REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS,

WM. TYLER PAGE,

OF BALTIMORE COUNTY.

ELECTION, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4TH.

WILLIAM TYLER PAGE,

Candidate of the Republican party in the Second District for member of the House of Representatives, is a native of this city, says the Frederick (Md.) News. He was born in Frederick, October 19th, 1868, and is a son of Walker Y. Page, who was a prominent resident of Frederick. Mr. Page received his education at the Frederick Academy and in the public schools of Baltimore. At the age of 12 years he was appointed a page in the House of Representatives at Washington, and was successively appointed to index clerk, assistant file clerk, journal clerk and tally clerk. He was appointed by Hon. Melville Bull, clerk to the Committee on Accounts, the position he now holds and which he has occupied for five years. In addition to the regular positions he held in the House, Mr. Page has been called upon to perform special work and assisted in several Congresses in the compilation of the House manual of parliamentary practice. His familiarity with the rules of the House and the methods of doing business in that body caused him to be selected as an assistant secretary in the caucuses of the Republican members of the House. During the last Congressional campaign Mr. Page rendered signal service to the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, for which he received high commendation. The members of that committee are all personal friends of his. He was originally appointed in the House by the late Edward McPherson, of Pennsylvnnia. It is thought Mr. Page's long service in the House renders him peculiarly available for the position of representative, as he is familiar with the duties. Mr. Page lived in Baltimore until about three years ago, when he moved to St. Denis, Baltimore county. He was married to Miss Mamie Weigandt, of Baltimore, six years ago, and has one son and three daughters. Mr. Page has not heretofore been a candidate for office.

THE ADVOCATE ON MR. TALBOTT.

The Advocate's uncomplimentary criticisms of Mr. Talbott, the Democratic nominee for Congress, culminated in its issue of August 23rd, the week immediately preceding the meeting of the convention which selected him as the Democratic candidate in the Second district this year. The last of its series of criticisms was terse, but to the point, expressing volumes in a few words. "The rank and file of the party," it said, "are tired of Mr. Talbott. Hundreds in every political division of the district will not support him."

This, as stated, was on August 23rd. A week later the name of Mr. Talbott appeared at the head of the Advocate's editorial columns as the Democratic nominee, and it promised him cordial support. While doing this it failed to recant its previous objections to his candidacy and these therefore stand good today. These objections went not only to the fact that the people are tired of Mr. Talbott, and that "hundreds in every political division of the district will not support him," but to the cause upon which this condition was asserted—the machine-made character of his nomination. "He," the Advocate declared, in its issue of August 23rd, "is the choice of the organization—a machine built up and dominated by Mr. Talbott, and the party had very little to say in the matter." All of which is undoubtedly true and has not been withdrawn by the Advocate. Wherefore, it follows, logically, that Democrats who were denied a voice in the selection of the candidate are not, in anywise, in honor bound to support him and, according to the Advocate, hundreds of them, in every political division of the district," will not do so.

A Nomination Fit to Have Been Made.

The Advocate last week propounded several questions to the SENTINEL, in relation to the nomination of Mr. Wm. Tyler Page as the Republican candidate for Congress, that are scarcely pertinent to the issue and really of very little importance. What does it matter that Mr. Page was comparatively unknown to the public generally, or even to the delegates to the convention, outside of Baltimore county? Nominations of this kind are not uncommon, even of condidates for the Presidency. Mr. Wm. Jennings Bryan was scarcely known outside of Nebraska, when the Democrats nominated him as their candidate in 1896. The Democrats of the country were certainly not consulted about Mr. Bryan's nomination before it was made. They were not consulted about the nomination of James K. Polk in 1844, or of Franklin Pierce in 1852. In all these cases it was impossible to consult the masses of the Democrats in advance as to their wishes, just as it was to consult the Republicans of the Second district in the case of Mr. Page, because they fully expected the renomination of Mr. Blakeney, in whose favor Baltimore and Carroll counties and the wards of Baltimore forming part of the district had elected delegates. Mr. Blakeney's withdrawal created an emergency which had to be met and all the delegates to the convention agreed to meet it by nominating Mr. Page.

Mr Page may have been the choice of Mr. Blakeney and his nomination may have been favored by Senator McComas. On these points the SENTINEL is without explicit information. They are, probably, mere matters of inference on the part of the Advocate, also. It may be said, however, with the utmost sincerity, that if the inference be correctly drawn, Mr. Blakeney and Senator McComas favored a nomination eminently fit to have been made. Mr. Page is a candidate of whom the Republicans have just reason to be proud and no Republican should hesitate about giving him hearty and earnest support.

