubles have much to do with the headache, as they affect the blood Nerve irritation comes in many forms. The nerves terminate throughout the body, in the muscles and on mucous surfaces, in delicate filaments and little round bodies Continued irritation of these terminals will cause headaches

QUESTIONS FOR YOUNG MEN.

If you treat your mother without much thought, do what she asks as you feel inclined, and not if you do not feel so inclined, she is naturally grieved, and that may hurt you; but coming afterwards to think it over and realizing that she has perhaps in the last fifteen years done a good deal more for you than you have for her, there is a suggestion of disappointment, to say the least, in yourself that you should so far forget yourself as to act so to one whom you not only have the greatest effection for, but one whom you know should have the greatest attention and regard you can bestow.

If you scoff at some one's religious views, or make fun of the "old-fashioned ideas" of others, very likely you are in the right as to the idea in mind, but you cannot fail to realize afterwards that perhaps it was a bad piece of business when you failed to give the other person credit for a little sense, and the general result is a lack of pride in the incident

The feeling resulting from all these situations is much the same, and it goes by the name of loss of self-respect. It is a lack of pride in what you have done, and no one can be on the road to the formation of a bad character who has not begun by failing to call himself to account for such matters; no one can really go further on this road so long as he maintains this self-respect. When an occasion requires its use it should be ready at hand. When there is a chance to hit a man under the crowd, if this self-respect gets in its work quickly enough, you are safe; but there needs to be constant training to put it into such good condition that it can be used on any emergency no matter how sudden that may be. And this self-respect is just as easily trained as is your body for its coming trial in the hundred-yard race. Train it as you would anything else, and it will invariably carry you over difficult places. But it gets "out of condition" easily, and you will miss it at the most important time.—Harper's Round Table.

Now that the frost is getting out of the ground and decaying organic matter is no longer locked up from offense, grip and other bacillary troubles are on their annaul rounds. Warm clothing and dry feet are at least as desirable now as at any time in the year.

On New Year's day in ancient Egypt there were processions in every temple

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. If you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar in wall paper.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of

WALL PAPER
