The Philadelphia Record well says: "The assassin who undertakes to murder the Republic by killing one man in seventy-five millions of men is a bungler by comparison with the scoundrels who seek to assassinate free government by corrupting the ballot-box. Our laws do not adequately provide for the punishment of the anarchists who, with knife and and bullet, seek the lives of their victims, nor for the punishment of those craftier anarchists who seek to strike at the life of the nation by poisoning the source of authority.

Can This Be True?

> "McKinley and I are enemies. He has been guilty of an unpardonable offense toward me. I cannot say anything good of him, and I do not think it is just the time to say anything bad. I despise the man. I have no use for him, and there is no reason for my saying anything. I am totally indifferent in the matter."

Senator George L. Wellington is charged with the utterance of the language quoted above in regard to the attempted assassination of President McKinley, but it seems incredible that a United States Senator should be so lost to all sense of patriotism as to be indifferent to so great a crime as Czolgosz's against the Government of his country. No matter how intense Mr. Wellington's hatred of Wm. McKinley, the man, may be, he has sufficient intellgence to understand that the assassin's crime is greater than an assault with intent to kill a private individual would be. It is a crime against the whole nation, or worse, a crime against all government. Indifference to it, by a sane United States Senator, would be a crime in him, and the whole people of Maryland must feel abased and ashamed that the State is represented in the Senate by a man capable of such a condition of mind, unless, indeed, that mind is unbalanced.

An Important Subject.

Our readers are generally familiar with the fact that the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania are largely owned by the railroads, which have combined to advance freights and so to increase the cost of coal to consumers. It has been given out by dealers that a monthly advance in this respect is anticipated until a certain period, and nobody can tell when these railroad exactions will cease. Individual coal mine owners are at the mercy of the railroad combine and can do nothing, even if so disposed, to relieve the people of these increasing burdens. This is a very brief explanation of a condition of which no improvement is probable and which will eventually make it necessary to find a substitute for coal for heating and other purposes. Undoubtedly the sooner such a substitute shall be found the better it will be for the people.

Readers of the SENTINEL will recall an article, twice published in its columns within the past year or two, from the pen of Mr. Joseph L. Haines, in relation to the immense water power going to waste in the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. Running quietly out to sea, Mr. Haines says, is a force equal to one million two hundred thousand horsepower, every day in the year, which, if utilized, might be employed to furnish light and heat for the people of the entire State of Maryland. Mr. Haines makes this statement upon his examination of the canal as a civil engineer, and he is reliable authority upon the subject.

Now, this is a matter which should be carefully and thoroughly investigated by the Legislature of Maryland with a view to putting this vast power to some practical use. It is true, the "Old Ditch," as it is sometimes called in derision, is in the courts, and possibly the Legislature, for some time to come, will be unable to make any practical use of it. But this condition cannot last always and the time will come when such an arrangement can be made as will give the people of the State a title to this work upon which they have expended so many millions of treasure. In view of this it would be well to be in possession of a full, clear and comprehensive knowledge of all the possibilities bound up in this old artificial waterway. The services of Mr. Haines, as a legislator, would be of incalculable benefit to the State in this connection, and he should be elected to the House of Delegates by the people of Carroll county for this reason, if for no other. And further, he should have for associates with him from the county, in that body, men who would be in perfect sympathy with him upon the question.

The subject is of vast importance to the people, who would do well at this juncture, apart from any question of party politics, to elect the entire Carroll county Republican Legislative ticket.

Dickinson College, at Carlisle, Pa., opened with 200 in the preparatory school and 100 in the freshman class.

A Blow at Government.

The shots fired by Leon Czolgosz, at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo, on Friday of last week, were something more than an attempt to murder Wm. McKinley, the President of the United States. They were a blow aimed at Government—not merely the Government of the United States, but all Government. Much of the horror felt at the deed and the sympathy expressed by the people for the President, have been evoked by the nobility of the man, and have, therefore, been personal. In the prayers offered in public for his recovery the phrase, "Our Beloved President," has been uttered and repeated by men of all religious creeds and of all political parties. We have scarcely heard a prayer upon the subject in which the phrase has not been used, and sometimes used with great fervor by pronounced political opponents of the head of the Nation. It is a pleasure to note these evidences of the esteem in which the President is held as a man; but the assassin fired his bullets at the individual only as he represented, in its highest office, this government of the people—the people who placed him in that station to execute their laws.

For this reason it is surprising that anybody not an anarchist can be found who regards the crime of Czolgosz with indifference or with a sympathetic feeling for the perpetrator of the dastardly deed. Some such, however, there are, even in Carroll county, but to the credit of humanity, it can be said, they are very few and very far between. They are governed only by hostility to the man, and are perhaps of such a low order of intelligence that they do not comprehend that they, themselves, who are a part of the Government, have been wounded in the person of the President.

