The Latter Rest.

He toiled, forever faithful, in the ways where Duty led,
When earth seemed like a desert, and dark clouds overhead;
And: "Ain't you feeling' weary?" But still his word would be:
"On the other side of Jordan there'll be rest for for me!"

The black storms beat above him. He saw, with saddened heart,
The laborers in the vineyard, one after one, depart;
"Oh, rest you from the toiling! There is no light to see!"
"On the other side of Jordan there'll be light for me!"

"Rest, from the toil and trouble, tired hands and drooping head;
You do but gather roses for graves that hide your dead!"
But evermore that answer, clear-ringing, far and free:
"On the other side of Jordan there'l be rest for me!"

And so he toiled, and toiling, gave earth a lesson sweet
As the Love of God that showered Love's lilies at his feet;
No earthly light could lure him—no dark his faith could dim;
On the other side of Jordan there was light for him!

It Cured Her.

From Philadelphia Ledger.

Some years ago a lady, who tells the story herself, went to consult a famous physician about her health. She was a woman of nervous temperament, whose troubles—and she had had many—had worried and excited her to such a pitch that the strain threatened her physical strength and even her reason. She gave the doctor a list of her symptoms and answered his questions only to be astonished at his brief prescription at the end: "Madam, what you need is to read your Bible more."

"But doctor," began the bewildered patient.

"Go home and read your Bible an hour a day," the great man reiterated, with kindly authority. "Then come back to me a month from today." And he bowed her out without a possibility of further protest.

At first his patient was inclined to be angry. Then she reflected that at least the prescription was not an expensive one. Besides, it certainly had been a long time since she had read the Bible regularly, she reflected, with a pang of conscience. Worldly cares had crowded out prayer and Bible study for years, and, though she would have resented being called an irreligious woman, she had undoubtedly become a most careless Christian. She went home and set herself conscientiously to try the physician's remedy.

In one month she went back to his office. "Well," he said, smiling as he looked at her face, "I see you are an obedient patient and have taken my prescription faithfully. Do you feel as if you needed any other medicine now?"

"No, doctor, I don't," she said honestly. "I feel like a different person—I hope I am a different person. But how did you know that was just what I needed?"

For answer the famous physician turned to his desk. There, worn and marked, lay an open Bible.

"Madam," he said, with deep earnestness, "if I were to omit my daily reading of this book I should lose my greatest source of strength and skill. I never go to an operation without reading my Bible. I never attend a distressing case without finding help in its pages. Your case called not for medicine, but for sources of peace and strength outside your own mind, and I showed you my own prescription, and I knew it would cure."

"Yes, I confess, doctor," said his patient, "that I came very near not taking it."

"Very few are willing to try it, I find," said the physician, smiling again. "But there are many, many cases in my practice where it would work wonders if they only would take it."

This is a true story. The doctor died only a little while ago, but his perscription remains. It will do no one any harm to try it.

Not Unreasonable, After All.

They were sitting in the corner grocery store, exchanging the confidences of the fishing season, and as the conversation progressed the stories steadily increased in size. At last, says the New York Times, the tall, lank man on the cracker barrel pulled himself together and began:

'I went down to the river this morning, and although the water was high almost to a flood, I took a ten-foot pike—"

"Stop there!" exclaimed the fat man with the corncob pipe. "Tell us you took an eight-pound trout and I'll sit idly by. But a ten-foot pike, never!"

"I took a ten-foot pike pole," continued the unruffled man on the cracker barrel, "and in less than five minutes I hooked out a fifteen-foot bass—"

"See here! See here!" shouted the owner of the grocery. "You'll have to go away from here to finish that story. I haven't any lightningrods in this store yet."

"I hooked out a fifteen-foot basswood log," persisted the tall man, "and I was going to ask how much you think I can get for it."

Mine Fire Burns Out.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 30.—The fire in the mine at Summit Hill, Carbon county, is out, after furnishing a spectacle for 50 years. The mine caught fire before the civil war. The fire could not be controlled, and it was decided to let it burn itself out.

