Hard on the Cobdenites.

The disciples of Richard Cobden, in this country, still indulge in occasional flings at the doctrine of Protection which now prevails here, and which they flippantly style a relic of barbarism. They were morally and absolutely certain when the Dingley tariff law was pending that its passage would hermetically seal the doors of foreign lands against American exports and would be an insuperable obstacle against our success in foreign trade. The result, however, has been absolutely contrary to their predictions and American products are successfully competing with those of other lands in well nigh all the markets of the world.

This does not apply exclusively to agricultural products either, by a large margin, but includes a long list of manufactured articles. It is not many years, for instance, since Faber pencils were used in all the departments of the United States Government. These pencils were of German manufacture and government officials thought no other pencils would answer their purposes. Now pencils of American manufacture have not only driven the Faber article out of the American market, but are fast supplanting it in Germany. The reason is that American pencils, quite as good as the Faber brand, can be bought for fifteen cents a dozen, while the latter cost three times that much, or more. Skilled American labor, at high wages, can produce manufactured articles in many instances at less cost than they can be made by poorly paid European mechanics.

The trade and commerce of this country are certainly flourishing and are growing more prosperous yearly under the protective system. The Cobdenites may cling to their theories in the face of facts which prove that they are not adapted to the economical system of this country, but the people will probably see that the experiment of their introduction here, even to a partial extent, which was made by the Gorman-Wilson law, shall not be repeated. It may be hard on the followers of Cobden, but it is well for the country generally.

Select Story.

CINDERELLA'S REWARD.

From the American Queen.

It was only Elpie. Elpie came into the big, empty drawing room in her usual noiseless way, and sat down on a footstool before the fire, embracing her knees with her hands. Elpie's task-mistresses were all out at some social function, and Elpie was quite alone and idle for once in her poor little life.

What castles, fair and grand, did the big brown eyes see in those glowing embers? Who can say? "The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts," and much as her taskmistresses might try to crush the youth and romance out of Elpie, they could not quite succeed. But presently the big eyes grew smaller, Elpie's little brown head began to nod, and she fell sound asleep.

What awakened her? Elpie did not know; but suddenly with a great start and shiver, she started up to find the fire burning very low and the room almost in complete darkness. She sat quite still, her heart throbbing so violently she was quite sure some one in the room must hear it. And there was some one in the room. A dark figure was moving in the opposite corner to her.

Wild thoughts of burglars and midnight assassins rushed through Elpie's mind; but she was a brave little creature, and she did not scream. The servants were down stairs, in the kitchen, and she was the only living being in the house besides. It came into her mind that she must stealthily reach forward to the bell and ring; but just as she was moving, the figure turned. He advanced swiftly towards her, and, though Elpie tried to speak out bravely and ask him what he wanted, she could not; her tongue seemed to cleave to the roof of her mouth.

"Hush!" said the man, and his voice sounded quite pleasant and friendly. "Don't scream, please. I'm not a burglar, though my mode of entrance may seem like that of one. The truth is, I—I came through a window down stairs and made my way up here."

Elpie could see him indistinctly. He was a young man, well dressed, and the face looking down at her was frank and friendly.

"First, tell me who you are? You can't be one of my—"

"I'm Elpie—that is, I am Elspeth Grey. Mr. Kemp was my mother's cousin, and he took me to live with him when my father died; and since Mr. Kemp died I have stayed with Mrs. Kemp and her daughters and helped them."

"Helped them? How?"

"Oh, with dresses, and—and other things," faltered Elpie, frightened by the fierceness of his tone.

"Well, they are all out tonight, aren't they? and the servents are enjoying themselves down stairs, so we needn't be frightened. I am going to tell you a tremendous secret, little one. But first, tell me, are those people kind to you? Do they give you plenty of nice food, pretty clothing, amusements?"

"Julianna—Josephine is—is nice sometimes," faltered Elpie. She was a loyal little soul, and anxious to hide the faults of her relatives.

