pathy, friendship, charity, kindness, temperance and chastity." In many respects they are not much advanced from merely predatory animals. Outlaws and dangerous men, goes on the magistrate, are evolved from heredity and environment, and some of them are incurable and ought never be allowed at large. He suggests, therefore, a large custodial institution, self-supporting, where these people will be kept and looked after physically and mentally, in many cases during the term of their natural lives.

"But the difficulty is that the moment you begin to talk about using scientific methods with criminals, people who have never looked into the subject at once say it is all nonsense. They say we are coddling the criminal, treating him as diseased, covering him with flowers and encouraging crime. But this is strictly not so.

"What those who believe in those things are advocating is simply that we shall anticipate the crime as far as possible. And on the other hand, when they have committed crime, this army of predatory cavemen and women shall be kept for the safety of the public under present methods for as long terms of imprisonment and confinement as possible.

"Also we must always keep in mind the rights of first offenders. Those who are mentally and physically sound, who do not belong to the class I have spoken of, who have yielded to sudden temptation, great pressure of circumstances, violent mental agitation or other causes, should be dealt with charitably and kindly. Of these guilty only of minor offenses, through probation wisely administered, we can salvage much good material.

FARMER PROVES KEY MAN IN ECONOMY—EXPERT SAYS LIFE OF SOIL HAPPIEST THROUGHOUT AGES

Has Highest Ideals, And One Of Highest Types Of Work—Contrasts Its Contentment With Urban Civilization, Built On Scramble For Riches.

Farming is one immortal occupation on earth, it has been since history began and apparently always will be. Dr. W. M. Jardine of the Kansas State Agricultural College told students of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture at the graduation exercises of the agricultural short course.

It is one of the highest types of work that can be followed, the Kansas agriculturist declared.

"From the beginning of recorded time the farmer has been the basis of the life of every great community," Dr. Jardine said. "The story of the creation of man, related in the Book of Genesis, tells how God placed the first man in the garden to dress it and keep it.

"From the day of the legendary Adam the farmer has been the key man in all economy, and farming has been the key industry. You have, therefore, the satisfaction of being about to enter the most significant industry in the world.

"It may be said by some that agriculture is unsuccessful, that the farmer cannot make a living, that he had better abandon the farm and go to the city. Perhaps few of you would yourselves present this view, but certainly all of you have heard it.

"There are two aspects in which we may view human existence. We may consider the purpose of life to be the accumulation of money. If you want to accumulate great wealth you should obviously not go into farming.

"Except through some lucky accident, the farmer never attains enormous wealth. But certainly one of the great standards of the successful life is happiness, which is not attained merely through wealth.

"The other conception of human existence is that which we may call building a life. This conception recognizes that economic security is essential to a life of success and happiness, but it uses economic security merely as a means to an end, as a basis for the development of the individual and his capacity for service to the whole society.

"The great majority of farmers from the beginning have endeavored to make farming the building of life for themselves and their children, not merely the means of building up capital, nor of making a livelihood, but primarily for making life happier, more useful and better adapted to the interests of everyday society.

"For really building a life there is no other occupation equal to farming. There is no question that farming has been discriminated against in our modern civilization, which is one built largely by city men and with the ideals of an urban trading class. The handicaps under which agriculture suffers by reason of this fact should be removed as speedily as possible.

"At the same time the capable farmer has within him many of the resources which will enable him to build that economic security which is essential if his career as a farmer is to be useful and satisfying to himself, his family and community."

SCIENCE JOINS WAR

Physician Offers "Booze Detector" To Counteract False Testimony of Drunks.

Modern science has broken down the last stronghold of the drunken auto driver—his knowledge that it is practically impossible to prove intoxication before a jury.

Alibis, inexpert testimony of police officers and haphazard examinations by emergency hospital attaches are to be supplanted in the near future by black and white figures, showing the exact degree of intoxication, if the hopes of Dr. O. W. Ginsburg, Flood Building, X-ray expert, of San Francisco, are fulfilled.

Dr. Ginsburg asserts he has discovered that all questions of intoxication can be instantly settled by a little machine that has been known for some time to physicians and surgeons.

