The Thanksgiving Day Proclamation.

Washington, November 2.—President Roosevelt to day issued his proclamation fixing Thursday, November 28, as a day of national thanksgiving. It reads as follows:

A PROCLAMATION.

The season is nigh when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the President appoints a day as the especial occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God.

This thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn President McKinley because we so loved and honored him, and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty, which as a nation, we have thus far safely trod.

Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year, in particular, has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and have been able to work for our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us, and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which on this earth and at this time each of us does his duty to his fellow-men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations, and at their several homes and places of worship reverently thank the Giver of all good for the countless blessings of our national life.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and one and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-sixth.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

(Seal.)

By the President:

JOHN HAY, Secretary of State.

Western Maryland Annual Meeting.

The Western Maryland Railroad board of directors met Friday of last week for the purpose of reorganization, and re-elected Gen. John M. Hood, president and general manager and Mr. J. T. Barnes, secretary and treasurer.

It was announced that in addition to the extensive improvements upon the third division of the road, between Cherry Run and Shippensburg, including 15 miles of second track put under control in April last, the company has recently awarded to the American Bridge Company the contract for renewing, in steel the extensive wooden viaduct at McCoys Ferry, upon the Potomac Valley Railroad; and yesterday awarded to H. H. George Jr., the contract for reducing the grade from Clear Spring Station to the summit, one mile east, so as to avoid the necessity for using helping engines between those points.

In a monthly letter of President Hood to the board of directors, referring to the report of the city directors published in the Baltimore American, he says: "By that report we are shown to have defaulted to the city upon the first preferred, second and fifth mortgages, improvement loan of 1925, upon the first and preferred second mortgage funding certificates and the $71,742 unfunded first and preferred second mortgage coupons from January 1, 1899, to September 30, 1901, while there has been no default on any of these up to July 1, 1901, since December, 31, 1891.

"We assume that the error occurred by the city authorities crediting us upon the oldest outstanding claims, instead of for those maturing as the payments are made; that is, it shows us to be a defaulter on these obligations at this date, instead of 10 years ago. The default actually occurred between July 1, 1889, and December 31, 1891."

Showers of Stars May Soon Be Seen.

On the nights of November 13th, 14th and 15th, astronomers and others anticipate that there will be a brilliant meteoric display. These star showers are usual in November and may be generally expected to occur about November 13th, 14th or 15th, or from the 26th to the 28th of the month. The meteors which fall during the first period are termed leonids, because they appear to come from the constellation known as that of Leo, and the second star showers rejoice in the name of andromedas, as they seem to form in the constellation of Andromeda. The earth, it appears, comes in contact with the leonids head-on, and the meteors therefrom drop with more swiftness than those from Andromeda. It is a fact that astronomers know less about meteors and comets than of any other detail of their great science. The great fall of the leonids, roughly computed, occurs every 33 years, and one of the great falls is, therefore, about due this year and may occur on November 13th, 14th and 15th. The leonids were due last year, but they did not materialize, despite the fact that scientists had made extensive preparations to observe their descent. Therefore, this year the northeastern skies will be eagerly scanned for the expected visitors on the dates named. Mr. Justice Stahn, secretary of the Maryland Academy of Sciences, is one of those who is looking forward to the great display of leonids this year, although he can give no statement of signs which indicate their advent. He advises, observers to watch the northeastern sky on the nights of November 13th, 14th and 15th from midnight to 3 A. M. The radiating point should be nearly half way between the zenith and the horizon.

Statistics of Farm Labor.

From the Chicago Post.

According to statistics prepared by the Department of Agriculture, there is a greater number of persons engaged in some form of farm work than in any other branch of labor. In 1890, out of 22,735,661 persons, 10 years of age or over, having gainful occupations in the United States, 8,395,634, or 36.9 per cent., were engaged in agriculture, and of these 3,004,061 were agricultural laborers.

The main object of the statistics is a consideration of the wages paid this class of labor. It is shown that those who work for hire on the farm are a decreasing element, as compared with the entire farm labor of the United States. Doubtless this is due largely to improved agricultural machinery and its wider introduction.

