pied to hear any voice just then except their own low murmurings; and Miss Ranken, with a sudden feeling that she had heard enough, glided away from the overhanging vines and hastened back to the hotel.

Bitter, almost unendurable, was her humiliation; but she was sufficiently a woman of the world to hide it from all eyes. And her voice was loudest of all in hearty congratulations when in the course of a few days, the announcement was formally made of Berta's engagement.

Cures in the Kitchen.

In every kitchen or storeroom there is quite a druggist's shop of useful remedies.

So far as medical science has discovered, the best all-around cure for dyspepsia is salt and water. You put a small teaspoonful of salt in a large tumbler of water as hot as you can swallow, and drink it half an hour or 20 minutes before each meal. This washes out the stomach thoroughly. Many people try the plan of drinking hot water as a cure for stomach complaints, but as they omit the salt the operation is not always satisfactory. The plain water is rather irritating to a delicate stomach, but the addition of salt prevents the irritation and converts the draught into a powerful stomach stimulant.

Pepper proves equally valuable in emergencies. Suppose one has a pain in the stomach or a sinking feeling, there is nothing bettar than a small quantity of pepper in a glass of hot water. With the addition of sugar it forms a pleasant and stimulating draught, good for a cold and all sorts of pains.

A teaspoonful of pepper put into a two-ounce bottle of strong whiskey or rum will make the hair grow. After a bath, also, it is an excellent thing to rub into the head—or, in fact, all over the body. If one is at all blue after his morning tub a little of this home-made tincture poured in the palm of the hand and briskly rubbed to the body will produce a warm glow and prevent chill.

Mustard has many valuable uses. As a plaster on the chest it draws the blood from the congested lungs to the skin, and in the foot bath it draws the blood from the lungs to the feet. But it is still more valuable as an emetic. In these days of tinned food we run considerable risk of poisoning—if not to the death, at least to the point of very great discomfort. A spoonful of mustard to a large glass of warm water is a splendid remedy in such cases, and it also stimulates.

Sugar cannot be beaten for cold in the head. It must be very finely powdered and used as a snuff. In some way it then acts as an astringent, and, if used in time, puts an end to the cold.

In cases of poisoning there are many simple remedies at hand. For instance, suppose as so often happens, nitric or sulphuric acid is swallowed in mistake for some beverage or the other, then it is necessary at once to neutralize the acid before it has time to corrode the stomach.

This is done by means of an alkali. But there is no time to send to the chemist's, and the best thing to do is to scrape some mortar off the wall, stir it up in water and make the patient swallow it. If the poison happens to be alkaline instead of acid—caustic soda or ammonia, for instance—then you have the remedy at hand in the cruet. Give the victim a dose of vinegar.

Suppose it is an irritant poison, such as arsenic, or a sedative, such as opium, you must immediately give a large quantity of tepid mustard-and-water as an emetic. But this is not sufficient in the case of opium poisoning. Drowsiness comes on, which may be fatal. Therefore you have to dose the patient with strong black coffee.

If you get a cut that will not stop bleeding, there is nothing like cold water. Don't bandage the hand. And if you wish to avoid blood poisoning, don't dream of using the ancient remedy—a cobweb—but hold your hand above your head, and pour the coldest water procurable over it. The worst case of bleeding will usually yield to this treatment.

For slight burns, too, there is nothing like cold water. If you inadvertantly touch a hot poker, then plunge your hand instantly into cold water, and keep it there for five or ten minutes.

Black-currant jam is one of the most agreeable and effective remedies for a sore throat or a cough. Put a tablespoonful of it in a tumbler of hot water, and you have a delicious beverage, as well as an excellent cure.

Apples cure warts. Of course, the perfect remedy for warts and corns is salicylic acid, but failing that, an apple rubbed on the place frequently will effect a cure, by means of the malic acid it contains. Cold tea is a very old and tried remedy for relaxed sore throat. Its tannic acid acts as an astringent when the tea is used as a gargle.