There was much speculation at that time as to how long it would take. The hill over the main fire rose to a height of 60 or 70 feet and the veins outcropped at the top. It was therefore apparent that the coal would have to be burned from the very heart of the hill before the fire could eat itself out.

Many mining men believed that the fire would burn out in 10 years, and none gave it more than 20 years, but its life proved to be 53 years. For many years there were no outward signs of fire except the smoke and the gas which escaped from some natural ventholes, but of late years the fire had so eaten upward into the hill that at night the flames were plainly visible and could be seen for miles.

The final act of this fire was witnessed by only one man, a miner who was on his way home from work last Sunday morning about 2 o'clock. He was passing within half a mile of the hill when he heard a rumbling, evidently caused by the accumulation and explosion of gas in the interior of the hill.

These explosions grew in force until there was a very loud report and a gush of flames and smoke from the top. Then the peak of the hill sank in slowly and the sides tumbled in after it, filling up the hollows in the veins below, long ago eaten out by the flames.

Showers of sparks and great gushes of smoke burst forth and the heavens were lighted by the flames as the hill sank. The whole time consumed in this final work of destruction was not more than half an hour, and when it was over the hill was like the crushed in top of a pie, and the fire which had burned for 53 years was slowly dying out for want of fuel to feed upon. It had eaten out the hill until there was nothing left but a crust.

Some Facts About the Bible.

Here are some facts about the Old Testament that it took one man three years' time to figure out:

There are 39 books, 929 chapters, 23,214 verses, 509,439 words, and 2,728,109 letters.

The middle book is Proverbs.

The middle chapter is Job xxix.

The middle verse would be 2 Chronicles xx., 18, if there were a verse more, and verse 17 if there were a verse less.

The word "and" occurs 35,543 times.

The word "Jehovah" occurs 6,855 times.

The shortest verse is 1 Chronicles 1., 25.

The twenty-first verse of Ezra vii. contains all the letters of the alphabet.

The nineteenth chapter of the Second Book of Kings and the thirty-seventh chapter of Isaiah are practically the same.

In the New Testament there are 27 books, 260 chapters, 7,959 verses, 181,258 words and 837,580 letters.

The middle book is 2 Thessalonians.

The middle chapter would be Romans xiii. if there were a chapter more, and Romans xiv. if a chapter less.

The middle verse is Acts xvii, 17.

The shortest verse is John xi., 35.

The middle chapter of the entire Bible is also the shortest—the 117th Psalm.

The middle verse is the eighth of the 118th Psalm.

Too Strong for a Jury.

From the New York Tribune.

"You can never tell what a jury will do in the way of awarding damages," said a lawyer. "Some years ago I happened to be present at a meeting between a man injured in the big railroad wreck on the Lake Shore, at Ashtabula, and representatives of the road. The man asked $25,000, and the railroad had offered $17,000. The man told his story, and it was a terrible one. It seems that he was caught in the wreck and held by one foot, which was pinioned down. The wreck caught fire, and the flames crept toward him. Firemen and others around saturated his clothing with water and placed wet blankets over him, but he was not released until his foot was burned off. It was a grewsome story. "One of the directors of the road was present. He took the claim agent aside and said: 'Give that $25,000. If he tells his story in court, he will get damages enough to put the road into the hands of a receiver.' He got the money."

Rivers Which Traverse the Ocean.

In the ocean the longest way 'round is ofttimes the shortest way home. For instance: If a United States transport were to leave San Francisco for China, the most logical course would seem to be straight across the North Pacific to the land of the Boxers.

But in reality the ship would be steered to the southwest along the equator and past the Philippines to the Asian coast. This course would be several hundred miles longer, yet it would take the vessel to her destination much quicker than the straight course. In the one case she would be going with the current; in the other she would be going against the current.

