the ledge swarmed alive with ugly, disgusting, flatheaded creatures.

The girl must have felt a sudden intuition that her life was in danger, that there was only one escape—to do as the strange boy in the tree said—jump! she did without further questioning.

The shock almost threw Andy from his hold, but he was well-braced with his back to the trunk of the tree. Her slender hands grasped his shoulders and her pretty face bumped against his.

"Oh, what a queer adventure!" gasped the girl as she recovered herself. "How will I ever get down? What made you make me jump?"

"Look over your shoulder."

The girl turned her head; for the first time her eyes fell upon the ledge swarming with deadly rattlesnakes. And then—Andy had been foolish for once in disclosing her peril—she fell against him in a dead faint.

"This is worse than ever. A half-dead girl up in a tree. I'll have to hold her till she comes to her senses——"

"Letty, Letty! where are you?" broke in a woman's voice.

"Letty's safe. She's in a tree—don't come any nearer. The ledge is alive with snakes. Run as fast as you can to the nearest house for men and a rope," cried Andy as he espied a wide straw hat rounding the jutting wall.

"In a tree! snakes!"

"Go quick; she's fainted. Don't stop a second," yelled Andy, as he held on to the inanimate girl. It seemed as if his arm would break. The burden was but slight, but a tree-top was a very unhandy and precarious place for a boy of fifteen to hold a little body in his arms. Will they never come? The girl begins to tremble in his arms; slowly her senses come back. Then, opening her eyes, she gasps:

"Oh—oh—the horrid things!"

"Hey there, boy—catch it!" came a voice from the summit. A coil of rope came swirling through the air. Andy caught it and made it fast to the trunk.

"Now, I'll fasten it about you under your arms. Can you stand it?—the swing down, miss—miss——"

"Letty Falkland," said she.

Andy almost fell from the branch. Falkland was the name of the city man who held the mortgage on the mill.

"There; now the rope is nicely fastened about you—does it pinch?"

"No; I think I can hang to the tree and get down now. I'm brave."

"You are very brave. I've taken a turn about the limb to ease the strain. Now, carefully. Catch hold of the rough bark and—down you go!"

The girl swung from the limb and slowly swayed in mid air. Then catching hold of limbs and rough bark to stay her descent, she slowly went down. She touches the ground, she is safe. Andy quickly followed her; at the base of the tree the girl again fell in a faint. The two men who came down the side-path picked her up and carried her to the nearest house which chanced to be the one where she was visiting.

Letty soon recovered from her shock, and it didn't take very long for the thrilling account of it to reach her father in the city. "The son of the miller."

That was enough.

It is needless to say that Andy raised the mortgage from the dear old mill; more, a fine mill, with all modern improvements, is being erected near by—Letty's present to the brave lad. Letty dearly loves to visit the old mill, and Andy—boy like—likes to have her ask questions. What the result in a few years to come will be, all can plainly guess, for Mr. Falkland is a sensible man, and wants to see Andy go to the top because he is worthy.

Wall Paper!
Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, or the border they did not understand, &c. This is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me or bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, or send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of
WALL PAPER

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 16th, 1900.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy ever used for the purpose for which it is commended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.

For Sale by all Druggists and Merchants in the Country. PRICE 25 CENTS. feb-24-tf

WANTED.

Having bought the Smallwood Creamery of Mr. E. B. Arnold, I wish to say to the farmers of the community that I am prepared to handle 10,000 lbs. of Milk daily, and will pay the highest market price therefor, on or before the 15th of each month.

I ask the co-operation of the farmers. I know, from twelve years experience, that I can do you more good than you can have done for your dairy product in any other way. I would be glad to have any of the farmers call to see me to acquaint them with the business. Will furnish cans at wholesale price.
