EVERYBODY INVITED.

No Republican voter should neglect to register this year.

President McKinley's letter of acceptance may properly be said to be a message to the American people.

Croker is the chosen leader of Mr. Bryan in New York. Thus does reform go marching on.

Do not forget the pertinent question of Senator Carter, of Montana, who asks "If the tariff is the mother of trusts, what is the duty on ice?"

It would interest the public if Mr. Bryan would give his present reasons for supporting free silver. His former reasons have been called in.

The people would like to hear from Mr. Bryan on the subject of the Tammany ice trust and Chairman Jones' round cotton bale trust.

If we understand Governor Roosevelt, he thinks the American army savors of militarism about as much as a Bryan dollar does of honesty.

Trade is much freeer under protection than under free trade. This is true of our foreign as well as our domestic trade.

Maine, Vermont and Oregon's pluralities were large enough to take these doubtful States out of the "doubtful" column.

If everybody could be made wealthy by reducing the value of the dollar, the Democratic party would be the logical custodian of the affairs of the nation.

No recognized government opposes the policy of the United States in the Philippines. The entire opposition comes from Aguinaldo and the Democratic party.

There seems to be a general disposition on the part of the Democrats to blame President McKinley for making his acceptance such a strong document. It was pretty hard on Bryan.

Failing in his effort to boss the Maryland Republicans Mr. Wellington has taken his political playthings and moved over into the Democratic party where bossism stands a better show.

Mr. Bryan may have his doubts about the paternity and destiny, but he can not disclaim responsibility for the Paris treaty, which is the chief thing that he is kicking about.

The most remarkable significance in Mr. Bryan's letter of acceptance to the Democrats, is his silence upon everything and every subject in which American workmen as a class have an interest.

English publicists continue to warn the English people that the re-election of McKinley and a continuance of McKinley prosperity are going to make it go very hard for capitalists and laborers in Europe.

T. V. Powderly, while in Chicago the other day, said that labor conditions were exceptionally gratifying and entirely in keeping with the general prosperity, but he never will be able to make Bryan acknowledge that—not before the November election at any rate.

Augustus Van Wyck, brother of Bob, the Mayor of New York, still holds $75,000 of the stock of the New York Ice Trust, and yet it is said that his own applause was the most vociferous when the anti-ice trust resolution was read in the recent Saratoga Convention.

Mr. Bryan's desire to give the Filipinos an independent government and then protect them from outside interference without expense and without an army looks a good deal like the faith cure applied to diplomacy.

Already the census man has found over 528,000 manufacturing establishments, as against 322,638 in 1890. This looks as though the trusts were not crushing out individual enterprise at such a great rate.

Voting for Bryan on the theory that a Repnblican Senate will prevent him putting his heresies into practice is not a proceeding that will appeal strongly to the intelligence of the country.

There has been, and is, a Democratic Ice Trust in New York, and now there is a Tammany Poultry Trust. There are probably other Trusts, but we have never heard of one which undertook to make its profits by literally robbing the poor.

A West Virginia business man, who is described as being "as close as the bark on a tree," urges the election of Bryan because he can lend his money then at from 8 to 16 per cent. and will only have to pay his labor 50 cents on the dollar.

United States troops are to be withdrawn from Pekin, leaving only a sufficient number to secure the safety of the Legation. This country will not be a party to the partition of China, which appears imminent. Russia has already declared the annexation of Manchuria to her territory.

President McKinley's letter of acceptance cut the heart out of the Democratic contention that this administration has introduced an imperialistic project as a part of the American system of government. Evidently the letter has thrown the Democratic campaign leaders into a condition of dismay and they are frantically echoing the preposterous cry of the Kansas City platform upon the subject, and thereby making themselves ridiculous in the eyes of sensible people.

Mr. Nicholas W. Steele is actively pushing his preparations for his independent candidacy for Congress in this district, and is having the papers essential to the printing of his name on the official ballot signed by voters. He says he will have many more than the requisite number of signatures. He is quoted as saying that he believes that Bryan will carry Carroll county by 100, but that the county will go against Talbot by 1000. Mr. Steele has generally been a fairly accurate political prophet.

