and if what I've got doesn't do it, I give you up. It'll be like a Spanish fly-blister, I suppose; but I can't help it."

"Say what you're goin' to an' done with it," said Miss Marsh, bracing herself up, figuratively speaking, as the doctor paused at the sound of Lyddy's fresh young voice which came to them from the loom-room beyond.

"Becky Marsh, if you let your brother's child go homeless just because you've set up that you'll have nothing to do with anything of his, you need never expect to read your 'title clear to mansions in the skies,'" as the words of the hymn floated in to them. "Good-day."

Miss Marsh was alone. The audacious doctor was driving from the gate before she realized it. The steady swing of the loom outside was the only sound except the old tune as Lyddy's voice swayed in it with her work. She must face it now. Had she done right? Was there any reason why she should hold to the old will in the matter? Dr. Beebe's warning came again and again as Lyddy's tones rose and fell. Lyddy was her own kin—she liked her. The girl did look like Jordan. There was a time when the freckled-faced, tow-headed half-brother had thought the world of sister Becky. Lyddy—and he had named her after their mother, too. She suddenly gulped down a sob.

"What a fool I am;" she straightened herself up sternly:

"Should earth—against —my soul—engage,
And fie—ry darts—be hurled,
Then I—can smile—at Sa—tan's rage,
And face—a frown—ing world."

Lyddy's voice rang out joyously above the loom clatter. Miss Marsh listening, dropped her face in her hands. Then she rose unsteadily. She opened the woodshed door.

"Lyddy Marsh!" she called, abruptly.

"Ma'am!" The girl at the loom dropped the shuttle in consternation as her name was emphasized by her aunt's lips. She looked up beseechingly.

"Lyddy Marsh, this is to be your home hereafter. You and I're all that's left, an' it won't be my fault if things don't go right 'twixt us.'"

Nobody ever knew how much that speech cost Miss Marsh. But she was conscious that she felt more than repaid for the surrender when Lyddy, springing from her seat, threw her arms about her with the words, "I did so want to come to you, Aunt Becky."

Miss Marsh even sent for Dr. Beebe. He met her with a provoking smile. She answered her interpretation of it before he could speak.

"Oh, I ain't the first one that sings loudly 'bout facin' a frownin' world an' ain't got spunk 'nough to face their own selves on a moral question."

"Well, you can smile sincerely now," he replied. "Really, Miss Marsh, your attack of rheumatism was the best thing for your will, after all."

"Rheumatiz' hadn't anything to do with it," she contended, but with softened tone. "I'd just got so's to understand Ortonville."

How To Get Rich.

The Book-keeper, a useful magazine devoted to the science and practice of book-keeping, published at Detroit, Mich, has been asked by a subscriber how to get rich. Others, too modest to ask, are equally interested to know. In answer to his correspondent the editor quotes the sayings of some of our most prospered citizens.

What the expressive language of the day designates as a "wise guy" used to advertise a recipe for this very thing, charging a dollar, and responding thus by return mail: "Work like the devil and don't spend a cent." Personally, we are working on the problem teeth and toenails, but at this stage of the game we can offer nothing better than theories, and you can get those in carload lots for nothing. The only positively reliable information that we can give up to date is that it is a mighty tough proposition, and that, as in all great undertakings, it behooves a man to do his "behoovenest."

But those who have been over the route have declared themselves on occasions, and there is no copyright on what they said. Russell Sage, who has dealt with millions as familiarly as a soda fountain proprietor does with nickels, and who would regard it as a wanton extravagance to pay more than $16 for a business suit, declares: "Be honest, industrious and economical and you'll be sure to succeed." As he started as an errand boy, he is a pretty fair indorsement for his prescription. Hetty Green, with her $60,000,00 and backbone of chilled steel, advised women to go into real estate, buy "snaps," and after improving the property sell at a nice advance. But she also jerked out the opinion that the most important thing of all for a woman to learn is to mind her own business. It is better thus than if some men had said it. Blind Charles Broadway Rouse, who has offered one of his six millions to have his sight restored, says that "industry, integrity, economy and promptness; learning when to buy, where to buy and how to buy; buying and selling for cash, and quick sales and small profit, will do the business."