"And Matilda—Jane, and the rest of the well-principled household?" asked the young man, satirically.

"I can't tell you any more," cried Elpie, driven to bay, "till I know who you are."

"That's easy told, little one. I am Mr. Kemp's nephew, therefore a kind of cousin of yours." Elpie started and turned pale. "My name is Norman Kemp. My father founded Uncle John's business, and helped him to buy this house on condition that it should be left to me. When my uncle died these infamous women stepped in and took everything; and yet I know Uncle John left a will in my favor. I have been away; that is why I have not come forward sooner. But Woods, the lawyer, drew up the will, and I have reason to suspect it is hidden somewhere in this house. I shall not leave here till I have found it. Now, are you going to show me the way to my uncle's library?"

Elpie indicated it in fear and trembling and returned to her seat. In about a quarter of an hour Norman Kemp re-entered flushed and excited.

"I have found it! There's nothing like determination, little cousin. Concealed—where do you think! In the flap of the cover of the family Bible. Of course, Mrs. Kemp will say she knew nothing of it." He began to read it, and then uttered an exclamation. "And here's mention of you, little one. 'And whereas, I have undertaken to provide for my cousin's child, Elspeth Grey, I do hereby bequeath to the said Elspeth Grey the sum of $10,000, to be kept in trust by my wife until the aforesaid Elspeth shall reach the age of 18.' How old are you Elpie?"

"I was 18 in July," faltered Elpie.

"Then you can claim your rights at once. I shall see after your claims as well as my own. Now I am going, little cousin, straight to the lawyers. Good-bye, Elpie."

Elpie's heart thrilled strangely as her companion's black eyes looked into her face. He took her hand, then suddenly raised it to his lips.

"Forgive me; I couldn't help it. I am your cousin you know, and you are a brave and true little girl. Good-bye, Elpie; I shall soon see you again."

And this strange burglar was gone.

A year later they met again. Norman Kemp was in full possession of his property, and Elpie, who had the modest income of $600 from her well invested inheritance, had been spending some months abroad with friends. The Kemps, discovered in what had really been a fraud, had disappeared, none knew where. No one but little Elpie, who was a tender hearted little girl, cared where they went.

She was no longer the little neglected girl he had first seen; she was more womanly and experienced. But she still blushed, and then paled a little as Norman took her hand.

"I have been making changes in my home," he said, after a little desultory conversation.

"Yes, I have heard so," Elpie answered, and somehow her head drooped, and so did her sweet, childish lips.

Norman sat looking at her silently.

"And have you heard, also," he asked quietly, at last, "that I wish a mistress for it?"

Elpie's heart beat very low and dully.

"Yes, I've heard that, too—Miss—Miss Grant of Washington, isn't it?"

Norman started. "Who told you that?"

"Oh, I don't know; everybody thinks it."

"Then everybody is wrong," said Norman; and he suddenly came very close to her and laid his hand on her little fingers."

"Elpie, there's only one mistress in all the world I want for it; can't you guess who it is? The little girl I've loved since I looked down at her sleeping, a poor, little, tired Cinderella, in Mrs. Kemp's magnificent drawing room; the little girl who trusted me from the beginning, though appearances were so terribly against me. Elpie, will you consent to be a burglar's wife?"

And he must have heard an answer that satisfied him, though no one else could have done so; for the next moment Elpie's little brown head rested on the burglar's breast and then and there he bent and kissed, not her hand this time, but her lips.

WILLIE'S LESSON OF LOVE.

:o:

Last summer Tommie Jones and me
were climbin' all around
And found a bird's nest in a tree
Away above the ground.
We took the little thing away
With all the eggs inside;
And oh! the words ma had to say—
I just sat down and cried!

"You wicked, naughty boy," she said,
"To pain the birdie so!
"Oh! He that watches overhead
Will punish you, I know!
It is a sin to take the nest
And rob the bird of joy,
Now promise God you'll do your best
To be a better boy!"

