SINCE MOTHER DIED.

—:o:—

How we miss the constant flutter
 Of her busy step and hand;
Neither pen nor tongue can utter,
 Only we can understand
Who were knitted to her strongest
By whose ties that last the longest
 And are with the blood allied,
Oh, our lot a void seems only,
And the house is lonely, lonely,
Since mother died.

Empty chair and empty corner,
 Vacant spaces everywhere,
Mutely telling how we mourn her,
 Daily, nightly at us stare;
Picturing each household duty
Of the tireless form whose beauty,
 Love and care we now deplore,
Every smile encountered trial,
Patient trust and self denial
 She bravely bore.

Weeks and months have slowly languished,
 Since the grief-crowned, bitter day,
But the tear-rain, wild and anguished,
 Tempest like, must still have sway!
Did we in her lifetime measure
What of woman's joy and pleasure
 She for us herself denied?
Ours the self-blame if we did not—
Ours the tears that gush, though bid not,
 Since mother died?

In the world around and o'er us
 Is there love like mother-love?
Than the love that nursed and bore us
 Throbs below or burns above
Richer fount, diviner blending,
Holier flame, all else transcending,
 As if flashed from heaven's high throne?
What, without its fire undying,
What are we but children crying
 In deserts lone?

Comes the consolation gently
 That, from heavenly spaces clear,
Still her angel gaze intently
 Watches o'er our spirits here;
But the world seems bleak and dreary,
Sad our lives and weak and weary,
 Dispossessed of friends and guide,
Oh, our lot a void seems only,
And our home is lonely, lonely
 Since mother died.

WASHINGTON CHRONOLOGY.

Born in Westmoreland county, Virginia, February 22 (old style February 11), 1732.

Made commander of the northern military district of Virginia by Lieutenant-Governor Dinwiddie when but nineteen years of age, in 1751.

Sent to warn the French away from their new forts in western Pennsylvania at the outbreak of the French and Indian war in 1753.

Made commander-in-chief of all the Virginia forces in 1755.

Commanded the advance guard of the expedition that captured Fort Duquesne in 1758, shortly after which he married Mrs. Custis.

Wrote concerning the "nonimportation resolution," which had just reached him, advising opposition to the policy of the ministry April 5, 1769.

Appointed as one of the seven delegates by the Virginia convention to the continental congress in 1774. His national career may be said to have begun with this appointment. He had previously served as a member of the State legislature for several terms.

Commissioned as commander-in-chief of the continental troops June 9, 1775, after the fight at Lexington and Concord. Reached Cambridge July 2, after the battle of Bunker Hill, which occurred June 17.

January 2, 1776, Washington hoisted the Union flag, comsisting of seven stripes, like in the flag of to-day, but with the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew in the field of blue in the corner.

After nearly a year of the most trying sort drove the British out of Boston, March 17, 1776. After this Washington went to New York, signed the Declaration of Independence, which was adopted July 4, and had the document read to his soldiers July 9, 1776.

Battle of Long Island, August 28. Evacuation of New York by Washington.

Crossed to New Jersey, was pursued across the State into Pennsylvania, recrossed the Delaware Christmas night, captured Trenton and 1000 Hessian soldiers. Battle of Princeton, Washington victorious, January 3, after which his headquarters were established at Morristown, N. J.

After various manoeuvers, lasting through the spring and summer, and accepting the proffered aid of DeKalb, Kosciusko, Pulaski, Steuben and Lafayette, Washington engaged Howe at Brandywine Creek, September 11, 1777. Attacked British troops in Germantown October 4, but was driven back, after which headquarters were established in Valley Forge.

Suffered great hardships with his men all that winter, was plotted against, but not abased, by his rivals for the place of commander-in-chief, fought the battle of Monmouth early June 28, 1778, and after a summer and autumn devoid of any great battles in which Washington took part went into winter quarters near Middlebrook, N. J.

Seventeen hundred and seventy-nine was marked by no special battles in which Washington was commander, and the same is true in 1780, but it was his firmness and everlasting watchfulness that forced inaction on the part of the British. The capture and execution of Andre and the flight of Arnold, the traitor, occurred in 1780, and both years there were notable successes on the part of the continental troops, in the South and elsewhere.

Surrender of Yorktown and Gloucester, Va., by General Cornwallis to Washington, October 19, 1781.

British evacuated New York November 25, 1783. Washington as commander-in-chief bade farewell to his officers December 4, and resigned his commission as commander-in-chief to Congress December 28, after which he returned to his home at Mount Vernon.

Sent by Virginia to the constitutional convention held in Philadelphia in May, 1787.

Elected first President of the United States by the unanimous vote of the electors in 1789, he was formally inaugurated in New York April 30, 1789. He was re-elected in 1792 and retired from the Presidency in 1797.

Made commander-in-chief of the provincial army, raised in expectation of a war with France, in 1798.

Died, after a brief illness, December 14, 1799.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. If you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of WALL PAPER
