FERTILIZER MEN BANQUET.

Agents and Friends Entertained by a Local Firm.

From the Hanover, Pa., Weekly Record of 23rd ult.

A large number of agents of the Hanover Bone Fertilizer Company, each accompanied by a few friends, from York, Cumberland, Franklin, Adams, Carroll and Frederick counties, as well as the neighboring States, made an informal call upon the fertilizer company July 15th.

The officers of the company, equal to the emergency, entertained their guests in royal style. The visitors, during the morning hours, viewed what was to be seen in the town. By arrangement, the summer car, on the street car line was placed at the disposal of the company. Accordingly, at eleven o'clock, the officers and guests boarded the car and proceeded to the West End, where the company's mammoth plant was in full operation.

Upon arriving at the factory, the visitors were shown through one of Hanover's most progressive industries, inspecting everything from the raw bone pile to the packing room, where the celebrated fertilizers are made ready for shipment.

After this was finished, all were invited into the big reception room on the second floor of the building, where a sumptuous repast was served under the management of that ever-hustling manager, D. K. Cramer. The guests, to the number of 68, sat about the tables, partaking of good things supplied by an able corps of waiters. All of the employees were given a table at the end of the room, which was decorated with bunting and long garlands of grain, produced by the use of their fertilizer.

W. B. Thomas, of Westminster, Md., a member of the firm, comprising, besides himself, R. H. Pollack, of Baltimore, and J. Wesley Myers, of Hanover, acted as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Pollack, in behalf of the company, welcomed all stating that the result of the enterprise had been very gratifying, especially so when they realized that the farmers now understand that when using the product of their mill, they were receiving a high class article, and getting what they paid for. Comparing the business of last year with the orders so far received this season, Mr. Pollack said the output would be fully three times as great. He gave as a reason for locating the plant here the predominating avocation of agriculture. If all would look around and see the class of goods manufactured and in competition with their product, everyone would realize that they were selling at a close margin.

Hon. Gerard C. Brown, ex-State Senator, said that he did not represent the agent class, but the consumers, or purchasing class, upon which would eventually fall the profit or loss. The farmer, under the present system, finds the soil is depreciating in productiveness, and it has become necessary to use fertilizers. According to the census of 1890, York county ranks second with all the counties of the United States in the purchase of fertilizers. If Hanover fertilizers have an increase of sale, it is because the article manufactured fills the bill. No fertilizer plant can be established and continue long if they do not put a good article on the market. "I for one," said Mr. Brown, "am proud to say that those of my crops nourished by the Hanover fertilizer are the best I have ever had." He hoped that every one would go away with renewed confidence that York county has a fertilizing plant that turns out goods of first class quality and at low prices.

Prof. Thomas, of Abbottstown, stated that on a small strip of land, with three other brands, the best result came from that portion on which was used Hanover fertilizer. There were numbers of brands and formulae, and every farmer should study the fertilizer question well, so that they will know the real value of the article. The field test was one of the best proofs of the quality of fertilizers. He used the Hanover brands along side of more costly brands, and the best results were realized from Hanover product.

A. F. Zimmerman, of Frederick county, Md., stated that with the Hanover bone fertilizer he threshed 36 bushels of wheat to the acre, while before it only averaged 30 bushels.

Col. Zimmerman stated that, although he had not threshed yet, his crops were the largest and finest looking he has had since he began farming many years ago.

Mr. Thomas said that last year's output was about 1000 tons, while this year it would be over 3000 tons.

A vote of thanks wase xtended by the guests to this enterprising Company for their hospitality.

VENTILATING SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

From Heating and Ventilating.

The sublect of heating and ventilation, at all times important, is now commanding a large share of public attention. Particularly is this true in regard to school buildings. A recent examination of many of the schools of Philadelphia by an expert showed them to be in a dangerous condition as regards the health and welfare of the children. Sanitary measures are the most important ones to be considered by school boards. Education had better be neglected or mismanaged than that the well-being of our youth should be imperiled. Apropos of this subject, Dr. Cyrus Edson, long the health officer of New York city, says that prior to March, 1891, not a single one of the public school buildings in New York had a complete veutilating equipment. Dr. E. G. Lorring, Jr., to whom as an expert the Medico-Legal Society of New York a few months ago submitted a series of questions touching the care of the eyes, replied in a paper published in the medical Record, in which to the first question, namely, "whether bad air has any effect on the sight," he makes answer: "Vitiated air has a special irritating influence on the mucous membrane of the eye, and bad air, as a primal cause may set in train morbid processes which not only will affect the working capacity and integrity of the organ, but may even lead to its total destruction." Dr. Keating in his valuable work on "Diseases of Children," declares that the effects of breathing foul air are more noticeable in a badly ventilated school room than anywhere else. Among the immediate effects, the precursors of illness or of health ruined for life, he enumerates exhaustion, temples throbbing, head hot, feet cold, face flushed; some pupils sleepy and dull, others nervously restless beyond control. There are few teachers who are not daily aware of such symptoms among their pupils and frequently in their own case.

Coal ashes around currant and gooseberry bushes keeps down the grass and weeds, and prevents troublesome insects from finding a lodging in the bushes.

Professor Bailey, of Ithaca, has succeeded in grafting potato on tomato vines. In this case the tomatoes grew to full size, but the potatoes remained small.