Mrs. Nellie L. Smith has applied for an absolute divorce from her husband, George Baxter Smith, of Woodsboro, Frederick county.

As a matter of course union miners have no right to interfere with non-union miners who are willing to enter the employment of the anthracite mine owners in Pennsylvania. Existing conditions, however, point strongly to the necessity of extending further power to the General Government in such emergencies as now confront the people. This can only be done by amending the Federal Constitution, and that should be done without delay.

The Advocate Again Answers the Advocate.

From the Democratic Advocate, October 4, 1902.

The SENTINEL last week quoted from the Advocate an expression of opinion before the nomination that a majority of the Democrats of the district did not want Mr. Talbott. The fact that Mr. Talbott was nominated is presumptive proof that the Advocate was mistaken.

Presumptive proof, is it? Well, that explanation might be accepted if it had not previously been heavily discounted by the Advocate. Replying to an article in the Baltimore County Democrat, in which that paper said the candidacy of Mr. Talbott, who had already carried Baltimore county, should appeal to the Democracy of the district because he was the choice of the organization in that county, the Advocate of August 16th said:

That is what is objected to—he is the choice of the organization—a machine built up and dominated by Mr. Talbott, and the party had very little to say in the matter.

So, upon the testimony of the Advocate, itself, Mr. Talbott was not wanted even by the Democrats of Baltimore county, where "the party had very little to say in the matter;" that is, the matter of electing delegates to the congressional convention which nominated him.

THE COAL MINERS' STRIKE.

The President's conference with the coal operators and the representative of the striking miners in the Pennsylvania coal region was without result. The operators utterly refused to make any concessions. The miners' representative, Mr. Mitchell, agreed to the President's proposition for arbitration of the differences between the mine owners and strikers, but one side of a controversy cannot arbitrate, and so the conference came to nothing. The operators were arrogant and demanded that the President should use the military of the United States to protect them in the employment of non-union miners. This, of course, the President has no authority for doing, unless called upon by the Governor of Pennsylvania, and the demand was an exhibition of ignorance, inexcusable in men of intelligence.

The operators declared that, if the protection demanded were afforded they would be able to have all the coal mined required to supply the public demand for it. Since then Governor Stone, of Pennsylvania, has called out the entire militia force of that State and 10,000 Pennsylvania troops are now patrolling the mining region. The operators will be afforded ample protection and, if they then fail to make good their boast, something may be legally done to relieve the public of a situation that is becoming intolerable. Just how that is to be accomplished remains to be seen. The State of Pennsylvania, we believe, alone possesses the right of eminent domain in the premises and, possibly, may be legally empowered, in an emergency such as now confronts the people, to seize and operate the mines for their relief.

Another suggestion, made sometime ago, that the railroads might be violating their charters, by doing other than a carrying business, has been revived, and United States Attorney General Knox, through Assistant Attorney General Henry M. Hoyt, has, it is said, directed the United States District Attorney for the Southern District of New York, to institute an immediate investigation for the purpose of ascertaining whether such violation had occurred. It is further said that the proceeding has created great consternation among railroad magnates, and that to avert serious consequences to these railroad interests, the mine operators may be brought to make concessions to end the strike. The strikers, it is alleged, are as determined as ever not to yield until their demands are complied with. It is impossible, therefore, to form any judgment as to the possible continuance of the strike. It may be prolonged indefinitely or end suddenly and soon. Considering the experience of the last month or two, however, it must be confessed that the prospect for a speedy termination of the strike is not very bright.

Reports published in the daily newspapers yesterday morning were far, very far, from indicating a speedy solution of the matter. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who is said to be the one obstacle in the way of a settlement, persists in advising railroad presidents and operators against accepting any proposals short of the unconditional surrender of the miners. "Don't budge," he says, and to all appeals to use his potent influence to end the strike, merely reiterates these laconic words.

The magnates who accept this counsel are now asserting that the 10,000 Pennsylvania troops in the mining region are insufficient in number to preserve order. They want Governor Stone to call on President Roosevelt for federal troops. Whether he will do so remains to be seen. The President probably would be constrained by constitutional requirement to yield to such a demand on the part of the State executive. Perhaps it is best that he should do so, and thus leave the operators no loophole of excuse if they should fail to make good their boast of ability to procure sufficient non-union labor to provide the coal required by the people.