Yet this is the primary and chief significance of the bloody deed at Buffalo. Wm. McKinley, as a private individual, would have been perfectly safe from all danger of assassination. The anarchist who fired the shots into his body, and the anarchists who conspired to procure the commission of the crime, are simply enemies of all law and all government.

The first lesson to be learned from the event, therefore, is, that there should be no place for anarchists in America. This is a government of the people, and he who, by the slightest motion, attempts its overthrow is an enemy of the people, and should be restrained with a strong hand. It is impossible to look into men's minds, but their words and actions can be understood. Emma Goldman is a propagandist of anarchy and Emma Goldman's words, according to Czolgosz's statements, made him an anarchist. The American people are fond of the doctrine of free speech and this disciple of anarchy has been permitted to sow the seeds of her vicious theories unrestricted. But when free speech leads to the worst of crimes, it is time to place some legal restraint upon it. Our immigration laws need radical amendment. Avowed anarchists should be excluded from the country and those already here should be subjected to punishment, whenever they attempt to propagate their heresies. In fact, it would not be amiss to banish those who are known to entertain anarchistic opinions. Any theory that leads to such a crime as that of Czolgosz is utterly at variance with the fundamental principles of this government and should be suppressed with a strong hand.

Doubtless this sentiment is largely entertained by the people of the country generally and by their representatives in Congress, but the sentiment is only brought into play upon some such occasion as that which sent a thrill of horror throughout the land when the news was flashed over the wires that President McKinley had been shot. Before Congress meets, interest in the subject will languish and only feeble efforts may be made by Congress to enact the necessary laws for the suppression of anarchy as a crime against humanity. But let not the event at Buffalo be so easily forgotten, and if the people's representatives show a disposition to neglect the introduction and passage of remedial measures, let them be overwhelmed with an avalanche of petitions, until they shall be forced to action. Down with anarchy.

Democratic Primaries.

Democratic primaries to elect delegates to the county nominating convention, which will meet in this city on Monday, will be held in the several districts of this county today. Rumors that contests would take place in a number of the districts have been current for some time, while it has been understood that efforts were making, as far as possible, to prevent them. It is now alleged, however, that some pretty lively scrimmages will occur, the opposing forces, in some instances at least, being aligned as in the contest for the judgeship nomination some time ago. For some of the offices there are numerous aspirants, some of whom appear to be acceptable to both sides, a condition which may cause individual contests. The sheriffalty will be a leading bone of contention as there are several candidates for the nomination. It is said that those who opposed the nomination of Mr. Henning for judge favor Mr. F. A. Crawford of Franklin district, but that he is not acceptable to the other side. Others spoken of are Messrs. John T. Lynch, of Westminster district; Louis C. Messler, of Union Bridge; Clinton L. Murray, of Hampstead; Jas. Myers, of Uniontown; Wm. H. Wilson, of Manchester; Jos. W. Berret, of Freedom; Norris Caple, of Woolery's, and probably others.

Mr. Jacob Hesson, of Taneytown district, is spoken of as a possible candidate for County Commissioner, while Messrs. John E. Masenheimer the present incumbent, and Mr. F. L. Hann, of Hampstead, are said to be in the field for the County Treasurer nomination.

Among those named as candidates for nomination for the House of Delegates are, D. N. Henning, Esq., of this city; Messrs. Jesse W. Fuss, of Union Bridge; Wm. N. Gettier, of Manchester; Beau George, of Freedom; John P. Klee, Frank Rupp, of Woolery's; Harry Hoffacker, of Manchester, and others. Mr. Henning, it is said, has been solicited by both sides to be a candidate, and will consent to accept a nomination.

Tuesday evening Andrew Jackson, aged 45 years, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by his 19-year-old son, Jas. Jackson, at their home in Schleysville, a suburb of Frederick. After the shooting Jas. Jackson and his brother-in-law, Benjamin Ford, escaped and have not yet been apprehended.

The Schley court of inquiry convened at Washington on Thursday and took such action as will delay further proceedings until such time as another member of the court shall be appointed. Admiral Howison was challenged as a member of the court, by Admiral Schley, upon the ground that he had expressed an opinion concerning the matters in controversy. The challenge was made in person by Admiral Schley, who was ably sustained by Mr. Isidor Rayner, of his counsel. Admirals Dewey and Benham, the other members of the court, upon hearing the evidence upon which the challenge was based, promptly decided that Admiral Howison was not competent to sit in the case, and his successor must be appointed before the court can proceed with the inquiry. From this action the friends of Admiral Schley can be assured that he will receive justice at the hands of the court.