When coming home after a cycling trip over dusty roads your eyes are apt to be sore. Don't rub them and don't commit the common and great mistake of opening them in cold water. But put some salt—say, a dessertspoonful or more—in a basin of tepid water, and then plunge in your head and open your eyes. The salt will prevent the water from hurting the delicate lining membrane.

Eight out of ten cases of toothache can be relieved by getting some bread soda—bicarbonate of soda, not baking-powder—dusting it on a piece of cotton wool, and placing this in the cavity. If all the teeth ache together the cause is generally acidity of the mouth. In that case, dissolve the soda in warm water and wash the teeth with it. You will be well in an instant.

If you keep licorice in the house, you have one of the very best cures for dyspepsia. A small piece of licorice, slowly dissolved in the mouth, covers the stomach with a protective coat and relieves the pain of inflammation.

Small Fancy Cakes.

Cream three-fourths cup butter, add two cups sugar, beat till light, add well-beaten yolks four eggs, one cup milk and three and a half cups pastry flour mixed with three and one-half level teaspoons baking powder. Mix well, then beat in the stiffly beaten whites. Divide the dough in three parts. Bake two parts on long, shallow pans. To the remaining dough add one teaspoon mixed mace and cinnamon, two teaspoons each wine and molasses, and two cups mixed fruit. Bake in small fancy tins in moderate oven and frost with plain frosting. Cut the plain cake in small squares, crescents, diamonds, cards or dominoes. Frost and ornament as the shape or your fancy suggests.

Raisin Dumplings.

Take three-quarters of a pound of flour and add to it six ounces of finely shredded suet and a teaspoonful of baking powder. To this add six ounces of stoned raisins, and work all into a stiff dough with about a gill of tepid water. Have ready a large pan of fast-boiling water; cut the paste into eight pieces, roll each into a dumpling on a floured board. Throw in the dumplings one by one, let them boil sharply till they rise to the top of the water, after which it is necessary to keep them boiling briskly till served, which should be at the end of half an hour. Serve on a folded napkin, and eat with butter and brown sugar.

Chocolate Caramels.

Into a saucepan put a quarter of a pound of grated, unsweetened chocolate. Add four ounces of butter, a pound of brown sugar, a gill of molasses, a gill of cream and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Stir this over a slow fire until thoroughly mixed, and then boil it until it cracks when dropped into ice water. Turn into greased shallow pans to the depth of half an inch and stand aside to cool. When nearly cold mark the caramels into squares.

Parsnip Fritters.

Wash and scrape them and cut in slices, cover them with boiling water, cook until tender, mash them through a colander, return them to the fire, add to two large parsnips a tablespoonful of butter; salt and pepper to taste, and one egg beaten well. Mix thoroughly, remove from the fire, and when cool make into small flat cakes and fry in a little batter. Serve hot.

Anybody's Nose

IS NOT EVERYBODY'S NOSE. A certain individual with a certain nose and a certain glass may run, jump, ride, sneeze, stoop, laugh—still his glasses cling as though part of his physiognomy; while another with the same identical glass cannot move without them slipping. In eye glass fitting the many different noses require as great a variety of guards as well as a fund of practical noseological knowledge. We have both. Pleased to convince you.

THEY CRUSH THE POWERS

This is written in mid-October. The long, oppressive summer is quite gone. Fading leaf, withering tree and the rustling corn in the fields are signs of the season. Fog, frost, rain, snow,—they are coming. You remember last winter; of 1900 and 1901. The weather was cruel. Ah! the thousands it killed, and the hundreds of thousands it maimed and crippled. Oh, the rough grasp it laid on men at work, women at home, and children in cribs and cradles. Coughs that began before Thanksgiving Day are racking and tearing them still; yes, and growing worse as they dig deeper into the poor, tired throat and lungs. Many were cured by using Benson's Porous Plasters. For the soothing and healing power of these Plasters is wonderful. They conquer the complaints

THAT ARE KILLING THE PEOPLE.

