Death of Judge Chas. B. Roberts.

The long illness of Judge Charles B. Roberts, of the Court of Appeals of Maryland, terminated fatally, and he passed away on Sunday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, at his home in this city, leaving a name and a memory redolent with the perfume of generous deeds and manly achievements. No man ever had a more extensive connection with public affairs in this county and none has died more sincerely esteemed than he. A native and "to the manor born," his education and professional knowledge were acquired within the limits of the county in which he held his residence during his whole life. He was a man whom the people of his native county delighted to honor and he returned an equal measure of regard for his fellow-citizens whose unfailing friendship and esteem were his to the close of his honored and useful career.

Judge Roberts was born at Uniontown, Carroll county, April 19, 1842. His parents were John and Catharine Boyle Roberts, the latter having been a sister of the late Col. John Brooke Boyle, who, through a long life, was one of the most prominent public men and Democratic leaders in the county. Judge Roberts' father was, antecedent to the Know-Nothing excitement, a Whig, and his uncle, William Roberts, was elected State Senator as a Whig, over Jacob Powder, when the county was regarded as hopelessly Democratic. His progenitors were among the earliest settlers of this portion of Maryland, and no generation of their descendants was lacking in men of prominence and influence.

Judge Roberts was educated at Calvert College, New Windsor, then a young but promising Catholic institution of learning. After his graduation he studied law with the late Judge William N. Hayden, and was admitted to the bar in 1864 While still a student of law he married Miss Annie E. Mathias, daughter of the late Col. John Thomas Mathias, a prominent citizen of this county, and enjoyed an exceedingly happy domestic life. Their children are: John M. Roberts, Mrs. Charles E. Stewart, Mrs. William H. Thomas, Miss Dallas Roberts, Daniel Roberts, of this city; Charles B. Roberts, Jr., of Baltimore, and Miss Nannie Roberts, who is connected with a religious order of the Catholic Church. Mrs. Roberts survives her distinguished husband.

Judge Roberts was successful in the practice of his profession from his admission to the bar. He was a pronounced and active Democrat, and soon acquired a prominent place in the councils of his party in the county. His first official connection with public life was in 1868, when he was elected a Presidential elector on the Seymour and Blair ticket. He was elected a member of the Forty-fourth Congress from the Second district of Maryland in 1874, and was reelected to the Forty-fifth Congress in 1876. During his first term in the House of Representatives he was a member of the Committees on Levees and Accounts, and became chairman of the latter committee before the expiration of the term. In the Forty-fifth Congress he was chairman of the Committee on Accounts and a member of the Committee on Commerce, and was chiefly instrumental in procuring the passage of the bill granting a portion of the grounds at Fort McHenry as a site for a drydock. He also perfected and secured the passage of an act for the reorganization of the United States Life-Saving Service, a measure which lay very near to his heart, and for which he labored with pertinacious zeal and energy until success crowned his efforts. In the spring of 1879 he was given a complimentary banquet at the Mount Vernon Hotel, Baltimore, by numbers of the leading professional and business men of that city as a recognition of their appreciation of the great service he had rendered the State and her metropolis while in Congress.

After retiring from the national legislature Judge Roberts continued to take an active part in political affairs, and his reputation as a leader of his party was known throughout the State. In 1880 he was a delegate to the National Convention which nominated Gen. W. S. Hancock for the Presidency, and in 1883 he was elected Attorney-General of the State. He was not a candidate for renomination in 1887, but was prominently considered for the Governorship. In 1891 he was nominated and elected Associate Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, and on October 3, 1892, was appointed Chief Judge by the Governor, to succeed Oliver Miller, deceased. At the State election, November 7, 1893, he was chosen by the people for the full term of 15 years. His judicial career was marked by ability and purity of purpose.

In private life Judge Roberts enjoyed the unqualified regard and affection of people of all parties and all degrees of life. He was open handed and generous, kind and benevolent to the poor, courteous and affable to all. A sincere and conscientious Catholic, he firmly believed in the principle of religious freedom and respected the religious rights of all men. His memory will be fondly cherished by many who were the beneficiaries of his unfailing liberality.

