ELECTION—TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6TH, 1900.

It is believed that Mr. Bryan has turned out more perforated predictions than any other man in public life.

The Hon. John P. Altgeld as Attorney General of the United States would be a fine thing for the anarchist industry.

The returns are not complete and it is not believed that Mr. Bryan has heard from all of his notification committees.

It is no joke or dream, but a hard cold fact that many of the Filipinos think that Aguinaldo is running on the ticket with Bryan.

Chairman Jones might take a day off and tell us just how he would regulate the Cotton Bale Trust, if he had his own way about it.

The Democratic campaign managers are not the least bit opposed to the policy of claiming votes without the consent of the claimed.

So far the gentlemen in charge of the Democratic spellbinding have been unable to announce any appointments for the Hon. Grover Cleveland.

"Populists balk at Stevenson," says one of the headlines. No reason why they should: Uncle Adlai will agree to anything that they want.

Whether Tammany Hall is raising a Democratic fund of two million dollars or not, there is no question that it would be entirely easy for it to do so.

Among Mr. Bryan's many exploded predictions is the one of 1896 which threatened the country with four years more of hard times in case of his defeat.

Bryan has quit quoting Jefferson and Jackson, has about given up Lincoln and Grant, and has taken to Scripture to defend his position as the Republic savior.

The figures show that the farmers of this country paid $825,000,000 for the fun of electing a Democratic President in 1892. It is doubtful if they will do so again.

If, as the Democrats affirm, the Dingley bill is the mother of trusts, it must be admitted that quite a large family of children was born before their mother.

The Philadelphia Press thinks that it is new for a Presidential candidate to encourage resistance to the lawful authority and the settled policy of the United States. True, it is.

The Democratic leaders in Congress were not the least bit apprehensive about "militarism" when they were engaged in urging that the United States go to war to free Cuba.

The fact that Chairman Jones is connected with the cotton bale trust is in a measure consoling to the Van Wycks and other Tammany statesmen. Misery doesn't like exclusiveness.

The worst thing about the New York Ice Trust is not simply that it is as bad a trust as any other trust in the country could possibly be, but that it persistently pursued the policy of grinding hundreds of thousands of the poor of New York City.

All the counties in Arkansas have not been heard from, but at the hour of going to press Chairman Jones, Chairman of the Populist Committee, had not parted with any of his American Cotton Bale Trust stock.

Mr. Bryan has one speech for the Democrats, another for the Populists and another one for the free silver advocates. In view of the nature of his support the many-sided Kansas City platform was absolutely necessary.

As a rule, the less practical a man is the more he believes himself capable of interpreting the constitution. Judging from Bryan's speeches he could manage the entire business of the Supreme Court without any assistance, but would fail in any legitimate business enterprise.

The Hon. George S. Boutwell, most prominent of all the Anti-Imperialists, so-called, thinks that the financial panic due to the common dread of Bryan's election would only be a short one. We also recall the case of the dear Old Hoss that died of the diet of ten-penny nails just as he was getting used to them.

"What I denounce," said William J. Bryan when a Congressman, "is a protective tariff; it is false economy and the most vicious political principle that has ever cursed this country." Since then the Gold Standard was the most vicious, and now Imperialism is the most vicious principle that ever cursed this country.

Never before in the history of Presidential campaigns have the supporters of a candidate been asked to believe that the platform means the reverse of what it says. The Democrats argue that Bryan will not do anything to advance the cause of silver, as he has promised to do. They are also being convinced that he would not retire the army from the Philippines as he has promised. Such an anomalous condition should not beget confidence.

One of the pleasing prospects held out by Mr. Bryan is free trade, which would afford a particularly pleasing prospect to the commercial travelers, for all of the drummers of England, Germany and any other old country might profitably be turned loose among us under such a policy. Foreign drummers have been here before.

"If" is a little word, but sometimes has large significance, because it may be construed as expressing extreme doubt of the occurrence of some event of great importance, such as the election of Bryan, for instance. We use it in that sense in saying, that "if" Bryan should be elected the working man's dinner pail need not cost as much as it does under the McKinley administration. Do you say that expression indicates hostility to McKinley's re-election? Oh, no. "If" Bryan shall be elected the workingman will not need as large a dinner pail as he does now, and will continue to do in the event of McKinley's election. He will always have a more generous dinner under a McKinley administration than he would have under a free trade, free silver government, such as Bryan would introduce.