The Potomac Synod.

The thirteenth annual session of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church will meet on Tuesday next, 14th inst., in St. Paul's Reformed Church, Mechanicsburg, Pa., of which Rev. Samuel H. Stein is pastor. The Potomac Synod is one of the strongest and most thrifty of the eight district synods of the Reformed Church. In territory it includes Central and Southern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

The synod is divided into eight classes—Zion's, Maryland, Mercersburg, Virginia, North Carolina, Gettysburg, Carlisle and Juniata. It has 105 ministers, 303 congregations, 59,276 baptized members, 253 Sunday schools with a membership of 39,750. The officers of the Synod are: President, Rev. T. F. Hoffmeier, Mount Pleasant, Md.; vice president, Rev. Dr. Joel T. Rossiter, Baltimore, Md.; stated clerk, Rev. W. M. Deitrich, Bedford, Pa.; treasurer, Elder G. N. Farney, Hanover, Pa.

Among the proceedings of the National Encampment, G. A. R., at Washington, on Thursday was the election of the commander-in-chief, and the choice fell on Gen. T. J. Stewart, of Pennsylvania, who received 467 on the first ballot to 353 for all other candidates.

THE ADVOCATE ON MR. TALBOTT.

Quotations from the Democratic Advocate, showing the opinion of that paper in relation to the candidacy of Hon. J. Fred. C. Talbott, have been appearing in the SENTINEL for several weeks past and have been read with interest by many persons. It has been suggested that they will bear frequent repetition and hence are here grouped together in the order in which they appeared:

From the Democratic Advocate of July 12, 1902.

"He (Mr. Fink) has been told that no new man appearing, the nomination would go to Hon. J. Fred. C. Talbott, who has been a candidate for fourteen consecutive times, in season and out, and of whom a sufficient number of Democrats have tired to make his election doubtful, should the nomination go to him.

"If the latter (Mr. Talbott) will rid himself of the ambition to go to Congress and take a calm look over the district he will see that this is not his time to be a candidate. Gen. Gill, in his letter to Hon. Murray Vandiver, saying 'we do not want Talbott', but voices the sentimet of two-thirds of the district. Mr. Talbott controls the party organization in Baltimore county, and of course will get the delegates from that county. Through the influence of I. Freeman Rasin he counts on the votes of the Baltimore City Wards. No one probably, will oppose Mr. Talbott in his own county, and it will go to him by default. But if Mr. Talbott will listen he will learn of scores of Democrats in his own county that will not support him, and Mr. Rasin is warned that his interference in this Congressional district will not add to the Democratic vote."

From the Democratic Advocate of August 2, 1902.

"If Mr. Talbott, as the Advocate has more than once remarked, could divest himself of his personal interest in the nomination for Congress, confer honestly with his friends, listen to the voice of the press and the people, he would realize that a majority of the Democrats do not want him. And if he persists in his efforts to obtain the nomination and succeeds, he may learn by an emphatic majority cast for a weak opponent that the Democrats of the district have tired of him.

* * * * * * * * *

"With Mr. Talbott as the nominee a sufficient number of Democrats will decline to vote as to jeopardise party success, and it was with the idea of saving the district that Mr. Fink has been brought forward. With him as the nominee the district will be redeemed. With Mr. Talbott the contest at best will be doubtful."

From the Baltimore County Democrat.

The candidacy of Mr. Talbott should, therefore, appeal to the Democracy of the district, as he is the choice of the organization in this county.

From the Democratic Advocate, August 16, 1902.

That is what is objected to—he is the choice of the organization—a machine built up and dominated by Mr. Talbott, and the party had very little to say in the matter. The Democrat will not deny that there are hundreds of Democrats in the county opposed to Mr. Talbott and will not vote for him, and the same condition exists all over the district. In 1899 Governor Smith carried that part of Baltimore county then in the second congressional district by 1550 majority, and the next year Mr. Talbott had but 341, less than one-fourth. In 1901 Comptroller Hering carried the county by 114. These figures show Mr. Talbott's popularity at home, and he is weaker today in Baltimore county and all over the district, than two years ago. These facts will not be disputed by any one familiar with public sentiment in the party, and we ask, then, what is the sense in endeavoring to force upon the party a man who cannot poll the party vote—a man that the party has tired of?

From the Democratic Advocate, August 23, 1902.

The rank and file of the party are tired of Mr. Talbott. Hundreds in every political division of the district will not support him.