Gov. Roosevelt, the Republican candidate for Vice-President, was mobbed by about 2000 Bryanites at Victor, near Cripple Creek, Colorado, on Wednesday. He was stoned and struck twice with clubs, but not injured. The rioters subsequently forced their way into the hall and not only interrupted Gov. Roosevelt's speech, but gave every evidence of a purpose to do him bodily harm. Threats against his life were made, but the man who led the Rough Riders up San Juan hill was not intimidated. He stood his ground and finished his speech. When his train left he stood on the rear platform, against the urgent pleadings of his friends, until well away from the town. It was a magnificent display of manly courage on one side, and a disgraceful exhibition of cowardly malignity on the other. Respectable Democrats all over the country are heartily ashamed of their company. It was, however, a natural result of the doctrine enunciated by the platform which most of them are supporting and of the arrant demagogism of their candidate for President.

The miners' strike in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania is seriously interrupting the great mining operations in that important field. Work has been suspended at many of the mines and the strike is spreading day by day, miners who are willing to labor being induced by solicitations and threats to join in the demands of the unions. It is probable that these demands are not unreasonable, but those who are operating the mines generally declare that they cannot grant the claims of the miners and continue work, except at a loss. That it would be better to close the mines than continue working them on the basis presented as the miners' ultimatum. In the meantime the prospect points to higher prices for coal unless the strike shall be promptly settled. In this respect the public will suffer, but, unless the operators agree to the terms suggested, the miners will be the severest sufferers in the end, as they will, without doubt, hold out to the point of starvation. Some legal method of arbitration should be devised, by which justice may be done to both sides in the controversy.

A Young Woman's Sad End.

Dr. W. B. Hawkins, of Baltimore, is under arrest in that city for malpractice in the case of a young white woman, who died in that city last Saturday from the effect of a criminal operation.

The victim in the case gave only the name of Nannie and said she was from Washington, D. C. It was ascertained, however, that her home had been in this county and that she went from here, first to Washington and then to Baltimore. She died in the home of a colored woman named Tanner, who conducts a boarding house at No. 505 West German street.

Later the name of the unfortunate young woman was ascertained to have been Sarah Ann Sumerville and that she was a daughter of Mr. John A. Sumerville, near Cockeysville, Baltimore county, Mr. Sumerville having recognized her body, at the morgue. Miss Sumerville was a native of Unionville, Frederick county, from which place she removed with her parents to their present residence near Cockeysville, about four years ago. Later she was in the employ of Armstrong, Cator & Co., of Baltimore, and from April last until August 10th, was employed in the millinery department of Mr. J. D. Baile's store at Gist, in this county. She left there with the understanding that she would return, but subsequently wrote that she would be unable to do so. While at Gist her conduct was exemplary and above reproach. She was a member of the M. E. Church. Her age was about twenty-seven years.

The pink carnation has been selected as the Republican badge in the present campaign. It is President McKinley's favorite flower.

The next legal holiday in Maryland will be Tuesday, November 6th, upon which day the great Presidential battle will be fought.

The Protectorate Question.

The SENTINEL has several times called the attention of its readers to a point of serious importance in relation to the Democratic purpose concerning the disposition to be made of the Philippine Islands, as that purpose is clearly set forth in the Kansas City platform. The platform declares in favor of the recognition of the independence of the islands and the assumption of a protectorate over them by the United States. The term protectorate as here used can only be interpreted to mean protection against incursions or attacks by other nations. In other words, that we will abandon our claim to sovereignty over the islands, permit them to organize an independent government and then maintain their independence by protecting them from subjugation by other nations. Of course this protectorate also presupposes that the assistance necessary to establish a properly organized government, such as we are about to give to Cuba, will be extended. But, assuming it possible to organize such a government for the islands, further direction of it, on our part, is to cease when the organization has been consummated. In other words the Filipinos are to be left to govern themselves in their own way and without our interference further than to guard them from outside foes.

Now the most serious point in this business is that it is practically inviting conflict with other nathions—nations much abler to cope with our power than was effete and degenerate Spain. All nations of the world now recognize the absolute legality of our title to Philippine sovereignty. It is nowhere in dispute and its enforcement on our part will not be resisted by any power on earth. If we abandon it, however, the legality, the justice, the morality of our undertaking to stand guard with navy and army—because an army as well as a navy, and a large one at that, would be necessary in certain contingencies—against the other great powers which might, and probably would, desire to appropriate and annex the islands in whole or in part, would not only be questioned but resisted by such powers.

