Tunneling the Blue Ridge.

A recent issue of the Baltimore American contained the following interesting description of the plan proposed by the new owners of the Western Maryland Railroad for tunneling the Blue Ridge Mountain:

The engineering corps of the Western Maryland Railroad is rapidly completing the survey through the mountains of Washington county and down into the Cumberland Valley for a light grade line which is supposedly the main line, to extend from Baltimore into the West.

The plans so far as matured contemplate a tunnel running under one of the most picturesque sections, near Monterey, and which will be two miles in length. For many weeks past the engineering corps has been at work high in the mountains, and then again low in the gullies and ravines, searching for a suitable roadbed. The movements of this little body of men through the section have been eagerly watched by those residing therein, and the line as now laid down on paper is generally discussed.

From what can be learned it is proposed to have the new line leave the present line near Smithsburg, passing down the Valley through Waterloo and in the neighborhood of Rouzerville. The banks of a stream known as Red Run will be hugged through a ravine which will lead the road through the old Buena Vista property and down past the Buena Vista Inn property. On this line it is said to be possible to have a uniform grade of not more than 1 per cent., or a rise of one foot to the hundred.

GREAT TUNNEL PROJECT.

The tunnel will begin not far from the old Monterey Hotel property, and will pass through the ridge known as the Blue Hills with but one break. This Tunnel will stretch in a straight line for two miles under a magnificent section of mountainous country. Through this tunnel, it is said, a grade of but one-half per cent. can be maintained, which would be of vast benefit when the immense volumes of smoke emitted from a locomotive pulling a steep grade in tunnel is considered. The line would be free again in the neighborhood of Clairmont and would then follow the ravine to Emmitsburg. The direct route, it is said, would carry the road quite close to the Mount St. Mary's Seminary at that place.

Country through which a uniform grade may be maintained could be found below this point, the new line to meet the old line near the Monocacy bridge. One of the interesting problems to be considered, it is stated, is the building of the line so as to avoid what is known as the Middleburg Hill. To do this the line would have to diverge, following a creek to what is known as the Double Pipe creek and thus onward. The original builders of the road are said to have made a great mistake in carrying the line over the Middleburg Hill, and enough coal has been burned railroad men say, to have built the new line many times.

TO CUT DOWN GRADES.

The tremendous grades on the present line, both on the east and west sides of the mountains, are well known to all who have traveled the road. Going up the east slope the engines have to exert themselves on a grade at times on a rise of 95 feet to the mile, while on the west side a grade of 77 feet to the mile is encountered. The general impression throughout the mountains is that if the proposed line is constructed as outlined the old line will be maintained as at present for ordinary passenger traffic, although of course should fast through express trains be run to the West they would probably use the new road, as the grades would not only be much lighter and better speed could thus be maintained, but in addition the proposed line would probably be between four and five miles shorter than the old line. The old line passes through an important section, and in addition the charter calls for its maintenance.

One of the accomplishments of the tunnel, which would in some places run, it is stated, over 500 feet below the surface caps of the mountains, would be the settlement once and for all of the stories of mineral wealth lying dormant beneath the Blue Hills. Copper, iron and other minerals have been struck through the mountains in quantities which are said not to have been paying, but Dame Rumor has always dealt kindly with the hidden "wealth" of the mountains.

Two Opinions.

"You are a little dear," said the eligible bachelor to the young widow. "How nice!" she exclaimed. "My first husband used to say I was very expensive."

"Enny ice today, lady?" asked the iceman from his wagon.

"No, sir," she replied sweetly; "the piece you left yesterday hasn't melted yet."

"—— sich a refrigerator!" said the iceman to himself as he drove on.

Corn Row Twenty-five Miles Long.

Kansas is simply inexhaustible in the matter of oddities. Just when it might be supposed that she had run the whole gamut, she appears with another novelty such as nobody else in all the wide world would ever have thought of. For example, a kingman county farmer is growing a row of corn a little more than twenty-five miles long for no other reason than to be singular and extraordinary. He commenced in a 50 acre field and went round and round in a circle with a lister until he had planted the whole in a single row which commences at one of the edges and terminates in the middle. When he cultivated it, of course he had to plow the same way. As appearances go the field will make as much crop as it would if planted in the ordinary way.

A Prayer.

From Lippincott's Magazine.

A little girl was spending the summer at a fashionable watering place, and one morning as she played upon the veranda of the hotel where her mother was stopping she heard a lengthy conversation upon the fashions of the day and the absolute necessity of stylishness in dress if one hoped to be a success in society. One lady went so far as to say that stylishness was far more important than beauty.

That night as the child said her usual prayer she added with great earnestness, "And O dear Lord, do please make me stylish."

She's a Bird.

The wife of a Methodist minister in West Virginia has been married three times. Her maiden name was Partridge, her first husband was named Robin, her second Sparrow and the present one's name is Quayle. There are now two Robins, one Sparrow and three little Quayles in the family. One grandfather was a Swan and the other was a Jay, but he's dead and now he's a bird of paradise. They live on Hawk avenue, Eagleville, Canary Islands, and the fellow who wrote this article is a lyre bird and an interested relative of the family.

"Automobiling is not likely to endure as a sport."

"No; people are already so shy that it's more a matter of luck than skill when anybody is run down."

Doctor—Brain fag, overworked. You should have called me in sooner.

Wife—While he had any sense left he wouldn't call a doctor.

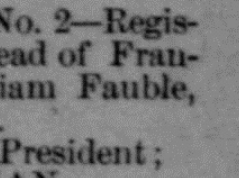
PRIVATE SALE OF A VALUABLE FARM.



This farm contains 141 ACRES and lies in Wakefield Valley, Carroll county, Md., half a mile from Avondale Station, W. M. R. R., on the public road leading from Westminster to New Windsor and is in a good state of cultivation, with abundance of limestone, and is one of the best wheat farms in the county. About 8 acres is in fine meadow. It is improved by an eight-room Log-Frame Dwelling House, weatherboarded; Bank Barn, 65x40 feet, with shedding at both ends; Wagonshed and Corncrib, Carriage House, Hog House, large Hen House, Dairy and Wash House and Ice House. All said buildings are in good repair. The house has been recently remodeled. There is an abundance of fruit—apples, pears, peaches &c., and the farm is well watered and has abundant water at dwelling and barn. This farm is specially adapted to dairying, is convenient to churches, schools, and R. R. stations, and adjoins the lands of Henry Cassell, James W. Beacham and others. Any one wishing to purchase a first-class farm will do well by calling on or addressing the undersigned.