The ocean is not a simple, pathless expanse, over which short cuts may be made, but a system of highways, crossways and even blind alleyways, which have been surveyed and laid out by nature herself.

"Lady," said the wayfarer with the cinder-embellished whiskers, "I can't eat these scraps."

"You can't?" said the housewife, in surprise. "Why, you just told me that you were so hungry you could eat a house."

"Yes, mum; but I meant a porterhouse."

"Boo hoo!" whimpered the little boy. "What's the matter my child?" asked the kind old lady. "Have you no mother to love you?" "Yes, I got one that loves me too blamed hard. She says it's 'cause she loves me that she licks me."

It often happens that the candidate who is cheered most before election don't find much cheer after the votes have been counted.

Take No Substitute.

A Pleasure Postponed.

Here is a conversation between a pair of Berkshire sweethearts:

"John," quoth she, "why doesn't 'ee say summat?"

John reflected. "'Cause I ha'n't got nothen' to say," he replied.

Again there was silence, and once more it was the woman who took the initiative:

"John," she inquired, tenderly, "why doesn't 'ee tell me that thee loves ma?"

"'Cause I've telled 'ee that afoor," answered John, who evidently disapproved of vain repetitions.

But the lady was tenacious of her privileges and not easily daunted.

"John," she asked for the third time, "why doesn't 'ee gimma a kiss?"

The tardy wooer pondered long.

"I be gwine to, presen'ly," he said, at length.

Grandmotherly Guile.

For a few minutes Donald, the bright North Side five-year-old, meditated in silence, and there was a presentment of coming trouble.

At last he spoke.

"Mother," he said—Donald had quit saying "mamma" long ago—"I have found out that grandmother is cheaty."

"What do you mean, child?"

"That's what she is. She's cheaty. When she wants to tell me how bad I am she waits till I'm getting into bed, and then I've got my trousers off and can't defend myself."

"The best illustration of what eternity is, with its endless flight of time," said a Western member of Congress the other day, "was one I heard given by a preacher who was conducting a revival at a Colorado mining camp. The revival had been well attended, but there was a poor harvest of souls, and the rough old preacher depicted the joys of heaven and the tortures of hell with discourageing results. One evening he announced that the revival would close with that meeting unless the sinners showed a desire to repent. He then depicted the sufferings of the lost, and in telling them how long it would be before they would be freed from their invironment of the fire and brimstone, he said:

"'You will suffer for all eternity. Do you know what that means? I'll tell you. If a little sparrow was to dip his bill in the the Atlantic ocean and take one hop a day and hop across the country to put that drop in the Pacific ocean and then hop back to the Atlantic, one hop a day, and if he kept that thing up until the Atlantic was dry as a bone it wouldn't be sun-up in h-ll."

"It isn't necessary to add that mourners came to the bench that night and the meeting continued for some time."

"Before our marriage I used to call her my lily." "Why so?" "Because she 'toiled not, neither did she spin.'" "And has she changed any?" "Slightly. Now she toils not, but she spins. You see, I bought her a bicycle.

During a sudden thunderstorm a little four-year-old came running into the kindergarten crying as if her heart would break. When the kindergartner asked the cause of her trouble she said: "Oh, Miss E., the sky barked at me."

"Take care of the pennies, and the dollars will take care of you."

WORTH $300,000,000.

The President of a certain big Oil Company is said to be worth $300,000,000. A tidy bit of money and no mistake. And yet he isn't happy. In an address to a Bible class he spoke of trials and troubles of the rich and the loads they have to carry. A young lady whispered to a friend that he might wear a Benson's Porous Plaster on his back or, better still, divide the money among the members of the class. I don't know why her ideas about the plaster makes me want to laugh, but it does. All the same I have seen plenty of people laugh after putting Benson's Plasters on their backs or chests, or on any other spot where there was weight, heaviness, weakness or pain. It may be the sharp stabs of neuralgia, the aches and wrenches of rheumatism; it may be colds in muscles or bones; it may be those kidney or lumbago thrusts that make you yell as at a dog bite; or it may be a strain or cramp, anything that wants quieting and comforting. Dont bother with salves, liniments, lotions, etc., or with any of the stupid and useless old style plasters. Clap on a Benson's. It relieves at once and cures quickly. It stops the pain and makes you laugh for the very ease and good feeling of it. But watch out against imitations and substitutes. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

NO. 3957 EQUITY.

