The new election law should have been entitled "An Act to obstruct the exercise of the right of suffrage."

This political campaign in Maryland is a new war for independence—independence of an absolute political autocrat and dictator. Democrats should really be more anxious to gain this independence for themselves than the Republicans are to gain it for them.

Judge Stake, of Washington county, has granted a mandamus to compel Col. Buchanan Schley, superintendent of the State census, to allow the Republicans access to the lists of non-registered voters and of voters removed from the precincts in which they were registered. Judge Stake rendered a lengthy opinion in the case, but his decision comes too late to do more than show that Democratic officials have arbitrarily withheld, from the Republicans, information to which they were entitled, and in doing so have been guilty of a flagrant breach of official duty. Honest Democrats should resent the dirty trick of their managers by voting the Republican ticket.

Voters, in this county, no matter what their politics, who desire to be relieved of the perplexing conditions imposed in the method of casting their ballots under the new election law, should do their best to aid in giving a majority to the Republican candidates for the House of Delegates. Bad as are these conditions there is no guarantee that they will not be made worse if the Democratic bosses succeed in having a majority of their friends returned in both Houses of the General Assembly. By making the House of Delegates Republican any game of this sort will be blocked, and a fair step towards the future repeal of the law, which makes the exercise of the right of suffrage difficult to many worthy citizens, will be taken.

The Supervisors of Election in this county, and, in fact, all over the State, should furnish judges of elections with microscopes for the purpose of determining, in certain cases, whether any of the voter's marks, on the ballot, touch a line of any of the squares in which they shall be placed. The law, it is understood, requires the rejection of any ballot, upon which a line is touched by a voter's mark. Now the mark may be made to appear to touch a line, when seen only by the naked eye, but, in fact, without doing so, a condition that the microscope would disclose, save the voter from losing his ballot and possibly have a material influence upon the result of the election. The microscopes ought to be of good quality, with as many diameters as may be necessary to make them effective. Of course they will cost money, but that seemed to be a secondary consideration with our Democratic legislators when they passed the present election law. Democratic newspapers grumbled dreadfully about the expense of holding elections under the law of 1896, but their representatives got bravely over that trouble in 1901 and passed a law making it necessary to subdivide voting precincts and increase the number of election officials to the extent of thirty per cent, or more, and surely they cannot object to such a little thing as a microscope as a part of the necessary paraphernalia of the polling-place, under these circumstances.

The Republicans when in power in this State made every effort to protect voters in their just rights and to guard elections against unfair political trickery. In marked contrast with this action has been the course of the Democratic party since it regained control of the Legislature. It has made voting difficult, even for people of ordinary intelligence; provided numerous technicalities, by which ballots after being cast may be vitiated; introduced methods by which legal voters may suffer the erasure of their names from the registry lists, and appropriated to its own use information derived at the expense of the State, while refusing such information to its political opponents. All this has been done to prevent a fair expression of the will of the people by the ballot and to subject the State government to the control of a minority of its voters, in the interest of a party autocrat. Both Republicans and Democrats—at least Democrats who have any sense of justice and fairness—must realize that for the general political welfare of the State, to say nothing of its business interests, the schemes of the Democratic managers should be overwhelmingly defeated. More than this, every Democrat who does not want to become a mere political cipher, subject to the control of an autocratic boss, should by his ballot help to administer a sound drubbing to his party machine this year.

It is important that voters should know that in making their marks, in the squares opposite the names of the persons on their ballots for whom they desire to vote, they must not let the pencil touch one of the lines forming an angle of any of the squares. The mark must be made in the form of an X and the ends of each line in the X must be entirely clear of the lines of the square in which it is placed. Every Republican should be careful to observe this precaution. Study the matter carefully, and, if you should be in doubt upon any question relating to the method of voting, seek information from a reliable source concerning it.

Gossip in relation to the sale of the Western Maryland Railroad is current and the Philadelphia North American has gone so far as to say that George Gould has secured control of the road for the purpose of gaining a seaboard outlet for the Wabash system, which he controls. The North American says that Gould sold the control of the Norfolk and Western to the Pennsylvania Railroad upon the latter consenting to his Wabash project. Of course the report is not correct. The city cannot dispose of its interest without foreclosure proceedings upon the mortgages it holds upon the road to secure the payment of its indebtedness to the city. Ex-Governor Whyte is quoted as having given an opinion to this effect and its soundness cannot be questioned. It is said that Mayor Hayes wants to sell, but it is perfectly clear that he is without authority to do so. Ex-Gov. White is further quoted as saying that any private sale of the city's interests as stockholder and mortgagee, would require the authority of an ordinance of the Mayor and City Council. The Ex-Governor was probably misquoted. An ordinance to sell at private sale, without foreclosure proceedings, would hardly be valid. But there is no such ordinance, there have been no foreclosure proceedings, and the city cannot speedily divest itself of its interest in the road. It is probable that Mr. Gould is endeavoring to secure control of the road, for the purpose already named, but the assertion that he has already done so has no foundation in fact.