A meeting of the members of the Carroll County Bar was held in the court room on Monday afternoon for the purpose of taking suitable action to manifest their esteem for the memory of the deceased jurist. Charles T. Reifsnider, Esq., presided, and Michael E. Walsh, Esq., acted as secretary. On motion of Ex-Judge James A. C. Bond it was resolved that the members of the bar and officers of the court attend the funeral in a body. Judge Bond also named a committee, of which the chairman should be a member, should be appointed to prepare a memorial to be reported to the court on the first day of November term and recorded among the minutes of the tribunal. The motion was adopted and the committee was constituted as follows: Chas. T. Reifsnider, Jas. A. C. Bond, Charles E. Fink, D. N. Henning and Jno. Milton Reifsnider. A motion was also adopted to wear the usual badge of mourning at the funeral and it was further resolved to request the County Commissioners to drape the court house in mourning in honor of the deceased. On motion of D. N. Henning, Esq., Jos. D. Brooks, Esq., was appointed marshal of the bar, court officials and others, on the occasion of the funeral.

Funeral services were held at St. John's Catholic Church on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. A low mass was said by the pastor, Rev. Jos. H. Cassidy, and a brief and highly appropriate eulogy upon the life and character of Judge Roberts pronounced by Cardinal Gibbons. The magnificent male quartet of the Baltimore Cathedral sang "Just as I am," "Nearer my God to Thee," in the Church, and "Abide with me," at the grave. The Cathedral organist presided at the church organ. Many exquisite floral pieces were contributed by the relatives and friends of the deceased. Nearly all the business houses in this city were closed during the funeral services and the large church edifice was crowded with residents of this city and county and many eminent citizens from other parts of the State. Gov. Lowndes, Ex-Gov Frank Brown, all the Judges of the Court of Appeals, except Judge Fowler; Ex-Judge Russum, Hon. Joshua W. Miles, Judges Jones and Revell, Gen. Jno. M. Hood, Ex-Senator E. M. Allen, of Harford county, and others of almost equal note were among those present at the obsequies. The remains were interred at the foot of a noble oak in the cemetery in the rear of the Church.

The active pall-bearers were: Sidney Manning, I Shorb Neale, of Baltimore; Dr. Joseph T. Hering, Charles E. Fink, Charles V. Wantz, John H. Cunningham, J. Milton Reifsnider and B. F. Crouse. The honorary pall-bears were: The Judges of the Court of Appeals and Ex-Governor Brown, Gen. John M. Hood, Judge Harry M. Clabaugh, John L. Reifsnider, William A. Cunningham, George M. Parke, William B. Thomas, E. O. Grimes, Dr. J. W. Hering, Dr. James H. Billingslea and Dr. Frank T. Shaw.

Mrs. Almer N. Pickett died at her home at Daniel on Monday last, after a long illness. Mrs. Pickett had always been a very frail woman and had been confined to her bed for several months and at times suffered intensely, all of which she bore with great fortitude and patience. Truly, it can be said for her:

"None knew thee but to love thee,
None named thee but to praise."

Funeral services were held at Bethel Church of God, of which the deceased was a member. Revs. Evans and S. B. Craft had charge of the services.

The bountiful showers of the last several weeks has put the ground in excellent order for seeding and our farmers have been making use of their opportunity and preparing for the fall sowing. In fact some have already seeded some of their fields, and by next week seeding will be general. The acreage in this section will not be large and the use of fertilizer greater than ever. Some corn is already cut but much of it has been kept quite green by the late rains, and the reports coming in indicate that our section will have a good crop.

The rain on Saturday morning last interfered very much with Trinity Reformed picnic. Although the lowering clouds passed away in the early forenoon it kept many from going to the grove near Greenmount. Those who went, however, were rewarded with a good time and a pleasant day and were reluctant to leave when sundown arrived.