The Western Maryland Railroad Secures Land for Baltimore Terminals.

The Baltimore American of Tuesday says: It is stated that the new owners of the Western Maryland Railroad Company have acquired 40 acres of land on the Middle Branch of the Patapsco River as a site for their terminals. The property lies on the south side of Locust Point and borders on deep water. Of the 40 acres 15 were bought from the Winans estate, 15 from Mr. Frank A. Furst, and 10 acres from other owners. It is doubtful whether this is sufficient land for the terminals of the company. Other property, it is stated, will be acquired, if needed, by condemnation proceedings.

The acquisition of the Locust Point property proves conclusively that the company will utilize the ordinance passed by the City Council several years ago giving the Western Maryland the privilege of reaching tide-water by way of the banks of Gwynn's Falls. Surveyors are already at work laying out the proposed route. The selection of this route also means that the company will not utilize the ordinance enabling it to build a line over Jones' Falls. It is not intended, however, to abandon Hillen Station. It will be used only for passenger and express traffic.

Included in the purchases at Locust Point is the site of old Fort Covington, where, on the night of September 13, 1814, was fought the battle which decided the fate of Baltimore, and, possibly, too, the fate of the nation, for the victory over the British in Baltimore was the culminating point in the war, as well as in the fate of the nation, which was endangered by the threatened withdrawal of the New England states from the Union. The Hartford convention had already been called. Fort Covington was near the cove in the rear of Fort McHenry and was commanded by Lieutenant Newcomb, United States Navy. About 500 yards away, on Gorsuch Hill, now Riverside Park, was a battery of six guns under Sailing Master John A. Webster, United States Navy, who had been in Barney's flotilla.

For some years Mr. William Tyler Page, the Republican congressional nominee from the second Maryland district, has been identified, to some extent, in his official capacity, in amicably arranging with the postoffice department, cases wherein the Railway Postal Clerk was the interested party.

Dr. Alfred H. Bracklein who has been on trial in the Crimnal Court of Baltimore this week for false pretenses, in getting from Fannie J. Knellinger, of that city, $200 to invest in a California oil company, put up the defence that he was acting in good faith, upon the assurance of Mrs. Margaret Kendall, formerly of this city, that she had oil lands in California and desired him to organize a company to develop them, which he consented to do. After the money was obtained from Fannie Knellinger, for which he gave her as collateral security a certificate for 5000 shares of stock in the San Jacinto Oil Company of California, Dr. Brecklein alleges Mrs. Kendall changed her mind and did not turn over her land to the company. The doctor failed to return Fannie Knellinger's money, however, and hence the prosecution.

The annual convention of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of Maryland Lutheran Synod met in Middletown on Wednesday, Mrs. P. A. Heilman, of Baltimore, presiding. About 80 delegates were present. Mrs. M. L. Beard, of Middletown, delivered the greeting and Mrs. L. J. Lederer, of Baltimore, made the response. After the presentation of reports the various committees were appointed. A letter was read from Dr. Mary Baer, of Guntur, India, after which Rev. C. S. Albert, D. D., of Philadelphia, delivered an address on "Home Missions." The attendance at the convention was large. The sessions were continued until noon yesterday. The proceedings throughout were of an interesting character. On Thursday afternoon Mrs. C. A. Britt, of Taneytown, led the discussion on the topic, "Our Weak Points and How to Strengthen Them."

Capt. John R. King a Pension Agent.

Capt. John R. King, who has for many years been chief marine clerk in the Baltimore Customhouse, has been appointed United States pension agent for the district embracing Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia, to succeed the late Sidney L. Wilson, with headquarters in Washington. It is considered a life position, with a salary attached of $4,000 a year, while the salary of the office at the Customhouse is $1,800.

Captain King resides at Jessup, Anne Arundel county. He was born in Hagerstown, Md., 56 years ago. He went to Baltimore in 1859 to learn the printing business with the late James Young, and at the outbreak of the Civil War enlisted in the Sixth Maryland Regiment of Infantry, at the age of 17 years. He served throughout the struggle, and was wounded three times. After the close of the war he went to Philadelphia, where he was for sometime engaged in the railroad business. During President Grant's first term he received an appointment in the Baltimore Customhouse, and has remained there ever since. He has for many years been prominently identified with the Grand Army of the Republic, and was department commander of the Department of Maryland during the year 1900.

