Five State W. C. T. U. Convention

Miss Bertha M. Tyson, President Maryland W. C. T. U., spent the past week in Ocean Grave, New Jersey, accompanied by Miss Helen Shepherd, Alcohol Education Instructor.

They attended the Five-State Conference held annually at Ocean Grove, in which New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland cooperated in the program.

During the Conference Miss Shepherd spoke on "Teaching the Teachers" and Miss Tyson spoke on the effect repeal has had on the progress of prohibition in other lands. An outstanding address was made by Dr. LaRoe, of New Jersey, on the question of Narcotics and what they are doing to the youth of America.

At the close a very fine Pegeant was presented, the subject of which was Frances E. Willard and her outstanding accomplishments along many lines, the title of which was "The Queen of American Womanhood". More than a hundred persons took part in this pageant, which was given in the Auditorium. Miss Susan P. Davis, of Baltimore, delighted the audience with music on her Theremin, and the great Organ in the Auditorium was played by Mr. Clarence Hohlman.

A pearl Medal Contest was held or rather a double Contest, as there were enough contestants from the five states to have two. One of the Pearl Medals was won by Ruth Derrick of Montgomery County, Md., one of the Y. T. C. members who had recently attended our Y. T. C. Encampment at West Nottingham.

As Miss Tyson presided, Miss Shepherd spoke, Miss Davis played the Theremin and Ruth won the Pearl Medal, Miss Bertha Balderston was on the program but being unable to go this year, her paper was read by Miss Tyson; we felt that it was surely Maryland day at the Conference.

BEETLE DAMAGE LIGHTER

Dr. E. N. Cory, State Entomologist, and Dr. George S. Langford, Specialist in Insect Control of the University of Maryland, made a tour of inspection through Cecil County last week to observe the extent of damage caused by the Japanese Beetle and they report that the damage is much lighter this year in the heavily infested area north of Elkton than it has been for the past few years. They state that the traps are very effective in catching large quanities of beetles. Last year over 40 ton of beetles were caught in about 19 square miles just north of Elkton where the trapping demonstration was carried out.

Diggings were made in the area just North of Elkton where the trapping demonstration was carried on in 1938.

The number of grubs per square foot were counted. When the results were tabulated it was found that the farms that were trapped in 1938 had approximately one third less grubs per square foot than on farms which did not use traps. This indicated that traps are effective in reducing the number of eggs laid by the Japanese beetles.

Dr. Cory and Dr. Langford state that the continued cool and cloudy weather which we have had recently has very definitely slowed up the activity of the Japanese and that it is expected that the beetles will become much more active when we have continued clear, hot weather.

They state that farmers and others may still put out traps and catch large numbers of beetles. It has been decided to extend the time for issuing traps. Traps may be secured in Elkton, at the Old Pulp Mill, West Main Street, until July 22, between the hours of 8:00 A. M. and 5:00 P. M., Standard Time. Traps may be secured on Saturday afternoons as well as other days.

FARMERS DO MORE REPAIR WORK ON OWN MACHINERY

The passing of the blacksmith shop in many farm communities has made it necessary for farmers themselves to do much of the repair and maintenance work on their machinery. Many of them have sought practical instruction from their county agent or other workers in the Federal and State extension service. Some communities have held machinery repair schools.

Farmers in 30,000 communities last year sought assistance along this line and in the field of agricultural engineering. County agents report the subjects of most importance to farmers are those of machinery repair, irrigation, terracing, and farm building.

Almost 80,000 farmers reported that they followed Extension Service recommendations in constructing new buildings, while 85,000 were assisted by county agents and engineers in planning repairs and remodeling. In cooperation with the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, the Extension Service has compiled building plans suitable to the Middle West and the Northeast. These plans are available through county agents. Similar publications are being prepared for the South and West.

County extension agents gave information or assistance on installation of 8,800 sewage systems, 15,000 water systemes, and 101,300 lighting systems, principally in farm homes. Work of this type is a part of the health and living conditions.

Association Of Laboratory Workers

An organization of Laboratory workers in public health and medical laboratories in the State has recently been effected under the title of the Maryland Association of Medical and Public Health Laboratories. The Association will collaborate with official agencies in the development of effective routine laboratory procedure. Membership is open to all who are either directly or indirectly engaged in such work in the State.

The executive council of the Association is composed of the President, Mr. Edward F. Gummell, Silver Spring; the Vice-President, Dr. A. A. Pearre, Frederick; the Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Florence R. Hill, Laurel; Dr. Harry Eagle, Baltimore, and Dr. Ira Darling, Sykesville.

There are over sixty institutions of one sort or another, concerned with either medical or public health laboratory work, in the Counties of Maryland, alone. Laboratory work carried on, for, or by, these institutions ranges from a few very simple tests to highly complicated technical ones. The importance of following approved procedures, the need for proper basic qualifications of the worker, for constant checking of technical work and for opportunities for conferences concerning methods and other mutual problems, are recognized by all laboratory workers. The Association was organized to meet these needs.

A bill enacted at the recent session of the State legislature and signed by Governor O'Conor, authorizes the State Board of Health to establish minimum standards and qualifications for laboratories in the counties which make examinations in connection with the diagnosis and control of human diseases. The Association has indicated its interest in the undertaking and its desire to cooperate with the State Board of Health in every way possible.

Those who are interested in becoming members of the Association are requested to write to the secretary, Miss Florence R. Hill, 402 Compton Avenue, Laurel, Maryland.

Fire Insurance On Farm Crops

Now that your crops are safe in the barn, or soon will be there, it is time to consider the matter of insuring them against the hazards of fire and lightning. After all the labor and expense of growing and harvesting the crops one cannot afford to take the risk of fire.

The cost is small compared to the peace of mind it affords. Let us tell you about it. No obligation, of course.

Throughout the world today individuals either are checking their cares and responsibilities with government or else government is taking from the individual many of his former activities. Whatever the case, the individual everywhere is more and more becoming the pawn, the state the power.

Weapons aren't the only things man can't be trusted with. Try to find a political group that hasn't used to credit to burden and cripple itself.