So when I said my prayers that night
I promised God I'd do
The best I could to make it right,
As ma had told me to.
I carried the crumbs out every day
And left them at the tree
And tried to get the bird to stay
And make it up with me.

She flew away last fall, and that
Was the last I seen or heard
About her till they brought ma's hat
Home yesterday! That bird
Was there as fine as life, stuck through
With wires you couldn't see
To make her look as though she'd flew.
Down from the nearest tree.

If God hates Tommie and me,
As ma let on that day,
I'd kind of like to know what He
Above us has to say
About the one that went and shot
The little bird like that,
And also of the one that's got
It fastened on her hat?

RIGHT UP TO DATE.

(Benson's Plaster Is Pain's Master.)

These are days of records and of the beating of records. Benson's Porous Plaster, for quickness of action and thoroughness of cure, has no records to beat except its own.

Benson's Plaster, always the best, always the leader, is to-day better than ever. It sticks to the skin but never sticks in its tracks. It marches on.

The people not only want to be cured but cured quickly—and Benson's Plaster does it. Coughs, colds, lumbago, asthma, bronchitis, liver and kidney complaints, and other ills approachable by an external remedy, yield to Benson's as ice does to heat.

Neither Belladonna, Strengthening or Capsicum plasters are to be compared with Benson's. People who have once tested the merits of Benson's Plaster have no use for any other external remedy.

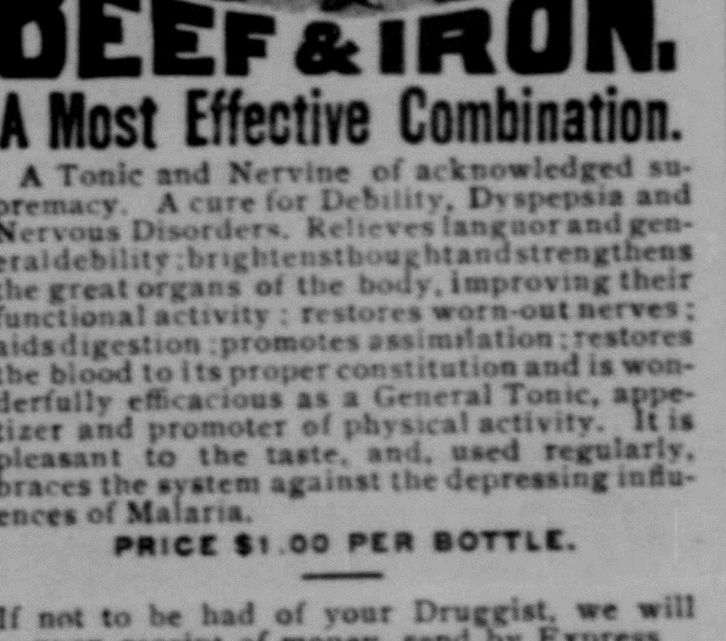

More than 5,000 physicians and druggists (and a thousand times as many non-professional persons) have called Benson's Plasters one of the few (!) home remedies that can be trusted.

Fifty-five highest awards have been made to it in competition with the best known plasters of Europe and America. Better proof of its merits is inconceivable. Be sure to get the genuine.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States, on receipt of 25c. each.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store, therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of WALL PAPER

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

NO. 3867 EQUITY.

In the Circuit Court for Carroll County, sitting as a Court of Equity.

James Kiser et al., plaintiffs, vs. James Franklin Kiser et al., defendants.

The object of this Bill of Complaint is to annull and set aside a certain pretended deed or instrument of writing purporting to have been executed on the 24th day of March A. D. 1900 by Henry Kiser deceased to James Franklin Kiser and recorded among the Land Records of Carroll County in Liber J. H. B. No. 90 folio 285.