THE ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE PRESIDENT McKINLEY.

On the first page of the SENTINEL will be found a few details of the attempted assassination of the President, at Buffalo, N. Y., on Friday of last week, but there were many incidents of the event not there recorded. No doubt some of the stories are exaggerations of real occurrences, while others may have been manufactured by zealous newspaper reporters anxious to make their accounts of the shooting as sensational as possible. One incident not mentioned in the account given on our first page, and which comes from reliable sources, was the prompt action of a colored waiter named J. P. Parker, who possibly saved the life of the President by preventing the assassin from firing a third shot from his revolver. Parker, it is said, seemed to realize at once the assailant's purpose and the President's imminent peril and became an assailant of Czolgosz so quickly in turn that the latter had no further opportunity to follow up his deadly intention to take Major McKinley's life. Czolgosz was felled to the floor by the colored man who attacked him with great fury and seemed bent on hammering him to death.

As soon as the nature of the case became known to the surrounding multitude there arose wild cries of: "Lynch him! Lynch him!" and some trouble was experienced in saving the assassin from that fate. Homer Jones, an Exposition guard, struck the man a heavy blow on the head as he rose to his feet after Parker was restrained from a further assault upon him.

Finally Detective Valelly succeeded in rescuing him and he was hurried off to prison, where he is now held for the action of the law. As the recovery of the President from the wounds inflicted by the wouldbe assassin is now practically assured, the penalty of the crime will, of course, not be death. If punished according to the laws of New York, upon a single indictment for assault with intent to kill, the maximum penalty would only be ten or twelve years in the penitentiary; but it is thought possible that sufficient indictments may be found to cover a period of imprisonment of more than sixty years.

President McKinley's first thought, when he realized that he was wounded, was for his wife, and he requested that it be kept from her or told as gently as possible. He also, it is said, requested that his assailant should not be hurt.

It is thought that the attempt on the President's life was the result of a conspiracy on the part of anarchists, who hatched the plot and selected Czolgosz to carry it into effect. This he denies, but his denial cannot be accepted as the truth in the case. He would not hesitate to lie for the purpose of shielding his accomplices from punishment. He has no sorrow for his act, but glories in it, probably more because of the notoriety it gives him than for any other reason. Unless he is a fool he could not expect the assassination of the President of the United States to affect, detrimentally, the stability of the government. In fact its tendency would be to strengthen rather than weaken our governmental system, and to emphasize in the minds of the people, generally, the necessity of obedience to existing laws and the enactment of still more rigid statutes for the punishment of crime—especially of crime against persons representing the State.

Czolgosz is a confessed disciple of Emma Goldman, whose teachings have led to the attempt on the President's life. She is suspected of having had a part in making the plot to assassinate President McKinley. She was in concealment in Chicago for several days after the assault, but her hiding place was discovered by the police on Tuesday and she was arrested. She is charged with conspiracy to murder the President and may be tried on that charge in Chicago. She was found in the home of a man named C. J. Norris, who was also arrested. Her alleged co-conspirators are the man who fired the shot into the President's person, and Abraham Isaaks, Maurice Isaaks, Clemence Pfeutzer, Hyppolyte Havel, Henry Travaglio, Alfred Schneider, Julia Mechame, Marie Isaaks, and Marie Isaaks, Jr.

After the shooting of President McKinley he was promptly removed to the home of President Milburn, of the Pan-American Exposition, where he now lies, with the most favorable prospect of recovery from his wounds.

An Unfavorable Change.

THE PRESIDENT WORSE.

FOOD DISAGREES WITH HIM.

HIS DEATH IMMINENT.

The reports from President McKinley, received yesterday morning, were not as favorable as those previously sent out, a relapse having occurred, and his condition on Thursday night was such as to cause anxiety in the minds of his friends. His advance towards recovery had been so rapid that his physicians felt warranted in adding to the beef juice he was taking, some solid food. This was given to him on Thursday morning and caused trouble.

He ate with keen relish chicken broth and toast. He was also given a cup of coffee. After breakfast he appeared in the best of spirits for a while, even asking for a cigar, which, of course, the physicians had to deny him.

Dr. McBurney was so well satisfied with the President's condition that he left for New York city. Not long after his departure a change was noticed in Mr. McKinley. He complained of fatigue and frequently said: "I am so tired—so tired." His pulse also began to rise. The 3 o'clock bulletin showed it to be 126; the 10 o'clock bulletin had it 128. The temperature remained the same, 100.2.