A Tax Rate Device.

The Advocate returns to its old theory of lower taxation in Carroll than any other county in the State, and exhibits a list showing the rates in each county to clinch its argument in behalf of maintaining absolute and full Democratic control of the County Commissioners' office. The SENTINEL long ago pointed out and exposed the fallacy of the Advocate's threadbare plea. Tax rates are deceptive. The question is not so much the rate of taxation as the amount of money paid by citizens to run the county government. For the current year the amount levied upon the people of Carroll for this purpose was over ninety thousand dollars, or about $2.67 for every man, woman and child in this county. In Dorchester, in which the rate is $1.02½, the amount paid per capita by the people, for the county government, was $2.39. In Washington county, with a rate of 65, the amount per capita was $2.74. Caroline county, which has the highest rate in the State, paid $3.25 per capita. All this was for county purposes. Now, let us refer to the amounts paid for State purposes, taking the four counties already named. Carroll's rate per capita was 85 cents, Dorchester's 43 cents, Washington's 74 cents and Caroline's 52 cents. For purposes of comparison we have taken the counties showing, after Carroll, the extremes of the rates, Washington having the next lowest rate and Caroline the highest. The contrast in some of the other counties is still more marked. Even Somerset, which has a rate of 1.04, pays but $1.72 per capita for its county government and 30 cents to the State.

This old chestnut of the Advocate's, at any rate, has little or nothing to do with the matters at issue in this campaign. The election of a Republican member of the Board of County Commissioners would not change its political complexion nor give the Republicans even fair minority representation thereon. They pay at least as much, if not more, than Democratic taxpayers into the county treasury and it would not be at all unreasonable, on the part of the voters of both parties, to elect such a man as Gustavus Barnes, the Republican candidate for County Commissioner, by an overwhelming majority.

This is, however, a purely local question, and the people should not permit their minds to be diverted from the real issue of the campaign by a matter of this sort, however cunningly introduced. The issues presented by the Democratic autocrat to the voters of that party for their consideration, are not of a financial complexion. Reduced to a single proposition they involve simply the return of Mr. Gorman to the autocratic power wielded by him in the State previous to 1895. The methods by which this is to be accomplished, if the people will permit it, must, of course, be considered. It is not a matter of conjecture whether Gormanism could succeed by the free and untrammeled will of the people, freely and fairly expressed by the ballot. Nobody doubts that in that case he would be repudiated by an overwhelming majority.

Now, with the proposition to reinvest him with the authority of a dictator of party and public action, comes the scheme, concocted by the bosses and put in motion by the Legislature in extra session, to deprive many of the constitutionally eligible voters of the State of the necessary facilities to cast their ballots; to make it as difficult as possible for the Republicans to register new voters and to prevent the improper removal of others from the registry lists; to use information gained by the expenditure of public money to facilitate and maintain a full registration of Democratic voters, and in other ways to gain an unjust and unfair advantage on behalf of the rule of the old Democratic Ring.

This is putting it mildly, to be sure, but it ought to be sufficient to awaken every Republican to the importance of putting forth his best efforts to defeat the schemes so artfully conceived by Mr. Gorman and so submissively put in motion by his lieutenants and benchmen. Brought to the attention of such Democrats as desire to be free, themselves, from the iron rule of a political boss, it should prompt them to once and for all make the restoration of the former state of tyranny to which they were subjected an impossibility, by administering an overwhelming defeat to the nominees of their party, by their ballots at the polls.

Base Ingratitude.

When Gorman, Raisin, Baughman, Schley, Fledderman, Murray Vandiver and a few other machine Democrats bulldozed Governor Smith into calling an extra session of the Legislature, that movement received scant encouragement from the rank and file of that party in this county, although the officeholding crew here, which bows down and meekly worships at the feet of Gorman, did its level best to make it appear that there was a strong sentiment among Democrats in favor of such call. The senator and four delegates from this county gave their support to every measure enacted at the extra session. They yielded unreservedly to the sinister and overpowering influence of Gorman, who kept a close watch upon all that was being done, and at his command voted solidly for an election law purposely designed to, and which they well knew would, disfranchise and prevent more whites than colored men from voting in this county. They knew that out of more than 8,000 votes cast in Carroll there were but 539 colored voters; that in Myers', Manchester, Hampstead and Woolery's districts, polling over 2500 votes and giving more than 850 Democratic majority, there were all told but 15 colored voters, (none in Myers', 2 in Manchester, none in Hampstead and 13 in Woolery's) and yet, with a magnanimous spirit seldom equalled and never surpassed our delegates voted for Gorman and Rasin's infamous census and election law, with the hope and in the belief that they would disfranchise enough of colored voters elsewhere in the State to insure their party's success; and to accomplish that result they were willing, politically, to give their county goodbye, and put it beyond their party's power to carry it. Having supported all the demands, and assented to all the measures which the corrupt leaders required of them at the extra session, having done all this to the entire satisfaction of Gorman, our distinguished five returned home in all their glory, to receive the plaudits of their leaders and to hear them make the welkin ring with loudest shouts as they greeted them with the appellation, "Well done thou good and faithful servants, enter thou into the enjoyment of the rest and seclusion which we will give you in the near future. You were faithful to the Boss in a few things, but now we want others who will be faithful to him in all things." So it happened. When the Democratic county convention assembled here to nominate their ticket, and to select men for the Legislature who could be most relied upon by Gorman, it was not Walsh, Norris, Anderson and (Budel) Hoffacker; (who were like the golden calf of old, set up to be gazed upon and worshiped by the faithful;) not they to have the endorsement of the party for their extra session work. Not for them was the opportunity to be given to vindicate themselves before the people of Carroll; but like old shoes cast in an out of the way place, they must needs be ignored, set aside and backseated for others,