The Democratic party, at the dictation of Wm. J. Bryan, wants us to give up the Philippine Islands to the control of its inhabitants, most of whom are utterly unfit for self-government. But according to the Democratic program we must then keep a large fleet in Philippine waters to resist attempts of other nations to seize any portion of the archipelago. This Mr. Bryan insists upon after we have paid twenty millions of dollars to the Spanish government for her title to the islands, which was absolute. This payment was made under our treaty of peace with Spain, which was ratified by the Senate, largely through the influence of Mr. Bryan. Americans who vote for Bryan must be ready to shame their country by elevating to the Presidency a man with a record of inconsistency without a parallel in this country. No defence of this inconsistency has been attempted by Mr. Bryan or the Democratic press, which supports him. Democratic newspapers dare not attempt its defence; they simply ignore it. If a reply to this assertion is possible let the Advocate undertake it.

Vermont Leads the Way to a Republican Victory in November.

The State election in Vermont, on Tuesday last, resulted in a sweeping Republican victory. Only once before in the history of elections in that State has a larger Republican plurality been recorded. That was in 1896, when the Republicans carried the State by about 38,000 plurality. That was the first time the plurality exceeded 30,000. The figures, this time, approximate 32,000. This magnificent victory was gained in the face of many local obstacles and is far in excess of the plurality anticipated. The great daily newspapers have been pointing out the fact that whenever the plurality in favor of the Republicans in Vermont, in a Presidential year, has fallen to about 25,000 the result of the November election has been close. When the figures have gone much lower than that a Democratic victory has followed in November, but when that plurality has been exceeded the country has been safely Republican. Tuesday's magnificent victory, therefore, points to the triumphant re-election of McKinley in November by a safe majority.

Senator Wellington.

Apparently the accession of Senator Wellington to the ranks of the Bryanites has not overwhelmed them with pleasurable emotions. They realize that he does not take a large personal following with him into his new political relations and that, if his future can be judged by his past, he is far more likely to hinder than to help the cause he has espoused. Senator Wellington is gifted with high qualities as an orator and many persons were led to suppose, after the success of the State campaign of 1895, that he possessed great ability as an organizer. Since his election as United States Senator, however, his course has been more or less erratic. His assumption of the character of a political boss, of the extremest type, alienated his warmest admirers in the Republican party. Apparently he imagined that there should be no independence of thought or action on the part of any Republican in the State in relation to the minutest party affairs. He was credited with having originated the phrase, "See Me First," in this connection, and gave way to furious anger if any party action was taken without his sanction and consent. Only an occasional display of magnificent oratory saved him from becoming an object of universal ridicule.

Then, although he was apparently acutely jealous of Hon. Louis E. McComas, who was his rival for party leadership, he joined in the movement to make that gentleman his associate in the Senate, an event which practically transferred that leadership to Mr. McComas' hands. Practically left without a following, and sorely wounded in the most sensitive element of his mental make up, his jealousy has culminated in such political action on his part as will complete the alienation from his party relations begun by his opposition to the re-election of Governor Lloyd Lowndes. Do what he will, in the future, he will never regain respectable standing as a Republican leader, and his most sensible course, from a personal point of view, will be to make a permanent alliance with Bryanism. Senator Wellington spoke from the same platform with Bryan, at Cumberland, on Tuesday evening and announced his intention to vote for the Democratic-Populist against McKinley.

IN THE HANDS OF RECEIVERS.

The United Milk Producers' Association of Baltimore City is in the hands of receivers, appointed on Tuesday last by Judge Sharp, of Circuit Court No. 2. This action was taken upon the petition of Wm. B. D. Penniman and Arthur Lee Brown, trading as Penniman & Brown, analytical chemists, who claim the sum of $316.66 due them as salary for the month of August. The petitioners were employed to take charge of the laboratory, to examine all milk produced by the association and to pass upon its quality. Mr. Penniman was also recently employed as superintendent of the creamery plant.

The association has a very valuable plant and assets valued, in all, at $200,000, without taking into account the unpaid balance of $100,000 upon its capital stock. The liabilities are placed at $250,000. The receivers are Wm. B. Crowther and Theodore F. Wilcox. They will continue to operate the plant and expect to be able to preserve the large business of the association and to extend it still further.

A meeting of the directors is to be held on Monday when an effort will be made to devise some plan of organization upon terms satisfactory to all creditors.