In the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity.

Mary F. Lee vs. Annie E. Roberts, Louise S. Mathias, Adele Mathias, Anthony S. Mathias, Louise S. George, Charles R. Dugan, Mary T. Dugan and Charles E. Stewart, administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. of Mary S. Mathias.

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree of this Court for the assumption of jurisdiction of a trust created by a deed from William W. Dallas and Louise S. Dallas, his wife, to John T. Mathias and Mary S. Mathias, dated August 29th, 1854, and for the appointment of a successor in said trust to John T. Mathias, deceased. Also, that the Court by its decree establish that the proceeds from certain property formerly belonging to John T. Mathias now in the hands of Charles E. Stewart, administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. of Mary S. Mathias, is impressed with the said trust, and that upon the appointment of a trustee the said Stewart, administrator as aforesaid, may be ordered to pay over the amount of said trust and that he may in the meanwhile be enjoined from selling, paying out or otherwise disposing of said property. The bill alleges the execution and delivery of a deed by William W. Dallas and Louise S. Dallas, his wife, of an interest in the firm of Lyon, Shorb and Company, of Pittsburg, in the State of Pennsylvania, to John T. Mathias and James B. Murray, under the terms of which, and in accordance with a subsequent agreement, John T. Mathias agreed to hold the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars in trust for Louise S. Dallas for her life, and two years after her death to pay the same in such manner as the said Louise might by her last will direct. That John T. Mathias, the trustee therein named, departed this life in the year 1887, and that the said Louise S. Dallas departed this life on the twenty-fifth day of November, 1901, leaving a last will and testament in which she by virtue of the power reposed in her by the above mentioned deed devised and bequeathed the trust fund held by John T. Mathias as follows: $5,000 thereof to a sister, Louise S. Mathias; $5,000 thereof to a sister, Annie M. Roberts; $5,000 thereof to a sister, Mary F. Lee; $,000 thereof to the children of her deceased sister, Agnes Dugan; $5,000 thereof to the children of her deceased brother, John A. Mathias. That the trust fund in said deed mentioned was invested in the firm of Lyon, Shorb and Company, and upon its liquidation came into the hands of Charles E. Stewart, administrator d. b. n. c. t. a. of Mary S. Mathias. The bill further states that the defendants, Adele Mathias and Anthony S. Mathias, are the only children of the said John A. Mathias, and that the said children are non-residents of this State.

It is thereupon, this 21st day of March, 1902, ordered by the Circuit Court for Carroll county, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Carroll county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of April, 1902, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 10th day of May next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Chief Judge 5th Judicial Circuit of Maryland.

Wall Paper! Wall Paper!

I wish to call the attention of my friends and the public in general to the fact that I now am ready to show one of the ever exhibited in this county, bought direct from the factory, in full bundle lots, so you get it only from second hands, no two or three profits coming off it. Of course the consumer pays them all. Sam Jones says it takes a pointer pup nine days to get his eyes open. I have known some people to get their's open in fifteen minutes in a wall paper deal. They thought it was two pieces instead of one, and the border they did not understand, &c. That is always their plea. Remember I am the only paper hanger in the county that carries a stock and don't have the expense of running a store therefore I have no opposition. Is you think I can't save you money, come and see me and bring size of your room, or send size by mail and I will tell you what your job will cost, and send samples and convince you that Gladhill's is the place to save twenty-five cents on a dollar on all Wall Papers.

Finest and Cheapest Lines of WALL PAPER

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,
EDWARD LYNCH.
