who drove it but a very short time. I hope you will find it such an one as you could wish, for my part, I fear it is from the discription I have had of it hung too high. —

Mr. Russell quits Business — he has not given up the B. S., nor does he mean it, unless the State makes him proper reparation for the loss of his Estate. it is put into Chancery. — S. C. to my surprize had not left London before my arrival: I am told he talks of returning early next month. —

Mr & Mrs Russell desire their Compliments to you — my kind respects to all the family —

I shall write to you again by the Nonsuch, which ship is expected to sail soon, in the mean time, I remain

Dear Sir

Your most obed.t & obliged
