began at last to impress itself upon her baby mind, for a sudden droop came to her lip.

"I 'spects father's very bovered," she said slowly.

At that instant the cottage door was flung open and a man looked out. When he saw Marlow, he made a half movement backward and then altered his mind and stood still.

Marlow looked at him and recognized his man. This was Fred Emberson—the thief. This was the man he had come to catch. This was the man whose capture meant £500.

And between them stood the child whose mother was very ill!

She turned delightedly.

"Why, there's father!" she cried.

Detective Marlow took a step forward and Emberson, suddenly making up his mind, came down the little flagged path.

"I know who you are," he said hoarsely, "and I know why you've come. I suppose it's all up, but I couldn't help it, and perhaps—afterward—the old man will forgive her."

He jerked his head backward.

"Have you guessed who she is?" he asked. "Did Mr. Ritchie guess? Perhaps he'll take care of her when—when I'm shut up. But I never meant to take the money. I shouldn't have dreamt of it if she hadn't been so ill. They say she—she's almost dying, and we had hard work to live on the salary Mr. Ritchie gave me, and I couldn't help it. It's saved her, perhaps. I got down last night, and I got her everything I could, all the luxuries I could, but she doesn't know I stole the money. She mustn't know till she's well again. I went to him a year ago for the child's sake. My name isn't Emberson, of course, but I couldn't go in my right name lest he should recognize it. We wanted to win his forgiveness first. It hasn't answered. But he'll take care of her—and the child. Oh, God knows, he surely couldn't refuse to take care of her and the child!"

He faced round eagerly to the detective, and Marlow, suddenly, curiously weak, held out his hand and made a bewildering remark.

"I'm hanged if I'll take the £500," he said.

* * * * * *

He has said since that he is not of the stuff of which a detective should be made, for he did not arrest the thief after all. Instead, he waited till the morning, and then they dressed the child in her Sunday best, and he caught the first train back and took her to see her grandfather.

What he said to him I do not know. How he went to work I cannot tell, but when he went back to Staybridge the old man went with him. And when Fred met them at the cottage door Ritchie had the child in his arms.

He looked into Fred's face and then held out his hand.

"It's half my fault," he said. "If I hadn't refused to see you at first, five years ago, when my daughter wanted me to, you wouldn't have had the temptation. I see now how cruel I have been!"

* * * * * *

Detective Marlow got married a few weeks later. Mr. Ritchie said he had caught the thief and persisted in giving him the £500 after all.

Names of the Months.

January is so named from the Roman Janus, who was the janitor of heaven. He presided over the beginning or opening of everything, hence the first month of the year was called after him, when the Roman year was altered by Numa Pompilius (d. 672 B. C.), from ten months, beginning in March, to twelve months by adding January and February. February, according to some, derived its name from the Latin "februare," signifying to expiate, or purify, as the Romans had a custom of general lustrations and purifications in the latter part of that month. More generally, February is traced to the Roman divinity, Februus, afterward identified with the god Pluto. Still an other orgin is found in the goddess Februa, supposed to be the same as Juno. March was named from Mars (Lat. Martius), the Roman god of war. April was by the Romans dedicated to Aphrodite Venus, the goddess of all budding beauties; but there is some difficulty in tracing the origin of the name, some believing the root to be Aphrodite—Aphrilis—Aprilis; others, that it is derived from the Festival Fortutuna Virilis, celebrated April 1. May (Lat. Maius) is derived from Maia, a feminine divinity worshipped at Rome. Some philologists, however, hold that Maius is a contraction of Magius, derived from the Sanskrit root mag or mah, to grow. June has been commonly traced to Juno, worshipped at Rome as the queen of heaven. Another crigin is found by some in the Latin Juniores, the young men, and still another is jungo, to join (as in marriage). July, originally named Quintilis, or fifth, derives its name from Julius Cæsar. August owes its name to the Roman Cæsars, the Emperor Augustus having followed in the footsteps of his predecessor by appropriating a worth to himself. September, October, November and December are so called from the Latin septem (seven), octo (eight), novem (nine), decem (ten), be-cause they were respectively the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth month of the Roman year, which began with March, until the change of the calendar under het second King of Rome.

Horses Knew the Noon Hour.

A pair of intelligent horses attracted the attention of a large crowd on Nassau street at noon one day lately, says the New York Sun. They were attached to a heavily loaded ice wagon coming down the steep grade between Cedar street and Maiden lane, and were holding back the wagon with a noticeable effort. When they were half way down the whistles blew for 12 o'clock. Suddenly the horses drew in toward the curb and began to plant their hind feet forward to stop the wagon.

The driver made no effort to check them, and their hard work at once attracted notice. Pedestrians looked at the horses and then at the driver, who had a broad grin on his face. By hard work the wagon was stopped. The driver sat still and watched his animals. One of them immediately began rubbing his head against the neck of the other, and with nods and pushes succeeded in rubbing his bridle off. Then the other took his turn at rubbing, and his bridle came off.

Fully 200 persons had watched this and when it was completed the driver got down from his seat and swung a bag of oats from over the nose of each animal. They stood there and ate their midday meal. The driver was patient and proud of his team. He petted them, and when they were through drove off whistling.

"Talk about the laboring man dropping his shovel at the sound of the noon whistle," said one man, "that beats anything I ever saw. No one hereafter need try to convince me of the intelligence of the horse. That ice wagon team settles it."

A Cheap Man.

"The cheapest man I ever knew?" said the postman. "His name was John Smith, and he was cheaper than pins on bargain day.

