Mrs. Worthington had been in ill health for some time and was under special treatment when attacked by the fatal disease which speedily terminated her young life, to the deep regret and sorrow of many friends in this city, and the untold distress and anguish of her honored father and mother. She was in her twenty-seventh year. Her husband and two little children survive her and she leaves one brother, Dr. James A. C. Bond, now in Mexico, and one sister, Miss Alice Bond, of this city. Funeral services were held at the residence of her husband's mother, Mrs. W. C. Worthington, 1113 North Charles street, Baltimore, on Tuesday afternoon, after which her remains were interred in Greenmount Cemetery.

Charles Caple, aged 13 or 14 years, son of Mr. Charles Caple, of Baltimore, met with quite a serious accident on the turnpike between this city and Reese, on Monday afternoon. The lad has been staying with his grandfather, Col. Wm. Caple of Woolery's district, and on the day mentioned accompanied the team of his uncle, Mr. William H. Caple, for a load of lime. On the return trip he was riding on the "lazy board," and a short distance below the tollgate accidentally fell off and under the hind wheel of the wagon, which ran over one of his legs obliquely from below the knee to the foot, bruising the flesh severely and splintering the bones of the ankle. The wheel also ran over the other foot which was severely bruised. It seems almost a miracle that his limbs were not crushed off. The turnpike where the accident occurred is perfectly smooth and the full weight of a heavy wagon loaded with eighty bushels of lime fell upon them. Dr. W. D. Wells, of this city, who is giving the case surgical attention, thinks the lad, with care, will entirely recover, though some time will elapse before he will have the free use of his ankle.

The distressing news was received here on Thursday evening that Prof. James A. Diffenbaugh, formerly school examiner of this county and later deputy collector of Customs at Baltimore, had attempted suicide, at Helena, Montana, on the morning of that day. The manner of the attempt was made known in the daily newspapers yesterday morning. He slashed his throat and cut gashes in both wrists with a razor, while laboring, it is stated, under temporary insanity. His condition was not discovered till three hours later, when he had become very weak from loss of blood. He was taken to a hospital and his physician says will recover, unless complications intervene. Members of the Masonic Fraternity and Elks, with which organizations he is connected, are looking after him. Prof. Diffenbaugh's public career is too well known in Carroll county to need repetition here. He is a man of great natural ability, a gifted writer and graceful and pleasing speaker. It is inexpressibly sad that a man with such power of intellect should have reached a condition causing him to seek death by his own hand.

Gist Items.

The dry weather for the past two weeks has enabled the farmers to get well advanced with their spring work. Most of the farmers here have finished planting their early potatoes. Pear, peach, plum and cherry trees are in full bloom. Grain is very thin on the ground and cannot be more than half a crop. Grass is looking well, with prospects of a good crop.

The New Savings Bank Building.

The new building of the Westminster Savings Bank is completed and is now occupied by the bank. It is a very ornate structure and the handsomest public building in this city. As it is located adjacent to the handsome residence of Mr. Charles C. Gorsuch, which has a lawn in front, a full front and nearly full side view of the building is afforded and can be obtained on Main street to a considerable distance southeast of the railroad. The structure thus shows its symmetrical proportions and beautiful outlines to great advantage.

The new building has the distinction of being absolutely fire-proof, being built after the most advanced modern fireproof methods. The walls are of stone and hard burned bricks, the floors of steel beams and "Roebling" concrete arches, and the ceiling and roof of steel framing and beams covered with expanded metal lathing and hard burned hollow terra cotta book tile, and having a finish roof of copper and slag. The exterior of building above ground is of finely cut Woodstock granite up to first floor, and from there up to window sills of pointed Baltimore county marble. The remaining portions of exterior walls are faced with cream buff bricks and hard burned ornamental white terra cotta, all laid with white mortar joints. The exterior treatment of building is of a "Colonial" or "Georgian" style of architecture. The entrance to building on Main street is through a highly ornamented pedimented doorway, being flanked on either side by two of the four pilasters on front of building. This doorway has richly ornamented steel and bronze open grille work sliding doors, and leads to a spacious vestibule, having walls, ceiling, and inner and outer doors of paneled and glazed Mexican mahogany finished natural in oil. Upon entering the building, one finds himself in a large room, the entire length and breadth of building, having a vaulted ceiling 25 ft. high. This room is divided into the different departments necessary for an up-to-date savings bank, and comprises a general banking room with counters, screens, booths, working space, telephone box and book and safe-deposit vaults, and Directors and President's room and private toilet. A stairway leads from the general passage, connecting all departments, with cellar. In the cellar is located the heating apparatus and fuel storage rooms. The entire wood finish of interior is of Mexican mahogany, natural finish in oil. The walls of public space are wainscoted with "Maiden's Blush" pink Tennessee marble, and the floor of this department is of alternately white Italian and pink Tennessee marble slabs. The counter front is of Tennessee marble to match wainscoting, having carved stone brackets at round ends to support counter top. The screen on top of counter is divided into the several openings by small fluted and carved wood Scamozzi columns, having a carved wood cornice on top, and a richly designed wrought iron grille filling the spaces between columns. The floor back of counter in working department is of selected quarter-sawed white oak, waxed and polished. The Directors and President's room is wainscoted on all sides with paneled wood wainscoting. The fireplace in this room has a mantel ten feet high, having fluted pilasters with carved caps and bases at sides and returns, and carved Pavonazzo marble facing and beveled French plate mirrors. The floor of this room is of mahogany and quarter sawed white oak, parquetry floor, waxed and polished.

