Broadcast Sketch Of Rising Sun

We have been requested to publish the following sketch of Rising Sun, which was given in connection with the "Salute to Rising Sun" boardcast over WBAL station, Baltimore, on Sunday afternoon, August 21, sponsored by the Lions Club of this town:

Perched on the top of Cecil County, just south of the Mason and Dixon Line, on Route 1, that traverses the country from Maine to Florida, Rising Sun, a town of less than 600 residents, lies in the midst of beautifully wooded hills and well cultivated fields, in the very heart of a rich dairy and farming section.

Rich, too, is the section in historic lore, as the ground upon which the town is located was included in the original "Nottingham Lots", granted William Penn. A portion of this plot was found to be in Maryland when the dispute between Penn and Baltimore was adjusted in 1768.

Settled by a sturdy and devout class of Quaker and Presbyterian pioneers, who left such substantial religious and educational heritages in our midst as a Friends Meeting House, established in 1704; West Nottingham Presbyterian Church, founded a few years later, and West Nottingham Academy, whose 197th commencement was held this year.

Then, too, General Lafayette, with his Colonial troops, passed this way, enroute to the Battle of Brandywine.

This section, with its loyal Quaker residents, strong in faith and staunch advocates of freedom, was one of the "Grapevine" or "Underground Railroad Stations," of antebellum days, where fugitive slaves were sheltered, smuggled from family to family, and conveyed in safety across the Mason & Dixon line into Pennsylvania, in order that they too, might enjoy freedom.

Like many other towns of early history in our country, Rising Sun took its name from the swinging signboard of an ancient tavern that stood at a cross-roads here, and on which was emblazoned a picture of the "rising sun."

Hedged about by a thickly populated, thriving agricultural section, the town boasts a municipally owned water plant, sewer system, well paved and lighted streets. comfortable homes, well established businesses, two banks, newspaper, churches, high, elementary and private schools, music studio, modernly equipped volunteer fire company, and other advantages and conveniences that cannot be claimed by many towns with much larger population.

With the various church, civic, school, farm, social and recreational clubs and organizations that are part and parcel of an active and wholesome community life, our own Lions Club has been a contributing factor, being especially active in the promotion of welfare work, the Boy Scout movement, and other projects that have made for community advancement.

In this line, the Lions Club, through the courtesy and cooperation of the WBAL management and efficient staff, is sponsoring this broadcast by local talent, and it is our hope that it may give the pleasure to listeners that is ours in the giving.

29TH DIVISION REUNION

World War veterans from every county in Maryland, and from many States in the Union will gather in Baltimore Friday, September 2nd, for the annual reunion of the 29th Division Association.

The 115th Infanty was Maryland's particular contribution to the 29th Division. The First Regiment, made up from men in the counties, with the Fourth and Fifth Regiments from Baltimore City, formed the new unit.

Reunion headquarters will be the Lord Baltimore Hotel, where registration of the 640 delegates and alternates to the convention will report.

The first business meeting will be at 3 P. M. Saturday, following lunches held by the various units. There will be a banquet at 7 P. M.

On Sunday morning officers of the 29th Division Asso., will be elected for the ensuing year. In the afternoon there will be a crab feast in the Fifth Regiment Armory, and at 8:30 P. M., a memorial service will be held in the War Memorial building.

The clamix of the week-end festivities will take place Monday when a parada will be held, with more than 1,000 in the line of march, including units of the regular army. Special prizes will be awarded to the best musical units taking part in the parade.

DELEGATE TO STATE CONVENTION

I hereby announce myself for nomination at the coming Democra-nomination at thec oming Democratic Primary on Sept. 12, as a Delegate to the State Convention. Maryland is my adopted home and my education was secured in the public schools of Cecil, hence I am interested in her affairs politically and otherwise, and solicit your votes as a delegate to the State Convention.

Oakwood, Md.

DEATHS

REV. P. PAUL ARND

The Rev. Peter Paul Arnd, 79, pastor of the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception, Elkton, for the last thirty-seven years, died suddenly Sunday morning of heart disease while sitting in a rocking chair at the priest house on Cathedral street.