On whose immaculate and bran new skirt
Clings no stain of the extra session's dirt.

Has any party ever exhibited baser ingratitude towards men who were so faithful to its master? Has the Democratic party, here or elsewhere in the State, ever before dealt so summarily, and from a party point of view, so outrageously, as it has done with its extra session members? Here in the Democratic convention no endorsement of their conduct was vouchsafed them; their names were not even mentioned, much less a nomination accorded to any of them. Croker, the boss of New York, the Squire of Wantage in England, could not more effectually squelch any of his followers than Gorman and his supporters here ignored and turned down the men who, under his guidance, voted for his census and election laws.

It is due to the delegates from this county to say, that if they had thoroughly understood the true inwardness of the so-called census law; if they had perceived, or been advised, that it was not so much to obtain the number of people in the State, as it was designed to collect political data at the expense of all the taxpayers for the sole and exclusive use of their own party; if they had for one momement believed that the $40,000 appropriated at the extra session was to be used in a large measure by their leaders to bring about the election of Gorman to the Senate; if they could have conjectured that there was such an intention, or that any part of this large sum of money was to be used for partizan purposes, even though used to advance the interests of their own party, we do not believe that they would have voted for it. On the contrary, we prefer to believe that they would have done as Buckey and a few other Democrats did—voted against its passage. They may now pathetically say, "Save us from such unscrupulous leaders."

Buckey with a patriot's smile,
With faith in a work well done,
Points his finger at our five
As he hears their dismal moan;
Hears them wish they had never been
With the Extra Session crowd,
But with all men at home, like him,
Feel as happy and as proud.

A new isthmian canal treaty has been negotiated between the United States and England, which will probably receive the sanction of the American Senate. Substantially it is said to embody the amendments made to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by the Senate. At Washington it is not regarded as a surrender of England to the United States, but in other quarters a different opinion is expressed. A despatch from Berlin, Germany, says: "The German press, referring to despatches from Washington in reference to the new treaty between the United States and Great Britain regarding the isthmian canal, declares that Great Britain's 'renunciation' of her rights under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty without compensation, is a plain illustration of the paralysis produced by the war in South Africa." This is probably an unfair statement of the case, but at any rate, whatever may be the tone of outside opinion, it is gratifying to have the question settled in a manner satisfactory to the American people.

Ex-Mayor William T. Malster, of Baltimore, was the subject of a grand reception and ovation at the Columbian Club, in that city, on Thursday night. Mr. Malster has just recovered from a long illness, to the gratification of thousands of devoted friends, who took this method of exhibiting their joy at his restoration and their warm regard for him as a man. Most of those who attended the reception are political friends of the ex-mayor, but there were some Democrats in the crowd who heartily testified their respect for the man. One of these was ex-Mayor Ferdinand C. Latrobe, who greeted Mr. Malster as "Old Friend," and raised a storm of applause by saying, in tones loud enough to be heard by all: "I don't care what his politics are, there's no better man in this country than Wm. T. Malster."

The trustees of Grace Reformed congregation, Washington, D. C., where President Roosevelt worships, have decided to erect a new and handsome church. They have commissioned an architect to prepare plans for a house of worship that will cost $30,000 to $35,000, exclusive of seats and pulpit furniture. It is their intention to have them ready so that building operations may be undertaken early in the spring if they can make satisfactory arrangements for deferred payments. The building fund amounts to about $15,000 in cash and pledges upon which money may be realized.

A special reporter of the Baltimore American, who visited this county on Thursday, in Friday's issue of that paper gives some interesting facts, figures and impressions concerning present political conditions in the county, based upon information derived from various sources. The general tone of the article, which is probably without political bias, indicates that its author considers the situation rather favorable to the Republicans.

The Postoffice Department has decided to place the late President McKinley's head on the new issue of postal cards, which will appear shortly after December 1.

Never in all its history has the Cumberland Valley Railroad, it is said, shipped as many apples as it is now doing. Every day from 25 to 30 cars loaded with barreled apples are being shipped, and the traffic is only beginning. About 25 per cent. of the shipments are from Franklin county, Pa., and the remainder mainly from south of Hagerstown.

WOMEN AND JEWELS.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. Scott Zepp's Drug Store, Westminster.