The entire tables, chairs and desks, as also the interior wood finish of bank, was made by John C. Knipp, of Baltimore, after designs furnished by the architect. The vault is of the most approved modern pattern, made by the York Safe & Lock Co. The lining of interior is of 1½ inch thick plates, made of five-ply chrome steel, and is provided with massive vestibule doors, having combination and time locking devices, and is absolutely fire and burglar proof. There is a smaller vault at rear of building for the storage of papers, etc.

The entire ceiling over the different departments has an ornamental bracketted stucco cornice at spring line of vaulting and at level ceiling is finished with three panels having guilloche and rosette borders, all of stucco on metal lathing.

The different departments are lighted by gas and electricity, and the plumbing and heating are of the most approved and sanitary patterns.

The building was built by day labor, from plans, details and instructions of the architect, Mr. Jackson C. Gott, of Baltimore. The cost of the building has not been made public, but is said to approximate $25,000.

Barn and Other Buildings Burned.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock, on Tuesday afternoon, flames were observed bursting from the roof of the barn on the farm of Mr. Wm. B. Thomas, of this city, on the Gorsuch road, about a mile from the city limits. The farm is tenanted by Mr. Theodore C. Shriner, and the fire was seen by some member of his family at the house, and by himself, or by some one in his employ, working in a field with him, about the same time. It had then gained such headway that it was impossible to arrest its progress, which continued until the barn, wagonshed, buggyshed, two corn-cribs and a hoghouse were completely destroyed, with all their contents, consisting of 100 barrels of corn, a lot of hay, fodder, straw and other provender, stick wagon, sleigh, binder, mower, ploughs, harrows and other farming implements, a heifer, one or two shoats, and other personal property. The spring house roof was on fire, but the building is a substantial brick structure and was saved. About 80 barrels of the corn destroyed belonged to Mr. Thomas and the remainder to Mr. Shriner, who also owned most of the other personal property burned. The loss was total. The barn was a comparatively new and substantial building. It was insured in the Carroll County Company, as were also the other buildings destroyed, the aggregate of insurance to be paid by the company being $880. The barn was insured for $600. There was no insurance on the corn. Mr. Thomas' loss approximates $1500 and Mr. Shriner's $300. The latter had insurance covering about $225 worth of the property destroyed.

The origin of the fire is not known, but it was probably accidental.

A Memorial Service.

A very interesting memorial service, in honor of the life and character of the late Rev. William H. Purnell, LL. D., former comptroller of the treasury of Maryland and postmaster of Baltimore, was held on Sunday last in the Presbyterian church of New Windsor, of which he was pastor from 1894 until his death, a few weeks ago. Rev. Dr. James Fraser, president of New Windsor College, who was a professor in that institution when Dr. Purnell occupied that station, conducted the service and delivered a glowing eulogy upon the life and character of the deceased minister and former public officer.

The speaker briefly outlined the history of Dr. Purnell, all along which he sketched facts and incidents to confirm the exalted opinion in which the doctor was held by those who were brought into close contact and intercourse with him. Dr. Fraser based his remarks on the text in II Samuel, ch. 3, v. 38: "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel."

William L. W. Seabrook, editor of the American Sentinel, followed Dr. Frazer in an address, in which he related reminiscences of his own association with Dr. Purnell at Annapolis when the latter was comptroller of the treasury, and when his influence with Governor Hicks, during the period immediately preceding the civil war, aided greatly in supporting the executive in his purpose to hold Maryland true to the Union.

Mr. George H. Birnie, of Taneytown, spoke briefly of the high religious character of Dr. Purnell, and commended his Christian life to the imitation of the audience.

Mr. Solomon S. Ecker, a member of the session of the New Windsor church, spoke of Dr. Purnell's catholicity of spirit and his aversion to proselytizing. He said Dr. Purnell desired to save men, not to make them Presbyterians.

Several beautiful and appropriate selections were rendered with great expression by the fine choir of the church. The pulpit and surroundings were draped in mourning and banked on all sides with a wealth of calla lilies and other flowers, palms and ferns. A large congregation attended the service and gave close attention to the exercises throughout.

During his address Dr. Fraser read a little poem, written by Dr. Purnell a short time before his death, in which his deep love for the New Windsor Church, as well as the true devotion of his own pure spirit, apparently coupled with a premonition of the approaching separation, breathes in every line. The poem, which by the courtesy of Dr. Fraser the SENTINEL is enabled to give in full, is as follows:

TO THE DEAR LITTLE NEW WINDSOR CHURCH.

BY REV. WM. H. PURNELL, PASTOR.

No words would e'er suffice to tell
The deep desires that in me dwell
To meet once more the little flock
Whose faith is built upon the rock;
To which in weakness oft I tried
To hold up Jesus crucified;
To preach the truth and make it plain;
He died for us, and rose again.
The Sprit on those Sabbath days
Inspired all our prayers and praise,
And freed our souls from earth's alloy
To thrill them with a Heavenly joy.
But if, Dear Lord, 'tis thy decree
We meet no more to worship thee
Until around the throne we stand
To praise thee in that glorious land:
Oh, then, we pray, abundant grace
May keep the little church its place,
With holy zeal its members fill
United all to do thy will.

Our farmers here are preparing their ground for corn planting. Some are plowing fields that were sown in rye last fall, and will plant them in corn. Grain and grass fields at present do not look very promising, and should the season continue unfavorable much longer the prospect for a bountiful harvest will not be very flattering.

Our market men have advanced the price of butter two cents per lb., and eggs two cents per doz. This is something unusual for this season of the year, and the hen struts about with confidence and realizes that she is of some consequence.

Mr. Geo. C. Harmon is building an addition to his residence.

No sickness here at present, with the exception of an occasional attack of spring fever.
