THEY TWO.

They are left alone in the dear old home,
After so many years
When the house was full of frolic and fun,
Of childish laughter and tears.
They are left alone! they two—once more!
Beginning life over again,
Just as they did in the days of yore,
Before they were nine or ten.

And the table is set for two these days;
The children went one by one,
Away from home on their separate ways,
When the childhood days were done.
How healthily hungry they used to be!
What romping they used to do!
And mother—for weeping—can hardly see
To set the table for two.

They used to gather around the fire
While some one would read aloud,
But whether at study or work or play,
'Twas a loving and merry crowd.
And now they are two that gather there
At evenings to read or sew,
And it seems almost too much to bear
When they think of the long ago.

Ah, well! ah, well! 'tis the way of the world!
Children stay but a little while,
And then into other scenes are whirled,
Where other homes beguile.
But it matters not how far they roam,
Their hearts are fond and true,
And there's never a home like the dear old home,
Where the table is set for two.

LETTER FROM MICHIGAN.

IRONWOOD, MICHIGAN,
Dec. 17th, 1900.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

As you so kindly found space in your paper for a former letter, I take pleasure in writing to you again.

There is "all the difference in the world," and 1400 miles besides, between Ironwood and any home town, so it may interest some of your readers to hear about it.

In the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and over in the northwestern corner, you will find this city. It has about 10,000 inhabitants living along the range and occupying 3 miles of length to ½ mile of width. The city is made up of locations named for the mines—the Norrie, Newport, Aurora, Ashland, these are suburban to Ironwood proper, but are connected by electric cars, roads and R. R.

Thirty-five years ago this U. P. was a wilderness, and very little was known about it. A Mr. Longyear and his men, land-brokers or prospectors, came up here and located minerals in thousands and thousands of acres. Some of these locations were worthless, but a few turned out beyond their expectations, consequently Mr. Longyear is about twelve times a millionaire, receiving a royalty of 15 cents a ton on all ore taken from these mines. About the time ore was located here, Mr. Norrie, a young Englishman, arrived upon the scene, and invested in the stock. In a very short time he found himself fabulously wealthy. He betook himself to Europe, and has since lived in princely style in Paris.

The Norril mine, named for him, is said to be the largest iron mine in the world. It formerly belonged to the Oliver Mining Co., but has lately been purchased by the Carnegie people.

I can't tell you of the extent of the mining, to make you understand what a vast amount of ore is taken from the mines here. When you know that this one mining company pays a yearly tax of $80,000, you will have some idea of its wealth.

The monthly pay-roll of the First National Bank, here, to two of these mining companies, is over $150,000.

This ore is red, soft and easily mined; it sells for $4 a ton, and has to be shipped by rail to Ashland or some other lake port; from there it is sent by barges to the smelteries in Ohio, Pa., or N. Y.

Lake navigation closes about the first of November; then the ore is put into stock-piles. These are built up against trestles, something like the "filling-in" process of railroads.

The mining goes on all the time, and the miners are divided into what they call day and night shifts; the ore comes up in skips and is dumped against the trestle work. The men who 'tend these skips haven't a very enviable job when the thermometer is monkeying around 40° below zero, as it often does here, especially at night.

The miners are from Cornwall, England, Sweden, and every other nation of Europe. They are industrious, law-abiding and free American citizens. They earn from $2.75 to $5 and more a day—it depends upon the position. There is a general superintendent, a Mr. Cole, who looks after all these mines; then there are local superintendants, general managers, captains, and bosses, besides engineers, chemists, prospectors, etc.

Besides the iron mines, copper is found in rich and profuse deposits near Marquette on the lake shore. The Calumet Hecla copper mine is 6000 feet deep, and the most extensive and richest in the world. At first the shares were $15; now they are over $800, and they have paid out $78,000,000 in dividends.

I expect to see into these iron and copper mines in the near future, and may write you of my underground experience.

The schools here are Ironwood's pride—there are seven ward schools, and four of them have kindergarten departments. They accommodate nearly 2,000 children, and there is a Convent school with 200 or more pupils. There are nearly 60 teachers, of whom two are men—the principal and vice principal of the High School. Much attention is paid to music, drawing and athletics, and there is a special teacher in each. The supervisors of music and drawing visit each class every third day, the regular teacher supplementing the work every day.

These children—many of whom were born in the old country and remember their ocean voyage to America—write well and use good English. Their singing is fine and they read three part songs written in any key. Their drawings are surprising, many of them showing decided talent.

The High School is a new $50,000 building, occupying a beautiful site, on the highest point in the city. It is surrounded by fine grounds, where they play foot-ball and hold their field-day sports.

There are no hills here. Toward the lake are some large bluffs, and between here and the lake are the forests—where lumbering is carried on very extensively.

I have visited a lumber mill in Wisconsin, just over the river from here, where they have acres of lumber piled very symmetrically, and forming streets through which we drove. The mill employs about 200 men in summer but is shut down in winter.