Father Arnd was in poor health for the past year or more, and on Friday suffered a severe attack and had been ordered by his physician to remain in his room. Shortly after rising Sunday and after dressing he suffered another attack.

Father Arnd was born in Baltimore, son of the late Francis Arnd, a wholesale tobacco dealer. He was educated in that city, and was ordrained a priest in 1893, and was the first resident priest at Port Deposit.

While at Port Deposit he was elected a member of the Town Council. During the pastorate he built St. Agnes' Chapel at Rising Sun, which was dedicated by Bishop Curtis in 1895. He came to Elkton in 1900, and several years ago built the first parochial school on the Eastern Shore.

During his failing health, Father Arnd had been assisted in his work at Elkton by the Rev. George Creswell, head of the Noblate Novitiate school for young men studying for the priesthood, located at Childs, three miles northwest of Elkton.

The Rev. J. J. Foley, of Port Deposit, has been assigned temporarily to the Elkton church.

The funeral was held at 9:30 A. M., Wednesday. Burial in the cemetery attached to the parish. He is survived by three nieces and a nephew, of Pittsburgh.

MRS. ABEL J. MORRIS

Funeral services for Mrs. Amy Duttan Morris, wife of Abel J. Morris, were held on Aug. 23 The interment was in Nottingham, Pa., cemetery. Mrs. Morris, who was in her 70th year, suffered heart attack on Aug. 19, and passed away the following evening. She was an active member of Bethany Presbyterian church. She is survived by her husband, a son and daughter: Clyde J. Morris, Barnsley, and Mary, wife of Charles H. Phillips, Barnsley, and four grandchildren.

WILLIAM HUDSON

William Hudson, 70, a life-long resident of Chesapeake City, died Aug. 23, after a short illness. For many years he conducted a barber shop. In politics he was a Democrat, and took an active interest in that party's affairs. Besides his wife he is survived by one son, William Hudson of Elkton. The funeral took place from his home Thursday afternoon with interment in Bethel Cemetery.

MRS. SALLIE READ

Mrs. Sallie Read Gifford, widow of the late Dr. D. L. Gifford who died May 28, 1928, passed away at her home in Zion, on Saturday night, after a long illness, in the 80th year of her age. Her funeral was held on Monday afternoon, with services at the late home, in charge of Rev. C. H. Atkins, pastor of Zion M. E. Church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Prettyman and Rev. Mr. McCoy, both former pastors of the deceased Interment was made in Rosebank cemetery.

Mrs. Gifford was the last survivor of a family of five daughters of the late Waldon and Louise Read and was born May 28, 1859, at the Read homestead at Mechanics Valley, this county. Mrs. A. L. Duyckinck, late of our town was a sister.

Mrs. Gifford spent her entire life in Cecil County. She was a lifelong member of the Methodist church and had always been active in the affairs of her church and community, where she was held in high regard.

Surviving are one son, Ralph C. Gifford; one grandson, Ralph C. Gifford, Jr., and one great-granddaughter, Anne Foxall Gifford, all of Louisville, Kentucky.

STABBED IN DRUNKEN STREET FIGHT

Kermit Madron, of Rising Sun, Md., aged 19, is being held by Oxford police and members of the State Motor Police on a charge of aggravated assault and battery with intent to kill Thomas K. Wilson, 33, of Oxford, who is a patient at the Coatesville Hospital, where he is reported as being in a critical condition from a twelve-inch circular stab wound, inflicted by Merdon, at Oxford, Saturday evening.

According to witnesses, Verl Hershour, James Jamison and James Best, all of Oak Hill, Madron, while under the influence of liquor, stopped at Third and Market streets, where they and Wilson were standing. Madron, a total stranger to Wilson, strated an argument. Wilson invited Madron to an alley near the rail road, where whey would fight it out. Going to the alley Wilson struck at Madron and missed. Madron then slashed Wilson across the stomach, inflicting a serious twenty-inch circular wound.