G. A. R. Statistics.

The report of Adjutant General S. H. Fowler, read at the National Encampment, at Washington, on Thursday, exhibits a total membership of the Grand Army of the Republic on June 30, 1902, of 263,745, and a net loss for the year of 5,806. The total loss for the year was 32,813; total gain, 27,007. The loss by death alone was 8,299. There was expended in relief during the year ended June 30, 1902, $109,833.37. The report states that the highwater mark of membership was reached in 1890—an aggregate of 409,489—but there are still living over 900,000 of the men who were a part of the Grand Army of the sixties, and of that number less than 75,000 are over 62 years of age.

The report of the quartermaster general shows that receipts for the year amounted to $16,927.60 and total expenses $10,521.20, of which $3,788.25 was for expenses incurred during the preceding year. The encampment has an investment amounting to $16,000 and other assets to the amount of $10,609.

The National Encampment, G. A. R.

Washington has been thronged this week with Grand Army veterans and other visitors attracted by the National Encampment of the G. A. R., of which the Naval parade on Tuesday, in honor of the veterans, and the parade of the G. A. R. posts on Wednesday were principal incidents.

Maryland veterans were conspicuous in the G. A. R. parade, in which Burns Post of this city, and Pickett Post, of Winfield, participated.

One of the features of the procession was the band of Maryland veterans who carried 37 historic battle flags. Held high in the air, like so many huge lances, draped in crepe and crowned with laurel, they were easily seen from one end of Pennsylvania avenue to the other. The battle flags and the repetition of "Maryland, My Maryland," brought the men from Baltimore, Frederick and Carroll counties, and indeed from all parts of the State a perfect ovation.

A syndicate has been formed to secure the coal from the bottom of Hampton Roads, and one large dealer in Hampton has already contracted to take all of the coal that can be delivered to him at $9.50 a ton. In years gone by many vessels laden with coal have gone down in Hampton Roads, and there is record of a number of coal cars toppling over from the barges. The syndicate in question has secured an accurate chart of the Roads with the probable deposit of fuel, and it will at once begin dredging for it. Operations will commence off Ocean View, where a schooner loaded with 3,000 tons went down last winter.

Owing to heavy passenger and freight traffic on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at present, that road has been compelled to ask the Western Maryland and Reading roads for assistance in the shape of motor power. Early this week the Western Maryland and Reading dispatched eight engines over the Potomac Valley to Cherry Run for use on the Baltimore and Ohio between Cumberland and Brunswick.

The annual meeting of the Maryland Synod of the Lutheran Church will be held in Trinity Lutheran Church, Hagerstown, beginning 23rd instant and continuing nearly a week.

adjoining lands of Jonas Lippy, Wm. G. Warehime and others. It is covered with white and other oak timber. Also a lot of Hay, Fodder and Straw, for cash.

Also at 3 p. m., on the same day, on the premises, in Westminster, Md., will be sold a 2½ Story Brick House, located on Pennsylvania Avenue. The lot fronts 60 feet on the Avenue and runs back 198 feet to an alley. There is a stable, carriage house, wagon house, smoke house and chicken house on it; city and well water. The house is well finished and has all modern conveniences. To any one wishing a nice residence this property offers unusual advantages.

Terms.—One-third of the purchase money to be paid in cash on the day of sale or upon the ratification of the same by the said court; one-third in six months from the day of sale, and the remaining one-third in twelve months from the day of sale; the credit payments to be secured by the notes of the purchaser or purchasers, with approved security, bearing interest from the day of sale, or all cash at the option of the purchaser or purchasers.

COAL! COAL!

My stock of coal is exhausted, but my stock of WATCHES, CLOCKS, JEWELRY, Silverware, Stationery, Blank Books, Cut Glass, China, Bric-a-Brac and Novelties, is increasing every day. Remember Christmas is drawing near, and the old as well as the young will get married, and I am prepared to serve those who wish to remember their friends with a gift for Christmas or Wedding.

Waterman's Fountain Pens are the best in use, a stock of which I have on hand.

School supplies, Inks of all colors, in sizes from 2 oz. to quart bottles.

Repairing of Watches, Clocks and Jewelry done and guaranteed.

Eyes examined FREE and Spectacles and Eye Glasses fitted to your face, just the same as the Dressmaker and Tailor fits you with clothes.

All goods must be as represented, or money refunded, or new goods in their place.

Awaiting your coming, I am sincerely yours for business,

JAMES H. CASSELL, successor to A. H. Wentz.