Carroll county milk producers are, in the aggregate, heavy creditors of the association and deeply interested in the disposition which may be made of the concern under the receivership. Messrs. Johnzie E. Beasman, Chas. A. Warfield, Samuel D. Shipley, Wm. P. Molesworth, John W. Forsyth, Augustus Harden, John Britton and others, all of this county, have filed petitions in Circuit Court No. 2, for the appointment of co-receivers. The parties named hold 3,555 shares of the stock of the association. Other stockholders have also filed similar petitions. Judge Sharp has indicated a purpose to withhold action on these petitions until all parties interested shall have had an opportunity to join in the application for a co-receivership. The ultimate outcome of the proceedings is uncertain.

For the Sentinel.

Wellington.

Pity the sorrows of a once victorious and triumphant Boss, who, in the plenitude of his political pull and power, could order and direct Republicans in this State TO SEE ME FIRST if preferment was to be expected. There was the time when the Senator held aloft his much prized and oft asserted prerogative, and gloried in the derisive cognomen, "Duke," which Democracy had fastened upon him. Then he was full of life and vigor from inhaling the pure ozone of his mountain home, and like a gallant Duke of old, charged fiercely and gallantly upon his Democratic adversaries.

But alas, a somewhat prolonged sojourn in the malarious climate of Washington changed all this and has made this once valorous chieftain lower his ducal crown, and cower before the ghost of "Imperialism;" and the man of straw, Militarism," which he has set up, and which has made him too feeble to contend with, much less to thresh.

This famous Duke, who was wont to lead the charge full upon the enemy's serried ranks, has changed front, and from fear of militarism, falls down at the feet of his new found commander, Bryan, in an agony of despair, and cries "Save! save! or I perish from fright of the ghosts I have conjured up and which pursue me so pertinaciously."

No more will the command be given TO SEE ME FIRST; no more will the abundant ozone of his mountain home have power to invigorate that enfeebled frame; but seated solitary and alone, with his tattered and bedraggled prerogative wrapped around him, he can sympathetically gaze toward the far East, and bid Aguinaldo and his followers press onward to aid in a Democratic victory, whilst with a sad and mournful look he can turn his feeble and lingering glance about him, and behold the solid, compact and united columns of the party he was want to lead, BUT HAS NOW DESERTED, still marching on "under the gorgeous ensign of the Republic, its arms and trophies streaming in all their original lustre, not a stripe erased or polluted, not a single star obscured,"—but everywhere, spread all over in characters of living light, blazing on all its ample folds, as they float over the sea and over the land, and in every wind under the whole heavens, he will hear the shouts of his once enthusiastic friends proclaiming, as they go marching on, that sentiment dear to every American heart, "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

Then will the Senator, with his useless prerogative, learn and fully realize that

> "Another hand thy sword doth wield,
> Another hand the standard wave;
> Till from the trumpet's mouth is pealed
> The blast of triumph o'er thy grave."

THE WASHINGTON AND WESTMINSTER TURNPIKE.

The Turnpike Side of the Case.

If there has been any one question more than another that has been discussed by our people for a longer period of time than that of a turnpike on the Washington road we have yet to learn of that question. It began before the war and has been kept up ever since.

So recently as 1885 a number of our citizens, impressed with the appeals of people living along the line of the road, formed a Corporation under the general laws of the State with a capital of $18,000. The shares were placed at $25.00 each. The following are the incorporators named in the charter: Judge Jas. A. C. Bond, Dr. Frank T. Shaw, Wm. B. Thomas, E. B. Arnold, Henry Wardenfelt, Elis N. Davis, John F. Frick.

As we all know, the road was not built, but none of them hesitated in putting themselves on record and in fixing a capital stock at a figure that was nearly three times as much as that expended on the present roadway.

These same gentlemen and others determined, because of the pressure from people along and beyond the road, to try it again. Hence we find that on the 24th March, 1891, another charter, and the following individuals as the incorporators: Judge Jas. A. C. Bond, Wm. B. Thomas, Elias B. Arnold, Joseph I. Gist, Henry Wardenfelt, John W. Holmes, Fred. N. Hook, Wm. Fenby, Jno. T. Lynch.

In this charter the capital was named at $15,000 (which is $5000 more than the present one) and the shares of stock $10.00. An examination of these names and a comparison thereof with the names of some of "the kickers," will prove food for earnest thought.

