PARTNERS.

Love took chambers on our street
 Opposite to mine ;
On his door he tacked a neat,
 Clearly lettered sign.

Straightway grew his custom great,
 For his sign read so :
"Hearts united while you wait.
 Step in. Love & Co."

Much I wandered who was "Co."
 In love's partnership ;
Thought across the street I'd go –
 Learn from love's own lip.

So I went, and since that day
 Life is hard for me.
I was buncoed ! (By the way,
 "Co." is Jealousy.)

—Ellis Parker Butler, in Century.

INFANCY AND CHILDHOOD.

From Harper's Bazar.

Every physician encounters deplorable cases of children three and four years old whose diet consists almost exclusively of meat, simply because their perverted appetite demands that article. In such extreme instances the most severe measures are justifiable in order to resume the natural and healthful method of feeding, to save the child's health if not its very life. We should permit it to become genuinely hungry by withholding all meat, or even all food, until it will consent to recommence taking milk. We may aid the child to overcome any temporary repugnance to milk by making it as palatable as possible. It may be ærated in a milk-shake, beaten in a cream-whipper, flavored by oyster juice and renamed "oyster soup," seasoned with any harmless essence.

Variety is desirable, and even necessary, in the diet of all children ; but in seeking variety we should never lose sight of the main principle —that milk should be the chief and frequent article of diet, and meat, if not wholly excluded, admitted only as an occasional and non-essential part in the diet, of any child under six years of age. Many children reach that age in superb health and with fine physical development without having known the taste of meat. The little one will naturally tire of milk if he is always given plain milk, without any change. But milk with hominy, milk with cracked wheat, with cracked corn, with rice, with baked apples, seem in infantile judgment quite different dishes. There are also the various cream soups, made up without butter or seasoning, beyond the natural pinch of salt. This we may vary with a number of articles not taken with milk, but served in a different course.

A NOVEL BAROMETER.

From Harper's Round Table.

It has taken a clever Frenchman to discover a kind of barometer which may safely be called unique. An English journal says that it is nothing more nor less than the figure of a general made of gingerbread. He buys one every year, and takes it home and hangs it by a string on a nail.

Gingerbread, as every one knows, is easily affected by changes in the atmosphere. The slightest moisture renders it soft, while in dry weather it grows hard and tough.

Every morning, on going out, the Frenchman asks his servant, "What does the general say ?" and the man applies his thumb to the gingerbread figure.

Perhaps he may reply, "The general feels soft. He would advise you taking an umbrella." On the other hand, if the gingerbread is hard and unyielding to the touch, it is safe to go forth in one's best attire, umbrellaless and confident.

The Frenchman declares that the general has never yet proved unworthy of the confidence placed in him, and would advise all whose purse will not allow them to purchase a barometer or aneroid, to see what the local baker can do for them in the gingerbread line.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. If you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar in wall paper.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of

WALL PAPER