That forcible text, "In the midst of life we are in death," was brought to the mind of the community on Wednesday, in the death of Mrs. Jeremiah Yingling living on the North side of Dug Hill. Mr. Yingling drove his horse and wagon in front of the house to load some boards, while Mrs. Y. was standing at the yard gate. When he threw a board on the wagon the noise started the horse in full run down the turnpike. In the excitement Mrs. Y. ran after the runaway until she reached the house of her brother-in-law, Mr. Henry Yingling, and while standing talking to her sister-in-law, she fell and death came at once. It is said that she had had heart trouble for some time and no doubt the excitement was too great. She was a daughter of Mrs. Jesse Sherman, of this place, and stepsister of Dr. J. H. Sherman. Her remains were laid away to rest in a family lot on Friday, Rev. C. M. Eyster officiating. Her husband only survives her.

The C. E. Society of the M. P. Church held a sociable on Tuesday night at the home of Miss Mamie and Mr. John Starr, near Mt. Union, which proved to be a very interesting social event. Between fifty and sixty members and friends were gathered on the beautifully lighted lawn and porch, which were decorated with bunting and Japanese lanterns, in all giving a very festive appearance. A literary program was prepared by the committee. Mrs. Frank Romspert presided at the organ. Miss Nettie Myers recited "The Village Blacksmith," and Miss Ailce Wright, 'The Child's Dream of Heaven." Mrs. Romspert sang a solo, "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters," Miss S. E. Weaver read, "That Pudding," and Mrs. Romspert and Mrs. Thomas Fritz sang, "In the Starlight." A short time was spent in social games, when refreshments were announced as next in order, which were abundantly supplied by the society, after which the time arrived for bidding the host and hostess good night.

Divine Service at Pipe Creek M. P. Church Sunday at 10.30 A. M.; at Uniontown M. P. Church service at 7.30 P. M. C. E. Thursday evening 7.30. Junior C. E. Society Saturday 3 o'clock. Sunday school 9.15 A. M., Sunday.

Recently there have been three very interesting and enjoyable Sundays at the Uniontown M. P. Church. The first was Old Folks' Day. A special effort was made to have all the old folks out to the morning service, to whom the pastor, Rev. B. W. Kindley, preached a special sermon. In the evening some of the elderly members led a 15 minutes devotional service, which was followed by addresses by Rev. Jesse Shreeve and the pastor. Pulpit was decorated with golden rod.

The next was Young Women's Day. Both services of the day could not be given to the young women, as the regular Sunday for Communion service came due. But the evening was entirely devoted to them. Devotional service of 15 minutes was led by a young lady, after which the pastor delivered a specially prepared discourse for their benefit. White flowers were used for decorations.

Last Sunday was Young Men's Day. Four young men assisted the pastor in the morning service, taking as their subject, The christian young man in the home; The christian young man in business; The christian young man in society, and the christian young man in the church.

At 7.30 P. M., a young man took charge of a devotional service for 15 minutes. Then the pastor preached to the young men. Red flowers were the decorations.

All of these services were well attended and no doubt much good was accomplished.

DIED.

Near Cover P. O., Sept. 8th, 1899, Emily K. Long, aged 36 years, 9 months and 15 days.

In loving remembrance of John W. Winter, who departed this life, one year ago, September 10th, 1898.

"Gone but not forgotten."

We heard thee suffer, heard thy sighs,
With throbbing hearts and weeping eyes,
But now you calmly sleep at last
All grief, all pain, all suffering past.

Johnnie you are not forgot,
Nor ever will you be;
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

BY HIS PARENTS.

A precious brother from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in his home
Which never can be filled.

Our brother now has gone to rest,
Beneath the tree of life,
He leans upon the Savior's breast,
So free from pain and strife.

O, brother, how can we give you up?
It seems to us unjust
To lay you in the cold damp grave,
To moulder into dust.

By his sister and brother, G. E. Haines and E. W. Winter.
