NOBODY BUT MOTHER.

How many buttons are missing to-day?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many playthings are strewn in her way?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many thimbles and spoons has she missed?
How many burns on each little fat fist?
How many bumps to be cuddled and kissed?
Nobody knows but mother.

How many muddy shoes all in a row?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many stockings to darn, do you know?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many little torn aprons to mend?
How many hours of toil must she spend?
What is the time when her day's work shall end?
Nobody knows but mother.

How many cares does a mother-heart know?
Nobody knows but Mother.
How many joys from her mothers love flow?
Nobody knows but mother.
How many prayers by each little white bed?
How many tears for her babes has she shed?
How many kisses for each curly head?
Nobody knows but mother.

WHAT CONSTITUTES NEGLIGLNCE.

From the Scientific American.

Is it negligence to step off the pavement in a street without looking to the right to see if the way is clear on the near side? The London Law Journal makes the above query and then adds: Formerly a pedestrian might with tolerable safety have trusted to his ears to find out if there was any vehicle close to him, but now that the bicyclist is ubiquitous, common prudence suggests that for his own security a foot passenger should look in both directions before he crosses the road. The safety of the bicyclist does not count with the majority of non-riders. He is not altogether unreasonably regarded as a nuisance where there is much traffic; yet he is entitled to pursue his way along a thoroughfare, and in regard to him the foot passenger has duties as well as rights. In a case which was before the court of appeal recently the facts were that a butcher's boy with a knife in his hand stepped suddenly off the narrow pavement of a street without even a glance to the right, and came at once into collision with a bicyclist, who, as the jury found, was riding along carefully and at a reasonable speed. The result was that one of the unfortunate rider's hands was struck by the knife and seriously hurt, and he brought an action to recover damages for his injuries. The jury found that the occurrence was a "pure accident," and the court were unanimous in saying that they would have come to the same conclusion. It seems to us, however, that the jury would have been justified in finding that the butcher's boy, who admitted that if he had looked he would have seen the bicyclist, and waited for him to pass, was guilty of negligence. On the other hand, it may be that a street is so narrow or so crowded that a bicyclist is not justified in riding through it, or that he ought, at any rate, to ring his bell continuously, irritating though the tinkling may be to himself or to the people within earshot. These points, however, are wisely left for the determination of a jury.

THE YOUNG WIFE'S RIGHTS.

"Before everything else the young woman has a right to expect from her husband tenderness, sympathy and faith," says Ruth Ashmore, writing in the "Ladies' Home Journal" of "What to Expect from a Young Man." But sometimes, in his eagerness to make all her life fair to her, he fancies she is a doll, and not a woman. And a doll is a very selfish toy, it demands careful treatment all the time, and it gives nothing but a pretty appearance in return. It is the foolish wife who expects infallibity in her husband. She forgets there is a difference between the housewife and the house moth. She should expect from her husband politeness at all times, and a certain gentleness that every man, posessing the real instinct of a man, gives to a woman. But she should not expect from him too much. She has no right whatever to ask of him permission to live a lazy life herself, and to give up all her days and years to vain and idle thoughts. When the wife can make her husband's homecoming a joy, his homestaying a pleasure and a delight, and his leaving home a sorrow, then, and then only, can she expect a great deal from him."

BE GOOD TO YOURSELF.

The Medical and Surgical Reporter gives the following practical advice: "Think deliberately of the house you live in—your body. Make up your mind firmly not to abuse it. Eat nothing that will hurt it. Wear nothing that distorts or pains it. Do not overload it with victuals or drink or work. Give yourself regular and abundant sleep. Keep your body warmly clad. Do not take cold; guard yourself against it. If you feel the first symptoms, give yourself heroic treatment. Get into a fine glow of heat by exercise. This is the only body you will have in this world. Study deeply and diligently the structure of it, the laws that govern it, the pains and penalties that will surely follow a violation of every law of life and health."

No dairyman can make a success of the business who gives little or no thought about the care and comfort of his cows.

The Medical Record says eggs are useful in the following applications: A mustard plaster made with the white of an egg will not leave a blister. A raw egg, taken immediately, will carry down a fishbone that cannot be extracted. The white skin that lines the shell is a useful application to a boil. White of egg, beaten up with loaf sugar and lemon, relieves hoarseness, a teaspoonful taken once every hour. An egg in the morning cup of coffee is a good tonic. A raw egg, with the yolk unbroken, in a glass of wine, is beneficial for convalescents.

"Dear Father," wrote Miss Summerfield, who was spending her first season in the country. "You must let me come home at once. I don't think these are very nice peop'e. I saw them getting potatoes for dinner to-day, and they got them out of the ground!"

"Dear me," said the golden rod, looking over the fence in the corn field, "what big ears you have. I suppose that's the reason you look so cut up."

The corn didn't say anything, but they who saw it, said it looked awfully shocked.

A sow which brings a good litter of pigs—seven to nine in number—is a good, kind and careful mother, and so good a suckler that she will supply her offspring with plenty of milk if she is properly fed, is one of the most valuable and profitable animals on the farm. Usually they lack in one or more of these virtues.

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. If you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollarin wall paper.