Unlike Cuba, the Philippines are too far away from America to make their condition a necessary menace and annoyance to us, as was that of Cuba while that island was under Spanish authority. The Cuban insurrection was a constant source of trouble and expense to the United States. For years the United States Navy was engaged in policing Cuban waters to prevent violations of the neutrality laws and to maintain our obligations to Spain. We had to honestly employ the national power to prevent the shipment of supplies and men to the insurrectionists. This condition continued until it became intolerable, and as Spain gave no evidence of ability to bring it to a speedy conclusion, the insurrectionists were recognized by this country as belligerants and the Spanish war immediately followed.

The Filipinos were also in insurrection at the same time, but no thought of recognizing them as belligerants, or in anywise interfering with Spain's treatmeat of that dependency ever entered the mind of an American. It was no concern of our's because any effect it may have had upon our interests was too remote for consideration. We intend to suffer the interference of no other nation with Cuban independence because Cuba is at our doors. But the same reasoning cannot be applied to the Philippines. Neither obligation nor reason will call for our interference with their future destiny if we shall abandon our sovereignty over them, and the policy proposed by the Kansas City platform, involving as it does the danger of serious complieations and probable conflicts with other nations, is the supremest folly. In this view of the case, which is thoroughly logical, the citizen who intends to vote for Bryan should consider that he will do so at the peril of adding the weight of his ballot to involve the country in a possible foreign war. The "dog in manger" business will not answer in this case

He Talks Too Much.

With all Mr. Bryan's power to sway audiences, for the moment, by his marvellous eloquence, it would be wise in the Democratic party to put a bridle on his tongue. Here in the East the party leaders are making a desperate effort to minimize the currency question and to relegate the free silver issue to the rear. But Mr. Bryan has the courage of his convictions upon the subject and throws prudence to the winds whenever he touches upon it. This is the way he talked about it in a speech at Knoxville, Tenn., September 16th, 1896:

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

At Zanesville, Ohio, on the 14th inst., he said:

"The party stands where it did in 1896 on the money question."

This means that Mr. Bryan, if elected, will use all the power of the executive to overthrow the sound money standard established by the Republicans and introduce a system which would inevitably unsettle values, depreciate the silver currency and practically put the country on a basis of silver monometallism. He has foreed his party to say that it is in favor of an American system of free silver coinage, without regard to the action of other nations, and has by every means in his power made it apparent that the success of the Democratic party this fall would mean the introduction of such a system. How any really sound money Democrat can support his party in the maintenance of this heresy, by voting for Bryan, passes the comprehension of ordinary mortals. And voting for Bryan means just that, notwithstanding the desperate effort of Eastern Democratic leaders to make it appear otherwise. Mr. Bryan talks too much to permit any sensible sound money Democrat to entertain any other opinion of his and his party's purposes.

Will Vote for McKinley.

Mr. Allan McLane, a brother of Robert M. McLane, State's Attorney of Baltimore, refuses to support Bryan and will vote for McKinley. Mr. McLane is a sturdy Democrat, but he does not believe in the heresies of Bryanism. Mr. Murray Vandiver, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, requested him to make speeches for the Democratic nominees, and in response to the request, which he declined, he wrote a letter in which he assigned his reasons for that declination and explained his purpose to vote for McKinley, and why. Among other things, after an allusion to Bryan's action in whipping in Democratic Senators for the ratification of the Paris treaty, he said:

"What change in this policy is proposed by the Kansas City platform? Will Mr. Bryan, if elected, call the troops home and present the islands to Aguinaldo in deference "to the rights of man" after paying out $20,000,000 of our good money for them? No; he could not do so without a violation of his oath of office. He proposes to have Congress at once declare our purpose to establish a stable government. How does that differ from what we are doing? 'Actions speak louder than words.' To my mind, the Kansas City platform on that point is simply trash. 'Imperialism' is merely a bugaboo to make a cloak for Mr. Bryan's violently suppressed attack of free silver. The Kansas City result was arrived at by a very simple process, to wit, in consideration of yielding to the party managers from the East the sop of 'imperialism' and declaring it 'paramount,' Mr. Bryan was allowed to reaffirm free silver and the platform of 1896.

"He has kept himself bottled up longer than I, for one, had expected, but how can anyone (excepting, of course, the Sun) doubt what he stands for or what his election means after reading his letter of acceptance? He is as bad on free silver, yea, even worse now than in 1896.

"He has no foreign policy to propose that is any better, or for that matter, as good as that now being pursued.

"He attempts to set class against class and appeals for national dishonor and stagnation as against honor and progress."

In conclusion, Mr. McLane says until the Democratic party rejects Bryan and all of his doctrines he will cast his vote in the way best calculated to defeat him, and will therefore vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.