Farm wages a month by the year or season, without board and with board, were higher in 1899 than in 1898. The smallest changes in the rate of wages from 1898 to 1899 were in Georgia, Texas and New Mexico, each less than 1 per cent. The highest gain was in Minnesota, 10 per cent; followed by Wisconsin, 10 per cent., Washington and Michigan each 9 per cent.; North Dakota, 8.5 per cent. South Dakota, 7.5 per cent. and Wyoming 7 per cent.

There has been a gradual increase in the rate of farm wages in the United States since 1879, when it reached the minimum. As the demand for such labor, especially in the harvest season, is still good, and the supply has decreased fully one-third, the tendency of wages would, naturally, be upward.

The uncertain character of farm work, largely dependent as it is on the promise of crops, and varying from a pressing demand for help in summer to practically no demand for help at all in winter, makes it difficult to determine just how many laborers gain a livelihood entirely from agriculture. The figures represent the number employed during the year, but it is well known that a great many more work on the farms in the summer than the winter. These statistics do not follow the summer surplus in the period between harvests.

Bird Ventriloquists.

Many birds have the gift of ventriloquism.

The pinnated grouse, or prairie chicken, has the power of ventriloquism to a remarkable degree, as its tone when produced but a few rods from the listener often has the effect of a sound originating nearly a mile distant.

Many of the ground birds have a peculiar habit of throwing their voices upward so that they appear to come from the tree tops. Both the blue-winged and the Tennessee warblers, which are strictly ground birds, constantly do this, though the best illustration is that exemplified in the song of the winter wren.

The little bird known as the Maryland yellow throat, which lives in low bushy swamps during the summer, shows considerable ability as a ventriloquist, and during the nesting season makes use of the power as a protection—though apparently an unnecessary one, for the nest of this species is generally so carefully hidden from sight that it is almost impossible to find it. When a person approaches the vicinity of its nest, though probably within a few feet of the intruder, it will throw its voice back and forth so realistically that it is almost impossible to locate the bird.

THE RIGHT THING TO PUT ON.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

From the natural impulse to "put something on" a painful spot all applications for the relief of pain have arisen.

The most successful have ever been poultices or plasters, and the best of these is Benson's Porous Plaster.

No other has anything like the same power as a curative agent; it is highly and scientifically medicated, and its standard is advanced year by year.

Use Benson's Plaster for coughs, colds, chest diseases, rheumatism, grip, neuralgia, kidney trouble, lame back, and other ailments that make Winter a season of suffering and danger. It relieves and cures quicker than any other remedy.

Do not accept Capsicum, Strengthening or Belladonna plasters in place of Benson's, as they possess none of its curative power. Insist on having the genuine.

The people of every civilized land have testified for years to the superlative merit of Benson's Plasters; and 5,000 physicians and druggists of this country have declared them worthy of public confidence.

In official comparisons with others, Benson's Plasters have been honored with fifty-five highest awards.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on the receipt of 25c. each. Accept no imitation or substitute.

Save the Chestnut Trees.

One of the most beautiful and valuable of our forest trees is the chestnut. The wood is so well suited for several purposes, especially in fence-making, that from being one of the most abundant trees in the State it has greatly decreased in recent years. In some portions of the State it has been attacked by a blight or insect which has almost caused its extinction in those parts. Young people are more especially interested in the chestnut trees because of the chestnuts they bear. In gathering the nuts very frequently the tree is damaged and its symmetry destroyed by breaking boughs and limbs. Persons who thus injure the trees should remember that not only is the beauty of the tree marred, but the next year's crop is affected. If the boughs are threshed off by chestnut gatherers there will be nothing to bear next year's crop. Land owners would do well, therefore, to caution persons who go through their woods chestnut hunting to deal gently with the trees and not to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. The chestnut tree, by the way, is not only a beautiful and longlived tree, but it is of exceedingly rapid growth, and it would be well for people to make a note of this for use on Arbor Day.

Wall Paper!

Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea, Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.