No other plaster, no other medicine or application, can compare with them. Coughs, colds, backache, rheumatism, lumbago, kidney and liver troubles, asthma, influenza,—they all go down before Benson's Plasters like a snow image in the sun. You can't throw money away on a Benson's Plaster. Everybody is going to use them this season. But make certain you get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

Hanging Lake, Colorado.

From Glenwood Advance.

Hanging Lake is generally known as Dead Horse Lake, a name as inappropriate as it is possible to imagine, for the reason that no kind of a horse could possibly get up into the lake. This lake is situated about one mile from the canon known as Dead Horse Canon, which is opposite Shoshone station on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, eleven miles from Glenwood Springs.

It is one of the most beautiful lakes the mind can conceive of. The water is clear as the most perfect crystal. The minutest object lying on the bottom of the lake can be seen as well as an object floating on the surface. The depth is from two to probably 100 feet. This lake hangs in the corner of two perpendicular walls of rock which seem to tower 2,000 or more feet above it. The outer wall of the lake from one cliff to the other is circular in general form with a zig-zag edge from three inches to six in width, formed by the vegetation which has grown there and then become petrified by the water of the lake running over it. From the appearance of the wall it is growing and confining more water within its enclosure.

There are trees lying in the lake that are covered with lime, showing every limb, knot or indenture, no matter how small or great the indenture may be. There is no sign of animal life in the lake or anywhere around it. It is very doubtful if it freezes over in the winter, for it is fed from an immense spring gushing out of the rocks several hundred feet above it. Underneath the lake are several caves that are some twenty feet long and ten feet wide and high enough for a man to walk upright in. But you will certainly receive a shower bath before you climb over the rocks and get where it is dry.

From the mouth of the canon to the lake are some very wonderful things. There are parts of petrified trees, broken stalactites of various sizes which have lain there unmolested for centuries perhaps. There are skeletons of the buffalo that have perished or that have been driven over the high cliffs in the midst of a terrible snowstorm long years ago, bunches of leaves that have gathered themselves together by a rock or bush lying in the little stream of lime water and have themselves become rock, and the size and form are as perfect as the leaves that grew on the trees the past summer.

About one-half mile from the mouth of the canon is a very large lime rock that formed itself around a large tree so long ago that the tree has decayed and passed out of existence, but the prints of the bark are as perfect on the inside of the hole in the rock as they were the day they were formed. From the appearance of the bark signs it was a red spruce tree about fourteen inches in diameter. There are several limb holes in the rock that are as perfect as the tree hole.

A few feet below there is another rock showing that it grew around a tree while it was standing up, but from some cause unknown to man the rock has been parted where the tree was enclosed and only the form of the tree body about four feet from the ground is left in the side of the rock.

Dead Horse Canon is certainly a canon of wonders. There may lie hidden between those massive walls of rock some bodies of the buffalo that are petrified. From surface indications there have been hundreds of them perished there. Some of the old heads that are there show that the animal was of great size. Some of the bones have lain there for ages while others are in a good state of preservation

The Home Thrust.

"Girls," said the famous lady who was lecturing on Man, "there is one thing I wish to warn you against. You are here gaining an education. You are fitting yourselves for the great duties of life. Do not, therefore, go out of this institution and throw yourselves away upon little soulless men who will not be able to appreciate you. Long ago I came to the conclusion that there are but two classes of women who have the right to get married.

"Men are either selfish masters or cringing subjects. For the weak, ignorant, clinging woman the man, whose first thought is always of his own pleasure may be good enough. She doesn't deserve much, anyway. A strong, wise woman, on the other hand, may live happily with a man who is her inferior, and acknowledges it, if not in words, in his actions. I—"

"Excuse me," interrupted a pretty, demure-looking girl at the rear of the hall, "which of these classes do you belong to?"

Whereat the lecturer fired up, declaring that her husband was one of nature's noblemen, and that she had not expected when she accepted the invitation to lecture there that she would be publicly insulted.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. The consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

EDWARD LYNCH.
