your incoherent remarks, you must be more explicit, and tell me just what the trouble is."

Keith Maston contrived to peep at them without being seen. She was standing a step above the Governor, and while Maston had only a view of the Governor's profile, her full face was visible.

"She, too, has changed; but how beautiful she is," flashed through his brain, as he listened eagerly for the Governor's reply.

"Keith Maston is out of the penitentiary," said the Governor slowly.

"Yes," she murmered, and a little color crept into her white face.

"He's here, and—by Jove, Evelyn, you must not faint!" He gripped her wrists fiercely and the force of his will-power probably steadied her reeling brain.

"It is of the utmost importance that you should retain your self-control," he went on.

"I am not going to faint," said she. "Is he in this house?"

"Yes, in the morning room. Somehow he has gotten an absurd notion in his head—the long confinement has undoubtedly affected his mind—that he did not commit the forgery."

"I never doubted his innocence." Her murmured words floated to Keith like a benediction.

"Don't talk nonsense," said the Governor, harshly. "There is no question of his guilt. But the fool swears that I am the forger, and he the victim. Did you ever hear anything more preposterous?" and Governor Leigh nervously scanned his wife's face; but she had herself well in hand now and not a muscle quivered.

"There is nothing preposterous about it"

Keith Maston felt a little shock of surprise; while the Governor's face ran the gamut of amazement, fear and anger.

"How dare you!" he exclaimed.

"I suspected it for a long while, and at last you let broken sentences drop in your sleep which convinced me."

He did not attempt to deny it, with her clear, fearless eyes bent scornfully upon him.

"What I want you to do is to go in and see him and to appeal to him by the love he once bore you to give up the so-called proofs, he declares he has, and to relinquish the insane project he has of ruining me," said Governor Leigh hurriedly.

Two scarlet spots glowed in Mrs. Leigh's cheeks.

"He was a quixotic fellow always and stood back from wooing you because he thought you cared for me. I fancy it was perhaps a slight mistake on his part." The sneering tone was lost on Evelyn Leigh.

"You, of course, instilled such a false idea. How I could have been so blind to your perfidity is incomprehensible; and yet you ask me after what has passed to do this thing for you!"

The infinite contempt in her proud, beautiful face was enough to have withered almost any man.

"You are my wife; any disgrace that touches me falls upon you, and upon the child," he remarked coolly.

She crushed her hands together in impotent pain.

"Poor child!" she murmured. "You know that you have me in your power because of Dorothy."

Maston closed the door softly. His face was working strangely; all the corroding bitterness of his heart was stilled in the rush of pity and love that assailed him.

He hastily scrbbled a few lines to assure the Governor that he had no longer anything to fear, and placing the note in a conspicuous place, caught up the white kid glove, muttering as he thrust it in his bosom, "A souvenir," and so slipped out of a side door that gave egress to the street.

HICK'S FORECASTS FOR MARCH.

The 1st and 2nd days of March will be colder and clearing in the western extremes of the country, with rising barometer and northwesterly winds. A storm area which will have traversed the country from west to east, during the closing days of February, will be central over the Mississippi Valley and the Atlantic coast regions on the 1st and 2nd. The higher barometer and sharp change to colder following these storms will rapidly subside on the approach of the 5th, and from the 5th to the 7th decided storm conditions will return. Within forty eight hours of 5 o'clock, p. m. on the 5th, no one should be surprised by the appearance of tropical storms, with possible hurricane to the south, with counterpart of a great boreal storm of rain, wind and snow from the north west. The full Moon on the celestial equator on the 5th and the day following is a time to be prudently watched by all whose interests and safety are liable to be jeopardized by dangerous storms on sea and land. Lightning and thunder will visit most sections during the first stage of these perturbations, but a blizzard of no mean proportions will likely come out of the northwest on and touching the 6th and 7th. Watch and see!