The bill further states that a certain Henry Kiser late of Carroll County, Maryland deceased was in his life time seized and possessed of a certain lot of land situate in Taneytown, in said Carroll County. That the said Henry Kiser died on the 30th day of January A. D. 1901, leaving surviving him as his next of kin and heirs at law, James Kiser a brother and Alice Kiser his wife, Mary Ann Shildt a sister, Emery Pitzer, a sister, and Levi Pitzer her husband, Phoebe Koontz a sister, and Jacob Koontz her husband, James Franklin Kiser and Alice Kiser his wife, Annie Zentz and Aaron Zentz her husband, Edward Kiser and Sabina Kiser his wife all of Baltimore City Maryland except James Franklin Kiser who is a resident of Carroll County, Samuel Kiser and whose wife's name is unknown, residents of Colorado, Grant Kiser and Minda Kiser his wife, residents of Fairfield, Nebraska, and John Kiser and Missouri Kiser his wife, residents of Hanover, Pennsylvania, children of William Kiser a deceased brother of Henry Kiser. The bill further states that for some time prior to the execution of the deed dated March 24th 1900 exhibit A referred to in the bill, the said Henry Kiser by reason of disease mentally and physically was unfit for the transaction of any business and incapable of making a valid deed or contract and remained in such condition up to the time of his death. That during the continuance of said infirmity and incapacity he was induced through fraud and misrepresentation of the said James Kiser to execute a certain paper purporting to be a deed and professing to convey the Real Estate mentioned in this bill of complaint to James Kiser, his heirs and assigns in fee, a certified copy of the deed being filed with the bill of complaint marked exhibit "A". That the said deed was executed by said Henry Kiser with out any understanding on his part of the obligations of said deed and by fraud and misrepresentations on the part of said James Franklin Kiser, and that the consideration expressed in said deed was never executed and was a total failure, the grantor never having lived with the said James Franklin Kiser and never having taken care of him from the time of the execution of said deed until his death but on the contrary the said Henry Kiser lived in his own property totally independent of the care and custody of the said James Franklin Kiser. That the said pretended deed unless set aside and annulled will deprive the plaintiff of their respective rights and interest in and to said Real Estate as next of kin and heirs at law of the said Henry Kiser and exclude them from participating in the estate of their brother who died leaving but little property outside the real estate. That said deed is wholly with out consideration and the pretended consideration is an utter failure and is fraudulent and void.

The bill prays that the said pretended deed purporting to have been executed on the 24th March 1900 be set aside and annulled, and for such further relief as their case requires; for the writ of subpoena directed against the defendant James Franklin Kiser, Annie Zentz and Aaron Zentz, Edward Kiser and Sabina Kiser and for an order of publication giving notice to Samuel Kiser and wife whose name is unknown, residents of Denver, Colorado, Grant Kiser and Minda Kiser his wife residents of Fairfield, Nebraska and John Kiser and Missouri Kiser his wife residents of Hanover, Pennsylvania, giving notice to them and each of them of the substance and object of this bill and warning them and each of them to appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before a certain day to be named therein to answer the premises and show cause if any they have why a decree should not pass as prayed.

It is thereupon ordered this 8th day of March A. D. 1901 by the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Carroll County once in each of four successive weeks before the 30th day of April A. D. 1901 give notice to the said non-resident defendants of the object and substance of this bill of complaint, warning them and each of them to appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 22nd day of May A. D. 1901 to answer the premises and assert their claim if any they have, and to show cause if any they have why a decree should not pass as prayed.

WANTED.

Having bought the Smallwood Creamery, of Mr. E. B. Arnold, I wish to say to the farmers of the community that I am prepared to handle 10,000 lbs. of Milk daily, and will pay the highest market price therefor, on or before the 15th of each month.

I ask the co-operation of the farmers. I know, from twelve years experience, that I can do you more good than you can have done for your dairy product in any other way. I would be glad to have any of the farmers call to see me to acquaint them with the business. Will furnish cans at wholesale price.