The saw dust is utilized for fuel, and there is a great deal of waste material that is burned up in a huge iron cylinder near the works. Everything has been on runners since Nov. 7, and this is the lumbermen's harvest.

They bring the wood and mining timber in on sleds. The logs for lumber are floated to the mills when the thaw comes in May.

One can count on 6 months of snow here; this doesn't all fall at once, but when it comes it is here to stay, and piles up very deep during the winter. The snow-plow was out last week opening up the track. The streets are opened the same way, but there hasn't been snow enough yet to make it necessary.

The natural forests have been cut away, and the trees grow very slowly. There are very beautiful poplars and maples here, the soil is fertile and vegetables and flowers grow rapidly and very large. Strawberries ripen in July, and potatoes are dug in October.

This population requires a great quantity of provisions. Armours, in Chicago, have a branch office here and supply quantities of meat. In season it isn't unusual to see a score or more of deer hanging in the market. Deer hunting and fishing are the sports here.

Parties and families camp along the lakes in summer, as we in the East go to the seashore. There isnt so much dressing, and the lovers of nature see it in the greatest beauty in the forests and along the beautiful sheets of water.

The houses here are heated by steam, hot water or hot air, and are lighted by electricity. Having the money, as most of them do, their homes are beautiful and provided with the most modern conveniences.

You meet people who have traveled all over our own country, and a great many who have been in other lands too.

Chicago is 400 miles south of us. You take the train at 8.45 P. M. here, and are in the city by 9.30 the next morning. The merchants there send salesmen, with trunks of samples, all through the country, and most of the shopping is done through them. Usually the people here go to Chicago several times a year, or to Minneapolis or Duluth.

I have never met more social or more delightful people than are here, from various parts of our country but mostly from the East.

The ladies have a Tuesday afternoon club, a Whist club, and several Church societies, and the men have a Social club that gives a dance every two weeks.

There is an opera house here, and the auditorium on the third floor of the High School is a fine place for concerts and entertainments.

The Star Course gives an entertainment each month—talent from all parts of the country—and the High School Glee Club always gives one entertainment. Last year they gave the opera El Capitan; this year they will sing "The Creation."

The Supt. of Schools here is comparatively a young man, an enthusiastic hunter and fisherman, and without a superior in his school work. The new High School was named for him—the Luther L. Wright School—and it is a fine monument to his ability and success, and shows how he is appreciated. The dedication of this building was a most beautiful and impressive event, and Luther L. Wright was there to get what most men receive after this fitful life is ended."

When they sing "Michigan, my Michigan," we say "Maryland, my Maryland," and are proud that we are Marylanders, working with these Michi-ganders.

The Mastery of the Ocean.

The close of the nineteenth century witnesses the well-nigh complete triumph of human invention over the obstacles to speedy intercommunication presented by the vast expanse and multiplied dangers of ocean travel. It is a far cry from the little 350-ton steamer "Savannah" of the year 1819 to the 23,000-ton "Duetchland" or the 28,000-ton "Oceanic" of the present day, but the difference between the 28-day trip of the first steam vessel to cross the Atlantic and the recent 5⅛ day trip of the "Deutchland" shows that the marine architect and engineer have employed the intervening years to good purpose. Not merely have they found a way to carry a complement of 2000 souls across the Atlantic at something like railway speed under normal conditions of weather, but they have so greatly increased length and beam and depth, and have multiplied boiler and engine power so liberally, that the biggest of our big liners can go smashing its way triumphantly through an Atlantic gale, opposing the momentum of giant seas with the momentum born of 23,000 tons of displacement backed by 37,000 horse power in the engine room.

Baltimore, Md.

The paper of the people, for the people and with the people.

Honest in Motive, Fearless in Expression, Sound in Principle.

A newspaper is an educator: there are all kinds of educators, but the man who spends money judiciously and liberally is betetr able to impart his knowledge than the man who has little or nothing to spend.

THE SUN is the highest type of a newspaper. The Sun's Special Correspondents throughout the United States, as well as in Europe, South Africa, China, and, in fact, all over the world, make it an up-to-date newspaper.

The Market Reports and commercial features put the farmer, the merchant and the broker in close touch with the markets at Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other places which are prominent centers.

From now on the news of the world promises to be more interesting than ever before and national and political questions will arise, making probably the most eventful period in the country's history.

This, together with the corps of editors and reporters at Baltimore, Washington and New York, make The Sun invaluable to its readers.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger is the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of WALL PAPER

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.

For Sale by all Druggists and Merchants in the Country. PRICE 25 CENTS. feb-24-4t

WANTED.

Having bought the Smallwood Creamery, of Mr. E. B. Arnold, I wish to say to the farmers of the community that I am prepared to handle 10,000 lbs. of Milk daily, and will pay the highest market price therefor, on or before the 15th of each month.

I ask the co-operation of the farmers. I know, from twelve years experience, that I can do you more good than you can have done for your dairy product in any other way. I would be glad to have any of the farmers call to see me to acquaint them with the business. Will furnish cans at wholesale price.