Collis Huntington, who has had a repeat or two in his race for fortune, making his first start as a country merchant, puts it thus: "The best way to become rich is not to talk too much during business hours." "Don't let your competitors know what your next move is. Eight honrs' sleep every day and twelve hours' work, do a little more than you agree, meet bills as they fall due, put by a $1 bill out of every five you earn and invest it in some sound banking, railroad or real estate enterprise," are among the tips dropped by D. O. Mills. Henry Clews' scheme is to buy cheap and sell dear. It sounds easy. And he did it. The former messenger boy is a multi-millionaire.

Andrew Carnegie: "Five things are necessary. They are push, squareness, clear-headedness, economy and rigid adherence to the rule of not overworking. But the final question will be, what has he done for his fellows?" As he comes out of the scrimmage with a surplus of a quarter of a billion, he is now worrying his declining years with the vexed problem of doing for his fellows.

Unclean Milk.

The Kansas college dairy secured samples of milk from persons that were engaged more or less in the dairy business and placed those in long, narrow glass tubes. After being allowed to stand for several hours these tubes were examined and notes taken on the amount of dirt that settled to the bottom. Considerable difference was found, some samples being almost free from visible dirt, while others had so much it formed an irregular ring along the lower edge of the tube. While this test is a good one to detect solid particles of dirt in the milk, it is by no means conclusive, as where milk is haddled in an uncleanly manner more or less dirt becomes dissolved in the milk and cannot be separated out. This goes to illustrate the importance of the utmost cleanliness in handling milk. We object strongly to milk being adulterated with water, but this is not to be compared with adulterating it with dirt.

NEARLY FIFTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD!

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast today, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century.

It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans.

It is "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of the "SENTINEL" (your own favorite home paper, has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekly Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive family. Just think of it! Both of these papers ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. If you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a a dollar on all Wall Papers.

PUBLIC VACCINATION.

Attention of Physcians, School Teachers, Parents and Guardians is called to Article 43 of the Code of 1888, as follows:

SECTION 27.—For every child vaccinated whose guardian or parents are too poor to pay for the service, the county commissioners of the several counties or the City Council of Baltimore, as the case may be, shall pay or cause to be paid to the physician performing the service the sum of fifty cents for every such case, on presentation of such account, duly authenticated by an affidavit setting forth that the service was performed, and that the parents or guardians are unable to pay for said service.

SECTION 28.—It shall be the duty of every practicing physician in the State to vaccinate all children in the circle of his practice which may be presented to him for vaccination within one year after birth, if such child shall be in proper condition for such service, and he shall vaccinate all other persons not previously effectually vaccinated who shall request such service from him. Any physician neglecting or refusing so to do, shall on conviction thereof forfeit and pay for every offense a penalty of five dollars.

SECTION 29.—Any physician who shall knowingly and willfully use any virus defective in nature, by having passed through a scrofulous system from having been taken from one laboring under any disease of the skin, chronic sore, or other febrile, or other disease, during the progress of the vaccine disease, or any crust which, during the progress of said vaccine disease, was punctured, or had sustained other injury, shall, upon conviction thereof, forfeit and pay a sum not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense.

SECTION 30.—It shall be the duty of every parent and guardian to have his or her child vaccinated within twelve months after its birth, if it shall be in proper condition, or as soon thereafter as practicable; and if such parent or guardian shall have any other person under his or her control or care, not duly vaccinated, he or she shall cause such person or persons to be vaccinated prior to the first day of November of each year. Any person failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay a sum not less than five nor more than ten dollars for each offense.

SECTION 31.—No teacher in any school shall receive into such school any person as a scholar until such person shall produce the certificate of some regular practicing physician that such applicant for admission into the school has been duly vaccinated. Any teacher so offending shall, on conviction thereof, forfeit and pay a fine of ten dollars for each offense.

SECTION 32.—All fines imposed under the provisions of this Act shall be recovered before a justice of the peace, in the same manner as small debts are recoverable, for the use of the school fund of the county or city in which such offense shall occur.

The above is published by direction of State Board of Health.

Order of Publication.

NO. 3743 EQUITY.

In the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity.

George A. Summers, plaintiff, vs. Carrie Summers, defendant.

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce A Vinculo Matrimonii, by the plaintiff from the defendant.

1. The bill states that the plaintiff and defendant were married on the 24th day of November, A. D. 1880, by the Rev. William Spellman, a clergyman of the Baptist Church, No. 70 Grove St., N. Y.

2. That, though the conduct of the plaintiff to the defendant has always been kind and above reproach, the said defendant has without just cause abandoned him, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least five years and is deliberate and final.