"He used to get letters from his brother-in-law, and would open the envelope by holding it over a teakettle. Then he would take out the letter and read it, write an answer, put the answer in the same old envelope and seal it up nicely again.

"He would then take it to the postoffice and explain that the letter could not possibly belong to him, and he didn't want to open another man's mail.

"Of course, as his brother-in-law's five day return card was on the envelope, the postoffice officials would send it back to him."

Lady—"What brought you to this deplorable condition?"

"Tramp—"It wuz a love affair, ma'am."

Lady—"Poor man! How very sad! Here's a quarter for you."

Tramp—"Thanks, ma'am. Dis will kinder give dat love affair uv mine a boost. Yer see, ma'am, it was my love fer liquor dat put me on de hog train."

The colored citizen wrote the following to his son in the city:

"William, my son, dis is ter let yer know dat I tryin' fer a job in de guv'ment, en I 'spects I'll hatter answer dem questions in de civil service. Now, what I wants yo' ter do is ter go to de booksto' man en ax him fer 'Bunyan's Pilgrim Politics,' so's I kin read up en know des what I doin'!"

Scribbler—"Often I have written a poem to keep the wolf from the door." Scrawler—"I knew your stuff was pretty bad, but I didn't think it would scare away wolves."

Mr. Newlywed—"Is'nt there any ice water, dear?" Mrs. Newlywed—"I know its silly of me, George, but you know the danger there is in germs, so I got the cook to boil the ice."

WORTH $300,000,000.

The President of a certain big Oil Company is said to be worth $300,000,000. A tidy bit of money and no mistake. And yet he isn't happy. In an address to a Bible class he spoke of trials and troubles of the rich and the loads they have to carry. A young lady whispered to a friend that he might wear a Benson's Porous Plaster on his back or, better still, divide the money among the members of the class. I don't know why her idea about the plaster makes me want to laugh, but it does. All the same I have seen plenty of people laugh after putting Benson's Plasters on their backs or chests, or on any other spot where there was weight, heaviness, weakness or pain. It may be the sharp stabs of neuralgia, the aches and wrenches of rheumatism; it may be colds in muscles or bones; it may be those kidney or lumbago thrusts that make you yell as at a dog bite; or it may be a strain or cramp, anything that wants quieting and comforting. Dont bother with salves, liniments, lotions, etc., or with any of the stupid and useless old style plasters. Clap on a Benson's. It relieves at once and cures quickly. It stops the pain and makes you laugh for the very ease and good feeling of it. But watch out against imitations and substitutes. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

HEALTH INSURANCE

The man who insures his life is wise for his family.

The man who insures his health is wise both for his family and himself.

You may insure health by guarding it. It is worth guarding.

At the first attack of disease, which generally approaches through the LIVER and manifests itself in innumerable ways TAKE

And save your health.

Don't Wash.

"My little dear, do you wash your face every morning?" asked the old lady to a little girl.

"No, mum."

"Good Gracious! That's perfectly dreadful. Do you wash your face in the middle of the day?"

"No, mum."

"Dear me! When do you wash yourself?"

"I never washes."

"Horrible! It is shocking how depraved the lower classes are! I must organize a society to see that children are properly washed. Tell me, little one, do you never wash yourself?"

"No, mum."

"You look nice and clean."

"I always am."

"How can you be while you say you do not wash."

"Mamma washes me."

Wasted sympathy.

The clock struck midnight. "'Tis now the witching hour when churchyards yawn," quoted Mr. Staylate. "Can you blame them?" murmured Miss Caustique behind her fan. He took the hint.

The trouble with most men who once do good deeds is that they waste the rest of their lives admiring them.

Fortune smiles on some of us, and gives the rest of us the laugh.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE,

The paper of the people, for the people and with the people.

Honest in Motive, Fearless in Expression, Sound in Principle.

A newspaper is an educator: there are all kinds of educators, but the man who spends money judiciously and liberally is betetr able to impart his knowledge than the man who has little or nothing to spend.

THE SUN is the highest type of a newspaper. The Sun's Special Correspondents throughout the United States, as well as in Europe, South Africa, China, and, in fact, all over the world, make it an up-to-date newspaper.

The Market Reports and commercial features put the farmer, the merchant and the broker in close touch with the markets at Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other places which are prominent centers.

From now on the news of the world promises to be more interesting than ever before and national and political questions will arise, making probably the most eventful period in the country's history.

This, together with the corps of editors and reporters at Baltimore, Washington and New York, make The Sun invaluable to its readers.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

Are there any boys or girls in your home? If so do you want them to grow up familiar with the best literature and art, and with all their best impulses quickened? There is a way to do it, at an expense of less than one cent a day,—a way to have in your home the greatest educational influence of our time.

"St. Nicholas for Young Folks" is the medium—a magazine absolutely unequalled in the literature of the world. It is recommended by educators everywhere,—it contains only the very best and most helpful and entertaining literature, and it is illustrated by the greatest of American illustrators.

some new features are to be introduced into this famous periodical—one is the printing of long stories complete in a single number,—no serials. A splendid group of stories by the best living writers for young folks has been gathered for this purpose.

"NATURE STUDY"

is now a great feature of St. Nicholas. The young readers ask questions and they are answered in a department called "Nature and Science." Private schools take the magazine for this alone. The "St. Nicholas League" is an organization of St. Nicholas readers wherein prizes are offered for the best pictures, stories, poems, etc.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of WALL PAPER

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.