Subscription papers were circulated in Westminster and all along the proposed turnpike. Nothing was, however, said about "An Open Door." The bonds, probably, would have been handled as successfully as were Colonel Taylor's water bonds in 1883, '84 and '85. Some of these subscription papers are still in existence. They show who opposed shutting "the door" on the Washington road nine years ago. They also show how some people change their minds! Here is a partial list of one of the subscription papers:

Wm. B. Thomas, Jas. A. C. Bond, Joseph I. Gist, Wm. Fenby, John T. Lynch, Ezra A. Coppersmith, Jno. W. Holmes, Eli T. Buckingham, Edward Lynch, (O. D. Gilbert and F. Thos. Babylon,) Dr. J. H. Billingslea, Milton Schaeffer, Jno E. Eckenrode, Elias B. Arnold, Chas E. Fink, Geo. L. Stocksdale, B. Frank Crouse, Fred. N. Hook, E. D. Whitmore, John Beiker, Henry Wardenfelt, Geo. W. Owings, Jno. Q. Stitely, P. J. Bennett.

The other lists, in connection with this, show that nearly every business man in Westminster subscribed to the stock, but the sum total of subscription, and confined almost entirely to Westminster, was about $7000—not enough in the opinion of the incorporators to build the road. The result was it met the fate of its 1885 ancestor and died the same way and of the same disease—lack of nerve and vitality or something else.

But the demand of the people along the road still kept up. The result was that without fear of the failures of others, and only appreciating the importance of the road, Mr. Geo. W. Albaugh in the fall of last year practically single handed and alone took hold of the enterprise, a company consisting of himself, Fred. D. Miller, F. Thos. Babylon, A. H. Huber and Guy W. Steele, with a capital stock of $10,000, divided into shares of $10.00 each, proceeded to build the road. No subscription lists were sent out and no one, save the incorporators, were asked to take stock. Every man within reach of the road was asked, however, to haul stone and receive cash for it, and this they did notwithstanding the fact that some of the 1885 and 1891 incorporators endeavored to persuade these same people not to sell. Nearly ten thousand dollars expended for stone and labor went down into that country. Had they who hauled this stone and performed this labor listened to the Westminster Solons they would have been to-day without that money, the stone still on their fields and without a turnpike!

As an evidence, however, that this road is appreciated by some people the following letters will not only show, but also some of the methods manufactured for the purpose of shaping public sentiment:

BIRD HILL, MD., SEPTEMBER 1ST, 1900.

Inasmuch as my name has been used by the persons opposed to the Washington and Westminster Turnpike Company, wherein it is made to appear by newspapers and otherwise that I am in sympathy with said opposition, I hereby assert that not only was my name used without authority but that in addition I am a friend of the new turnpike. I furthermore believe that its construction has been a constant need for years and will be of immeasurable benefit to our section of the county.

WM. HARRISON DAVIS.

BIRD HILL, MD., SEPT. 5TH, 1900.

I have noticed in the columns of our county papers that my name was used, making me appear one of the vice presidents of the anti-turnpike meeting held in Westminster. I desire to say that I was not present at the meeting, nor had any one authority to use my name in any capacity. I always was in favor of a pike on the Washington road and still am. I approve of the present turnpike road and can further say that there is but little opposition in my neighborhood, except that which is due to influences in Westminster which have for their origin personal antagonisms to certain gentlemen connected with the building of the road.

A. T. BUCKINGHAM.

FENBY, MD., SEPT. 5TH, 1900.

My name was used without authority at the anti-turnpike meeting. I have always been favorable to the building of this turnpike and am unable to understand why my name should have been used as an officer at that meeting. I was not present, nor will I be present at any meeting that is opposed to this turnpike. I regard it as a great benefit to our community particularly, and to the public generally. To me it has been of great service, enabling me to rid my farm at good prices of stone, the removal of which has improved my land. In my opinion the petty malice existing against the road is due entirely to imaginary personal grievance.

JOSHUA LOCKARD.

In conclusion, this much more is added for the information of the real friends of the road and for those whose impatience sometimes gets the better of their judgment: contracts have been made during the present week for limestone to be used as a covering of proper depth over the road. In the judgment of candid men the road is as good now and better probably than most turnpikes, but its present incorporators have found it impossible to please people who had other causes than paying toll for their grievances.

No Advance in Price.

We are again in the swim on

Lap Robes AND Horse Blankets,

because we duplicated last year's order at last year's price, which is below the present quotation; so these goods will be the same as last year here, but not so everywhere, for we know some people who did not get on the band wagon in time. We still buy and and with a long experience in handling these goods we are enabled to give better values for the money than can be found elsewhere. A call will convince you of the above facts. No goods sold on credit.

Open at Night.