The physicians concluded that the solid food had remained undigested in the stomach, and how to dispose of it was a problem they had not solved when the early night bulletin at 8.30 was issued. They stopped the administering of nourishment by the mouth. Dr. Charles B. Stockton, a leading physician of Buffalo, joined Doctors Rixey, Mann, Parke, Mynter and Wasdin in the evening conference. After the bulletin was issued it was stated that the physicians did not believe the failure to digest food was due to the condition of the wounds in the stomach.

These bulletins issued by the physicians show the unfortunate change in the President's condition:

The following bulletins were sent out during the day and no doubt contained fair statements of the President's condition. While they are reassuring, they serve to show that all danger is not yet over, though the very best is hoped for. If the foods administered were the cause of the relapse, the incident is calculated to destroy, to some extent, the public confidence in the skill of the physicians. They should have known that some risk was involved in putting solid food into a stomach which had been perforated by a bullet less than six days previously. It is reasonable to suppose that a wound inflicted such a short time before, even if the vent caused by it were closed, must have been very tender.

Still, the best is to be hoped for and later news may be still more reassuring:

Buffalo, N. Y., September 12—9:30 A. M.—The President spent a quiet and restful night and has taken much nourishment. He feels better this morning than at any time. He has taken a little solid food this morning, and relished it. Pulse, 120; temperature, 100.2 degrees.

Buffalo, N. Y., September 12—3 P. M.—The President's condition is very much the same as this morning. His only complaint is of fatigue. He continues to take a sufficient amount of food. Pulse, 126; temperature, 100.2 degrees.

Buffalo, N. Y., September 12—8:30 P. M.—The President's condition this evening is not quite so good. His food has not agreed with him and has been stopped. Excretion has not yet been properly established. The kidneys are acting well. His pulse is not satisfactory, but has improved in the last two hours. The wound is doing well. He is resting quietly. Temperature, 100.2; pulse, 128.

Buffalo, N. Y.. September 12 (midnight).—All unfavorable symptons in the President's condition have improved since the last bulletin. Pulse, 120; temperature, 100.2.

* * *

1:15 P. M., Friday.—The latest reports indicate that President McKinley is in a very critical condition, and grave fears are entertained that he will not survive.

* * *

A young man named Vernon Keeny, son of Mr. Solomon Keeny, near Centerville, Frederick county, was the victim of an accident on Saturday last, in which he was shot through the head and instantly killed. Mr. Keeny and a younger brother on that morning went to the vicinity of New London to hunt squirrels, and while thus engaged in a woods on the farm of Mr. D. V. Hammond, about two miles east of New London, the fatal accident occurred. He had killed several squirrels, without accident, up to about 10 o'clock A. M., and was then standing on a log watching for a squirrel, with his gun in his hand, when, it is supposed, the gun slipped and fell, striking the trigger against a limb and discharging the ball, which entered his right eye and plowed its way through his head, tearing out his eye, a part of his brains and a large piece of the skullbone.

A GENTLE HINT.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Get a sample bottle free from W. Scott Zepp, druggist, Westminster. Regular size, 75 cents. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

DIED.

Near Middleburg, Sept. 9th, 1901, Mrs. Sallie Lynn, aged 35 years, 5 months and 1 day.

Suddenly, in this city, Sept. 11th, 1901, Margaret, widow of Reuben Cassell, aged 71 years, 1 month and 11 days.

Home at last, thy labor done,
Safe and blest thy victory won,
Jordan passed, from pain set free,
Angels now have welcomed thee.

In loving remembrance of Bertie M. Little, who died one year ago, September 13th, 1900.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

God, in His wisdom, has recalled
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in Heaven.

By her sister, Lelia S. Little.

Resolutions on the Death of Job Hibberd.

First National Bank, New Windsor, Md., September 9th, 1901.

At a meeting of the Board, held this day, the Cashier announced officially the death of our President, Job Hibberd, when the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Since our last meeting our fellow-director and honored president, Job Hibberd, has, in the Providence of God, been removed from among us; and

WHEREAS, We desire our records to show the great esteem in which we held him; therefore

Resolved, That this Board deeply feels that in him the bank has lost a long tried servant, in whom the highest integrity was united with a clear and wide comprehension of his duties and responsibility as a bank officer. As citizens in the same community in which he lived, we lament his death as a loss which must be heavily felt in a wide sphere of usefulness beyond that special field which he shared with us; and individually we will ever remember him with affection as a true and helpful friend.

Resolved, That we hereby tender our sympathy and condolence to his family, whose loss is so far the greatest of all.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and a copy sent to the family; also that a copy be sent to the county papers for publication.

J. HAMILTON SINGER,
Committee.
