On her final voyage, the steamship "Sherman," one of the oldest vessels in the American Merchant Marine passed the Baltimore county water front slowly enroute to Genoa, Italy, where she will be sent to the "junk heap" by an Italian Company.

Every officer aboard the vessel is a Baltimore man. She is commanded by Capt. Jimmie Barnette, one of the best known men on Baltimore's water front. Her crew was signed by Jerry Goodhouse, a local shipping agent. She carries 33 men.

A rather cosmopolitan career has the old Sherman led, a vessel of 4881 tons. She was built in Belfast, Ireland, in 1893, and since then has sailed under these flags: Originally an American ship, she later found herself under the English and German flags, only to return to the American registry during the World War. As distributors in this territory for the Service Motors, Inc., Wabash, Ind., manufacturers of Service Trucks.
Service Trucks are designed with a thorough understanding of truck-operating conditions. They are built to do the work you will require of them with the minimum of attention or care. They are designed for continuous service under the most exacting conditions. All the valuable features of truck design that our twelve years of specialization in truck-building have developed are embodied in the Service Trucks of today. Experimental construction is rigidly excluded until it is unquestionably perfected and proved.
Service Trucks, while not the highest priced trucks made, are not sold at a low price. If they were, they could not be good, but they are positively the lowest price and cheapest truck in the end, by reason of their long life, comparatively light upkeep expense and reasonable price on repair parts, and their ability to give the greatest ton mileage for the least cost.