It's the metabular, a simple apparatus that determines the quantity of oxygen consumed by the patient.

Here's Dr. Ginsberg's explanation of his discovery:

It is known to medical science that a person under the influence of intoxicating liquors consumes far greater quantities of oxygen than he does normally.

This is natural, for alcohol is a great heat producer, and calls for great quantities of oxygen to consummate the consumption of heat.

All that is necessary to determine the degree of intoxication is to find out the heat production going on in the body by the intake of oxygen.

The metabular does this positively. The suspect is fed pure oxygen through a nozzle. The metabular registers how much was taken into the system.

Comparison with the normal intake, which can be made when the suspect is sober, will establish beyond doubt whether or not he was under the influence of liquor.

Dr. Ginsburg announced that he is willing to confer with police and lend his efforts toward the establishment of metabular machines at all police stations.

WHEN THE NATCHEZ RACED THE LEE.

In the race against the Natchez the Robert E. Lee made the trip from New Orleans to St. Louis in 3 days, 18 hours and 30 minutes. This time never has been equaled. The Lee was 297 feet long, 65 feet beam, with eight boilers and fired with coal. After the race with the Natchez the steamer was dismantled and the machinery placed on the second Robert E. Lee, which burned in the early 80's near Baton Rouge.

The time of the Lee from New Orleans to Cairo was 7 hours faster than the famous Shotwell of former days and beats all recent time of the Natchez by 3 hours, 34 minutes. In a former run the Lee's time was 3 days and 10 minutes. The Natchez beat her own late run by 2 hours and 34 minutes.

VEGETABLES FOR CHILDREN.

Vegetables are often a neglected part of a child's diet. They are, however, very important, for not only are vegetables rich in iron, lime and other valuable salts, but they contain fat, carbohydrates and protein. In addition to all the important elements which vegetables furnish in supplying the body needs, the fibrous material which they contain aids in proper action of the bowels.

Beginning about the eighteenth month a small portion of green vegetables should be served at least three times a week and later on, if well assimilated, once a day.

Spinach (all varieties), carrots, asparagus tips, string beans, peas, squash, celery and cauliflower are all suitable vegetables.

THE IDEAL FIGURE.

The ideal figure today is the figure that suggests extreme youth by its slender, immature, undeveloped lines. It is decidedly a healthy fashion, for to have and to hold it women must curb their appetites and take to exercise. They must also corset themselves to keep from growing heavier and to straighten out the curves, and do it so skillfully that they preserve the supple, fluent lines of the uncorseted figure.

The general rule recognized by corsetieres today is to wear as slight and ephemeral a corset as one can but not to go beyond the point where to lighten the corset will enlarge the figure. Very slight and youthful figures can do with a corset that is little more than a girdle, almost unboned, a brief length of satin or brocade. Pound for pound as the figure develops the corset lengthens—below the waistline—and sufficient bones are added to keep it straight.

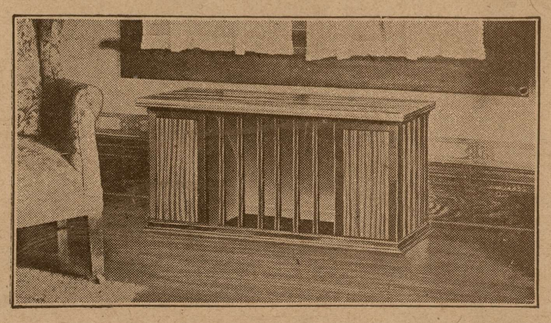
BETTER HEATING FOR YOUR HOME



SAVE FUEL and heat your home better by using the MAJESTIC DUPLEX HEATING SYSTEM (a great improvement over the pipeless furnace). THE MAJESTIC REGISTER is constructed to insure maximum fuel economy, distributing and circulating the heat more evenly. It harmonizes with the floor furnishings; can be placed against the wall; occupies one-half less floor space; avoids cutting hole in the center of room; does not limit the furnace to one register nor collect dust.

Write now for special prices and booklet, "BETTER HEATING."