From the 9th to the 13th is a regular storm period, exactly at the time when an annual crisis is to be expected in the Earth's electrical and magnetic currents. From about the 9th to the 13th, abnormal electrical phenomena, such as auroras, electric winds charging objects on the earth's surface with electricity, earth currents disturbing telegraphic instruments, thunder storms and volcanic and seismic disturbances. These things are not to be regarded as dangerous, or as an absolute and unfailing certainty; but correct records will prove that such phenomena are at a maximum, taking the globe as a whole one year with another, on and about the 11th of March. Of course, storms of rain, wind and snow—this time with destructive sleet added—will be natural at this time. Not only are we near the center of vernal equinox, but we are also nearing the center of the Jupiter period, with a Mercury period central on the 16th covering the 8th to the 24th. The Venus perturbation, which is central in April, also comes in as a distributing factor at the crisis in our March disturbances. Expect, therefore, many very decided storms and other happenings of peculiar, but not necessarily dangerous character.

The 15th to 17th will constitute a reactionary time of storm, and generally unsettled and unpleasant weather, which will scarcely subside until we enter what we believe to be the greatest storm period of the month. Jupiter, Earth, Venus, Mercury, Vulcan and Moon, all combine there perturbing forces at this time. The Moon will be new and in perigee on Wednesday the 20th, within a few hours of its passage over the equator on the 19th and of the Sun's passage of the equator on the 21st. The barometer should be closely watched at the oncoming and progress of this period, and the first premonitions of equatorial hurricanes or cyclones, should such appear, should be watched with great prudence on all seas and along all coasts in the zones of the Earth especially exposed to these great equinoctial perturbations. Our own coasts, especially in the south, will hardly be exempt from a share in the disturbances due at or near this period. Heavy rain and thunderstorms, with possible tornadoes, will visit many interior sections, and snow, sleet and blizzard will wind up the general turmoil in northwestern, central and northern parts of the country. In all reasonable probability, such are the things to be expected. If unseasonably warm, bright weather prevails, without storms, look for heavy seismic disturbances. The last storm period runs from the 26th to 29th. March closes fair and cool.

As to general outlook for the spring and summer, we believe that a sufficiency of rainfall will visit almost the entire country during the spring months. The Venus equinox falling in April this year, we figure that tornadoes and heavy wind and hail storms will be most frequent and severe in that month. Rains and floods will not be as destructive in the south, and drouth will visit many interior and western states in the summer. We believe, as before predicted, that the Pacific coast regions will have more rainfall, and that mountainous sections fronting the Atlantic coasts will have disastrous cloud bursts and local floods. Local water spouts will occur even in sections suffering with general drouth. Such are Jupiter's characteristics.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

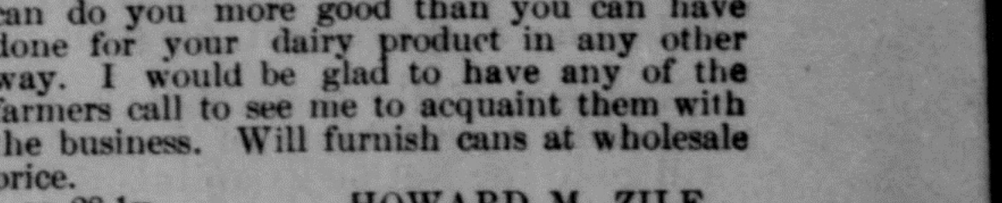

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.

For Sale by all Druggists and Merchants in the Country. PRICE 25 CENTS. feb-24-4t

WANTED.

Having bought the Smallwood Creamery, of Mr. E. B. Arnold, I wish to say to the farmers of the community that I am prepared to handle 10,000 lbs. of Milk daily, and will pay the highest market price therefor, on or before the 15th of each month.

I ask the co-operation of the farmers. I know, from twelve years experience, that I can do you more good than you can have done for your dairy product in any other way. I would be glad to have any of the farmers call to see me to acquaint them with the business. Will furnish cans at wholesale price.
