PROSPECTUS
of the Eleventh Volume of the Washington News,

A City, Literary, Political, and Local Journal, published at the seat of the General Government, by WILLIAM THOMPSON.

AT the commencement of the eleventh volume of this weekly paper the proprietor and editor deems it unnecessary to make any further appeal to the public or declaration of his "future course." After ten years devoted to the conducting of this journal sufficient proof has been given, as the editor conceives, of the independence of his course and of his attachment to the cause of civil and religious liberty. To continue that course, oppose intolerance and proscription in every form, and to render his paper a useful and independent vehicle of political, literary, and local intelligence, will be his uniform and unalterable purpose.

English and French Boarding and Day School for Young Ladies,
NO. 464 E STREET,
WASHINGTON.

THIS Institution has been in successful operation for several years; and for healthfulness, convenience, and beauty of location, and extent of play grounds, is unsurpassed in the city. The course of instruction comprises all the branches taught in the best seminaries; and to secure great attention to the acquisition of French a native Parisian lady resides in the family.

Terms per session of 10 months, for board and washing, and tuition in English, French, and Drawing $250. Circulars containing full particulars can be had on application to the principals.

TESTIMONIALS.

From George D. Cummings, Rector of Trinity Church, Washington.

"I take great pleasure is bearing my testimony to the superior qualifications of the Misses Rooker for the important work of the intellectual and moral culture of girls. Having had a member of my family under their care, I am satisfied that the school is just such an one as a christian parent would desire for a daughter."

June 9, 1856.

From Hon. W. W. Boyce, M. C., South Carolina.

"I take great pleasure in expressing the high opinion I entertain of the Misses Rooker's school. My two daughters have been attending for the last session, and the progress has been such as to make me congratulate myself on the selection of the school."

June 11, 1856.

From Hon. Asa Biggs, U. S. Senator, North Carolina.

"I have had a daughter attending the Misses Rooker's school, during the session which will soon terminate, and I take great pleasure in saying that I am gratified in the selection I made of of their school among the large number in this city."

Washington Union, December 11, 1855.

"In our advertising columns to-day will be found the card of the Misses Rooker, inviting attention to their English and French Boarding and Day School, on E street. At this late day, it is quite unnecessary to speak of the claims and qualifications of these talented and accomplished ladies for the confidence and patronage of the public. Their success and popularity are better attested by the present flourishing condition of the institution over which they have presided so long and so acceptably."
